SHORT LOCALS.
The tramp would be better off if arrested and sent home, where he belongs. His own community must keep him just as this borough must keep the unfortunate people within its limits.

On the day that Mrs. Duncan was looking for her sister, Miss Duffield to visit her, she received a dispatch that Miss Duffield died at her home in McConnellsburg, Fulton county after a brief illness.

The Cleveland administration has about 120,000 offices to distribute among the brethren and that's enough to take the largest crowd of civilians to Washington, that has ever visited that city at one time.

The only rubber boot made that can be worn with comfort, is the ventilated rubber boot. The feet kept warm and will not sweat. Try a pair and be convinced. For sale at G. W. Heck's boot and shoe store, Mifflintown, Pa.

The first snow blockades reported this season, came in from Montana, Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Iowa, on the 18th inst. It was cold down to zero, as far south as St. Louis. Deep snows were reported from the New England states on the same date.

I take pleasure in offering you a large stock of Christmas goods that will meet the requirements of first-class trade, and all at favorable prices. Don't forget my New Orleans baking sugar. C. F. HINKE.

If the friends of the SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN who are sending in subscription will bring or send the name of a new subscriber they will do double work in a good cause. An investment in a good newspaper pays many times for itself within the period of a year.

The law association of Philadelphia is trying to organize the lawyers in every county, for the purpose of making a concentrated movement on the Legislature to pass a law to create another court intermediate court. There are to many courts now. The constitution should be amended and the number lessened.

The judgment of tramps in jail caused Judge Bannett, to remark, that the tramp business is criminal, and that the time has come when the business should be broken up, and that it is the duty of every good citizen to give the matter attention so that the dangerous and expensive habit be brought to an end.

Beginning on Christmas evening the Hook and Ladder Company, of Patterson, propose holding a grand fair to help going until after New Year. Oysters in every style, a Christmas tree filled with valuable articles, to be changed off, also torques, cakes, &c. Ice cream will be served during fair. Let everybody turn out and help the boys.

At the residence of the brides parents near McConnellsburg, Dec 11, by the Rev. L. S. Sieber, assisted by Rev. R. A. Wetzel, Mr. F. M. S. Sieber to Mr. Thomas K. Beaver, both of Juniata county. A large number of valuable presents were presented to the happy bride by her friends. The bridal party took the train for an extended wedding trip on the evening of the 14th inst. May they live long and happy.

Two new insects have attacked the wheat in Michigan—some believe it's the berry and the other works in the straw just above the joint. The caterpillar of the former is light-colored with faint stripes and a brown head, and is about one-half inch long. The larva of the second is a yellowish white and a scant eighth of an inch long. The pupa is a little larger. Professor Cook asks for specimens that he may study their life histories, so as to ascertain the most effective means of guarding against their ravages.

With snow falling steadily, and winter still triumphant, there is a certain mockery in the sudden appearance of one and another seed catalogue. "Vick's Floral Guide" leads the van, and as usual, needs no commendation, its solid merit having long ago given it a firm place in popular affection. The number contains the usual lists of new seedlings in both vegetables and flowers, and with its bright, dapper frontispiece, is quite worthy a prominent place on the sitting-room table, while the illustrated Magazine has long been faithful guide in all matters relating to the garden. James Vick, Rochester, N. Y., will send the Floral Guide to any address for 25 cents, which it sends as matters of purchase, may be deducted from the order.

A singular occurrence took place in front of the National Hotel about Saturday evening. Four men from Lancaster county, in two buggies—a physician—their seats in their way home from a hunt at Mifflintown stopped and hitched their horses to posts in front of the hotel and went in to warm themselves. After being in a short time one of them went outside to look at the horses; by the side of his buggy stood a stranger holding the gun, as if ready to start a rifle. He said to the stranger, "are you looking at the gun?" the stranger uttered an oath, and at the same time uttered a blow with the gun, the blow struck the owner of the rifle on the side of the face and knocked him under his horse, he sprang to his feet, and with the other hand drew his revolver from a pocket. His defense against the man who struck him to such a degree that he ran across the street and down the alley by the Postoffice.

The Slaughtering of Cattle.
The process of killing and dressing beef at the stock yards, says a contemporary, is not as expeditious and wonderful in character as that of killing and dressing hogs. The features most noticeable are the two methods used in killing the animal at the start. One of these methods is through the use of the rifle, and the other the lance. In both the animals are driven singly from the yard into a narrow box stall open at the top. A dose of these stalls are in a row, and over their tops are screw-like racks or lances in hand. In the case of the rifle the executioner puts a ball into the animal's brain at short range, which kills instantly. Not a groan is heard not a muscle moves. The animal falls like a lump of lead, and is at once dragged from the stall into the slaughter house, where the throat is cut and the process of dressing is completed.

Christmas Holiday Excursion Tickets
Will be issued by the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad covering all points on main line and branches, except points on New York Division, where it is five days. These tickets will be sold December 22, 24, 25, 26, 31, 1885, and January 1, 1886, good to return January 3, 1886.

My experience with J. Richardson's Boots and Shoes, for the past five years, has been satisfactory, and all prove to be good, and cannot be beaten. It is acknowledged by all customers that the only place to buy them is at the store of C. F. HINKE, Mifflintown, Pa.

Reduced Rates to the World's Exposition at New Orleans, via the Pennsylvania Railroad.
The World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition will open at New Orleans, La., December 16th, 1884, and continue until May 31st, 1885.

The success of this great show is now assured, and in the vastness of its extent, the variety of the interests involved, and the wide field from which its features are drawn it will exceed in magnitude anything of its kind ever held in this country. Besides a full representation of the limitless industries and the unbounded resources of every State of the Union, every country of the world will display something of its resources, its art, or its handicraft. The collection of international exhibits will be complete, and that, in connection with the richness of America, will form an optimum of the advance of civilization as perfect as it is unique. Agriculture, mechanics, science, art, commerce, trade, and every branch of human industry will make a part of the great fair.

Its location at one of the foremost commercial cities of the South, as well as one of the most attractive, fitted in every way for the entertainment of a great gathering of people, lends added interest to the enterprise. The winter season at New Orleans is the most delightful period of the year, and the inhabitant of the severer climate of the North would find a most grateful change in the geniality of Southern winter. Accommodations will be ample, ranging in comfort from the comfortable room of the visitor of limited means to the luxurious apartments of the wealthy. It will be a winter vacation where one may find not only health and pleasure, but profit and instruction.

For the benefit of the large number of visitors who will be attracted thither, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has placed on sale at all the principal stations of its system excursion tickets to New Orleans, good to return until May 31st, 1885. In consideration of the reduced rate at which the tickets are sold they are subject to certain conditions as to season of travel, baggage and return. These conditions are simple and will be explained in detail by agents. The tickets are in two classes: 1st, those covering the same route in both directions and those covering one route going and a different route returning. The round-trip rate of tickets going and returning the same route from Lewisburg Junction to New Orleans is $10.00, and going by one route and returning another $17.00.

Where the Money Goes.
The Interior Department is allowed $85,000 a year for stationary. The office of the Register of the Treasury costs Uncle Sam for salaries about $186,610 annually. There are 27 town clerks to hang the 60 down of town upon at the rate of one of the capital. The total amount paid for salaries in the United States Treasury's office totals up $274,000 per year. There is annually required $102,120 to pay the salaries of the Comptroller of the Currency and its clerks. The office term of the Assistant United States Treasurer at New York costs the Government $108,000 per year. It costs Uncle Sam $5,500 a year for horse hire to carry the mail for the members of the House of Representatives. During the big flood in the Ohio River last February, Uncle Sam contributed $50,000 for the relief of the sufferers. It costs $2,000 a year to print the iron fences, vans and lamp posts in Washington belonging to the Government. The Treasurer of the United States gets $6,000 a year, and is the most modest man in the employ of the Government. It costs $1,000 a year to renovate and ice from the sidewalks around the Government property in Washington.

A Rooster in Court.
The North American, of last week, says: For weeks Mrs. Catherine Gill, of Williamsburg, has been annoyed, she says, by the crowing of a rooster belonging to Steven Cohen, who lives next door. In a petition to Justice Nisbeter, asking him to do something to reduce her of the distress which the rooster causes, she said: "It does nothing but crow night, noon and morning. It seems to delight in the annoyance it causes me. It will fly on the fence, look up at my windows, flap its wings, and then give the most ear-splitting screeches or crows. If I raise the window it will run from me, but what part of the yard it may fly in, jump on the stoop and crow at me."

Justice Nisbeter said he would request Mr. Cohen to be present in court to make answer to the demand against his rooster.

Important to Farmers.
A case of peculiar interest has been decided by the Supreme Court. A farmer set fire to a pile of brush on his own premises. He got away from him and spread over several rods, burning a lot of timber, church and other buildings. Nine owners sued him. The case first tried was regarded as a test. The defendant claimed that he exercised due care but when the fire ran off his lands it was beyond human control. The verdict was against him. The fire will cost him a large sum of money. This decision doubtless will have a good effect in inciting people to the use of greater precaution in setting brush fires. They are sufficient to blaze away altogether too recklessly—and often, as in this case, very expensively.—Exchange.

Fall and Winter Goods.
I would inform the public that I have now in my new millinery store at my place of residence on Water street, Mifflintown, second door from corner of Bridge street, a full stock of Fall and Winter millinery goods, all new, and of the latest styles, and having employed first class milliners, I am prepared to supply the public with everything found in a dressmaking millinery store, come and examine my goods. I consider it no trouble to show goods. The Sentinel and Republican office is the place to get job work done. Try it. It will pay you if you need anything in that line. MRS. DEHILL, May 2-85, 17.

RHEUMATISM.
Its Real Nature Explained and How it May be cured.
Rheumatism is, as often as not, caused by overeating, and especially by over-indulgence in meat, which is certain to cause an excess of uric acid, and render the body liable, on exposure to wet and cold, to an attack. We know that old people are proverbially liable to this ailment. The reasons for this are not far to seek. One is that joints and ligaments are harder and stiffer, and very often contain a deposit of uric acid. Another is that, as a rule, people up in years eat more than is necessary to support life, under the mistaken notion that they want a deal of nourishment to keep them up. I say that, on the contrary, the wear and tear of tissue is but trifling compared to what it is in earlier manhood, and that far less food is required. Therefore, if an elderly person would live long, and be free from aches and pains, and be calm in mind—for that is a great desideratum—he or she must live abstemiously, more or less.

Chronic rheumatism is far more common than most persons are aware of. It is a disease quite indigenous to these islands of mist and cutting winds; but it is often in character what we may call suppressed—that is, it attacks the internal organs instead of joints and muscles, though these may suffer at the same time. But many a time and oft a person complains of his liver being out of order or a fit of indigestion, when the real cause of his trouble lies in the blood which, for the time being, is poisoned with uric acid.

I know an old naval captain who says he can always ward off a fit of threatened illness by a day's good starvation. Well it is a strange remedy, but it certainly gives the muscles membrane a rest, and affords the blood time to get rid of its impurities. My friend says he weakens next day as fresh as a daisy, and I don't doubt it, though I fear many would consider the remedy worse than the disease it is meant to banish. All those who are afflicted with rheumatism, much might be said, but what looks it that one should eat Vegetarian, Beans, Hasting or Harrogate, if he goes on manufacturing in his system the very acid or acids that generate his complaint? No, believe me it is not in climate alone that you are to look for relief, nor is it from drugs you are to expect a radical cure. We must go to the fountain head of the evil; we must attend to the organs of digestion, and to a regimen calculated to crush the evil in the bud.—Cassell's Magazine.
