Tertilla Making in Merico

As you approach the interior of the city, at various places you find "tortillerias" occupying basements on a level with the street. This national combination of the grist-mill and the bakery holds such an important place in th Mexican domestic economy that we may well afford time to examine a typical establishment with care. The tortilla is eaten by all classes throughout the nation, and it is almost the exclusive food of large numbers of the poorer people. I have met with it at the banquets of cabinet ministers and literary men, and the implements for its manufacture are invariably found in the humblest native Visitors to the Centennial will remember in the Government building a large drawing of the interior of a Pueblo Indian house; this drawing, with a very faw variations, would represent the inte rior of a hundred thousand Indian homes, existing from the borders of Colorado to the State of Yucatan. Maize is everywhere; two-thirds of the cuttivated ground in Mexico is devoted to raising There is a saying that there are but two pre-requisites for a household outfit to an Indiae couple contemplating matrimony: a "petate," or mat of reeds, which served for a carpet and a bed, and a "metate," a fiat inclined stone placed upon the earthen floor, on which to pulverize the corn before forming it mto cakes for baking. I concur in the estimate of well-informed natives, that so general and exclusive is the use of Indian corn, that, were this crop to fail, one-third to one-half of the aboriginal population would perish of starvation. A single frost that, on the 29th of August, injured the young plant, it is calculated, resulted in the death of over 59,000 persons. A population of millions dependent upon the success of the ireland is not so dependent upon the potato, and millions in India scarcely | This obviates the necessity of drawing so dependent upon rice, as the Mexican people are upon maize,-now the fore field. out cereals, the monarch of our prairie-lands, and the arbiter of stock ex changes; it conceals from all who will trace its ancestry, from even the most greater benefit by assisting in the germipersistent botanist, every clue to its nataye valley, and to the form of its tropic sown with the wheat, and for the clover progenting

The tortilla-shop opens with wide doors upon the street; the citizen may stand of both wheat and young grass, and it upon the flags of the sidewalk, buy his cakes, and not only obey the injunction of the elder Weller regarding veal pie, but sowing. while making the acquaintance of the cook, may see, examine, comment upon, and, if needs be, direct the whole process of manufacture.

Imagine a blacksmith shop from which the Amazins have driven Vulcan, leaving only the grimy walls, the glowing, unchimmeyed hearth, and a store of charcoal piled in a corner. The Amazons have died back' their sleeves to the shoulder (if they passess such incumbrances) and have placed themselves on their knees upon the store floor, with the inclined rough surface of the lava "metate" before them. Upon this stone they place, from a wooden tray, handful after handful of corn, which hus been sonked and heated in water containing quicklime in solution. This alkaling substance has softened and loosened the exterior coating of the grain that in ordinary mills produce the bran. With a long, round stone, held like a rolling pin, this corn is rubbed to a coarse paste, which is pushed, as fast as it is deemed sufficently crushed, upon a pine board placed below to receive it. This paste now goes and all should be removed as soon as o the cake-maker, who stands near the they fade. Nothing makes a prettier tire. AGRICULTURE.

SHORT-BORNS AND JERSEYS, -Our ob servation in this country is this-that among short-horn cattle there is a rity of excellent milkers, producing milk of fair richness, both in butter and cheese. Their milk, after skimming makes good feed for the calves. The Jerseys we had here to experiment with, do not give as much milk in quantity as the fairly bred Short-horns, though richer in butter. But we find that after we skim the Jersey milk, what is left is of no account, either for cheese or caives' feed. All we get from them is

The King and the Thief.

There if a fable among the Hindoos that a thief, having been detected and condemned to die, sent for his failor and told him he had a secret of great importance which he desired to impart to he king, and when that had been done he would be prepared to meet his doom. Upon receiving this intelligence the king ordered the culprit to be conducted

THE cowboy's cure for shoring is nervousness, sickness at the stomach, monthly troubles, etc. I have not seen a sick day in a unique and effectual if not soothing. On the Utah & Northern last Sunday a 200-pound man lay snoring on two facing seats. His roar had been heard to the discomfort of a car full all the afternoon, At about 4 P. M. a cowboy got on at one of the canyon stations. He heard the foghorn with evident impatience for about half an hour or so, when he stepped up to the sleeper and stid:

'Say, stranger, stop that ar snort or you'll get fired." The cowboy was not large, but he
