

SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN

MIFFLINTOWN. Wednesday, February 25, 1885.

B. F. SCHWEIER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

FAITH is still the banner town ship.

The bill to retire General Grant has failed.

The Philadelphia newspapers favor a high liquor license.

The British are mustering troops to fight the False Prophet.

Wart, Cleveland will declare his cabinet after the 4th of March.

Simon time is not yet here. Lake Michigan is frozen from shore to shore.

The troops of the El Misihi and the British army on the run, down the Nile.

Nearly all the Missionary people are favorable to the success of British arms in Africa.

The Mexicans do not want the Mexicans to leave the United States and move to Mexico.

The bill to re-establish the whip post for wife beaters has been defeated in the Legislature.

Wines in England have taken to drinking, that is, they have taken to selling goods by sample.

Lawyers, Parker, Lyon, Patterson and Jacobs, took dinner with Judge Barnard, in Bloomfield a few days ago.

What will Cleveland say in his inaugural address, on the question of the finances, is asked in every community?

All of the Europeans found at Klartown when that place was captured, were killed by the Africans, so the English report.

It is said that the energetic Yankee who can obtain a living from the bleak hills of New England grows as lazy as other mortals in the summer sunshine of Florida.

New Orleans is said to be a demoralizing place for a man of regular business and industrious habits to visit, for in that city gambling is legalized, and to a certain extent, popular. Forty gambling places are kept open day and night.

President Jackson had a son by adoption, the son of the adopted son proposes to bring suit against Woodbury Blair, to recover papers that belonged to President Jackson. Blair says that President Jackson gave the papers to his grand father.

The Democrats and the ex-orating last fall, but they did not equal the feat that Solomon got off when his temple was dedicated. They held a fourteen day justification and roasted twenty-four thousand steers, and one hundred and twenty thousand sheep.

Considering the time that Jefferson Davis is taking to prepare his letter in reply to General Sherman, it is expected by the friends of Davis that there will be little left of Sherman. The letter will probably appear after Cleveland has been in power. "Don't be alarmed, the General will come up smilingly and go one better," as he did with the armies of Davis during rebellion.

A half crazy man named "Joe" Noddy, says, that he set fire to the Philadelphia Almshouse, at the instance of Keeper Sizerler. The evidence of a maniac should be well corroborated before it is accepted. An imagination with a crazy man or woman is as determinedly insisted upon as if it was a fact. Why should or would a keeper burn an almshouse and a lot of people with it?

When Blaine was a candidate for the Presidency one of the statements that Democratic speakers and writers frequently made against him was that he had built a large and extravagant house at Washington. The house in question is a small building compared to Tilden's palace, four hundred feet long on the bank of the Hudson, in York State. Tilden the reformer took Cleveland to his palace to consult on a plan for the new Administration.

When the supreme moment of any great event comes, thoughtful people look in with intensified interest. It is no wonder that now the attention of the thoughtful people of the civilized world is fixed upon America, for a great change of administration is to take place. A political organization that has ruled the United States the past twenty-four years, and has set new currents in motion in every country on this globe is about to pass the rulership of the nation into the keeping of an organization of a party, that has been a fault finding party, that has saved ten years. May God save the Republic.

It may not be a highly natural or cultivated taste, that criticizes the bare arms and open breasted dresses that women wear at Washington parties, this season, but the dresses that display the arms and bosoms of women are the subject of a good deal of criticism by the average man and woman. The hope is earnestly expressed in many places that the Cleveland administration circles will not be more address than have those of Arthur. If the ladies adopt a more modest style it is feared by many good people that they will get back to the style of mother Eve with the fig leaf.

Chester county people are excited over the announcement that oil has been found floating on the surface of streams that flow through that county. It is hoped that their fondest dreams may be realized, but a noted geologist published a statement in the Philadelphia Record, that the oil bearing rock crops out, away north of Chester county. If we understand the statement of the geologist, the oil bearing rock extends south, only to the Blue Ridge, and Chester county is too low in the scale for oil.

The Philadelphia Record says: when the bill to teach little children in the common schools the anatomy of drunkenness was presented to the Pennsylvania Legislature there was surprise over the multitude of petitions from all quarters of the State praying for the passage of the measure. The popular furor for a bill like this could not be accounted for. But what was strangely suspected turned out to be true. The petitions that were apparently so spontaneous were the industrious work of enterprising book agents with an eye to business. Books giving a summary of scientific information concerning the effects of spirituous liquors on the human system have been introduced into the common schools of other States by popular and seductive agents whose object is to widen the market. So innocent was the Senate in regard to the methods used in pushing the bill that it passed that body without a word of comment. The house ought to rote the bill down not merely because it is a tick selling job, but to punish the abuse of the right of petition that has been practiced by its promoters.

Protest of Opponents of Masonry. WASHINGTON, D. C., February 18.—A printed protest of large proportions against permitting Masonic co-operation to participate in the dedication of the Washington Monument next Saturday has been received by the Congressional Commission charged with the arrangements. The signers claim to have 13,000 signatures. The protestants say the Masonic Order has no more right to such distinction than the Hibernians or any other secret Order. The stone sent by the Pope for the Monument was, they say, broken up and thrown into the Potomac. Way, they ask, are the Catholics snubbed and the Protestants honored? They say Free Masonry is of foreign birth, entirely un-American and un-republican. Its public displays are pompous and barbaric. Its titles are extravagant and loudly. Its constitution is despotic. Its oaths are extrajudicial, which Webster said should be suppressed by law. They pray that only such ceremonies as are national in their scope and American in their character be permitted. The protest came too late for action by the Commission.

A Great Revival. "A great revival at Wells Bottom, Ohio, has swept into the church nearly everybody there. Chris Dougel, the leading citizen of the vicinity and a noted infidel, was converted. The people in their wild joy nearly wrecked the church. Chairs and benches were broken up, the pulpit torn down and in the excitement the preacher was knocked over and had to be cut. One woman went into a trance, in which she yet remains. A procession formed and taking Dougel on their shoulders marched up and down the aisles. The meeting did not close until four o'clock in the morning. In the afternoon Dougel became insane and took all his own money to the preacher. He locked Jacob Meiser, a neighbor, in the cellar and compelled Mrs. Meiser to give up all her money, which he had so took to the preacher. At the night meeting Dougel appeared fantastically clad, wearing a crown and carrying a club. He forced the minister from the pulpit and announced that he was Christ, come to judge the world. In the struggle to secure Dougel several people were dangerously hurt and one probably fatally.

Utah's Snow Slide. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 18.—The relief party sent to Alta to rescue the living and bring back the dead who were killed in the recent snow-slide which overwhelmed that town returned early this morning. Twelve bodies were brought down the cañon in funeral procession single file and laid upon the sleds. The first sled bore the body of Mattie Hickey, the next Timothy Mackden, Jeremiah Gibson, B. Evans, James Watson, Robert Gibson and James Waton, with her baby lashed to her breast. The last sled carried the four children of Edward Ballou. The following persons, reported dead, were rescued alive: Andrew White, after being under the snow twelve hours, was only slightly injured; Frederick Quinn, after being buried six hours, he also was hurt, but not seriously; Mr. Kelst, in the drift six hours. Besides these, Mr. Ford, though not covered by the avalanche was badly hurt. The body of one of the Chinamen was not found. Mrs.

Ford, it appeared, had a premonition of danger, and begged her husband to take her and their child to a place of safety on that fatal night, saying she felt sure an avalanche was coming. An inquest was held to-day, and the burials will occur to-morrow. Mrs. Ballou, Mrs. Keist (twice), Mrs. Hewitt, Mrs. Johnson and her four children, and Hans Olson and four children are still in Alta in constant danger. A rescuing party will go out to-morrow morning, organized to bring them in. Snow-slides in that neighborhood are of daily occurrence. One occurred last Saturday in Superior Gulch which the survivors at Alta for some result. The Rev. Samuel Prescott, R. Ames and John White, all three of whom were working there. Two men who were going there to see if they were safe got in sight of their cabin and tunnel when they saw a snowslide start, and in an instant almost the cabin was obliterated in a sea of snow. The concussion of the slide threw the two men violently to the ground, and they buried under a mass of snow. It is reported that a man named Mr. Daniels, living south of Alta, was killed by the slide of Friday night, as nothing has been seen or heard of him since. In three slides in Alta, all of which occurred on Friday, thirty persons have been killed.

A Terrible Tragedy. KILLS HIS WIFE AND HER LOVER, AND ENDS WITH THE LATTER'S DEATH. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 19.—W. S. Heckman, a farmer brought, infamously to-day of a domestic tragedy, near Hodgenville, Ky. Ben Combs and Jack Mason, neighbors have been enemies for some time, jealousy being the cause. Yesterday Combs told his wife he was going to Eliza Combs and would not return until the next day. He expected a show of intimacy with his wife, and in the vicinity, Mason came to the house in the afternoon. Combs' suspicions were confirmed. Getting a gun Combs fired both barrels at the guilty pair, filling their heads, necks and faces with lead squared shot. Mason was killed almost instantly, and Mrs. Combs was badly injured. After the shooting Combs told his wife what had happened and told her to pack up a few things and went to a railroad station, where they took a train for Nashville or Memphis. The wounded woman dragged herself a mile distant to Mr. Heckman's house, where medical treatment was given her, but it is thought she will die of her wounds.

Destroy That Sign. One may feel that he's getting old, but he naturally dislikes that any thing about his appearance should advise others of the fact. Yet nothing does this so effectively as thin and falling hair. No woman wants to marry a man, and business firms hesitate to employ a man, who shows this fatal sign. Parker's Hair Balsam is worth to you, in this regard, more than its weight in diamonds. Use it, and have plentiful and glossy hair. Many have had every trace of grayness removed and had spots covered by using a single bottle.

Five hundred thousand pounds of butter are shipped annually from Tiro county.

There are at least 50,000 gallons of wine consumed at the sacrament tables in the United States every year.

Ten thousand head of cattle are being fattened in York county for market. Their value is estimated at $1,000,000.

Catamenia are degrading upon the men and turkey roasts in the vicinity of Swatara Gap, Lebanon Co. Two were killed recently, and on Monday last John A. Miller killed a fine specimen, weighing twenty-five pounds, for the hide of which the county authorities paid him $2.50.

John Dolan, who died in Susquehanna a few days since, weighed four hundred and fifty pounds. The coffin had to be made to order, and was taken in and out of a double window of his house. The body was drawn to the grave on a sled, and lowered by means of a windlass managed by four men.

In Hawkins county, Tennessee, a few days ago James Reynolds put kerosene oil on the heads of his three children, aged 2, 4 and 6 years, respectively, for the purpose of killing them. Two of the children died within two hours, and but for a timely arrival of a physician the other would have died also.

Francis Both, an engineer, of East Texas, Lehigh county, who had been meeting the wife of Oliver Young, of the same place, for some time during the latter's absence, was arrested by friends of Young in one of his clandestine meetings a few evenings since and held to bail. Young arrested and held to bail. Young's arrest his wife back to her father.

At the funeral of a child of John Wells, of Westville, Erie county, on Sunday, several shocking scenes took place. While four young ladies were carrying the coffin to the church one fell, throwing it to the ground and exposing the body to view. On resuming the march to the grave one of the casket handles broke, causing a repetition of the horrible scene, and while lowering the coffin into the grave a rope broke and it was precipitated to the bottom with such force as to burst it open, the head of the corpse being frightfully gashed. All present were horrified by this succession of distressing scenes.

On Saturday morning about 4 o'clock a fire broke out in a rubbish barrel near the furnace in the cellar of John A. King, No. 1539 Pine street, Philadelphia. Mr. King was awakened by the smoke. He put the fire out or thought he did and again went to bed. About 6 o'clock the family were awakened by the roaring noise of the fire in the house. Escape was cut off by the fire on the stairway. The inmates were all driven to the fourth story by the fire, there was no hatch in the roof to escape that way. Mrs. King threw her children out of the window on mattresses that were held below for them to fall on, their seven year old son was killed by the fall, their four year old daughter was seriously hurt by the fall, Mrs. King jumped, was caught on a mattress and was severely hurt but will probably recover. Mr. King fell back into the flames and perished. Miss Hamilton a sister of Mrs. King perished in the flames. Two servant girls lost their lives, and a third was seriously injured by jumping from the fourth story.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS. Samuel Stayer has the plans for the store room, dwelling house and stable, that he will have on his lot, in Patterson, all ready for the builders.

The newest plan in the west for raising money at a wedding, is to announce the ceremony to take place in a church, give a general invitation to charge an admission fee of twenty-five to fifty cents.

A man in Indianapolis discovered that his wife was preparing to elope, but he got a shot gun and lay in wait for her, he encouraged the visit of the man who intended to elope with his wife, he gave them every chance to get away and was glad when they had left.

A number of our subscribers are prompt payers, a number are not so prompt. We are beginning to send bills to all who are in arrears more than one year. By the list of Nov. 1884, we expect to have a bill in the house of every subscriber who is in arrears for a longer period of time than the one stated above. In the mean time do not wait for the bill.

A fire broke out in a Philadelphia wood-dwelling house last Thursday and before it was controlled destroyed $100,000 worth of property. The fire was kindled by a falling nail, and another seriously wounded, a horse was killed by a falling nail. The fire started on the fourth story of the building.

John M. Straus, of Altoona, died of pneumonia on the 18th inst., his remains were taken to East Swam, this county, for interment. During the present year he has a considerable attendance at Court and in that way became acquainted with many people in Juniata.

The Chicago Railroad Expedition. The recent Railroad Expedition in Chicago, which was a grand success, and a capital in the field of exploration. Another remarkable thing in the development of the Florence Oil Sewer for cooking and heating. It was the first of its kind in the world, and is now considered the best in its kind. It will continue to receive the most liberal patronage, and will be the most successful of all the kind ever introduced.

The Great Brooklyn Bridge. The engineers have at last made the "grip" a success upon the New York and Brooklyn Bridge. But this is not the only success of the kind which the Florence Oil Sewer has upon the minds of the people. It cooks and heats, is made in large and small sizes, and has every feature and every detail of construction, and is the only one of its kind in the world. Call on local dealer, or write for particulars to Florence Machine Company, Florence, Pa.
