I like the laws pertaining to school regulations in this state very much. The examinations are uniform over the state. A committee a the Capital meet and prepare the questions to be used which are sent to the various County Superintendents, who are not allowed to open them until in the presence of the teachers who propose being examined. Certificates are of three grades. The first grade is good for three years, second for two years and third for one year, so you see there is an incentive for teachers to try for first grade. I see by the Pennsylvania Journal several good laws are made pertaining to school matters.
