All womankind will agree with John Boyle O'Reilly, when he says: Women are better than men because they are spiritual, while men are intellectual. The spirit follows what is true, gentle and good; the intellect follows only what is pleasant, successful, dominating and strong. If women could rule, civilization would be a poem.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND issued a proclamation on Saturday, ordering the men in Washington Territory to disperse and cease their violent movements against Chinese and others at Seattle and other places in that Territory. Centering at Pittsburg.

One of the most interesting and useful pamphlets, relative to the industries and commerce and resources and prospects of Western Pennsylvania, centering at Pittsburg, has been issued by the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburg, and now lies before you. The first page or two is devoted to a history of the organization of the Chamber of Commerce, stating its purpose with a list of membership. The importance of the Geographical position of Pittsburg is tersely stated. The coal mining business, the South American coal trade, the natural gas, the farming interests within a hundred miles, are presented to the reader in their true relationship to the great focal point at Pittsburg. The railway system of Pittsburg, with its transportation of 22,000,000 tons annually is brought to the attention of the reader, in connection with the river interest, the latter benefiting a population of 8,000,000. The iron and steel industry, the glass industry, and the wholesale and retail trade are all reviewed and impress the reader with their far reaching influence. One of the attractions of the book is an account of the agricultural features of twenty-one counties that make up Western Pennsylvania, with descriptive notes of the numerous fine towns that are comprehended within the limits of the counties mentioned. Another important feature of the pamphlet is a large folding map of Pittsburg and Western Pennsylvania, showing the coal and coke fields, oil regions and location of natural gas wells, and gas mains in the counties in this Commonwealth, west of the mountains.

St. Peter's Cathedral, just finished at Moscow, has five cupolas, and 900 pounds of gold were used in overlaying the dome. The floors of the temple cost $310,000, and the marble floors $1,500,000.

Merton A. Root, of Southington, Conn., went home on Sunday a week and ill-treated his wife. She went into the cellar and spilled two barrels of cider. This enraged her husband, and he obtained a silk dress belonging to his wife and mopped it in the cider. The wife complained of Root and he was arrested and fined $7 and costs amounting to $21.52.

The Stomach and The Brain. President Eliot, of Harvard University, and the head cook of a Boston hotel receive the same salary—$4,000 a year. This shows that the stomach is not considered more important than the brain in Massachusetts.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

An Indian Girl's Letter.

Under date, Weber Falls, Oct. 24, the New York Sun published the following:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—Sir: The Sun of Oct. 18, contains an article, copied from the Milwaukee Sentinel, in which one ignorant of the Indian Territory would be led to believe that we are a race of people inferior to the whites. It seems as though we are to be a target as long as this country remains as it is. Some one ought to come down to see how the Indians "reverence" the whites who are flooding the country. I think he would find it nearly as it was in days of slavery, for the class of whites who fill the soil here are nothing more than the Indians' servants. The Sentinel says: "By marrying an Indian maiden a white man secures all the rights of citizenship. That is so. But it does not stop at that. The head right of the girl helps the matrimonial contract. I have lived in the Indian Territory most of my life, and can say I never heard of that before. It further says: "The encouragement given to whites on the part of marriageable Indian females is quite observable. This is untrue. Show me the Indian girl who will, like their pale sisters, answer an advertisement of some unknown man. How many times has the Indian said to this Not once that I ever heard of or read about. Where is the Indian girl that will leave her home to hunt and marry some unknown white man? You may look the Indian Territory over and not find her. But conversely, quite often do white women come to this country, and know not who they are coming to see only by name and in dress, in hopes of marrying an Indian. And quite frequently they are served as they deserve. They think they are coming to a grand place, where they will be rulers of fashion and social life. They are mistaken. The Indians as a rule respect their own girls much more than they do the whites, and not so much drugery as the Sentinel would like to heap on us falls on the Indian girl.

Democratic Election Patriotism.

Our special artist was so overcome by the election that he did not come to time with his work for last week's issue. He, this week makes amends for his short coming on the day after the election by presenting the readers of the SENTINEL and REPUBLICAN with a set of handsome illustrations of the leaders of the Democracy as they appeared on the night of election day in this town. To be sure the pictures are not as life like as if our artist had the announcement that the State had given 44,000 of a majority for the Republican candidate, Quay.

The ninth scene represents the heroes of the night receiving a curtain lecture, signed with the announcement that the State had given 44,000 of a majority for the Republican candidate, Quay.

The first scene represents a group of regulars and independents in council figuring on estimates after having received the news of the poll of votes in Fernagh township and in Millintown.

The second scene represents the faithful bringing in the returns.

The third scene represents the effect of the news upon the regular and independent elements. The one is encouraged to demonstrate, the other is still as usual.

Fourth scene represents the effect of the news from Walker, that shocked the Republicans. The Democracy spring to their feet and begin to shout.

The fifth scene finds the erring brethren speechifying over the victory in the county.

The sixth scene represents them as "Oh, be joyful, drinking to each others health at the wee small hour of 1 o'clock A. M., on Wednesday morning.

The seventh scene represents some of the unsteady of the faithful, "balancing all on their way to their homes at 3 o'clock in the morning.

The eighth scene represents some of the faithful at half-past 3 o'clock in their efforts to get over the council in places in the pavements that the council are trying to have smoothed down.
