

B. F. SCHWEIER, VOL. XL.

The March of the Years.

Only one, only one. The years march past, till the march is done. The old year dies to the solemn knell, And a merry peal from the changing bell, Chimes the other one, by one.

Her cup of pleasure was full—almost too full to be real; she thought, as she stood before her mirror, and watched Lady Nugent's maid give the finishing touches to her dress.

"Only my school clothes, aunt; grand-mamma thought I had better wear them out," stammered Ninette, through her teeth. "If they are all like what you have on, dear, I don't think we shall be very extravagant if we indulge in a new wardrobe," said Lady Summer, kindly.

There were eight of them grouped on the lawn—nine, if the figure standing under the cedar tree was counted.

This figure no one had seen but Ninette, Kate Nugent, the bride of to-morrow, was sitting full in the bright moonlight with a scented gauze over her white dress, holding high court; bending over her chair, and toying with one of her blonde ringlets, was her fiancé.

There is a general eclipse," added Captain Nugent, following the others toward the hall.

"No; I wondered why you did not come to see us," returned Ninette, softly. "I am not at all," he explained, "I was wishing for some flowers; kind, I wish in the morning looked so drooping."

With the wild horses a stallion is at the head, and is the leader of every herd.

The wild horses of the mountains and their fierce "bosses." With the wild horses a stallion is at the head, and is the leader of every herd, having some control over them that no band of cowboys are able to drive a band of horses so fast or well as a stallion can.

On the summit of Orange Mountain, a ten minutes' walk from the town of Orange, N. J., is an extinct volcano.

On the summit of Orange Mountain, a ten minutes' walk from the town of Orange, N. J., is an extinct volcano. For several years past powerful stone breakers, driven by steam engines, have been breaking the hard basaltic rock of this mountain by the hundreds of tons every season for the purpose of macadamizing public streets and private drives and walks.

NINETTE.

"Up and down, in and out, round and round, then up and down again! Never allowed to put my head outside the front gate, except on Sundays when we hold off to church once—once only!"

"I would like to see you again, Walter," said Ninette, smiling.

It was a very fine September, and Ninette thought the sun had never shone so brightly before.

NOT MASSACRED.

The Geographical Expedition to New Guinea Safe. A dispatch from Cooktown, Queensland, says the Geographical Expedition which was reported to have been massacred in New Guinea, has arrived here.

South-Dipping Senators.

A small black enameled box is securely fastened in a panel on each side of the President's proptore of the Senate, and an inquisitive reporter constituted himself a committee of inquiry about the matter.

A Natural Salmon-Trap.

The salmon, the cousin of the trout, is famous for its method of going up stream; it darts at falls ten or twelve feet high, leaps into the air and rushes up the falling water in a marvelous way.
