Experience as a teacher and as an examiner of schools convinces us that, one of the best means of advancing the school room should be furnished with primary and elocutionary charts, an unabridged dictionary, large Bible and outline maps, and no teacher should be employed who will not agree to use them. Fourteen public examinations were held each year. I adopted a combination of the oral and written methods, believing this to be the means of economizing time and more accurately determining the qualifications of the teachers.
