SOME one is alarmed because he believes the moon is on fire.

A revolution has broken out in the state of Tamaulipas, Mexico.

Hog cholera prevails to an alarming extent among hogs around Lynchburg, Virginia.

Read the excursion rates to Luray Caverns, in Virginia, as published in another column.

The telegraphic reports of the London Dilke-Crawford divorce scandal prove what a level kettle of fish they were.

A straight blowing wind blew down twenty houses and killed about a dozen people in Lakin, Kansas, a few evenings ago.

The question of honest butter has brought out a number of speeches from United States Senators within the past ten days.

A mob in Paris, last week, attacked the offices of the Royalist newspapers. After a desperate fight, in which many policemen were wounded, the mob was driven away and scattered.

A research from Texas, last Friday, says: Hundreds of families are abandoning their cattle and homes in western Texas, and going eastward to keep from starvation caused by drought.

A drought has ruined crop prospects in South Carolina to such a degree that people in a number of counties are on the brink of famine. There is talk of convening the Legislature to devise means of relief for the people.

Democratic journalists are seriously concerned over the prospective speeches, and prospective interviews of Republican candidates. Such expressions, as, "Dear Beaver, Dear Norris, don't talk!" are frequently met with in their papers.

MISS CLEVELAND, the President's sister, is a novel writer. The reader will readily understand what she means by the following sentence: "He felt the magnetism of his conjugal passion at his side, and many wavelets of emotion played upon him as they walked."

While the wheat crop in the United States this year is not large, it is large enough to bread all our people, and some to spare, but the surplus cannot be sold at a high price for foreign reports are true. The report from India is, that there will be more wheat shipped from that country this season than ever before.

The question of artificial butter, bogus butter, or oleomargarine that is sometimes called created quite a breeze among the United States Senators when the question was before that body last week. A number of Senators took the position that the making of oleomargarine is as honest a business as the making of butter from the milk of cows, and for that reason legislation against it is improper and should not be engaged in.

The Standard Oil Company will have to look out for another candidate for the Presidency than Mr. Payne, of Ohio, whom the Democracy sent to the United States Senate. It was charged in the United States Senate that Mr. Payne had aided his way through the Ohio Legislature to Washington. If such was the case the Democratic legislators of Ohio made such a clean haul of the boodle that there isn't trace enough of it left to hang an investigation on, but Payne is out of the race for the Presidency.

On the 20th inst., the Senate passed a bill to tax oleomargarine two cents per pound. The purpose of the tax is to so manage the manufacturers of oleomargarine that they cannot flood the country with a grease manufactured from different kinds of fat and sell it under the name of butter. Butter from the milk of cows is one thing, and a grease for table use, made from lard, tallow, and fatty substances of other animals is quite a different thing. The oleomargarine men have been selling this production as butter, and to keep them from perpetrating a fraud a tax has been levied and they will be required to label their grease when they place it on the market.

Strangely as it may seem the vote in the Senate was almost a party vote, the Republicans voted for the bill and the Democrats against it. The vote stood 34 yeas, 24 nays. While making mention of the attitude of the parties in the United States Senate it is just as well to refresh one's memory with the fact that the late Republican State convention that met at Harrisburg, passed a resolution against the dangerous and unjust competition that arises from the adulterations or counterfeiters of the agricultural products.

ALBANY celebrated its bi-centennial last week. President Cleveland was present. A stranger to the men who surrounded the President kept pressing himself nearer to the chief executive, when some one suggested that perhaps he wanted to assassinate the head of the nation. The stranger was arrested and his pockets were searched. Six dollars in money was found, but no weapon. It turned out that the man was a Democratic office seeker, and he was pressing himself forward to get a chance to personally ask the President for an office.

GENERAL BEAVER lost a leg in battle in Virginia. If he had disobeyed orders the losing of a leg would not excuse him from responsibility. General Sickle fought well in the second day's fight at Gettysburg and lost a leg, but how does that excuse him from the disobedience of orders. If he had obeyed orders and gone forward to support Reynolds on the 1st day of the battle as Colonel Rosegarten says he was ordered to do, perhaps he would not have lost his leg, and he certainly would not be open to the criticism of having disobeyed orders on both the first and second days of the battle of Gettysburg. He did himself injury by going to Boston last spring and there in a speech declaring that Reynolds' fight at Gettysburg was an "an accident and of no significance." The General's judgment is not good or he deliberately talked that way to screen himself. He and his friends are now abusing Colonel Norris for defending the command of Reynolds from the charge of Sickle's Boston speech. Norris says, and he is corroborated by Colonel Rosegarten, that Sickle had been ordered to be at Gettysburg, on the morning of the 1st of July. Was it an accident that caused him to be ordered by Reynolds to be at Gettysburg on the morning of the 1st of July, 1863? Was it an accident that caused him to not appear at Gettysburg for the battle in which Reynolds lost his life? Was it an accident that caused him to declare at Boston last spring that the Reynolds fight on the 1st of July at Gettysburg was "an accident without significance?" The Reynolds men, the first corps men owe it to themselves and to history to see to it that they remain not silent under the unfavorable statement of a general who clearly disobeyed orders on the second day of the battle and who in all probability will be shown clearly to have disobeyed orders on the first day of the fight.

Another Call for Bonds.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—The Acting Secretary of the Treasury today issued a call for the redemption of 3 per cent. bonds of 1882, interest to cease September 1, 1886. Following is a description of the bonds, the numbers being original and inclusive in each case:
$50—No. 133 to 135
$100—No. 1700 to 1812
$500—No. 787 to 824
$10,000—No. 5524 to 5992
$100,000—No. 2312 to 12,995; and 23,738 to 24,700.
Total, $1,347,000.

Rough On Rats.
BALTIMORE, July 22.—Thomas Conway, a youth of seventeen years, died today from the effect of "rough on rats," which he took yesterday. A few days ago his father, who is an industrious steamboat engineer, told him that he must go to work and learn to make a living for himself. He said he would die before he would go to work. His father was determined and yesterday Thomas procured a package of the poison, a part of which he swallowed. His family did not believe him when he swallowed the poison, but he grew worse and died this morning.

A War Upon the Negro.
CHICAGO, July 22.—A special despatch from Jackson, Miss., says: "A deplorable state of affairs exists near Union, Newton county, about seventy miles east of here. A band of young white men, styling themselves the Regulators, have issued a decree that no negro shall work on the farms in that vicinity. The band contains about fifteen members, and they have killed three negroes and wounded several others. A perfect state of terror prevails, and the entire county is greatly excited over the matter. Every one condemns the atrocious and bloody actions, and it is determined that every member of the band shall be made to answer for his crimes. Mr. J. M. Kelly was here yesterday to see the Governor, and was told to arrest every one of the young outlaws at all hazards. About twenty citizens, headed by officers armed with proper warrants, are now after the young desperadoes and their speedy capture is looked for. It seems when the attempt was first started to regulate the negroes that it was more in fun than anything else, but the 'Regulators' have now undertaken in earnest to execute their designs. Their actions can hardly be accounted for, and are a surprise to every one."

Another libel suit has been brought against the Harrisburg Sunday Telegram. This time it comes from York and is brought by Mrs. Harriet Giest against W. E. Smyse, the Telegram correspondent there, and J. M. Place, of Harrisburg.

A tramp named William Dunkin was fatally shot while in the woods near the Hazle Creek Bridge, Easton, on Tuesday evening. Night Watchman Derr, hearing a noise in the woods, and thinking it was caused by one of the numerous panthers, fired, with the result stated.
Mexico is the only country in which the mule can compete with the railroad. Along the track for miles you may see hundreds of these little brutes with great loads of hay, stone and other goods strapped on their backs, without bridles or harness, driven by the Indians, and going the same way as the trains. They carry freight for hundreds of miles in this way.
A telegram from Port Townsend, Washington territory, says that Saturday night "several tugs coming up to Cape Flattery were struck by a tidal wave of a very dangerous character. The sea ran so high that the tugs were buried at times. The commotion lasted about half an hour. After the waves had subsided it was found that the sea was covered with dead codfish, halibut and salmon. A submarine eruption is suspected."

A load of hay was being driven into the barn of Schuyler Parish, of Naples, N. Y., the other day, when an iron bolt of the rack pressed so hard on a wheel that the tire struck fire and the hay was ignited. The driver had the presence of mind to back the load out of the barn and jump down. The frightened team ran through the village with the blazing load, setting fire to a bridge on the way. When they were stopped all of the wagon had been burned but the front wheels.

The swindlers have just done a rich man of Granby out of $5,000. They engaged in a game of cards in his presence, and one who had previously been talking business with him lost $5,000. The swindler number two said he would not play unless the other put up $5,000. Number one did not have it and offered the Granby man $100 for the use of $5,000 for a day. The victim bit and produced the money and then the swindlers grabbed the $100 interest money and fled with the boodle.

Sunday morning July 4 Henry Meek, who was confined in jail at Middleburg, for forgery, made his escape by digging through the upper end of the jail yard wall. On Monday morning something was discovered in the hole made by Meek, which upon examination proved to be a dummy filled with straw, with a card attached stating that he had come back to give himself up, who the parties were that fixed the straw man up we know not, but it had the effect of taking some parties to the jail to see the deal prisoner.

A special despatch from Pittsburgh says: "The fact that Dr. Hostetter and Mr. Ralph Bagley are personally active in coal operations which depend almost entirely upon the completion of the South Penn railroad, leads outsiders to believe that such a consummation is expected. An eastern railroad magnate said he believed that at the next term of the Supreme Court there will be a decision adverse to the sale of the South Penn franchise by the Vanderbilts. There was to have been an annual meeting of the South Penn company in June, but it was not held, and the old organization was continued. It is believed that Dr. Hostetter will be elected president."

Among the natural wonders of the world Luray Caverns hold a most conspicuous place. They are indeed considered by many scientific men to excel any other known caves in the beauty, variety, and extent of their natural formations. In the numerous chambers which combine to form an unbroken palace the master hand of nature has wrought many and curious imitations of well known objects, and ornamented the interior with a crystalline brida-brace far superior to any ever fashioned by the hand of man. A visit to these wonders of nature is worthy the time and attention of every one. In order that as many people as possible may be able to visit the caverns the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has inaugurated a series of weekly excursions to Luray, to be run every Thursday during the months of July and August. Excursion tickets good going only on the special train on Thursday, but good to return by any regular train until and including the Monday following. A trip to the Natural Bridge of Virginia may also be included in the excursion, as the limit of the tickets admits of such an extension, and round trip tickets for this point may be secured of the agent at Luray at greatly reduced rates. The excursion forms one of the most delightful trips obtainable in this section. Train for Luray leaves Millin at 8:15 A. M., and round-trip tickets will be sold at $5.50.

George B. Roberts, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.
To be President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is to be the head of the most illustrious private enterprise on this continent. Even in these days when every presumption is against large corporations, and when the mere mention of the name of one is often sufficient to arouse a babel of bitterness the Pennsylvania railroad stands prominent among the few corporate exceptions which maintain a hold on popular admiration and respect, and which are therefore exempt from the prevailing suspicion of, and antagonism toward, the great aggregations of capital. This exemption is not due to any passive amiability either; for we have no more alert and aggressive institution than the P. R. R. It exists because for a long series of years justice and humanity have characterized the Company's management as well as enterprise; and because while steadily extending its boundaries and power, it never fails to recognize the enlarged obligations and duties which such extensions entail. The Pennsylvania is the model railroad of the world. It lays a roadbed regardless of cost, builds and maintains rolling stock not only up to, but in advance of popular demands for speed and comfort, selects its servants carefully for men enough to make their contented and self-respecting, and then disciplines them into the highest efficiency. Everything that it builds or uses from a passenger station to a car lamp is of the best and safest, and all is kept as neat and orderly as the appointments of a man-of-war. It shows liberality in every form, gives shippers and passengers the best service, goods and freights cheerfully paid, helps to build up every community it reaches, and is a living demonstration of the fact that a railroad can earn and pay dividends and keep its financial position equal to that of the gold dollar, while serving the public instead of oppressing it, bettering its plant instead of neglecting it, treating its servants with decency instead of rapacity, and so conducting itself generally as to be a source of pride and not of shame to the country which supports it.

To hold a vast corporation to such standards, in spite of the tendency to degeneration which inheres in organizations even more mainly than in individuals, demands great qualities in the management, and involves a mending strain upon whoever stands at the head of it. No one can wonder then that the deep lines in the serious, intellectual, responsible face of Mr. Roberts.
George B. Roberts, the efficient conductor and worthy successor of J. Edgar Thompson and Thomas A. Scott, was born in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, on the 15th of January 1831, and is now therefore, in his fifty-third year. His entire life has practically been passed in railway service, as he began as a rodman on the construction of the mountain division of the Pennsylvania Railroad in 1851, and was steadily engaged in the location and construction of various railroads, including the Susquehanna and Erie, North Pennsylvania, Northern Pennsylvania, Allegheny and West Jersey and other roads, until 1862, when he entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad.
On May 28, 1862, he became assistant to Mr. J. Edgar Thompson, then President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and remained in that position until 1869, when he was elected Fourth Vice-President, serving in that capacity until March 29, 1873, and then as Second Vice-President, until June 3, 1874.
Upon Mr. Thompson's death, and Colonel Scott's accession to the Presidency of the Company, June 3, 1874, Mr. Roberts was elected First Vice-President, and continued in that position until June 1, 1880, when he was elected to the Presidency, which position he now holds.
It will be seen that Mr. Roberts' experience has been such as to make him eminently fitted for his present responsible position, and that in addition to his extensive knowledge of engineering questions, his duties for the last 23 years have been such as to make him thoroughly conversant with all departments of railway service. He is a man of eminently sound judgment on financial questions, and is necessarily called upon to decide the policy of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in all transportation matters connected with the trunk lines, and other grave questions bearing upon the vast interests controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.
What these interests are may be gathered from the fact that this with its kindred companies operates over 7,000 miles of road running through nine States of the Union, and employs 88,764 cars of all kinds. In building and repairing rolling stock, its Allegheny shops alone employ nearly 5,000 men.
He is president not only of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company proper, but also of the Pennsylvania Company, the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway Company and the Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh Railroad Company, the three main organizations that operate the Western system of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and also of a very large number of other subordinate corporations.
Mr. Roberts is still in the prime of life, and should have many years of usefulness before him.

The family of Joseph Ewing, of Harrisburg, accompanied by a daughter of Senator Wolcott, of Sunbury, are visiting at E. S. Parker's.
The body of Mrs. Rachel Longford, wife of H. B. Longford, and who was buried in this place for interment in Union Cemetery on Sunday.

Turkey is disposed not to recognize American naturalization of such Turks as have become citizens of the United States. Doubtless Minister Cox will read the history of the war of 1812 with Great Britain to the Turkish government. That will give the Turk to understand the position of this government on that question.
A Texan editor named, A. K. Cutting, published articles in his paper in Texas, that reflected severely on Mexican government in the state of Chihuahua. The Mexicans kidnaped the editor, hurried him across the line and lodged him in jail. Secretary Bayard has demanded the release of Cutting. The Mexicans, however, have not released him. The situation has not a friendly look.

An ice cream supper in a church in Maine caused the sickness of over forty people. It is a common thing for many people to take sick at picnics and feasts and so forth this summer. The cause of the frequent sickness is a good deal discussed these times. The sickness arises from one of two causes, either from some unwholesome ingredient in the food or from over eating.

Pomona Meeting.
The Pomona Grange of Juniata county will hold its fifth regular meeting at the residence of Samuel Pankelater, in Tuncocora township, on Friday, August 13, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M., when the following program will be disposed of:
Greeting, by sister, Clara Milliken; Will the prudent farmer sell hay and invest the proceeds in commercial fertilizers? W. H. Knoose, R. E. Dobbis and R. W. Houshroy; Necessity of changing seeds, D. B. Esch, and Wm. Long; Farmers' Horses, J. T. Nourse, Esq. Unfinished, new, and miscellaneous business will be disposed of at 2 o'clock P. M., at the evening session the fifth degree will be conferred, and the unwritten work exemplified. As this meeting will occur in a busy time it was thought best to continue but one day and evening.
D. B. McWilliams, Lecturer.
W. H. Knoose, Secretary.

A Creaking Hinge
Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its action on the blood, relieves this condition, and restores the joints to good working order.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, in cases which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians. Were it necessary, I could give the names of many individuals who have been cured by taking this medicine. In my case it has worked wonders, relieving me of after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. R. H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would relieve me. I had been afflicted with these diseases from my system.—R. H. Short, Manager Hotel Belmont, Lowell, Mass.
I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took several bottles of this preparation, and was speedily restored to health.—J. Freeman, Independence, Va.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cents per bottle, $1.00 per dozen.
