

SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN

MIFFLINTOWN.

Wednesday, October 6, 1886.

B. F. SCHWEIER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Republican State Ticket.

GOVERNOR, JAMES A. BEAVER. LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, WILLIAM T. DAVIES. AUDITOR GENERAL, A. WILSON NORRIS. SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS, THOMAS J. STEWART.

Republican County Ticket.

CONGRESSMAN AT LARGE, EDWIN S. OSBORNE. CONGRESS, LOUIS E. ATKINSON. ASSEMBLY, JOSEPH S. MARTIN. ASSOCIATE JUDGES, J. KELLY PATTERSON. JACOB SMITH. COUNTY SURVEYOR, J. J. PATTERSON.

Show storms prevailed in the region of the lakes on the last day of September.

Where, Oh, where! are the golden promises of good times promised by the Democracy?

The North American says: The saloon keepers have declared against the Republican ticket. Prohibitionists take notice.

What shall it be blamed on, Wiggins, the new moon, or on moral depravity that the telegraph has reported the past week so many cases of elopements, robbery, and other bad acts?

The military arm of Russia gives protection to Bulgaria, but Bulgaria is not content, she wants the right to elect her king, and she wants always to elect the man that Russia does not want elected.

Mrs. Whistler, of Rockfield, Indiana, left her husband to be married to a man named Baker, who has already had five wives. When Whistler heard of the runaway of his wife with Baker, he whistled, and no wonder.

Many farmers are objecting to having their fences, stables and barns used as bulletin boards for traveling advertisers. Some of the advertisers will be called on to answer for using fences and stable sides for advertising boards without the consent of the owners.

Democratic orators are getting in trim to follow Mr. Black in his general talk about prohibition, transportation discrimination, and labor. When Hensel comes around he'll talk about reform, civil service reform, turning out the scrubbing women, but he will not say that Black wants the $10,000 salary reduced.

It is said the new law for the marriage of men and women has resulted in reducing the number of marriages, that is, fewer people have been married in this, the first year of the new law than in any previous year under the old law within the limit of the past five years. Perhaps the promised good times of the Democracy had something to do with the falling off of the marriages.

General Sherman said, that Jefferson Davis when he was President of the rebel government threatened to turn Lee's army against any of the Confederate states that would attempt to leave the rebel government and return to the national government. Davis says the General tells what is not true. The man who organized and forced a rebellion as Davis did, would force a state to stay with the rebel government, and he would not hesitate a moment to deny all complicity in the work. The rebel for spoils and office will tell to one man and deny to another.

A Democratic Sample.

The North American of a recent date writes as follows: In this short paragraph there is a big lesson. Do the readers of The North American remember what a terrible fuss the Democratic Secretary of the Navy made about the unseaworthiness of the Dolphin, the iron war vessel built by John Roach? Do they recall that Secretary Whitney put on board that vessel three or four separate commissions, instituted for the purpose of condemning her? Have they forgotten that she was sent to sea to look for a storm, with a commander determined to put her to tests that no fair seaman would approve? And then after forcing the failure of Mr. Roach—though not his ship—were we not given column after column to explain how the department in great generosity would take the ship, but that Mr. Roach's business executors were not necessary to pay the enormous sum prepared to make her perfect? Well, now, it has leaked out that the variations, improvements and betterments suggested and carried out have drained the United States Treasury of the enormous sum of Four Hundred Dollars! Four Hundred Dollars apart from the plans, specifications and material of Mr. Roach's work! It cost ten times that for Mr. Whitney to injure the fair fame of an American ship-builder, and to bring the whole of that industry into disrepute. He did his best to belittle American naval construction in the eyes of the world and he placed the vessel at the mercy of men known to be prejudiced against her builder and against the Republican party. Yet having accomplished his unworthy political purpose, he can find but four hundred dollars' worth of imperfection in justification of his partisan unfairness.

Earthquake Shocks in Lancaster. LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 29.—The people of the borough of Elizabethtown were badly frightened last night. About 11 o'clock two distinct shocks of earthquake were felt. The shocks followed in quick succession, and scarcely had the dull sound died away when the buildings swayed suddenly to cause the doors and windows to rattle.

Diseased Cattle. READING, Pa., Sept. 28.—Pleur pneumonia is raging with unprecedented violence among cattle in Limerick township, Montgomery county, as well as some neighboring districts. Many have died. Dr. Gilbert reported to the State Board of Health eighteen cases in Limerick alone, and the farmers find that the only remedy is to kill the cattle, leaving the State to pay for them. A movement is on foot among the farmers to hold a convention to petition the Legislature to take more effective measures to stamp out the disease, and with the Western States ask aid from the general government.

Repeated Sensation at Williamsport. A dispatch from Williamsport dated the 26th ult., says: On the 12th of April, 1881, A. M. Haswell, a prominent citizen, eloped with a married daughter of the then millionaire Peter Herdic. The eloping wife was Mrs. William McClary. She moved in the best Fourth St. society and her husband came from one of the best families in Delaware, the couple residing in the aristocratic quarter of the West End. Haswell was an upholsterer and did a thriving business. Mrs. McClary conceived a violent regard for him and the pair eloped. Just before the elopement Mrs. Haswell caught her husband talking to Mrs. McClary, and choked the latter until she sank down prostrate at her feet in front of her own house. The next episode occurred at a funeral of Haswell's child, when Mrs. McClary sent a bunch of flowers which Mrs. Haswell threw in her husband's face in the presence of the funeral guests. They have done well in Rockford, where they were received by the best society. The deserted wife declares she will have her rights, and the next chapter in the sensation will occur at Rockford, unless Haswell gets away.

A Singular Robbery. The Lewisiston Free Press of the 29th ult., published the following: Between two and three o'clock on Monday morning one of the most daring robberies was committed in our town that we ever heard of. T. Weiler, who is an agent for various kinds of agricultural implements, had been collecting money due him on sales made to the farmers in this vicinity, and on the night in question had between two and three hundred dollars in his house. He had the money in a large pocketbook, which he placed under his pillow when he retired for the night. Shortly after 2 o'clock he heard a slight noise outside his window and on going to see what caused it he saw the outline of one or two persons getting away from the window. He went outside, but owing to the darkness could not see anyone. Shortly after he had re-entered the house the whole neighborhood was startled by a terrific explosion. Mr. Weiler again ran out from the house to see what was the matter. During all this time the pocketbook remained under the pillow. He went a little ways from the house, but becoming suspicious that all was not right he returned to get his money, but when he got to the bed it was gone. The thieves had been on the alert, and during the short time he was out succeeded in getting away with the money. The explosion was made a short ways from the house on purpose to draw him away. It is thought that the explosive used was dynamite. It was exploded under a fence, literally tearing it to splinters. The report was heard quite a distance and houses a half mile away were very perceptibly jarred. Next morning the pocketbook was found about a mile and a half west of Belleville on the road leading to Greenwood Furnace, but it was empty. It is thought it might have been put there as a feint to draw pursuers off the true track.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Near Andalusia, Ala., the three children of a family (ranging from two to six years old) went out Sunday afternoon to play near the house. A large pine tree had been blown down and they were playing around in the hole made by the roots being torn up. The afternoon passed and at night the children were missed. The parents instituted search and soon found them lying near the roots of the fallen tree. The two younger ones were dead and the eldest was in a dying condition. Upon investigation it was found that the children had all been bitten by a rattlesnake which had made its den under the roots of the tree. The bodies were terribly swollen and looked as if they had been bitten in several different places. The elder child died during the night, and the three innocents were buried together.
