Was Sincere.

Before the Democratic primary election, the name of E. D. Parker of this place, was mentioned in connection with the nomination for Congress. Mr. Parker has been a life long Democrat and an able defender of the cause of the brethren, out of season and in season, and would make a representative far above the average Congressman, but there is a political coterie in this county that is determined to set against his advancement, wherever it can be prevented, and whenever anything is seen with which it is supposed he has connection it is understood that the advice shall be taken that was given to the Irishman, "By jabsers, when ever you see a head, hit it." When ever they heard him spoken of as a candidate, they struck, and quickly set up Jacobs. The bait was taken, and Jacobs is the Democratic nominee of the party for Congress. Then came the report that Jacobs would not become a candidate in fact, but despite it all, he is a candidate. With the situation thus understood, and briefly stated, there is not much wonder that the Democrat and Register attempts an indirect apology for the nomination of Mr. Jacobs and endeavors to prove that the whole transaction was sincere. Why such an effort to prove to the Democracy that the political trapeze nomination was most sincere? Have the membership of the Democracy come to know the undercurrents, and must they now be told that it was not a joke to keep Parker from getting the nomination but was a sincere effort on the part of Jacobs. Strange that such a labored effort must be made to prove to the brethren that the whole transaction was sincere and is sincere.

The Altoona Tribune reports the path of a number of democratic speeches that were delivered at Pittsburg, some days ago. It says: Mr. Black declared that the tariff was not an issue and refused to discuss it. The next speaker labored to prove that a protective tariff is robbery of the poor man and a blessing to the rich. The third speaker affirmed that the democratic party was the original protection party, though he thought the tariff ought to be reduced now, and the fourth speaker labored to prove that there is practically no difference between the democratic and the republican positions on the tariff. That was a simple democratic meeting and it shows the condition to which the democratic party has been reduced.

The Philadelphia Bulletin in speaking of Governor Hill, says: Governor Hill, of New York, is too much of a small demagogue to permit any opportunity of making capital out of the labor interest to go by unimproved. The New York boycotters who were sentenced to imprisonment last winter have had their sentences commuted by the Governor to a hundred days' term. Mr. Hill had not the courage to resist the clamor that was made for their release. An impartial Executive, bent on enforcing justice, would have seen that these men served out all the penalty which their offenses thoroughly merited, but Governor Hill is a Presidential candidate who is afraid of making enemies.

They are having a lively time in the West Chester Congressional district. Smedley Darlington and Congress man Everheart are the two Republican candidates in the field. Darlington is the regular nominee. Everheart declares that Darlington received his nomination by unfair means, and therefore he—Everheart—will run for the same office. Under ordinary circumstances two men are more than a match for one man, but in this case it is feared that the Democratic candidate can defeat both of the Republican candidates.

Tex met packers in Chicago struck for the eight-hour a day system. Armour employed new men as fast as he could get them.

ENGLAND is skirmishing around to find a partnership among the nations of Europe to defeat the purposes of Russia. The British never engage in a war unless they are well backed by a nation that can do the most of the fighting.

The storm that prevailed in Pennsylvania last Thursday and refreshed the growing wheat was a destructive storm in Texas, and along the coast of the Gulf of Mexico. Heavy rains prevailed in all that region of country, and many lives were lost in the flood along the rivers.

By proclamation President Cleveland has revoked the suspension of the discriminating of customs levied on certain kinds of articles and products brought to this country under the Spanish flag. Because in certain Spanish ports duties are levied upon certain kinds of American products.

The Democrat and Register-George Jacobs organ calls Atkinson, conceited, and says he is puffed up with the belief that there is no man in the district so able as he to represent his present constituents in Congress. If Jacobs would put a kimejack on his organ, perhaps, it would not say such queer things.

Anarchy's Red Hand.

A special despatch from Chicago, Ill., says: The members of the jury which convicted the anarchists at the recent trial have been subjected to a number of petty annoyances, and in some cases their lives have been threatened. Foreman Osborne has received the most violent letters, but not until recently has an attempt been made to take his life. Major Cole, one of the jurors, is employed in the City Hall and lives at Lawndale. His wife is of such a character that he is detained in the office until a late hour. Late Thursday afternoon two men in a carriage drove to Cole's house and inquired when he would be home. Cole's son answered them, and the two men roundly abused the boy, saying that he ought to be shot along with his father. One of the men held a revolver in his hand and pointed it at the boy, but his companion prevailed upon him not to shoot.

The men waiting in the neighborhood for several hours and then went away. Mr. Cole did not get home until midnight and thought very little of the story when it was told to him. The next evening Mr. Cole took his wife to the theatre, she coming into the city to meet him.

The daughter sat up to wait for them, and about nine o'clock saw two masked men peering into the dining room window. An hour later she heard a knock at the front door, and on opening it saw a man without a mask, who inquired when her father would be home. She replied, "Not until late," and the fellow went out to the street to join his companion, who was waiting at the gate.

Mr. Cole reached home at midnight, and as he passed up the walk to the front door a shot was fired from a clump of bushes at the side of the house. Mrs. Cole screamed, and both hurried into the house, not caring to investigate the matter at that hour. The ball flew very wide of the mark and neither Mr. Cole nor his wife were injured. The daughter was almost frightened to death and has been confined ever since.

The next morning Mr. Cole examined the grounds and found the foot prints of two men all over the place. Saturday evening Mr. Cole arrived at Lawndale at eight o'clock, and when he was about half way from the depot to his home he was stopped by a masked man, who presented a revolver at his head, saying that he intended to kill him for voting to hang the anarchists. Cole was unarmed, but without a moment's hesitation he seized the pistol, which was discharged without doing any harm. The fellow left the weapon in Cole's hands, and jumping over a fence, disappeared in the darkness. Mr. Cole is now sorry that he did not shoot the scoundrel, but he will have no compunction the next time any person tries to shoot him. Mr. Cole notified the police and they are now looking for the men.

Letter from Kansas.

Mr. EDITOR, Taloga, Kan., Oct. 17, 1886. DEAR SIR:—If you will allow me space in your paper I will write a few lines of the coming commercial town of south-west Kan., which may interest some of its readers. Let a thoughtful party look at a map of south-western Kansas and eastern Colorado and he will note that there is not a running stream between that area and the Cimarron. He will also note that the coal fields of Colorado, do are West of Morton; the southwest corner of Kansas. He will also see that the tend of the land eastward is such that the lines of railway soon to stretch across this broad and fertile country is such as to point unerringly to a point north of where the Cimarron crosses the Kansas Colorado line as a location of a town of commanding importance. The great National Cattle Trail, just inside the Colorado lines of itself would indicate this. The outlets necessary to the advancing along of hundreds of thousands of cattle from the breeding grounds in Texas to the northern pasturage of Montana and Dakota would also sustain a town of no mean importance. But tens of thousands of fat cattle from the Territory from No Man's Land, from Pan Handle of Texas annually have to be shipped to eastern markets. This wonderfully rapid settlement of Western Kansas has closed the former drives or cattle trails to Dodge city and other points on the main of the Santa Fe. Other routes have to be opened. Cattle shipping points have to be opened near a never failing supply of water. The rapid settlement of Kan. and Colorado says that such a point has to be near the great National Trail. With these points in mind the foresight and keen business sagacity of those who located the southwest town of Taloga on section 16, township 33 range 43, and its site, to command the advantages adverted to, has only to be observed to be fully appreciated. The location is one of much natural beauty, a great
