An ingenious scheme has been in-vented by a Congressman which he is studiously trying to keep to himself, which has so far worked to a charm. He calls it "the dummy key racket." This Congressman is a very popular fellow and lives at one of the hotels in Washington. He found that his room had become the headquarters of a crowd of his friends, who were using it after the free and easy fashion of a club house. He didn't like to say any thing about it, but he saw plainly that some-thing must be done and done quickly.

If the key was gone it was tolerably sertain that the man had taken it to open his door, and was probably in. On the other hand, if the key was in the box of course the boarder was out. This fact gave the Congressman a very enlarged idea. He knew that if his friends done as David Dudley Field did when saw a key there that they would think saw a key there that they would think be was away, and therefore would not come up stairs, so he had a "dummy key" made which is always in his box, recept at very late at night when the lack for the source of the sou clerk removes it, only to replace it in and I owe it all to the care of a horse

LIFE must be very pleasant in the Congo. Instead of a man having to rush home at 1 P. M. to give his wife four hours' time to prepare for the opera and then wait another half hour on the front steps until the two hundred and odd forgotten things are found and arranged, the Congo hus-band strolls home a few minutes before the performance begins and simply says, "Sarah, adjust your hairpin. We will go to the opera."
