Juniata Sentinel La and Republican.

that Boy.

Through the house with laugh and shout, Knees threadbare and elbow out, Mamma bears, with auxious doubt, That boy.

know I shall have a miserable time."

"O there! Excuse me, Blanche, but room, the former waited for some one

Capt. Greens. He and your Uncle

"How do you do," said Miss Black, seated at Capt, Greene's table, and in a few moments the waiter drew out the chair opposite for a tall gentleman with a tawny mustache and dark brown eyes; his uniform denoted the rank of before and had admired him, but she saw now, with a little start, that it was the gentleman in gray, who had changed his tweed for the objectionable blue.

He was introduced to her mother, but Capt. Green did not present him to ecopying her mother and Capt. Greene

"Mother," said Rhodora, when they had gone to their rooms, her cheeks dushed and her eyes brilliant, "never let me be introduced to that Lieut.

"Why, my dear, didn't you meet

"You must have imagined it, my

"Well, well, as you like, but it is a Rhodora was half inclined to tell her lunch, but go when they would Lieut.

Halstead always seemed to be there.

trim, for he ate with fifteen minutes'

and when she found that Lieut, Halstead's name was not among them she

It was after 7 in the evening when

She had finished her soup when the

It was just too bad. Tears of vexation gathered in those large gray eyes.

faction of knowing she was angry;

make him uncomfortable, so with a be hurrying too, now that she tried to

She had just decided that she could

"Miss Black, may I trouble you for the

She started, but said, in a frozen

"The pepper, please," he said, smilinterval between each mouthful.

gladly consented to go.

manner through a pair of opera glasses, she could eat a comfortable meal with-him? I did not notice. I must have "No; and it was very decided."

that Lieut. Halstead seemed to have been utterly forgotten by them.

turned to speak to George."

"Now, mother!"

colish freak."

not to speak of it.

look after the baggage.

Will were old comrades.

In one short hour they are forgot; Gentle manners learneth not

To soothe the wakened baby's crie.
While to other mischief hies

With aching head this mother mild Looks to the future for her child; Still beedless yells, in accents wild, That boy.

She hears the dead, unearthly tone, And stilles something like a groan, To some lead end will surely come That boy.

Patient mother, want awhile, Summon back thy loving smile, Soon will graver care beguile

That bay. Soon the boy "with cheek of tan" Will be the brawny, bearded man, if they wouldst trust and honor then That boy.

Trust him nost, and let they care Shield his soul from every snare That walls to capture, unaware, That boy.

RHODORA.

One of the lake steamers had just some in at Sault Saint Marie and there | Miss Rhodora, which sent a rush of ave at the farther end, where stood hree gentlemen leleurely talking. They forth into a brilliant conversation, so ad been watching the boat as it came up the river and were among the first announce that the smoke of the steamer had been seen. Two of them wore the uniform of the United States irmy; the third, a tall, handsome fellow ath a tawny mustache, was dressed in suit of gray tweed and wore a dark | Halstead. He has asked not to meet such hat, which he drew down over is eyes every now and then, as if to hade them more effectually. The least reak in the dull monotomy of garrison ife was welcomed as a godsend, and he three men had come down here purely for amusement,

"Look, Halstead," said one of the officers, plucking the sleeve of the man n gray, "there's a pretty girl." The man addressed and the other officer, Capt. Greene, looked upward and saw a tall, finely formed girl standing by the steamer's railing. Her nown hair fell in soft rings over a low orehead, her mouth was large but sautifully shaped, and a row of pearly white teeth was Jisclosed by her parted ns her nose was a trifle saucy, but ter eyes-her eyes were a mystery.

'She is a stylish girl," said Capt. the eyes. "Can't give an opinion until I see the eyes, you know." said Lieut.

fistance, even if she didn't have that "I think she is a Detroit girl," said the man they called Halstead. All three laughed at this, and Lieut, Rodney said, "You think it highly improper for a she returned, tired and hungry, but soung lady to be gazing around in that sighing with satisfaction to think that beace you immediately set her down as out a pair of staring brown eyes oppoa Detroit girl-your bete noire!" "Exactly," replied Halstead slowly, The laughter evidently attracted the hall door opened. Alas! she knew this attention of the young lady, for she firm, decided step too well. George turned her glasses in that direction, smilingly pulled out the chair opposite but as her eyes fell upon the group the and Lieut, Halstead seated himself de-expression of her face instantly changed | murely. a look of disgust, and turning sbruptly she entered the cabin. Each of the men noticed it. Not one of them mentioned it. Each knew that he could not be the cause of this ingust.

"I can't see why you should have such a strong aversion to Detroit girls," mid Capt. Greene, turning to Halstead. They are supposed to be remarkably pretty and bewitching-" "Don't, I beg of you," said Hal- studied air of composure she reached sead, holding up his hands depreca- for the crackers and upset her glass of light. "Ever since we 'came in' I water. She didn't care, but it was have heard of nothing but Detreit girls, rather embarrassing. She was sure he Detroit girls-I suppose we'll get a was smiling. She ate slower than ever, stack of them in our regiment. They | and looked quite serene gazing off into always marry in the army. Detroit is space. The room was oppressively the mother-in-law of the army. You quiet. He was taking an endless time can't tell me anything about them that for his dinner, so she hurried and al-I don't know. I wouldn't care to meet | most choked herself, but he seemed to

A pair of large gray eyes with dark, get through first. curling lashes were turned in wide astonishment upon Lieut. Halstead as a not endure this a moment longer, yet tall girl in brown swept past him, ac- determined that he should not have the companied by a handsome elderly lady, satisfaction of having spoiled her dinbut none of the group noticed the young ner when she heard in sonorous tones; girl to whom they had given so much attention a few moments since, and pepper?" Halstead went on: "Perhaps there are some exceptions to the rule, but I manner "Certainly," handing him the

"Ah," laughed Lieut, Rodney, "Halstead is preparing to slip in on an ex-

this year, We'll have no end of fun.

I couldn't bear to get off the boat."

go back where they came from."

ing, at the same time half withdrawing his hand from the bottle, while she, "Nothing of the kind," said Lieut. supposing he would take it from her, Haistead, "and to prove it we'll take a let it slip from her fingers.

Wager that I won't be introduced to a "I beg your pardon," he said, but Detroit girl this season."

not before the brown liquor had deluged "Taken!" they cried, and prepared the table. to settle the amount of the wager. Meantime Mrs. Black and her daugh-

"It is of no consequence," said Miss Rhodora, quite confused, then pointing ter had arrived at the Hotel de Ville toward his elbow she said in tragic and been taken to their apartments, tones: "There's the pepper!"

where Blanche Rosenfelt burst in upon "So it is," he said, his brown eyes them and, after embracing them supersmiling at her. "It's too bad to have latively, seated herself, out of breath, troubled you." saying: "O Rhodora, I'm so delighted you came! We have been here just

It would have been natural for Rho dora to make some polite response, but she bit her lip and remained silent. two weeks, and it's distractingly lovely "I presume you had a pleasant barge To which Miss Rhodora replied; "It party?" he said, agreeably.

is nice to see you, Blanche, but I am "Quite pleasant," was the frigid annot one bit giad we came. We've been | swer. here every summer since I was born. "I was out hunting, and could not go. I only came in half an hour since," "But you'll like it immensely this He had evidently only had time to year. The hotel is quite full and the change his hunting suit and come down people at the fort are perfectly lovely; you'll be charmed with them, and ----"I won't. I fairly hate every one of purpose of annoying her; still she re-to dinner. Rhodora repented a little; possibly he had not come in late for the membered his remark about Detroit Why, they are all delightful peo- girls and ceased to relent toward him. ple," said Miss Resenfelt, with an air She had finished her dinner and risen suprise. "They only came in from from the table. Lieut. Haistead arose these norrid plains about two months also and held the dining room door open for her to pass. "May I come into the parlor with

"I don't care. They are a miserable ot. If it hadn't been for them I might you?" he asked. have had a lovely time this snumer—I There was nothing for her to do but needn't have come here-but they have just spoiled everything. I wish they'd During this conversation Mra. Black had gone to her room and Miss Rhodora | conversation. had opened the closet door and counted with interest to their conversation, for draws and opened the books, had opened the books, had opened the books. the hooks, had opened the bureau Mrs. Black had the rare faculty of small fire-temples at Bombay. drawers, and finding things satisfactoringing out the best that was in one, tory and her trunks not yet come the while Lieut. Halstead was utterly un-mer, and we had made endless plans. bugle call for "tattoo" sounded through Arkansas, when suddenly their regiment was or- the open windows. Lieut. Halstead dered to exchange places with this old thing, and all our levely times vanished. from asking him to return because she I begged mother not to come to this remembered her daughter's aversion to poky place, but father is devoted to fish- the thirty-first regiment.

ing-he never caught anything yet- Rhodora, repenting of her coolness, and it isn't too far for him to run up accompanied the lieutenant to the here from Detroit; so here we are. I door. "Thank you for a delightful even-

"No, you won't," said her friend reassuringly. "It's just bewitching out ing," he said heartfly. Rhodora considered this a reflection on the river in the moonlight, and upon her manner, but when he said here's a Lieut. Rodney at the fort that's eagerly; "Are you busy, will you be just too handsome, and-" engaged after tattoo?" she answered "O there! Excuse me, Blanche, but think that's the man with our letters to write." But she never touched trunks," and Miss Black hastened to pen to paper that night, she sat by her window in the moonlight star gazing, A little later, as Mrs. Black and her and when she fell asleep she had ro-daughter were about to enter the dining mantic dreams of a cabbage with gold to come up to them and then said: a sick mouse covered with mustard "Rhodora, let me introduce you to poultices dipped in catsup. The next morning, as Miss Rhodora came down the hotel steps attired for her usual morning walk, she nearly ran shoulder straps dancing attendance to trying to call up a smile for the sake of her Uncle Will. They found themselves "Good morning." "Good morning," he said; "I was coming up to ask if you would not go out for a walk with me, it is such a beautiful day."

I'oor Rhodoral something always seemed to interfere with her dignity first lieutenant. Rhodora had seen him and make it impossible for her to effectually snub this fascinating man, for she confessed to herself that he was fascinating, and his air just now was a little determined, as though he had a perfect right to say she should walk with him. This manner in any one else would have annoyed her, but she was bustle and confusion on the wharf, blood to her neck and cheeks; it also was proud of the interest that this broke her silence, and she launcued usually indifferent man manifested in her, and it was more than ever pleasing when sue remembered that as first he had not desired an introduction. She became generous enough to think he and some good reason for not wishing to meet a Detroit girl; yet what could it be? But she had heard that recently be had promised willingly to pay the wager if one of the officers would introduce him, but they, enjoying the joke, had each declined, and when he thought of asking one of his friends at the hotel he had chanced to hear Miss

B ack's remark to Mrs. Mason. Rhodora meant, now that she knew him, to be frigid in her manner. She wished to be severe and punish him if she could. At present he had taken her unawares, and she allowed him to accompany her, but they did not take mother of the remark she had heard as the walk along the locks that she had the passed the group of officers on the intended; he led her to the shade of the wharf that morning, but she decided woods, and they came back laden with mosses and wild flowers. People are Rhodora often detained her mother apt to drop drawing room conventiorthat they might be late to dinner or alities in the freedom of open air intercourse, and before they returned the lieutenant had told her that his aver-He ate slowly, and Rhodora declared | sion to Detroit girls was an altogether that he took everything in courses from sympathetic affair, caused by his parreene, "but so much depends upon olives to cheese, and that his digestive | ticular friend having been jilted by one apparatus was certainly in excellent of these fair girls, and he had then and there declared he knew them to be heartless. He admitted that it was an When she was invited to join a large party the next day she adroitly had the nostess run over the list of her guests. He admitted that it was an unpardonably hasty and possibly unjust conclusion. He told her when he had first seen her on the steamer deck that it was an unpardonably hasty and possibly unjust conclusion. He told her when he had first seen her on the steamer deck that it was an unpardonably hasty and possibly unjust conclusion. He told her when he had first seen her on the steamer deck that it was an unpardonably hasty and possibly unjust conclusion. He told her when he had first seen her on the steamer deck that it was an unpardonably hasty and possibly unjust conclusion. He told her when he had first seen her on the steamer deck that it was an unpardonably hasty and possibly unjust conclusion. He told her when he had first seen her on the steamer deck that it was an unpardonably hasty and possibly unjust conclusion. He told her when he had first seen her on the steamer deck that it was an unpardonably hasty and possibly un with her opera glass up, and she explained that being nearsighted and not | wall, and led my tired-out animal in. I serpe t which supported the world. wearing glasses she always carried an | began to prospect. First I discovered "Nov"," they said, opera glass when traveling. "If you had noticed," she said, "you would had noticed," she said, "you would have seen my glasses were turned wrong "This will not do," I thought. After fix the head of the great serpent, he have seen my glasses were turned wrong side to that time. I wanted the Sault to look as small and far away as possible," and then she explained why she did not wish to visit the Sault this year. He regretted her disappointment, but could not say he was sorry the regiment > changed places. When the dinner hour came Rhodora insisted upon her mother proceeding immediately to the table. It was ridiculously unromantic, but after this the lieutenant and Rhodora were always on time to their meals.

He came on purpose to annoy her. He was the rudest man she had ever seen. Several weeks had passed when one bright afternoon Miss Black received a Her first impulse was to leave the table, but she would not give him the satisbunch of passionate purple rhodoras, and in their midst there lay this little besides, she was hungry. She would eat very slowly. She did not care how note:

miserable she felt if only she could "Will you wear these for my sake? found them in the woods. Perhaps you know this little poem," and below he had written these few lines from Emerson's "Rhodora":

Rhodoral if the sages ask thee why This charm is wasted on the earth and sky, Tell them, dear, that if eyes were made for seeing, Then beauty is its own excuse for be

Why thou wert there, O rival of the rose! I never thought to ask, I never knew; But, in my simple ignorance, suppose The self same power that brought me there brought you.

He had underscored two words-me and you. She reread the lines, and then, strange woman, she passionately kissed the flowers but tore the note into little shreds and threw it away.

At the dinner table that night she wore a bunch of purple rhodoras in her white gown, but Lieut. Halstead could not get a glimpse of those wonder u gray eyes, the eyes that lightened that smiled, that grew sad, that were un-fathomable, that to-night were continually veiled by the dark curling lashes.

It was unusually warm in Detroit this summer, and Mr. B'ack was anxious to speedily arrange his business affairs that he might join his wife and daughter soon after their arrival at the Sault, but it was quite nine weeks before he was able to do so.

They came down to the boat to mee him, and he was mystified by the anxious manner of the one and the serious air of the other.

The morning after Mr. Black's arrival Lieut. Halstead might be seen impatiently pacing to and fro in the coay room that served as the Black's sitting room. The door was gently opened and Miss Rhodora came in fresh and smiling, her eyes twinkling with suppressed laughter.

"At last," exclaimed the lieutenant, his tace radiant, as he held out both hands to meet her.

Miss Rhodora Black was one of the prettiest brides Detroit ever saw. She wore a soft tulle gown and carried a bunch of purple rhodoras.

The Parsees' Sacred Fire.

Lighting the Parsees' sacred fire is to acquiesce. Now that he was her an expensive and elaborate process on least air of cordiality, but she tried to different kinds of wood in 1,001 pieces make her mother bear the burden of the of fuel are required to obtain the sacred onversation.

Mrs. Black liked Lieut, Halstead, sandal wood, and the cost of the process

-"Arc" is the French name for bow, and explained: "You see, I was to have yis ted Bessie at Fort Porter this summer, and we had made endless plans to the summer and we had made endless plans to the summer and we had made endless plans to the summer and we had made endless plans to the summer and TRAVEL IN BOLIVIA.

An Adventurous Ride Through a Thinly-Populated Country.

After a busy day I started down hill for Macha, bound for Oruro, I reached there shortly after noon. Here even my government order did not harry me They had mules, but no postillion; they were all out. At last I bethought myself of the corregidor of the village. I found him, but he told me that the Indians were all off in the valley farming. I invited him to take something with me. Then I began talking about my business and against Chik, and showed him my papers. That woke him up. He sent out a couple youngsters for one of the alcades at Quichoa. Half an hour later I was on my way rejoicing. I wanted to reach Aconcahua the same evening. All went well until I came to a place where two trails separated. My servant, with the baggage, was far behind, and I was alone. I took out my map, but only one road was marked down. Looking at the sun I went on. At 6.30 o'clock I reached a large village. I congratulated myself on my fast riding. Entering the main street I asked for the posthouse, but was told that there was none. Then it occurred to me to ask the name of the place. They gave me some outlandish name. "Then this is not Aconcahua?" I asked. "Oh, no, sir: that piace is thirteen leagues from here." After some diligent inquiry-for it took much trouble to find any one speaking Span-ish-I was told of a short cut, an Indian trail, which reduced the distance to eight leagues. Something had to be done. Here I was, in an Indian village, alone; my baggage with an Indian another part of the country, taking I did not know, at the place I was Using a little boy as interpreter I at last bired an Indian to act as guide.

We started out at sunset, he afeet An Interesting Tale Told by the Brahand leading. I pushed on as fast as my tired mule would go. Such a road I had never dreamed of. Down we would go into some canyon dark as We kept on until near midnight, when off. At the same time I pulled out my sorry for the poor fellow, and thought

"ready" under my poncho. As the exactly under the tower since the at-two Indians came nearer I recognized tempt of the King : transfix it a second a woman and a girl, who, as I soon learned, had got out of bed to show me the way. My revolver went back into the holster, and I looked around to see nearer. It turned, reared, and kicked, waist-cloth, will stand upon the curbto hold on, but the mule pulled back She went one way, I fell into the stream, and the saddle flew in another first fifty feet or so he extends his arms. Teach your boys to love neatness for direction. The ungrateful beast gal-

I was glad afterward I had put my revolver away, for I would have taken a shot at that mule.

Early the next morning I had fresh swims to the wall, climbs up the side to over a chair, combs, brushes, soap and swims to the wall, climbs up the side to over a chair, combs, brushes, soap and as it continues to expand they will animals prepared, had a man to lift me a square hole which leads to a reservoir, and to the saddle, and made that day and is at the top again in a moment, to and each discarded article of apparel grow worse, and when it has bloomed tifty-one infles to Peizna. I reached claim his half rupee. there tired, but my foot was much better. I had now reached the celebrated a naked imp of nine or ten. You shudpampa, which extends from here to near | der because the little fellow appears to La Paz. I had imagined this to be a have jumped too far, and to be in dansoon found my mistake. I started early in the morning. A light mist lay yard, arranges his feet and hands just doubly disgusting when indulged in a over the plain. On the left there appeared a large lake. At first I took in the water. You wait a long time this to be Lake Poopo, but it was only one minute, two minutes—but the little a mirage. At first I saw hillocks ap- round, bare pate does not appear. Will parently hanging in the air. The next they make no effort to save him? Is learns to be in his mother's house, he grim specter will claim some member of point reached was Poopo. A silver the boy drowned? Not a bit of k! In mine is worked there, giving good re- another moment, the grinning imp, turns. They have also reduction-works dripping with water, is by your side. driven by water power. The mine is It turns out there is in the well another driven by water power. The mine is a short distance east of the road, in a chain of hills running due north and der the water, and to this the boy has south. The croppings can be plainly dived, and thus come out; the slience traced a long distance. From this point north we meet another tribe of being only another trick to excite sym-Indians, the Aymaras. They are distinct from the Quichoas, and I consider them inferior to them, morose, and said to be treacherous. In former times each other almost, through the openings, the Quichoas, or, as they were then —up again, and down again—as long called, Incas, governed Peru, middle as there is a chance of extracting any and south Bolivia, and the north of the coin from the strangers. Argentine. One after another different tribes submitted to the Incas, some of think the water at all spoiled for drinktheir own account, others by conquest. purposes by being thus turned into a Long wars were carried on against the Aymaras, who for a long time proved a the Quichoas. Both tribes, however, are entirely controlled and kept made:

by the whites. North of Poopoo what little vegetation existed disappeared. As far as the eye could reach all was saud and rocks. In many places the wind had formed heavily a day or two before, hardening informed, anyone could tell that he was among a different class of Indians. The brown paper, thread, and all the fixings Delaware peninsula. Superstition is meeting strangers lift their hat and sa-lute you. The Aymaras pass you with-of tea, and jars and bottles innumer-fact that in many families where wealth out notice, looking at you sideways, able. In front of the counter on the and intelligence predominate and impliance if they were either afraid of being floor is a large wooden egg-case, capable cit belief is placed in signs and tokens attacked or preparing to attack you. of holding forty-nine dozens when full, and what they portend. They are sin-Their women are badly treated. They carry the loads, while the men carry North American tribes. I can only ex-North American tribes. I can only explain the great difference by the change of climate, which, although in a lower latitude is much colder owing to the latitude, is much colder, owing to the when properly treated. You have to in search of fresh eggs. deal with them justly, but with severllamas and freighting. They are usually in debt. A leading firm of Bolivia employs hundreds of the n and "How much are they a de has never made a loss with them. As they can not read or write, all contracts continued the proprietor, with a smile. their investments. The Indians once the counter and said: in their debt ran off and moved to their mortgaged flocks with them. THE WORLD'S CENTER. mins of the City of Delhi.

About seven hundred miles portheast of Bombay, and about the same distance night, across a stream, then up again. northwest of Calcutta, stands the ancient and very important city of Delhi we reached a place of more level but the former metropolis of the Great Mobroken ground. My guide, whom I gui. Its walls, gates, palaces, tombs ever kept in front, stopped. I told him and other great works, are wonderful to go ahead. Three or four times he for size and for beauty of architecture, stopped. Each time I urged him on and would require a large book taor-I confess I felt uneasy, but there was oughly to describe them, while the his-only one thing to do—to go ahead. At tory of the great city, which once conlast we saw an Indian but with out- tained two millions of inhabitants would houses. My Indian started for it, and I concluded he wanted to stop here. from Delhi stands an enormous tall and urging my mule on headed him tower, but by whom that tower was rate. built, and for what purpose, no one can revolver and ordered him forward. He tell. The Brahmins say, however, that raised both hands, saying in the most it marks the center of the world, and piteous manner: "No, no." I felt the story they tell about it is this: Once upon a time a certain King of to myself: "go if you want to." He Delhi, being anxious to reign long and slipped by and disappeared. I turned to leave his throne to his family, and my mule, expecting to pick my way being disturbed by doubts about it, alone. I went some five hundred yards, called a council of plous Brahmins, who had just left, found an opening in the now stands, was the head of the great hunting around I saw a bundle of hay. may be sure that he would reign long, I took off the mule's bridle, and, re- and his children after him." The King moving my poncho, prepared to spend | made the great fron and the tower, and the night on the ground. Of a sudden drove down into the earth and trans-I heard a shout. Looking in the di- fixed the serpent's head-or at least the rection whence the sound came, I saw Brahmins told him that he had; but it was my Indian. Forgetting that doubting the word of these holy men he could not understand me I shouted and wishing to see for himself that such back: "All right, old man; come here." was the case, he had the iron pillar He did not move, but kept yelling and pulled up again. Lo, and behold, it po nting to the west. I fixed my mule was covered with blood; showing that up on the double-quick, mounted, dug the holy men had been right; but, unthe spurs into her, and rode up to him. fortunately, when he wanted to drive it He started off and I followed behind down again, the animal very sensibly got out of the way, and very shortly Suddenly I saw two figures ap-proach me from behind. "An am-mies and lest not only his throne but his bush," I thought. I quickly made a head. This signal confirmation of the half-circle with my mule, so as to Brahmin's story cause the natives to bring the three Indians-for such they believe that the head of the great serwere-in front of me. At the same pent is still there, supporting the world, time I brought my revolver to a although, as they say, it may not be if they had noticed it. As a token of deep, and generally contains about forty repentance on my part I gave them feet of water. In addition to its use each a chirola. At 1 A. M. we reached for drinking purposes, the natives make Aconcahua, tired but happy. I gave another use of this huge well whenever my Indian an extra dollar, so all ended there are visitors attracted by the fame well. I then made myself a cup of of the tower which is the center of the tea and went to sleep. I made a lazy world. To jump from the top into the morning of it, getting off at 9 o'clock. darkness of the pool, eighty feet below, From here to Livichuea was mostly would be like leaping from a six-story place I came to a stream. My mule death. Yet the Hindoos of the village wanted water. I got down and took close by will make the jump for a very off the bridle. After drinking I few pence. A dozen men and boys, bathing-pool.

Next, perhaps, jumps his grandson,

A GROCER'S PATENT EGGS. How a Boston Man Supplies Thirsty Neighborhoods with Refreshments. There is a little back office on Conhills of shifting sand. Luckily it rained gress street, near Franklin that looks forecasting of events by and significavery much like a small grocery store, tion-of signs and omens is not, and is the ground somewhat. Without being kept by a neat old maid. On the couninformed, anyone could tell that he was ter is a pair of scales, a show-case, the negro race of the Maryland and the last year. Quichoas, without exception, when of a country store. On the shelves prevalent to a considerable degree while near by is a small pasteboard cere in this belief, and will cite numerbox, partitioned off into twelve comthe dignity. They are more like the partments, in every one of which hes a upon the door, the startling of would at once suspect them of being to give apparent strength to it.

"There are some there," said the

"How much are they a dozen?"

tasting egg, he found his tongue as posterous and ignorant, and it was com was no egg at all, but just a glass shell members of the company. But the filled with wine and stopped up. A re- hostess was invulnerable to their attacks liable hen or a twenty horse-power in- and humorous puns, and good-naturedcubator might sit on one of these eggs ly rebutted them by several incidents for all eternity and not get a chicken. Which occurred which were in fresh stuff is forbidden. The eggs hold two- standing before a looking-glass. The thirds of a gill, or two-thirds of a com- evening wore on, and when the compamon whisky glass; so, you see, one will ny was about to disperse the hostess who isn't a hog. "The eggs are made of common plug the hole with wood and cover it hostess threw up her hands, and, with three kinds of liquor-whisky, sherry, and claret; but I am going to make for $1 a dozen, and they retail for 15 firm, determined voice: cents each, though I shall have to ask "We are friends no in a little more for those that have brandy. ago, and have applied for a patent on which I think I shall get. "How many have you sold?"

"Oh, I haven't pushed them much on count of not getting glass eggs fast in Maine, and have about as many intelligence of the death of the only more ready to ship. As for Rhode Island, I haven't tried that market any to speak of. I find my eggs sell ver well right here. People want them as begro is debarred the privilege of entercuriosities. If a man is on a train he ling a white person's house, as their can just reach into his gripsack, take | presence is regarded as an omen of bad ent an egg in his handkerchief, put in it his straw, and pull away without attracting notice. Drummers and others crosses the threshold of a white man's who have used my eggs say it is much doesn't draw any attention.

push my business for all that it is uot sold them as eggs to any one. A send them as he directs his address, and went whizzing over his head, the heave that is all there is to it. So long as I knocking off his hat. have got a license to sell liquors at There is to-day living in Lower Delawholesale I don't see what they are ware an old gentleman, once conspica going to do about it. If an officer in ous in public life, who constantly keeps Maine or Rhode Island finds they are his gun charged with the old-fashioned not eggs, but liquor, he can seize the property just the same as if it were in barrels or bottles. But that doesn't power of negro conjurers when fired at years old; his sister, Mrs. Tethrow, is trouble me any. I sell my liquor in them. There are several more who 100 years, and Mrs. Weaver, another trouble me any. I sell my hquor in Boston, where I have a license. If they can find anything wrong about it I ave vet to learn where it is."

Order and Neatness.

Mothers, if you have any com-miseration for the future mothers of your blessed grand-children, if you down-hill. Some two miles from that house, and would appear to be certain would have those unborn darlings grow up in an atmosphere of purity and domestic tranquility, take your boys in hand at once and train them to such pulled on the rein to bring the brute with nothing on but the very smallest habits of neatness and order, that those habits will become as second nature to men and women of brilliant minds and out of a voting population of 13,792,897 them, as they do to your girls. In your of high social distinction in its grasp is only 10,038,319 voted, while 3,754,478, habits will become as second nature to catching me on the left heel. I tried stone, ready to jump.

to hold on, but the mule pulled back An old gray-headed fellow will ballaws of order, make no distinction on a psychological question we cannot and legs widely, then he brings his feet | neatness' sake; teach them that it is not pool. You think he is gone! But no they must not leave the wash basin in in an instant his gray head appears, he | the middle of the room, the towel flung occupping as many different places, into the perfect flower they will die, Teach them the use of a door mat; and, if they must indulge the manly vices this ostracised plant is that so long as hunted up the owner, who proved to be of chewing and smoking, insist that any one earries a leaf about with them they shall practice these vices with all adversity will be at their heels.

the delicacy that the nature of the case | There are countless numbers of signs doubly disgusting when indulged in a disappointment, etc., that makes a cu-coarse and offensive manner. rious and interesting category. The coarse and offensive manner. wife. Of coarse some of the above applies

The "Devil's Leaf" of Java.

At Timor, near the island of Java,

there is a plant called the devil's leaf.

whose petals, being of a thorny nature, plant and barely escaped death, and who had a great raw sore-like that some- them. times made by the stingray of southern Pacific waters—on his left arm. He al-luded to it facetiously as his strawberry

PENINSULA SUPERSTITION. Prevalent in Lower Delaware and in Parts of Maryland.

A Washington D. C., dispatch says: "A belief in the supernatural and in the high latitude, and in the barren soil, nest eggs, such as unskilled pullets use Among the white laboring classes which makes the gaining of a livelihood more difficult. Still, I was informed Such at least, was the impression of a wonderful power. Any strange phethat the Aymaras can not be trusted artist, who entered the place last week nomena in the heavens, any abnormal condition of the weather or any unusual commotion on land or on sea, each have ity. Many of them engage in raising proprietor, pointing to the box, "that their own special significance, and while are as fresh as any in the city. Pil they all exercise an undue influence upon the minds of these people, each one formulates his or her own opinion "One dollar. Don't be in a hurry," and draw his or her own personal conclusions as to the probable sequence of are made verbally. Often when a man "Just take one of these and try it, and these signs. A lady, venerable in years, is on his death bed he calls his children if you say you ever saw such eggs be- prominent in society, living in affluence together. The eldest son takes the fore I'll buy you a dozen at any mar- and residing in a Maryland town, once father's place, as the debt owned by the father becomes a family hen. Some an egg, loosened the wax that adjusted houses attempted to overreach the Interval of the small end, drew out a wooden to the small end, dians, and the result was that they lost plug, inserted a straw, pushed it over this belief. The subject of superstition was under discussion and a large circle

"Now she's all ready. Suck away," of friends were present. This lady The artist compiled, and instead of friend was ridiculing such belief as prefirst-class sherry. The egg mented upon adversely by several other "It is one of my ideas," remarked recollection by all present and incidentthe grocer. "I got it up to sell in ally mentioned her horror of a person Maine and other places where such looking over her shoulder while she was furnish a good square drink to any man | arose to arrange her hair before a small toilet looking-glass. Her friend came up behind her suddenly and peered over glass. At first I put on cemented cloth, but that leaked, and I had to ensued. With blanched features, the with white wax. That works first- a wild shrick, fell swooning to the floor. The proper restoratives were resorted "As yet I have filled them with but to, and when she recovered consciousness she arose to her feet, nervous and

"We are friends no more. Go!" Expostulation was utterly useless; signed the Magna Charta, only three with a wounded heart and her face der made their mark. ago. They have never exchanged words are used for fertilizing purposes, and since. By a strange coincidence of cirenough. I have sold 200 or 300 dozens cumstances a month or so afterward brother of the hostess, who was in India, was received.

On the fir t day of the new year the luck throughout the entire year. Woe be to any person with a black skin who house on the first day of the new year. better than to drink out of a bottle. It A negro man came near paying the doesn't draw any attention. "When the glass factory with which spect with his life. He started in the I have a contract starts up again I shall gate of a house and was advancing toward the door, when he was confronted worth. It is not illegal. The fact that by the resolute and angry occupant, I sell them for $1 a dozen is enough to who stood ready to receive him with a show they are not eggs. So far I have wood-ax. The frightened negro suddenly collected his senses, and rememman orders so many dozens of me and bering the day, turned to flee. As he tells me to ship them in egg cases. I did so the ax was hurled after him and > three-cent pieces, who has an ex licit | -The Pionk family in Lincolnton. belief in their virtue to destroy the N. C., is long-lived. Joseph is now 98 keep their revolvers loaded with the sister, is 102 years of age. same metal for the same purpose. Why > the annihilating qualities of silver are > more superior to lead or gold, they are > being discovered and opened in 1669. foundly sincere in their belief that a one-seventh of all known coal in North volley of the jingling metal fired at, not | America. into, the body of a confurer, will dissolve his mysterious power, and prevent him from committing barm.

Superstition in the negro is proverbial. from which springs his absurd ideas is ignorance. But why it should hold answer.

In some parts of Maryland the people will not have the house leek, a small loped off toward the station. I picked up my saddle and straggled in, my foot swelling already and paining me much.

close together, puts his hands close to beneath their manly dignity to know green plant bearing a pink flower, upon beneath their manly dignity to know green plant bearing a pink flower, upon the place for each article, and put it their premises. This plant blooms, accurately and paining me much. his head disappears in the inky-looking that when making a change of toilet, seven years, and should one of them be in or near the house at the time of blooming, when the tiny bud begins to Teach your boys all this, and future howling of a dog is a sure sign of death. daughter-in-laws will rise and call you and when throwing your shoes on the blessed; for it is likely that what a man floor, should they turn upside down the will continue to be in the house of his the family ere the year has passed. The dropping of the dish-rag foretells the coming of a stranger; to meet a funeral out of the house and, forgetting some simple article, have to return for it presages disappointment, and you must sit the electric light contains rays which down and cross your legs if you would are hurtful to vegetation, but these; he dissolve the spell and be successful in says, can be held back by transparent your errand. These and many other glass. The light itself, he finds, conequally absurd notions are prevalent tains arough of the rays useful to vegeamong the people of the lower peninsula. possess a fatal sting when penetrating among the people of the lower peninsula, tation to maintain the life of plants for two months and a half, but the quantity of favorable rays is too small to intelligence will never be able to destroy bring crops to a condition of maturity.

-A woman of Jefferson county, on a gentleman's toes. As soon as he course, who confesses to a murder, has Georgia, who confesses to a murder, has disturbing element. The conquest by the Spaniards ended these wars. To this day the Aymaras form a separate nation and do not associate much with —The name of Colorado is derived from the Spanish, and denoted a pose as the long lost brother a term impossible to convict her. It is believed often thrown at us with other "chest-nation and do not associate much with istic of the Colorado valley."

NEWS IN BRIEF.

-Gothamites are said to consume six million barrels of beer every year. -The heads of 17 Apaches are preserved in a museum in an Ariz

-One Australian farmer has shot,

-The people of Greenfield, Ind., have made up a purse of $1,800 with which to drill for gas. -Women are now employed as ticket gents at the stations on the Staten Island railroad.

—A farmer at Batavia, N. Y., is said to have devoured thirteen dozen of clams during one day.

-Ex-President Arthur was a member of the Thirteen Club of New York, and was the first to die.

-The largest library in the world is the Imperial at Paris, which contains over 2,000,000 volumes -In the library at the British Museum there are over thirty-two miles of shelves filled with books. -A party of southern capitalists are talking of establishing a beef-canning factory at New Orleans, La.

-Brick Pomeroy writes from London that English capitalists are spoiling to tunnel the Rocky mountains. -At Somerville, Mass., a woman has contributed $20,000 dollars for establishing a home for aged women. -Rhode Island owes its name to Isle of Rhodes (Roses) in the Mediterranean - The number of daily newspapers in the United States is over 1300, with an aggregate circulation of 4,800,000. -Sig. Camimi, a Venetian, is credited with the ability to speak and write ninety six languages and dialects. -- H. Peter Jenkins, of Buffalo, recently made ten wills. After his death all of them were offered for probate.

-Louisville's colored fair is said to be a great success, being visited by the white people as much as the Ethiopians, -One of Cincinnati's chief industries the manufacturing of lead, fifteen million pounds of which are made every year. -All the curiosities in the Chateau of Langeais, in Touraine, France, have been sold- A single statuette brought $3200.

-Harvard College has 1,077 students this winter, against 1,068 last year, while the university has 1,688 students. against 1 662 -A new coloring in nature is the timorous. Pointing her finger at her "toboggan complexion," consisting of some brandy eggs soon. I sell my eggs heretofore bosom friend, she said, in a deep red on the cheeks and carmine on the ears and nose. -Out of the twenty-six Barons who

I studied up the idea about a month she would listen to no explanation, and could write their names. The remain--The 50,000 tons of soot which are parture. This occurred twenty years taken out of London chimneys each year > are valued at $200,000. -The river from which Connections is a med was known to the Indians as > Quinn nticut," which interpeted means "at the long river." -A Bartlett, (N. H.) man crawled under his house to make repairs, but got wedged in so that the neighbors had to cut a hole in the foor to release him. -The number of divorces per 1,000 marriages, is 4 in London, 10 in Berlin, 15 in Munich 23 in Vienna 25 in Paris 73 in Boston, and 223 in San Francisco. -A visit to the sewers of Paris, was

In that city. Five hundred persons availed themselves of the singular pro--Two women in Connecticut-Lucy Luther, at Hadlyme, and Elizabeth Buck, at Wethersfield—celebrated their 103 birthday anniversaries within a few

a feature of a press festival recently held

-Isaac Murphy, the colored American jockey, is the nearest approach we have to Fred Archer, his annual earnmgs being placed at from $10,000 to unable to explain. Yet they are pro- It is estimated that the state contains -The word "California" first occurred in a novel entitled "Las Sergas de Esplandian," published in 1510, and the name was first given to this coun-We can easily understand that the root try by Bernal Diaz Costello, who served -At the Presidential election of 1884. or 27 per cent., did not vote. The greatest percentage of non-voters was 62 per cent. in Rhode Island and South Carolina; the smallest, 7 per cent., in tudiana. -Of ninety-two red-wood trees in Calaveras Grove, California, ten are over thirty feet in diameter, and eightytwo have a diameter of from fifteen to thirty feet. Their ages are estimated from 1,000 to 3 500 years. Their height ranges from 150 to 237 feet, found a pocketbook containing $250 and an aged granger and his wife, was met with this remark from the old lady: "It was a good thing some one seen you and omens of ill-luck, sickness, death, pick it up or we never would have got

> A scater-proof paint for stone etc., is prepared by fusing equal parts of aluminum palmitate and colophony, or mixing aluminum palmitate with and dissolving in soda and water. A solution resembling soap is formed, which can be used with advantage for well-painting and the like. After the paint is dry it is washed with a weak solution of aluminum to render it in-

> Dr. P. P. Deberain maintains that tation to maintain the life of plants for "A FAT woman entered a crewded street car and, seizing the strap, stood > offered her his seat." "You are very kind, sir," she said,

> "Not at all, madam," he replied;
> "it's not kindness, it's self defense."

had divested herself of a large halo hat