

A NUMBER OF BOON UNION MEN were employed on the coal works and about the ware houses of Port Richmond. "Knights of labor," in the service of the Reading Railroad Company, objected to the employment of the boon union men, and a few days ago refused to work unless the men who did not belong to the knights were discharged. The company refused to discharge the boon union men and told the knights to proceed with their work or their places would be supplied with other men. By the morning of the 27th of December the strike was at an end. It is the credit of a large percentage of the membership of the knights that they did not approve of the unwise order of a strike on a part of the officers of their secret order.

It is the standing objection to kings of government, and to certain religious creeds, that they will give no employment to people who are not of their kind. But how could such a government or system of business or religion be put into practice in the Republic and preserve even the shadow of free government? If the principle laid down by the knights in the Port Richmond strike were followed to a conclusion, a system of government as despotic as that of Russia, would be developed within the period of a generation, from which the knights would be the first people to earnestly pray for deliverance. Freedom of government, and freedom of labor and business can only be preserved by making it secure for all.

Another Outbreak.
A reputable citizen of the county writes us that not many days ago in this county, but his horses in the mill shed and gave them half a bushel of oats in the feed boxes. He then went to get a bag when he heard his horses peeping as though wanting something to eat. He went to their heads, and what was his astonishment to find their oats all gone. He then began to investigate and found that the boxes had a false bottom. As soon as the horses got the bottom of the box down so that the oats would run through into another box, the bottom of which was filled with auger holes. From this box the oats would run down into a long trough where they were accessible to the miller. Often last winter the poor horses that were hauling logs were supposed to be fed in this shed, and the thief who robbed the noble animals of their food ought to be punished.—Smithport, (Pa.) Miner.

A Monkey's Work.
A despatch from Ashland, Wis., says: A mischievous monkey bore the little town of Wakefield to the ground last night. He was given the freedom of the Vaudeville Theatre by the proprietor, Mike O'Brien, and at about midnight he had a circus with a kerosene lamp, the oil of which he put on his hair and then kindled it. He fired and scattered the flames about the room. His antics in the big windows of the building were watched by a crowd.

A few moments later the entire building was wrapped in flames, and within a few minutes the whole portion of the town was burned. There were no facilities for extinguishing the flames, and the buildings, which were all of wood, fell an easy prey. There was a big crowd of hoodlums present, and they pillaged the stores as fast as the doors could be opened. Believers were furnished by the drunk crowd, which was fed by liquor taken from the saloons. It was a terrible night, and the helpless store keepers were compelled to stand by and see their establishments looted by the thieves.

After the fire had destroyed everything in one block, O'Brien, the theater man, and Tom Lewis, alias Dalton, who keeps a dance house opposite, quarreled. Dalton cursed O'Brien for allowing the monkey to run loose in his place. O'Brien became greatly enraged and shot Lewis twice, dotting blood passing through his hips. He will die. There were several other victims of the kind. There is not a dollar's worth of insurance on any of the property. The loss is variously estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

A Model Newspaper.
In another column we print the advertisement of that sterling and reliable paper, the New York Mail and Express, and we wish to commend it to our readers as the best business and national newspaper, most carefully edited, and adapted to the wants and tastes of intelligent people throughout the entire country—North, South, East and West. It is a thoroughly clean paper, free from the corrupting, sensational and demoralizing trash, miscellany which defiles the pages of too many city papers.

Christmas Entertainment at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, near Johnston, Juniata Co., Pa.
The first Christmas entertainment ever held by the St. Paul congregation was held in that church Friday evening, Dec. 23, 1887. AAT block P. M. the church was filled with the singing of the choir, having been prepared for the occasion.

has been exaggerated. Most of the persons are now reported to be comfortably housed in "dug-outs." The pioneers in the timber districts are in no danger of freezing. The few deaths by freezing, were persons caught by blizzards while traveling over prairie land.

DANIEL MARION, President Cleveland's first Secretary of the Treasury died at Albany on the 24th day of December. He was the leader who kept forwarding the interests of Cleveland from one place of prominence to another, till the Presidency was reached. Cleveland to reward the man to whom he was the most indebted, offered Manning the Secretaryship of the Treasury, which he accepted, which was the mistake of his life; he broke down in health in the effort to manage the details of the office.

A HORRIBLE DRAMATIC COMES FROM "No Man's Land," in Kansas, where it is said a family named Kelly lived and kept a sort of a tavern. They had a trap door in the floor of the dining room and when a lonely traveler came that way, he was seated on a chair on the trap door at a table, and while in the act of partaking of a meal, was dropped to the cellar, and there killed and robbed, and his body buried. It was not known that Kelly kept such a place till he moved to California last Summer. A number of bodies of murdered men have been found on the premises.

A Restful and Quiet City by the Sea.
The hours of the sun dawning upon the smooth sand, the sighting of the wind as it eddies through tentless booths and pavilions, and the quick step of the pedestrian along an almost deserted plank walk—these are the sounds that distinguish the Atlantic City of December from the great playground of July. The shrill music of merry-go-rounds, the loud calls of hurrying waiters as they rush to and fro bearing coffee and beer, the appeals of dealers in sea shells, the cries of children at play, and the surge of crowds—these are the sounds that are now remembered as but an echo of the past season, and they are thought of only as what will be heard in the dog days of 1888.

Those who have visited Atlantic City only in the Summer have seen but half its beauties. They have seen a swarm of people on the beach and in the streets, the hotel parlors, billiard rooms and corridors crowded with coats, a stir and a bustle everywhere, and several thousand men and women bathing and sunning taking all day, and hugging the delusion that they are getting sea-side enjoyment. All this is changed in December. There are few on the beach, and abundant room in the hotels for all who may come, and those who are able to take a few days from business and drink in the salt air of Atlantic City derive more benefit from a brief stay in the winter than from a fortnight's sojourn in the hot days of summer.

To call Atlantic City a summer resort does not cover the ground. Many of the hotels, and all of the best ones, are open the year around. This fashion was set about ten years ago by the proprietor of the Hotel Brighton, and has been kept by him ever since. The Brighton has proved a perfect success, and to many people the charms of Atlantic City in the winter are more attractive than the amusements of sea bathing and music in the summer.

Nearly everybody spends the day on or near the board-walk. A tramp on the board-walk is a sight to shun, and the walk is kept as clean as the snow by the city authorities. Some who do not care to walk or ride sit in the glass-enclosed sun parlors and look at the ships sailing far out on the sea, or occupy their time in the less poetic amusements of watching men dig clams on the beach. It is wonderful how the clam diggers manage to get the clam every day, and to many people the charms of Atlantic City in the winter are more attractive than the amusements of sea bathing and music in the summer.

Occasionally there is a storm, and the crescendo of a winter's storm at sea something that cannot be conceived of by those who have only seen a summer's gale. The great breakers come rolling in, their crests tipped with a line of snow-white foam, and they spray the rocks to every-day, throwing volumes of water high in the air. Then the waves slowly recede to meet another torrent of water rushing in, and again the white spray is tossed on high. The board-walk shivers under repeated blows at its supports, and tornate is it several times are not carried away.

There is a certain business peculiar to the city of Atlantic City, due in the opinion of scientists, to the proximity of the gulf stream, which diverges slightly to the eastward after passing Cape May. The influence of this warm current is distinctly felt in the shore to the full of the coast exposes a winter climate moderate, the air is bright, without being sharp, and the winds are fresh pleasant, not penetrating. Physicians claim that the atmosphere is a specific in certain cases of throat and lung trouble, and no doubt many people suffering from these complaints have been greatly benefited by a sojourn here. However, Atlantic City is not an infirmary by any means, and the large majority of winter visitors are those who desire a rest and want to enjoy it at a place where they will be free from annoyance and care, while not being so far away as to be unable to reach home quickly in case of emergency.

The hotel accommodations are excellent. At the Brighton, which is regarded as one of the best appointed houses on the coast, there is every convenience for making it pleasant, known to the guild of hotel keepers. The proprietor was the pioneer in the winter business, and he has led from the front. The house is comfortable, the service is of the highest order, well trained, and the cuisine of the best. There are other hotels open, some of them very good, none of them poor, but the Brighton is generally considered about the best.

The Improved Model of Stringing Piano, invented by Mason & Hamlin in 1858, is a great advance in the construction of pianos in half a century. It has been found, that pianos constructed from the improved model are more durable, and sound better, and are more attractive in appearance than any other piano. The improved model is now in use in all the finest pianos, and is the only one that is so constructed.

COMBINATION
AND THE WEEKLY PRESS.

One dollar and fifty cents in advance will secure you the SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN and THE WEEKLY PRESS for the period of one year.

The SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN gives nearly twice as much reading as any one of the other papers in Juniata. Its reports of all important home news and enterprises is full and within the period of a year its variety of reading matter comprehends within its scope almost every topic. Consider that in addition to this, the best local and literary paper published in Juniata county, you can have the Philadelphia WEEKLY PRESS, one of the best papers published in America, you have an offer that comes seldom to a man and his family.

After children have learned to read, the greatest educator is the newspaper. Every man should do justice to his family by subscribing for a public journal.

Subscribers who are in arrearages and paying one dollar and fifty cents in advance, thereby securing the two papers. When you have subscribed for the SENTINEL AND REPUBLICAN you are certain in your security of the county paper that gives you a larger quantity and greater variety of reading matter than is presented by other journals published in Juniata county, and when you accept this combination offer of the two papers you have secured a paper for a price so low that it amounts to almost a marvel.

In this day and generation it amounts almost to a wrong to one's self and family to deny themselves the advantage of a good paper like the SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN and a state paper like the WEEKLY PRESS. There are more than a thousand and one things during the passage of a year that interest and sometimes directly benefit the individual and family, that appear in the home paper but like the rain, sunshine and air, that we are so familiar with, we do not appreciate as they merit.

Do you appreciate a first rate offer? Have the kindness to mention it to your neighbor if your neighbor has not already found it out, and if he has it will not do harm to speak him concerning it.
