The North American says. We never took any stock in the report that Mr Cooper would be decorated for the Republican State Chairmanship, and therefore are not at all surprised to hear it discredited by so experienced and well informed a political leader as Mr. David H. Lane. The rumor that Mr. Cooper is to be deposed is started every year, and flies out with the same regularity. The present State Chairman has led his party too well to be removed because he may have displeased somebody in the oil region. Victory after victory is on his record, and he has helped to pile up Republican majorities to a dizzy height. As an organizer he has few equals, and this has led to the suggestion of his name more than once as chairman of the National Republican Committee. It is in that direction he is moving; not in the other.

The Philadelphia Times says: The power of a State to pass laws prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors within its borders has been upheld by a recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States. But the same court on Monday made another decision that knocks a large hole in the wall that prohibition States like Iowa and Kansas are trying to rear against the liquor traffic. The Iowa statute prohibits a railroad company from carrying liquor into that State unless furnished with a certificate from the Auditor of the county to which the consignment is destined, declaring that the consignee has a right to sell it. The Chicago and Northwestern Railway refused to accept a shipment of 5,000 barrels of beer unless accompanied by the certificate required by law, pleading the statute as justification for the refusal. The case was carried to the Supreme Court, which decides the law unconstitutional, as interfering with the freedom of commerce between the States, and holds the company liable for its refusal to carry the beer. This decision is to the effect that a State has no power to prohibit the importation from another State of any article of commerce. Under this ruling a State may deprive its citizens of home made stimulants, but cannot prevent their getting drunk on liquor manufactured in another State, if they wish to.

The Committee on examination of applicants, for permanent certificates to teach in the Common Schools, met last Saturday, and postponed the time of examination till on Saturday, April 14, 1888. The examination will be held in the school house in the town.

EMIL SCHOTT

was at the Spring opening of Millinery Goods in the Eastern markets and with he assistance of Mrs Schott, who was also with him, has selected some very attractive and pretty styles of fine millinery goods. As he is a very shrewd buyer he will sell you goods lower than ever. Go to Schott's millinery department.

MASON & HAMLIN PIANOS.

The improved method of fastening the strings of pianos, invented by the Mason and Hamlin Organ and Piano Company a few years since, is unquestionably one of the most important improvements ever made, making the instrument more richly musical in its tones, as well as more durable, and less liable to get out of tune.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which we will sell on a guarantee to cure they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. At all druggists.

UNDERSTOOD.

Painted and perfumed, feathered and pink,
Here is your ladyship's fan.
You gave it to me to hold, I think,
While you danced with another man.

Downy and soft like your fluffy hair,
Pink like your delicate face;
The perfume you carry over where
Wafted from feathers and lace.

Painted and perfumed, dainty and pink
A toy to be handled with care;
It is like your ladyship's self, I think,
A trifle as light as the air.

For you are a wonderful triumph of art,
Like a Dresden statuette;
But you cannot make trouble for any poor heart.
You innocent-faced coquette.

For I understand those enticing ways
You practice on every man,
You are only a bit of paint and lace,
Like that delicate toy—your fan.

Samuel J. Kuntz, a citizen of this township, was called from time to eternity last Sunday morning. As the snow fell from the dark clouds on that gloomy day, we felt sure there was a battle at sin and beyond it sat Gentile, one in that temperament the leadings of Providence were for him, but back of it all was a God and heavenly father controlling them. Into His hands we commend his departed spirit and look forward to that great day when we all shall appear before Him and no evil, now unto them do we direct on his friends, assured that no who weep at the grave of relatives, who truly sympathize with them in their sorrow and give them strength to bear their loss.

Arbor Day.

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

WHEREAS, By a Concurrent Resolution of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, approved the 30th day of March, A. D, 1887, the Governor of the Commonwealth was requested to appoint annually a day to be designated as Arbor Day in Pennsylvania, and to recommend by proclamation to the people on the days named the planting of trees and shrubbery on the public school grounds and along the public highways throughout the State; and

WHEREAS, The observance of Arbor Day heretofore has been found to be productive of much practical good; therefore,

I, JAMES A. BEAVER, Governor of the said Commonwealth, have appointed and designated, and do hereby appoint and designate,

Friday, the 27th Day of April, 1888,

—To be observed as Arbor Day throughout the said Commonwealth. Not only should trees and shrubbery be planted in the public school grounds and along the public highways throughout the State, but increased attention should be given to the planting of trees wherever they can be properly cultivated. Thousands of acres of farm land otherwise unproductive can be turned to profitable account, by the cultivation of timber, nut, and fruit bearing trees. The subject should receive the careful and considerate attention of all who are interested in the prosperity of the Commonwealth and in a remunerative return for money invested in and the labor expended upon their lands. The observance of the day should not be confined to literary exercises in, and planting by, our public schools. It is a subject which demands and should receive the thoughtful attention and careful consideration of all our people. The general observance of the day should result in the planting of large numbers of trees not only for the shade and ornament, but for practical uses and profitable uses and profitable return in the future. The incidental advantages which will result to the community are great and varied. The necessity for increased attention to the general subject of forestry is becoming more and more apparent. There should be not only an increased attention to the dissemination of knowledge upon the subject, but a great increase in the number of the trees actually planted. If the grounds surrounding our school houses are filled with trees and shrubs, let the scholars secure permission from the owners of lands along the highways to plant trees in such a way as to be protected from injury, and at the same time afford beauty and shade to the passerby.

Parents and children, and citizens generally, are recommended to join in the observance of this day, and to seek opportunities and avenues for extending its influence and beneficent results. It the day should not be sufficient for the accomplishing of all that is wished, let the work be continued the following day; and if for any reason it should be found impracticable to observe the day fixed as Arbor Day, let the community choose some other day which will be more suitable for the locality.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the Commonwealth at Harrisburg, the twenty first day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty eight, and of the Commonwealth the one hundred and twelfth.

By the Governor,
JAMES A. BEAVER.

CHARLES W. STONE,
Sec'y of Commonwealth.

A Great Help to Women.

"Man's work is from sun to sun,
Woman's work is never done."

How true and yet inventive genius and science has made wonderful progress in relieving woman of much of her former drudgery and slavery. The Model Steam Cooker, an illustration of which we give to our readers, is a happy combination of scientific principles and while improving the food we eat and saving its cost in fuel in short time, its use does away with the red hot stove, and cooking with it is a positive pleasure. Steam cooked food is healthier and more palatable than when prepared in the ordinary way. It never burns or drys, and with the Model Cooker there is no steam or odor in the house when cooking food. It is self regulating—blows a whistle when the water gets low, and needs no care to keep the meat from spoiling. The Franklin Institute of Philadelphia has made a practical test with Boston Brown Bread and vegetables, and report that they can be cooked more successfully by steam than in any other way. A further test was made with onions and showed no trace of odor in the room. This is the highest scientific authority in this country. The Model Cooker Co. 34 Park Row, New York, want agents to help them place these wonderful Steam Cookers in every family. Those who apply early will get the best territory. Any lady or gentleman wishing for engagement permanent remunerative employment, cannot do better than by writing to the Model Cooker Co.
