The Democratic majority in Louisiana is reported at over 80,000. The Republican party must have taken to the woods to election day. We'll all know more soon than by this.

The Democratic returns from Louisiana are getting larger. The probability is, the bulldozers have overthrown themselves and exposed their warts of intimidation and fraud.

Temperance lecturer Rankin, and the W. C. T. U. held a temperance meeting in the Court House on Saturday evening. Mr. Rankin preached a sermon from the parable of the ten talents in Matthew 25, and then, there, "The antagonism of the liquor traffic to the church." The house was full to overflowing with people.

Charles McDonald, whose native place was near Johnstown this county, was killed on the railroad in Michigan some days ago. Last Wednesday, Joseph Brown, and J. S. Knepp of Tuscarora Valley were on waiting at the station for the body of McDonald, to convey it to his native place, where it was prepared for interment. The funeral took place last Friday.

The Democrats claim to have elected their Governor in Louisiana by 69,000 majority. Which is a little queer considering the fact that the state has a population that is three quarters negro. Warmoth, the Republican candidate for Governor, says, there were 40,000 unvoted votes against him, which it true proves how farcical ballot box elections are in that state. It will not do to suppress the truth.

The Lewistown Gazette of last week, says: "We have received from Abram Fultz, of Allegheny, the discoverer of the Fultz wheat, a letter in which he acknowledges having received through his agent, W. A. Alexander, from the farmers of this county, wheat to the value of $60,000, and from those of Juniata county $17,000, making a total of $77,000. It is a fine crop, and a good one to get in town, and now it looks as if a car load or two had been shipped here. Young America, never still, always from one extreme to the other."

A despatch from St. Louis of a few days ago says—Mose Fraley, a leading speculator in the St. Louis Grain market, has announced his inability to meet further margins, and is now on the floor settling his debts. Last night he stated to friends that he had put up $500,000 in cash and would be unable to put up any more. Checks given yesterday, after banking hours, failed to pass the clearing house, but to day Mr. Fraley said funds were forthcoming to take them up. He has been the king of the market in the past year, and is now on the floor settling his debts. The Bloomfield Advance of last week says: "The J. J. Ferguson, of Brown State, Juniata county, who was in attendance at our courts as a witness, while in the act of stepping into the Perry House, was seized with an attack of vertigo. He fell backward out of the door, cutting his scalp severely in two places. He was immediately taken to the Perry House, where a physician attended, who sewed up the gashes. Mr. Ferguson, after he was able to talk, said that he had never been sick since the 70 years of his life, nor had he ever taken any medicine, and the present attack, he was able to proceed to his home."

The smoke-house of William Billow, in Buck's Valley, about four miles from Newport, was destroyed by fire on Monday of last week, with the loss of four hogs. Mr. Billow had made the smoke-house in the usual way, and it was not until a piece of fuel had been set, setting fire to the building.

Lawyers Stevens and Owens, of Tyrone, accompanied by their wives, visited friends at Birmingham last Friday night, and after spending the evening, started from with a horse and double seated carriage. The roadway at Birmingham is very steep, and the night being dark, Mr. Owens carried a lantern. The reflection from the light is supposed, worried the horse and the pressure on the carriage on the horse being considerable, going down the steep grade, the carriage was thrown overboard. Mr. Owens with the intention of catching the horse, jumped out. His foot caught on one of the wheels and he was thrown to the ground and laid in his object. Near the foot of the hill the road takes a sharp curve to the right. In making this turn the carriage was partly overturned, throwing Mr. Stevens out, landing about three feet in front of the horse. Mrs. Stevens was thrown some ten feet and Mrs. Owens about fifteen to twenty feet. Mr. Stevens was somewhat bruised, but he gathered himself up and found Mrs. Stevens had been lying under the horse and the ankle and knee while Mrs. Owens was unconscious and it seemed to him apparently dead. He immediately ran for assistance, which soon came, and his wife was carried to the home of Mr. W. M. Holmes, across the river, and Mrs. Owens home—Huntingdon Globe.

Benjamin Conkling ex-Congressman and ex-United States Senator, who died in New York City last week, was out in a portion of the severest part of the great March blizzard, that cut off telegraphic communication between Philadelphia and New York, and that is where he contracted his sickness, the inflammation in his head that resulted in death. The following is a letter. Mr. Conkling is said to have written to a friend three days after the blizzard.

"Dear your kind and. You know that one can't step into the snow without stepping into the newpapers. I had an ugly tramp in the dark the night of the blizzard—up over drifts so high that my head bumped against the signs, and despite my efforts to get down, I suddenly falling face down a foot or two, over fallen, started telegraph wires, and slipped and fell, and as cold as clove-sticks with me, and drifts were not packed enough to keep me from falling and strata and tugs must be kept up an interesting excursion, but I can't write any more. I will talk about one word at a time for you talking about it."

Mr. Conkling however was not seemingly much affected after the blizzard until March 25th, when he is reported to have taken a cold and hence the abscess and tumor in his head. Whether his being caught in the blizzard was instrumental in bringing on the cold and abscess is a question.
