The people want Congress to settle the tariff question before the campaign opens for the Presidency.

The business interests of all kind want Congress to settle the tariff question before Congress adjourns.

Brazil has abolished slavery, and the colored folks down there are singing songs of praise to Lincoln.

CLEVELAND'S BOSS, to manage the Pennsylvania Democracy, is Congressman Scott of Erie. The face of all the Pennsylvania Democracy is turned toward lake Erie.

The erection of a sugar manufactory in Philadelphia that will require the labor of 1000 men has awakened considerable talk on the subject of raising sugar beets in Pennsylvania.

It is said the Lick telescope in the observatory on Mount Hamilton, California is so strong that comets may be plainly seen on the planet Mars. It is calculated that the canals are 60 to 80 feet wide if it within the line of a possibility to manufacture a glass powerful enough to see people on the planet.

The New York State Democratic was afraid to endorse the Cleveland Mills tariff bill. If Congress would do itself and the country justice, it would pass a tariff bill so modified, that the business of the country could go on. The uncertainty that hangs over the dilly, dilly work in producing an unfavorable opinion of Congress in the minds of the people.

CONGRESSMAN SCOTT, President Cleveland's mouth-piece and office peddler in Pennsylvania, said in a speech last week on the floor of Congress, to a Congressman that he, the man to whom he was talking had not the brains to become a millionaire. Then according to Scott, there are only a few brainy people in the state and they are millionaires. Such sentiments become an office peddler. If Scott had lived 400 years ago he would have flourished as a peddler of indulgences.

The opponents of the abolition of secret sessions of the United States Senate were cunning enough to get a test vote on the Canada Fishery question. But cunning does not pass for intelligence among the people. What interest can suffer by having all the public business done in public sessions? The 60,000 people would greatly prefer to know what the Senate says in the British fishery question. Is the puffed up Senate afraid to reveal how little it knows on the question?

The United States Senate still continues to hold secret sessions, in time of peace, just as if there are things to be considered that the people should not know of. We all know it is the bear garden, an dress time that the Senators have, that induces them to adhere to the obsolete custom, which is only in order in a kingly form of government, or in time of war, when secrecy is necessary to prevent the enemy from becoming acquainted with the line of policy of government.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin: Dakota Republicans have taken an extreme step in order to secure for the Territory recognition as a State. Delegates from the southern section will assemble, and on July 4th, a mass meeting will be held. By this means it is intended to organize the State Government and to demand recognition at the hands of the Administration. Politically, the movement may have strategic interest; otherwise, it amounts to little, since the Democrats in Congress will not encourage any movement which threatens to increase the Republican electoral vote.

The Crops in Indiana.

CHICAGO, May 16.—A despatch from Indianapolis says: "Discouraging reports regarding the outlook for crops are being received from parts of Indiana. In many counties hay and oats have suffered severely from the drought, while in the southern half of the State corn fields are being devastated by the cut worm."

Fell a Thousand Feet.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 16.—Thomas Kwan, aged 48, for many years employed as head man at the South Wilkesbarre shaft of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company, met his death at a late hour last night in a way most frightful. He had been leaning against a gate placed around the shaft, a distance of over one thousand feet into a dump of water some fifty feet deep. In the fall both arms by striking against the timbers, were severed from his body. Up to 11 o'clock this morning his remains still lay in the dump, and it may be several days before they can be found.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND.

Last week it was diamond cut diamond among the two Democratic county committees, that held the reins by which their several adherents are manipulated. A month ago the Democratic situation appeared as unsettled as a mountain lakelet, and it was not till after a call had been issued by the Garman, Conn. Sulzoff wing that the clouds began to gather. The wing just named deemed it just the thing to be first in the arena, and to be certain of a catch of time by the forelock, they called their committee to meet on the 19th inst. This first call was the spirit shander, it gave life to the regular wing led by Jackson, Crawford and McCabean. The thought of having a march stolon on them in their minds meant the selection of a set of delegates to the State Convention and a series of Cleveland resolutions endorsing the policy of administration and urging him for the second term. All that might give the Garman, Conn. Sulzoff wing the post office A. C., under the office putting process of Congressman Scott of Erie, who the Cleveland committee in Pennsylvania. It was a diamond cut, and must needs be met by a cut equally inclusive. Indeed the regulars under the leadership of Jackson, Crawford and McCabean decided to cut a spout of hypocrisy as a bid for state and national favor and in order to do so they called their committee a day earlier than the Garman, Conn. Sulzoff party.

They called the regulars to the front on the 18th day of May last Friday. The Stalwart Chairman McCabean, bright and bright from the highlands of Macedonia was early on the grounds and when the Court House bell rang at 2 o'clock P. M., it had an aggressive pull that carried the committee into session. It is not pertinent to the question to here enumerate how many of the other wing were present, but there sat Dr. Grubb among the faithful to second with a hearty amen, everything that might be proposed, but there was the gallant B. F. Williams so deeply in hand and glove with the regulars, that they took him into full communion and elected him with Sheriff Fowler, delegate to the State Convention. McCabean was a big spoke in the wheel of the movement as to 22 men at the feast with credentials to the state convention placed in his hands, was effective in more than one way.

It was a notable week feast with Grubb and McCabean looking on and other dignitaries on the rugged edge, one side wondering what on earth they should do on Saturday, the time appointed for their meeting. The regulars passed a resolution endorsing Cleveland's nomination. They praised him for his honesty A. C. Figuratively speaking they tapped him under the chin for his anti-tariff message. They instructed Fowler and McCabean to vote for only such men to the national convention, who are in accord with the President's policy and to endorse his nomination. They endorsed the Mills-Cleveland tariff bill.

They endorsed everything about the White House and Congress that the President either on executing Mrs. Cleveland and how it comes that they missed it is not explained. Perhaps they left the President's better half to the gallantry of the Garman, Conn. Sulzoff people, for there is good deal of game among them, but it was the object in not mentioning Mrs. Cleveland's name they missed it, for the committee on Saturday forgot all about the President's wife. Their closing action was being to do so on Saturday, August 18.

ARTIST'S COMMENT. If the action of the committee of the regular on Friday did not make the party of Garman, Conn. Sulzoff feel as if they had their own teeth cut it caused them to realize that they had neglected nearly all the campaign thunder and that it had come to diamond cut diamond.

It is not certain that the leaders sat up all Friday night soring the situation to see what might be evolved to straighten things so that the lead which was so galling to the regulars could be regained, but the cold naked fact would not down. There stood the glaring fact, the regulars had stolen a march, had come in one day ahead and in the rush had won over one of their chosen number and coupled him with a favorite motto of the regulars, "diamond cut diamond" to the state convention. These seemed little for them, nothing but a wholesale endorsement of the action of the regulars with a puff for Mrs. Cleveland and office peddler Scott.

People sometimes count without their host and that to a certain degree was the case here, for the Sulzoff committee came in on Saturday in high feather. Sulzoff looked more Keweenaw like than ever, just as if he had to stretch the cords of the regulars, and if any of them felt that they had been outwitted by the regulars they guarded well their feeling from the eyes of outsiders. Some of them talked about the fact that had in the tail a trap, and for convenience sake urge all other foxes to cut off their tails, so some of the committee thought it best to get out of the dilemma by signing a complete endorsement of the work of the regulars' committee, they all looked askance at McCabean. They could not understand, and to give him a chance to decline in the regulars' committee or to head him off or to provide for his non-appearance at the state convention they appointed H. E. R. as their spokesman.

The source of the under current of the work of the brother is not plain to every one and it is possible that it was from the fact that the committee was as enthusiastic in its endorsement of Cleveland further than the regulars, it gave heavy endorsement to Congressman Scott who is the administration office peddler in Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Cleveland was present when Mr. Scott delivered his late anti-tariff speech to the in presence of Mrs. Cleveland and her committee. Mrs. Cleveland was not missed and the Garman, Conn. Sulzoff committee are in the habit of declining in the regulars' committee or to head him off or to provide for his non-appearance at the state convention they appointed H. E. R. as their spokesman.

They were determined to stick to the regulars as close as a brother, and not to give them anything, and they were in the way of holding the primary election, August 18, 1888. It was diamond cut diamond.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 16.—William Hughes, aged thirty-five years, a miner employed at Blackman's mine, was engaged this afternoon loading a cart when his lamp fell into a keg of powder, causing an explosion which tore him in pieces. About the same time in Murray shaft Edward Roderick was struck on the head by a "sprig" which fractured his skull, from which he will probably die. It is believed the "sprig" was thrown with the intention of committing murder, as it came from a window at the top of the shaft, striking Roderick while he was standing on the carriage waiting to be lowered in the shaft.

Explodes A Humbug.

From the Washington D. C. Republican May 17, 1888. The Hon. Louis E. Atkinson, of the eighteenth Pennsylvania district made on Thursday a most aggressive tariff speech. His comparison of the condition of the country in 1857 and in 1887 is a most unanswerable argument for the policy of protection. In one sentence Mr. Atkinson disposed of the whole cry of free wool reducing the price of the laboring man's clothing. He said: Five or six pounds of wool will make sufficient cloth for a suit of heavy clothing. If the wool is worth for making into cloth, 60 cents a pound, the wool that goes into a suit worth $25 to $30 would cost $3.60. The highest class wools only pay a duty of 12 cents a pound. If the duty were added to the price it would only enhance the price 72 cents for the entire heavy suit of clothes. If the duty were of wool and 72 cents were saved in the cost of each suit, how much would be saved to the wearer? Not one cent. The trifling difference would be lost in the course of trade, and would probably be distributed between the manufacturer of the cloth, the jobber, the wholesale merchant, the mechanic who made up the goods, and the clothier from whom the clothing is at last bought.

Seventy two cents is the highest far collected under this "oppressive" system of protection upon an entire suit of woolen clothes. This must be removed, say the President and Mr. Mills, but the $110 collected from the month of every person from the infant to the grand old man, the grand sire's "toddy" must be retained for the benefit of a few sugar planters in Louisiana, eight votes in the electoral college, and the same number in Congress ready to obey an executive mandate.

Mr. Atkinson exploits the humbug about the duty on wool being a tax on clothing.

A Rat Attacks a Child. On Wednesday evening of last week a rat attacked a child of Mr. Luther Beck in this place. The rat was a small one, and it appears Mr. Beck's infant, five weeks old, in the summer kitchen on a couple of chairs, in care of her husband till she could go to a neighbor's house, but he, man like, left the place to do some work in the garden. On her return she found a rat with its head in the baby's mouth, its lips, gums, and tongue severely bitten. From the efforts of the wounds the infant was poisoned and at last succumbed in a precarious situation.

Boiler Explosion. WELLSBORO, Del., May 17.—Shortly before noon on Del. on the farm of Benjamin Fessenden, four miles below Port Penn, in this county, a steam boiler was being driven by a team thrashing engine, when an explosion occurred. Mr. Fessenden was blown a distance of sixty feet, and was killed. Samuel Lohand, Walter Bour, Wilson Green (colored) and an unknown man were also badly injured. The injured man, a carpenter, was employed as a helper and was not near the engine at the time of the explosion. Doctors from Delaware City and Middletown were summoned and attended them. Fessenden's wife and two small children. The boiler was apparently sound, and the only cause of explosion was neglect in not having kept it supplied with water.

Pushed Back Her Mother. That truth is stranger than fiction finds an other illustration in the following from the Hollidaysburg Register of the 6th, last. A young German girl in this town, named Sophia Korman, who was employed by a family on Walnut street, as a domestic, left on Tuesday evening of last week for late train, to join her lover, a colored man named James Donald, formerly employed in the American Hotel as a cook, and who is now in Philadelphia. The girl's parents were angry and almost distracted over the strange infatuation of their daughter, which by many means had looking and is quite intelligent. She became acquainted with her lover while both were living at the above hotel. The girl's mother had suspected for some time that her daughter was intimate terms, but as Donald had left town some time before, her suspicions were formed. On Tuesday evening she was alarmed of her daughter's intention to leave, and immediately went to the station to try to prevent her going. The girl, who is getting on the train as the poor old mother arrived. She was excited and entreated to go home, but refused and the mother attempted to climb up the steps as the train was leaving, but she was roughly pushed back. The negro to whom she went, is as black as the ace of spades, and is reported to be married and the father of a family.

Three Girls at a Birth. There was a roiling time, a great time, a sorrowful time, a gay time, an awful time—just as the reader has a mind to view it—at the residence of Mrs. Dulin Ryan, at No. 56 West Twenty-fifth street, New York, on Friday night. Mrs. Ryan gave birth to triplets—and they are all girls. At half past ten o'clock Dr. Kane handled the first one, the nurse, who clothed it in the latest fashionable attire. At half past eleven he handed over No. 2, and there was hurrying and a hurrying to get the second child into the world. The nurse with her inevitable assistants, was doing quite well with the brace of Eves—when lo! Dr. Kane pressed to the arms of the assistants a third very young woman just at half past twelve. There was exactly an hour between the birth of the triplets. The last little lady was quite indignant that she had no clothes to put on and only for the intervention of several people would have torn off the new spring bonnet of her eldest sister—the eldest by two hours. They are all very healthy babies with plenty of lung power. The mother, Mrs. Ryan, is quite little, weighing not more than one hundred and twenty pounds. Her husband is a young man about twenty-six. Mrs. Ryan has now had, since she was married four years ago, six children, all girls, two of whom are dead. The eldest is now a big plump handsome child of five years of age. Mrs. Ryan is getting along amazingly well—Mail and Express.

Patent Road Machine Lamination.

A bill in equity was filed on Monday in the United States District court by the American Road Machine Co., of Kennett Square Pa., against Pennock & Sharp Co., Limited, for the sale of a machine called the "Western Reliable," which is said to infringe several of the patents of the complainant.

saved by His Wife. On the 16th, inst., Theodora Logan of Orbeside, Huntington county, procured a clothes line about 11 o'clock in the morning and went to the basement of his house where he made a noise in the line and fastened the ends of the rope to a joint, and placing his neck in the tension yoke, attempted to cut his miseries. He would have succeeded had not his wife had occasion to go to the cellar and discovered his dangling form. She hurriedly alarmed a neighbor, and between them the man was cut out and with much labor resuscitated. His escape from death was very close and a few seconds more of the slow strangulation would have forever stilled his pulse if not relieved by his wife. His first complaint was that he felt as if he had not allowed him to die."

A Judge Lynch in Jail. COLEMAN, O., May 17.—Judge Lynch came very near making major of the law in this place. He was bound over to court and when taken to jail his identity became known to the other prisoners who at once attacked him in a vicious manner. After struggling him into a back tub and nearly drowning him the prisoners secured a rope, placed it around his neck and dragged him about the corridors, ending the performance by drawing him up from the floor. The brute would undoubtedly have been strangled to death before the jail officers arrived had not one of the prisoners cut the rope.

blank frost last night which proved disastrous to early fruits and vegetables. In some places ice one eighth to a quarter of an inch thick was found. Farmers living in and about town report corn, potatoes and tomatoes frozen several inches under the ground.

St. Louis, May 13.—Advisors from the Red river county report that damage done to the inhabitants of the Red river valley during the past ten days is almost beyond computation and the overflow the largest since 1843. Most of the plantations near the river have been covered with water four to six feet deep and many miles of fencing or barns have been washed down and carried away. Many of the people have lost their household furniture, provisions, and corn. In several places the river water extended from the hills of Arkansas to the hills of Texas, a distance of ten to fourteen miles. At West Horn one negro was drowned yesterday while trying to swim from the overflow. Two white men were drowned in Mill Creek, and a number of other deaths are reported but names are not given. Floating in the bottom of all have to be done over again.

The Handsome Lady in Mifflintown and Port Royal, who is a friend of the other day that she knew Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs was a superior remedy and she had used it several times. She had had no effect whatever. So to prove its efficacy she used it in the form of a draught and gave it to a Sample Bottle Free. Large size 50c and $1.
