MAIN'S INTERNATIONAL SHOW.
This truly superior organization exhibited here on Saturday last; and when we say the performance, so far as novelty and thorough enjoyment were concerned, was equal to anything of the kind, ever seen here, we but voice the universal sentiment of all who attended. The one feature alone—namely, the three headed lady songstress—was worth double the money it cost to see it all, for she is the most marvelous curiosity this age ever beheld, three living heads upon a single body, singing, talking and eating in perfect concert and accord, baffling the most scientific and amazing every beholder by her remarkable appearance. Each head sings and converses in a different language, and in choral union it is wonderful. Be sure and see it—Waverly (N. Y.) Times.

The Newport Ledger of last week relates the following: Eight years ago an Irish pedler visited this place, became deaf, broke, and in order to get out of town he borrowed a small sum of money from W. H. Jones. Billy had given up the money others fail, as lost, but "broad cast" upon the waters will return in many days," was verified, when the Irishman walked into D. M. Rickabaugh's store the other day and asked for his creditor. Billy was not at home, but Dave took the money together with the interest, which was voluntarily paid by the son of Enorahd Isle Score one for that Irishman.

From the Newport News: John Owings, of Center township, who was kicked by a horse a fortnight ago, died on Tuesday morning. He had taken no nourishment for eighteen days prior to his death, and the last two weeks was unconscious. He was about 58 years old. * * * D. H. Fisher took his son, Daniel Webster Fisher, aged 16 years, to Harrisburg, to have a "dead bone" removed from his right wrist. Last fall Daniel fell 30 feet off of a chestnut tree, breaking his left arm, and his right arm in three places. The physician failed to adjust the broken bones correctly and the boy, in consequence, will be a cripple for life. * * * Dr. Kurtz, of Reading, accompanied by a friend, are here on their semi annual fishing boat. * * *

From the Newport Ledger: Last Sunday a party of boys gathered in a little shanty between the river and canal a short distance above town and engaged in playing cards, whether for money or not has not been learned. While game was in progress Logan Burd, son of Landlord Burd, who was after his father's cow, came on the party, and reports says they wanted to drive him away. Logan was slow to move on, and a war of words occurred, followed by Charles Sheidley, one of the card players, choking Logan. To defend himself, Logan picked up a stone that would weigh probably a pound and a half or two pounds and hurled it at Sheidley, striking him on the head. The boy dropped as if he had been shot and lay unconscious, continuing so until after he was carried to his home. Dr. Urill was called, who made a thorough examination of the boy's head and failed to even find a mark on his scalp. Charles remained unconscious for an hour or two when he slowly regained consciousness. He was able to be about Monday afternoon, and no serious results are looked for.
