SALESMEN

Blair's Pills.

OPIUM HABIT Days Barry So Cur. No Cur.

CIDBER'S PASTILLES. 78

Inniata Sentinel La and Republican.

B. F. SCHWEIER,

THE CONSTITUTION-THE UNION-AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAWS.

Editor and Proprietor.

VOL. XLIII.

MIFFLINTOWN, JUNIATA COUNTY, PENNA., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1889.

firmly. No answer; no sign. 'Do you time, mad-utterly mad. She laughed.

She was white-white as her dead stepmother. Kate's eyes then welled and choking down every inclination to very secret lodgings in Gresham street!

The right physic bottle was found to be so exactly the counterpart of the chemist's label, that in much haste and than that which Phyllis had made.

confusion no mistake was more likely

Her time of madness went, for blessed tears came to her; but she was no lon-was, A fearful terror weighed her down, and none could convince her that the suspicion of crime was no

For weeks after poor Mrs. Dallas was laid in her grave Phyllis started at every knock or ring; she believed that the law officers must come to carry her off sooner or later. One friend and another invited her to stay with them, but she would not leave home. She went about in a listless, timid, dreamy state. There was nothing for her to do

-If only some work could be found fo

her! Kate asked me if I could not fin

Fancy my giving her my notes

dered. Then, my cabinets wanted rearranging-that was as bad. She would confuse every thing. I was at my wits

Kate looked sad. 'If only you broke end, for with all my heart I wished to things sometimes! Phyllis has a geniu

'My den child,' I cried, 'do no

the reason I tilt it, as you see, in corner. The cup is a gem-is it not?

Yes; very lovely-very delicate.

But Kate took the cup from my hands and gave it back so soon that I understood she was thinking not one jot about Rose du Barry china. 'She will not even see James Bruce,' were

I was so surprised at this that I se clear eyes. She knew by some ratui-

She was downoon her knees-we were to my noble Kate'es trouble. I made as though it were notthing, and I did my seeing I had met James Bruce and Phyllis started when he came in seemed to shrink, murmured something about 'finishing her work another time.

But still she was glad at heart to see him. Surely the sudden flush on her

To tell the truth, Bruce and I had ing incomist week he had had a part anies of a manager of comic opera

He was a cultured gentleman, and his should have no—no temptation.

I understood. 'You mean it is no

habit-that drinking?' I whispered,

How I hated taxing him in this way.

'Indeed-no! You saw the beginning

-vou have seen the end. I was mad with failure. I hated clerk's work-I seemed at the end of all things. No

Phyllis a clerk's wife, on a hundred

I liked the fellow's ambition. 'Then like a very Mentor. You must be open with Mr. Dallas; you may not conquer his scruples at once, but go openly on your touring, and com-

'I will do it. Miss Spander.'

Bruce went to see Mr. Dallas.

libraries!

day.

big for them.'

back, and-marry Phyllis, if you will,'

So this visit was the outcome of our

In less than a year Phyllis was married, and Dalias began to talk of moving. He and Kate might take a riverside cottage. What a life for a literary man! Away from his bookish comrades - away from the streets - the

Then the Johnsons talked of giving during that year, and Mrs. Johnson said 'that she and Johnson liked their old ways the best. The house was too

Of course I would not condemn my dear Kate to such a narrow life for Getting it Down Fine.

A curious paper by an English or that a cow moos in aperfect fifth of an or fourth; a donkey brays in a perfect

Before he left that evening,

manager would hear me, and fanc

'No inheritance, either?"

and fifty pounds a year!'

arranged a plot for that evening. Dur-

Kate's words.

It was the saucer belonging to do what I could for the girl.

copy-Phyllis over that work! I shud something for her to do.

against her.

'But fancy! A murder in these not hear?' Kate said. 'You must go.

I saw Phyllis then—she was, for the

-they were wholly dazed.

A CONTAGIOUS form of sore throat has broken out amoung the Mexican addren of Bernalillo county, N. M., and is said that 200 deaths have occured in the past few weeks. In some villages it rages to an alarming extent. I said unto myself, What prize lages it rages to an statuting extent.

Upon this maid bestow,

Only a few deaths have occurred in That I may see the merry eyes American families,

A COMMITTEE of Berlin ladies re-cently presented the Empress Victoria

From friends I'll greeting bring.

And all these tokens of my care

With love and low Stall door Augusta with a white silk apron, on which the names of the Empress's five which the names of the Empress's five Her heart was set upon, roung sons were worked. The Em- She will not say, "You horried boy"press, in acknowledging the gift, said that she was honored by the present, for an apron was always the symbol of the true German housewife. And then, putting the apron on, she said very "My husband desires me always to wear an apron; he says it looks more homely.".

DECISIONS are sometimes arrived at without the coroner,s services, even when doctors differ. At a medical society meeting in Springfield, Mass., recently one member's assertion, in the course of an essay on diphtheria, that he had not lost a case of that And down the chimney wide he'll sprin disease in lilyears was controverted by another doctor. The City Clerks's records, showing a number of deaths from diphtheria certified this year by the essayist, were quoted against him and he withdrew from the society.

This celebrated Woodbridge oak, geven miles from Hartford, Conn., which was supposed to be more than 1200 years old, has been cut down on account of its decayed condition. It could be seen for miles around, as it steed on high ground, and was 27 feet celebration was held under the branches of the tree. About 1500 made speeches.

This Meweal Record is not so sure ly every family now has its quinine bottle; that it is sold in any general store. and that the doctor rarely meets an invalid who has not been thoroughly day at the Museum. The street door dosed with quinine. The drug, when was open, and Mrs. Johnson was in the operatic duets, yet I never heard it side, and looked straight into Kate's taken continuously or excessively, is an doorway of the to-be-let dining-room. quarrel. injurious one; and its therapeutic value is greatly exuggerated in the popular 'May I congratulate von. Mrs. Johnbroughttis, ephemeral fevers, anorexia, general malaise, and various other minor ills, the editor thinks, is most

There was no disorder visible in the ball or on the staircase when I returned certain by the despatches which come from the opposite sides of was alight, and the house looked cheers was merely a clerk, but because he was merely a clerk was not a desirable and the conditions are conditions and the the African Continent, but it is rennews from Port Thomas, as there was a full house. I was to see the spend in my rooms. There was a slight new-comers at once. As I went up to new-comers at once. As I went up to new-comers at once. As I went up to new-comers at once a gray-haired man was comagain and send word down the river and his point of departure from the be pleasant companions for us. Congo. The growing belief that Osman Digma was lying will be converted into conviction if this news is con- in a deprecatory fashion, 'A sensitive firmed, and, in spite of its circumstantial character, it needs confirmation, sued in Paris, written by Dr. Paul ant eyes, and red gold hair crowning Loye, in which the question of death her head like a picture of Romney's. by decapitation is discussed at length scientifically. Dr. Loye's experiments have been conducted chiefly at the expense of dogs, of which he has beheaded a great number. He has noted that a musician might say struck the with great exactness all motions of the same note, but one was harmony, the eyes, tongue, lips, ears, and jaws of other discord. 'Wait till to-morrow, the animals during the first few seconds and then the drawing-room will be sure their bodies, and has reached the con- wanted,' lusion that in every case death was hereafter the results of similar experiments in the case of human beings.

SELF-RESPECT cught to be counted any filling capacities? precious by every person. No man I made my tread as loud as I could, ought to forfeit his self-respect out of and the speaker I did not see must regard to any human being. But let a have seen me. Phyllis was drawn within man beware lest he confound self-respect with self-esteem. A man may respect with self-esteem. A man may care! She'll hear squabbles enough so refuse to do right at the request of long as my lady and I are here toanother simply because by changing gether.' his course he would practically admit that his opinion had been wrong on the phyllis, came in that sweet voice—so sweet, but low and strong too. subject up to this time. Many a man sweet, but low and strong, too. makes a mistake at this point. It is if she were not here. I wish she was better to mortify one's self-esteem than | dead-I do!' to maintain it at the cost of continuing would prompt us to avoid being controlled by our self-esteem; and it is understand, from the first, that I held often the case that another man's myself wholly above any complication judgment as to the dictates of our self- with the other residents of the house. respect is better than our own.

-While December 21st is, by a sort of Johnson, was my waitress that night. common consent, reckoned "the short-est day" in the year—that is, between stairs, and I have just caught a glimpse sun up and sun down—it is not so in of a fair-haired young lady.'

Strict fact. The 22d was precisely the 'The carroty-haired one, Miss Spenstrict fact. The 22d was precisely the same in shortness, for while sunset was der? one minute later on that day, sunrise heard between her and her mother! Not that she's her mother at all, Miss even at the close. But on the 23d me she was their stepmother. Three there was a set-back, for, while the sun sets on that day one minute later 'Indeed! She said that?' How could than on the 21st, sunrise was two I believe that the voice had used such minutes later, leaving the 234 the champion short day by one minute. champion short day by one minute.

After the 231 there was a sort of wob
No. 1 Away Miss Spender: Not those words; but I must speak my own way.

She—Miss Dallas—will turn out to be ble for several days until about the the one that holds that family together. 25th or 26th, when the process of lengthening the days really begins, leaving the suplicit hours at the close of the year (December 30th) about two He don't look fit to hold his own! And Love doth seldom suffer itself to be living on her money, and why she living on her money, and why she confined by other matches than those stands that girl I cannot see.' confined by other matches

Santa Claus's Message. A little maid with locks of gold, And eyes of heaven's own blue, spied as on one evening cold The town I wandered through!

Lit up with simple glow:

And so when Willie breaks the toy

I'll send her gifts both rich and rare.

But "I'll have another one. 'And Santa Claus will bring some, too,

'For oh! those baby fingers' grasp Has often made me cry, As from his eager little clasp In vain to wrest I'd try. e breaks my dol's, dear 'Santa,' sec-He tears my books, and now, cannat keep my toys or be Apart, without a row!"

Treat my own playthings so!

Ah, little maid, your griefs are deep, Your little heart is tired; Old Santa Claus will ride?

And to your stocking steal, Iill, when you see the gifts he'll bring, Your wounds will quickly heal! o, little maid with golden hate And eyes of heaven's own blue, send you now a Christmas fair,

And now a greeting true?

THE GRESHAM-ST. TRAGEDY.

Gresham street was not a big thoroughfare. It was a new street in a

The Johnsons, the owners, had their my neighbors.

'Yes, Miss Spender, but I told Johnson he must risk it. We must forward the children, and he earns | banker's balance. There was no disorder visible in the Young folks come to see the girls;

I felt a pleasant feeling, return to Wadelal, reach the Congo my room a gray-haired man was com-Evidently unpacking was going on in point about midway between Wadelai sonal treasure. Bookish people would

He was a thin man. I bowed. He returned my bow in a courteous manner, and he smiled, as one might say, man,' I thought; 'looks worn, too.' After ridding myself of the dust of the day, and going along the passage to my sitting-room, I met some one else-a beautiful girl-a girl with radi-

'Am 'I don't care,' I heard her say. to be forever ordered about like a baby-like a stranger, too? 'Do let us arrange ourselves in peace, Phyllis,' came in another voice-a voice to look bare, and your St. Cecilia and after the severance of their heads from the piles of photographs will be 'I know that. But why should she absolutely painless. He will publish not acknowledge that I can see what the hideous bare place wants? We have not a quarter enough of things to civilize the room. Does she think her old work-table and her knitting have

'Do consider appearances a little, 'Brother! There'd be no squabbles

"Phyllis! 'Yes, I do. I wish she was dead!' Here I shut my door with decision, for I would have the new-comers

I rang my bell to show I was ready, SHORT DAYS AND SHORTER ONES.

While December 21st is by a new of Indiana. The eldest daughter, Milly

She's a vixen! Such a row as I leaving the sunlight hours at the close yer scamp—the references told us that. Mrs. Dallas-the young lady calls her 'my lady'- is too meek. They are all living on her money, and why she ure.

I shall never forget those next follevied during the war. Pennsylvania's living in indulght when I closed my lowing hours. Mrs. Dallas was dead: share is nearly $2,000,000.

was. Phyllis had given her stepmother laudanum Instead of the brown mixt- returned to the States by the passage book, and, candle in hand, went along Neither the husband nor the girl cried the landing to my own room. There was quiet in the girl's room, which was a small one, built out at the back and he wandered up to me. She ordered wedged between mine and the one cor-responding on the opposite side of the only time I heard Kate command anlanding. This last Mr. and Mrs. Dallas grily. She repeated her command more Like myself, the new tenants had left their drawing-room door open. I could not help seeing the bare lodging house furniture, and smiled to myself as I saw a spindle-legged Chippindale work-table with skeins of wool and over with tears. Brushing them away, initting-needles upon it.

'Miss Phyllis,' thought I, 'that table sob, she looked at me. 'She must go,' is a treasure. The bed-room door was likewise ajar, and the flare of gas sent a stream of light over the darkened stairway. Into it there came gliding a tall lady, wearing a lace cap and a black stuff dress. She moved gently, as if she wished to disturb no one. Her arms held long, blue paper packets-I remember my mother used to extract knitting-yarns from some similar packets in days ago
—and she went into the dark drawingroom, and to where the Chippendale table was, seeming to put her packages | ger the gay, singing Phyllis she once thereon. Then she glided back, stroking her gray hair softly, and-I was unaware she had noticed me, and I was in the act of closing my door-said in a whisper, but pointedly, to me: 'Good night; we are late.'

'Good night,' I answered, stopping in the closing of my door until she had closed hers. She did it noiselessly. She seemed a woman accustomed to efface herself. I could not easily get to sleep that night. When I awoke I hought I was in the country and the birds were singing. What nonsense! I was in the lodging in Gresham street, and some one-Phyllis, of course-was running down to breakfast singing. suburb of London. I had taken two In the morning I saw Phyllis passing rooms there. There were two other my door with her St. Cecilia in her sets of lodgers in the house, and the arms, and instinct prepared for a conrooms I had taken, though quite ample in price, were not the most important. The girl's action was the precursor of mpiac One Tree Association was set. The house was a double one, with a door and staircase in the middle, and, and in October of that year a door and staircase in the middle, and, and in October of that year a therefore overlag a couple of the more violent sounds than I ever supposed could be heard in any domestic for mending of that sort,' she said. therefore, owning a capability for ex- circle. The noises lasted all the morneper of such a catastrophel I did

Weeks rolled on. I was pleased with once. people participated, and Yale College quarters on one side, and my drawing-professors and other prominent men room and bed-room were on that side devoted to each other and to their never recovered all the pieces, which is kewise. The main part of the other | father, but neither loved Mrs. Dallas. side was "to let" when I established myself in Gresham Street. For a week I did not know how Kate managed. 1 I was a good deal in my rooms, for I know she did not loudly quarrel, for I that cheap quinine is such an unalloyed have a lot of knick-knacks and artistic never heard it blessing. It has come about that near-belongings which no one can arrange in rude wrangle. It scolded Phyllis in but myself. I thought very little about their bed-room, but those scoldings were entreatles and prayerful reproofs; One breezy September day I was it read crabbed Latin to her father; it setting forth after my breakfast for a sang soft melodies in the lusk, and did

It was the end of October. Visitors tion that I had a dislike to Bruce as had come to see them; cle trly, if for- Phyllis' lover. The cup rolled-felltune had frowned upon Dall is in mone- broke. mind. The value of quantum in "colds," son, upon your letting the remainder tary matters, she had not done so in see him; but among bookish fork there silence-a siènce as of tragedywas a venture, taking this large house, but I told Johnson he must risk it. We wholly superior to such tests as a ever my our feelings, I could not ead was alight, and the house looked cheery because he drank. Whether Dallas whole evenings at it, and on the second knew it or not, I could not be sure, dered extremely probable. The news somewhat akin to what one must feel from Zanzibar agrees closely with the at a housewarming. I should say. It at a housewarming I was to see the tered, and naturally I credited the Bruce.

quarrel with this. Perhaps he divined my thought, for since August 28, when he was at a the bed-rooms—the unpacking of per-since August 28, when he was at a the bed-rooms—the unpacking of per-since August 28, when he was at a the bed-rooms—the unpacking of per-raised: 'Do you not see how I shake?' An event has come to us,' and, as he talked, the excitement dropped from fair and pale cheeks and the light in her his tones. "A lover! Actually a lover | eyes said as much, for Phyllis! That child! Of course they will not hear reason, and they are and said: 'No, my dear. Stay.' engaged. Phyllis engaged! You know

James Bruce-you have seen him?' 'Yes,' I said. James Bruce! Poor No doubt she knew; no doubt given him is one of the touring comshe was like every woman, idealizing about self-sacrifice, and being the savior of the young sot; no doubt she would fall-all do.

After this there were two days of heavenly silence. Phyllis went out with her lover, and the lover spent the evening with them all. There was singing-charming singing-Bruce had a splendid ter or voice, and might have done well or the stage.

Mrs. Dellas, who was subject to chronic neuralgia, had a more acute attack than she had ever had before. The poor woman's groans reached me in my rooms. I was heartily sorry for her. I could hear how she tried to silence herself. The agony must have been terrible that could elicit such groans from so meek and suppressed a lady. I met Kate as she passed from her nursing, and asked if they had not sent for a doctor.

'No,' the girl said bravely. 'Mamma often has these attacks-not so acute, but still of the same nature. She has her remedies that she has had for years, but she will not use the extreme ones until she feels she cannot endure it any longer. She must be very strong. She never complains.

A doctor came the next morning, and under his treatment the attack passed off. For some weeks Mrs. Dalas was about as usual, and, as usual, the quarreling went on, too. Then she had another and worse attack. It was the beginning of December. Having dined ont one night, I was not home ill late. Good news awaited me, Milly ohnson, opening the door to me, said that Mrs. Dallas had been quieter ever ince 8 o'clock. They thought she would sleep soon. The words were scarcely out of the girl's hips when a shriek rang through the house. A paroxysm of agony had attacked the poor lady. I heard her cry out, 'The stuff! the stuff! My old mixture-there, in the cup-board!' Kate had flown down to the kitchen for boiling water; Dallas, poor man! stood and trembled; 'Phyilis was with her stepmother. 'This-Dr. Martin's?'

I heard her ask. 'Nol' came after a sharp cry. that's no good. My old stuff-the Ciifton label on it,' she gasped. 'Dark-a ganist on "Melody in Speech" asserts small bottle. I could not bear to hear her. 'I shall octave or tenth; a dog barks in a fifth go for Martin,' I said, promptly, 'and shall bring him back with me.' It octave; a horse neighs in a descent on was a quarter of an hour before I and | the chromativ scale. Each person has the doctor arrived. 'The physic has quieted her,' Mr. Johnson said. There was a most strange, strong, poses in sympathy with other voices, or bitter-sweet smell. It terrified me, and when he is excited. This is getting it yet I was so utterly ignorant that for down fine. my life I could not have told what it

TROUBLE GETTING A GOAT. Kate took her father down stairs, but Bulling the Market to Sell at a De cline Without Dividends.

A weil-known New York gentleman has recently had a thrilling experience of the ups and downs of the markets goat. He has a handsome country seat with all kinds of blooded stock, and did not contemplate adding a goat, however handsome and spirited, to his collection. But an inconsiderate phy-'I have often said I wished she was dead,' Phyllis smiled, meaningless, at implacable; nothing would do but a laudanum bottle, bearing the Clifton

The fond father started forth himself upon the quest for a desirable animal, penetrating to the remotest wilds of Harlem, where he felt sure the goat might be secured in his native purity. It was not difficult for him to obtain the address of a lady who was aid by her neigbors to have a goat for sale. But when he found the lady nerself his most flattering offers were "An' is it to sell Nanny ye'd be afther axin' me?" inquired the lady with baughty disdain.

Wud I sell Pat there and Mickey nd little Norah?" The gentleman meekly explained that he was not negotiating for a family, but his remarks were drowned in loud wails of woe from the three inants, who were much alarmed at their parent's rhetorical inquiry. hurriedly departing when the scornful lady unbent sufficiently to inform him that the Widdy O'Rellly, whose residence was just beyant, might e willin' to part with her goat. It was with some trepidation that the would-be purchaser faced the Widdy O'Reilly. She shed many tears, out admitted that she had thought of arting with her Nanny for a considration, but would have to have a week with a thumping sound.

The carriage lamp sat on the bench at the other end lamp sat on the bench irmly referred him to Mrs. McGinnis.

men of Cashmere goat. and the price of goats rose rapidly.

Animals that were before considered barely worthy their keep were now quoted at substantial sums, and animals of any value at all were held brownsing on every common and crag. that the good goats were rearce, that it was a hard matter to get a good goat at any price. When he finally secured a decent looking animal it was only as a great favor and on payment in cash of $50, which he could not but feel was more than an equivalent.

Six months' trial of the strengthened this conviction. She immediately, perhaps knowing the price possession of the place. She strolled into the parlor, the library or the dining room, promenaded the piazza or reclined upon the steps, as the fancy When the servants attempted to dispossess her she invariably showed fight, and usually came out of the combat with victory perched upon her banners. When she finally butted the mistress of the house to the ledge of the piazza and rolled her down the steps, it was decided to sell her, especially as her milk did not benefit the child. But the price of goats was found to have rapidly gone down, and they were now quoted 'way below par. After vainly endeavoring to sell her at voice was perfection — he would not fail. And he assured me that now he finally thankful to pay an Irish gentlehad found what his soul desired, he man of his acquaintance $5 to remove tier from the premises.

My aunt spent a winter in Florida. She traveled in her private carriage, with quite a number of servants, and us, loaded with a tent-cloth, provisions, and the negroes, The former was stretched on moonlit nights, but in inclement weather we usually slept under a roof, if in that you must take my advice, I went on sparingly settled region it was possible to procure shelter. I shall never forget those balmy nights in the wild Florida forests. ambo's glorious camp fires, mounted almost to the tops of the shorter pines, and irradiated everything around, Hither and thither moved our dusky attendants, intent on laying our matresses and cooking our suppers. As for me, I was on the lookout for flowers all day. I expected to see even the roadsides gay with acacla, cacti, jasmine and lilies, but was sadly disap-pointed. We often journied through long stretches of sand as bloomless as Sahara. One day the weather threatened to up the house. Two or three of the become tempestuous. Clouds rolled up on dark grey wings of gloom, and threatened to deluge the peninsula. ung people had got permanent work Aunt Julia had a slight attack of asthma, and dreaded any exposure to a damp atmosphere. She began early

It was not too big for us. On condi- inquiring for a roof under which we tion that Mr. Dallas and Kate hved with me, I consented to take the house. man habitation of any description Kate has become my housekeeper, and ceuld be found for miles. Suddenly we perceived the gaunt, I have plenty of space for my treasures. ague-shaken figure of a "native" in the sandy road ahead of us. He was walking with the shambling gait peever- One of my museum friends culiar to that class of people, and was couraged. has a brother who will pretend he understands pottery! Kate will go one mal which I at first supposed to be a that muscle, nor the articulations of court to examine Keely's apparatus and fierce dog, but afterward discovered the finger joints," was a tame coon. When we came up would be kind enough to direct us to a the fast darkening night.

"Wa-ail," he replied, turning his tallowish face toward us. "I 'low ef thet's what ye're atter, you've struck a bad streak o' luck. Nobuddy lives "Well, Hits all er ten mile ter the Widder Sullivans, an' ye won't strike much of would have accomplished in double the summer. The material used is simply whitewash, and here is the erally speaks, but which he often trans- Hits all er ten mile ter the Widder ough draughtsman. Finish one pictors and state of the future, sir, and you are a painter."

It was a good lesson. One principal lit was a good lesson. One principal had one part of the best hydraulic compart of a teacher's business is to keep part of a teacher's business is to keep part of a teacher's business is to keep the destruction. The great law of all culture is: Let coment. Mix well with salt water and each become all that he was created capable of being. -Twenty militons of dollars will be find a roof to shelter me from the storm. Isn't there an old out house or mile erhead where, perhaps, ye mought locks, "but they say hit's full er haunts. An old Frenchman was killed thar onet and hid under the floor. nights yit, and I can't say how ye vants, although I could perceive my after some Philadelphia and New York killed eleven men, and his death by aunt would readily have dispensed scientists became interested in the strangulation came none too soon.

with his services. But he helped the motor and when Keely finished the first —A strange story comes from Ba negroes about the trunks, and nailed a machine and were partaken of with a relish, after in, and amused ourselves with reading Detectives were unable to discover anydoor as best we could on the inside, Keely the cause of the mysterious and retired.

could be distinctly heard-a soft, pat- and the Philadelphia reading public tering step-sometimes approaching were startled one morning by the an- ware bar. our mattress bed, sometimes wandering nouncement that the Quaker City conaway from it. Once or twice it pulled tained a being who would revolutionat the bed covering, then fell back ize the mechanical world. The new over us, and a rough, shaggy something like a man's beard brushed my aunt's face. She uttered a nervous shriek and threw herself on to the turned to the house, armed with flam- to start. ghostly spot as possible.

"Dat ghostis, dat 'larmed you so dat ob de rain.

Haunted Cabin.

When Samuel F. B. Morse, afterstudying in London, he made a drawamin West as an example of his work. were performed. Being very anxious for the favorable The stockholders, however, saw no opinion of the master, he spent a fort- practical results and finally refused to night upon the drawing, and thought advance any more money. he had made it perfect.

back, saving: young artist. "Oh, no," said Mr. West; "look finish it."

The student once more took the motor offered by Keely to Wilson in with him, Auntie accosted him in her usual polite manner, and asked if he in retouching it. He would have it done this time. But the critic was not place where we could get shelter for satisfied. The work was good, "very still it needed to be "finished."

er place when ye git thar. My advice time by a dozen half finished drawings. United States Government formula for the opinion that the advisability of the "But I am sick," said my relative character of one, that makes a thormade and applied gives a white that greatest destructive capacity in navawith an asthmatic wheeze, and must find a roof to shelter me from the character of one, that belongs to the parts of best freshly slaked lime the future.

INVESTOR KEELY. stay," he replied, as he scratched thoughtfully among his lank sunburnt

Inventor John W. Keely of motor fame has had a very unusual career of the ups and downs of the markets though he was not, as is his ordinary custom, having dealings with bulls and bears, but with another animal not so well-known on the street, namely the was boxteet, namely the control of years. In early model if a mechanic, with apparently little are the street, namely the life a mechanic, with apparently little are though the became imbued with the also has read aloud articles from idea that he could construct a machine with incalculable power. This was in worked the street of the daily papers. It can be provided that the could construct a machine with incalculable power. This worked the street of the daily papers, that pertain to the most important events of the day. This enough without me at home to-night," 1864, and he worked hard for nine new department is said to be very suc-"Thank you," said auntie, in a re-lieved voice; "drive on Josh, we'll try proaching what he sought, The men of wealth were invited to visit his little We found the building "a tumble workshop, on Ogden street near Tenth, by who was delicate. The father called attention to his choice assortment of cows, but the physician was here to be a far as could be learned, from a twe were thankful even for a leaky the house of the physician was been supplied by the physician was been suppl months rolled on Keely informed a been placed around the unruly animal's favored few of his aspirations. Soon neck. It is said that "Chief" had bench for us to sit upon, as we were in NAMED IT THE HARMONIC VIBRATOR, received a pass over the Baltimore and want of chairs. Hetty cooked a nice there was joy among the little band of supper; and chicken, ham, and biscuit his followers. The New York contingent would come over after business and wife to ride without cost over the hours, and in company with the Philaour weary day's journey. A few hours, and in company with the Phila-crumbs fell on to the floor, and chicken bones were thrown down with them. bones were thrown down with them. We were not particularly neat in that your after dark. The blinds were of the company to call attention to the old cabin. The "native" received his always closed and the neighbors mistake. That was the first time any portion gladly, and ate by the camp became suspicious. They notified one suspected Mr. Garrett's mental fire with great apparent gusto. We Kennard Jones, the chief of police, infirmity, had one of the carriage lamps brought who thought it must be a fare bank. —Anthuntil 10 o'clock. Then we barred the thing, and the chief finally asked noise in his shop and why so many about forty-eight years of age, with a It was 1 o'clock when my aunt was aroused by soft footsteps stealing over the floor. She instantly awaks me.

In oise in his shop and why so hand sturdy figure and an amable and earnest showed the chief the vibrator. Matters progressed so favorably that the viery man be meets, Bill, Tom, Dick, and the chief the vibrator, the chief the vibrator. "Do you hear that?" she said in a sanguine inventor began to think his or whatever the affectionate shortening whisper, "It must be the French-man's ghost." followers ought to contribute their mites toward his running expenses. mites toward his running expenses. I listened breathlessly. The noise Accordingly a company was organized, of the room; we could not reach it amount of money invested was $200,-Stuch the same scene was enacted at without traversing the length of the 000. The shares were taken by promihe residence of Mrs. McGinnis, who floor, and who would attempt that, nent people all over the country and himself, as he supposed, confronted by an hd, however, consent to deliver over with those mysterious, ghostly foot- the topic of the day was the "Keely Namy then and there, but for a consideration, so wildly exhorbitant that the purchaser feit sure it would be dear for the choicest speci- had extinguished the last ember. It working clothes he had so long worn As he conducted his researches he can imagine how weird and dreadful old neighbors with his magnificent wished he was too many times since, found that the news of his quest, by was the situation. We lay and listened diamonds. The Ogden street abode some occult telegraphy, preceded him, and trembled through what seemed an became too small for the purposes of age to me. Finally something crawled residence or motor developments and firmly by their owners for fancy prices. floor. I followed in less time than it the statement that within 60 days he her father's nurse during the trying days He was assured, in spite of the evi-takes to write it. We both rushed would run a train from Philadelphia to dance of his evesicht, which discerned from the hearible place out into the New York with his motor and the only The regrees came at our first call, water. This had the effect of making but it was a long time before the sleepy the people grab for the stock. Two or headed "native" could be aroused. He was snoring andibly in a dry place fers of the stock and several lawsuits ment. Notwith tanding her enormous under the wagon. He came forth at last rubbing his eyes. "I tole ye how tinued going up till the spring of 1882, It wud be," he said, "thet infernal hole when the stock holders informed Mr. s haunted fur shore," When we re- Keely that it was time for the motor ing torches, and followed by our half | Keely appeased them by a long cirfainting, scared negroes, nothing was to be found in the cabin. We sat up directly for the purpose of correcting on the 19th of November the rest of the night, and at early erroneous impressions that existed dawn left the cabin and the moulder- regarding his attitude toward the ining bones of the Frenchman behind us. vestors in Keely motor stock. Again Auntie declared that she was nervous, in December, 1883, after waiting 18 and wanted to get as far from the months for the appearance of perpet-ghostly spot as possible. months for the appearance of perpet-ual motion, they held a meeting and It was not until some days after, that mildly threatened Mr. Keely for his Sambo aired his opinions upon the sub- long delay, Then began a contest between the inventor and the stockholders which has not yet ended. night, Mistis, was nuffin 'en de round Every few weeks the public would be worle, but dat yaller man's tame coon. startled by promises from Keely and Hit crawled through de floor atter more threats from the stockholders. chicken bones an' sich like, an' fout it Keely motor stock began to fade and attend Arthur Barry, a little colored wud sleep on your bed, an' keep out the appearance of the machine was a boy who had broken his collar bone. matter of doubt. Keely sought to ap- The doctor was admitted by a white "I knows better dan dat," ex- pease the wrath of the stockholders by claimed Hetty, who had all the super-stition of her race. "Ef dat want a A favorite method was to attach one "How does ghost what scared Miss July and Miss end of a rope to a machine and the asked, "that he is colored and you are Kitty, I'd like ter know what hit war? other to the rafters of the workshop. white?" Pshaw! Sambo, you don't know a ting | Then seating himself in a corner of the erbouthit."

Perhaps Sambo was right, but Aunt Julia and I have never forgotten the vibrator. The engine would revolve dropsy. White spots appeared on my and the rope begin to tighten. The | body, and, merging one into the other, harmony was continued unt'l the made me white."
safety of the building and the specta-jubilant violinist would then evolve pital, corroborated her story. wards famous as the inventor of the the most discordant strains from the electric telegraph, was a young painter fiddle, turn a number of little screws, while the machine turned the other ing from a small cast of the Farnese way and the rope unwound. Other Hercules, intending to offer it to Ben- difficult and apparently difficult feats

The he had made it perfect. When Mr. scheme was on the verge of a collapse West saw the drawing he examined it when Mrs. Bloomfield Moore became critically, commended it in this and interested in the motor and contribuhat particular, and then handed it ted $25,000 toward making it a success. It was paid in cash, and Keely Very well, sir, very well; go on moved from his home on Ridge avenue to a better residence on Oxford, near elect has expressed himself as not "But it is finished," answered the Seventeenth. His new residence was surrounded by the homes of celebrated Philadelphians, and everything went "Oh, no." said Mr. West, "look smoothly. Keely continually declared from his administration, not only of here, and h his finger upon various unfinished that the New York sharpers wanted

Mr. Morse saw the defects, now that the stock, but that he always refused. has become a marking necessity. After they stopped his allowances it Ground, therefore, has been broken voted another week to remedying them.

Then he carried the drawing again to the master. Mr. West was evidently very much pleased, and lavished praises upon the work; but at the end the southeast corner of Seventeenth and seas by building up and encouraging praises upon the work; but at the end the solutions of the solution of the sol "Very well, indeed, sir; go on, and recently in the most luxurious style. The history of his trouble with Bennet trade with foreign subsidized compe-"Is it not finished?" asked Mr. C. Wilson, which resulted in his incartion. Morse, by this time almost dis-couraged. eration in prison, is too familiar for repitition. It is an equity case in "Not yet; see, you have not marked which experts were appointed by the Excursionists who travel along the good indeed; remarkably clever;" but sea coast in summer are often attracted by the remarkable whiteness of the "I can not finish it," said Morse, in lighthouses, beacons and keepers" dwellings, and they wonder how these "Well," answered Mr. West,' "I guides to the mariner are kept in such have tried you long enough. You have a shining condition during the winter It is not numerous drawings, but the mixing a whitewash that when properly

NEWS IN BRIEF?

NO. 3.

to have her pupils well informed as to what goes on in the world, as well as Folks lows his sperit walks that o' characterized by contests over his no- to what is in books, has some of the torious invention for years. In early pupils put on the blackboard each

> -"Chief," probably the most vicions elephant in this country, was killed at Forepaugh's winter quarters recently. Two other elephants were his execudeath by pulling on a rope which had more. The last time Cardinal Gibbons

-Anthony Higgins, of Delaware, who is looming up as the coming Republican Senator from the peach crop State, is a man of medium height, of his name may be, and he is known by almost every man in the State, He is a lawyer of prominence, and he has achieved many successes at the Dela-

-In front of a shoe store in Columbus, Ga., stands a stuffed bear skin. company was formed on the basis of A visitor was passing eating pecans. livious to his surroundings. Raising his eyes in front of the store he found angry living bear, and plying his knife vigorously, he cut the stuffing from the imaginary wild beast in a style that would have delighted the heart of a Rock Mountain hunter. when being teased by his fun-loving companions.

-Miss Mary Garret, who is the mother through a long illness, and was preceding his death. short and dark. glasses and dresses to black, A solitaire diamond ring is her only ornawealth, she has had a very sad life.

-A crank has come forward in Keysville, Va., who claims to have dis covered a meteorological omen proving that Benjamin Harrison will not suron the 19th of November in the year when Benjamin Harrison's grandfather was elected to the Presidency, It snowed on November 19 in the years when Taylor and Garfield were respectively elected to the highest office in the land. None of these men lived to on November 10 this year the Keysville sage deduces the conclusion that Benjamin Harrison has not four years

-One of the physicians at the City Hospital in Jersey City was called to woman, who said she was the boy's

"How does it happen," the doctor "I am a colored woman.

tors demanded its cessation, and the her age. Warden Osborne, of the hosroom at Gainesville, Texas, while she was asleep, and attempted to chloro-She awoke and they escaped through a window. The sash fell and pressed the body of one of them so tight that several of his buttons were snapped off. A suspected negro was questioned, and his attempting to hold his coat so that the absence of the buttons would not be noticed, ied to shipping interests that the Presidentafraid of the word "subady" in this connection, and that we may, there-islature, when it meets in January, will be the repeal of the act providing for the payment of fees to the Register of Wills for collecting the inheritance tax. That is a piece of vicious legislation directly opposed to the mandate of the Constitution. If the Register of Wills is to do this work and receive extra pay therefor, it should take the form of a fixed salary. -Secretary Whitney has a right to indulge certain feelings of pride in regard to the partial rehabitation of the American navy. But, while congratulating the country upon what has been accomplished, the Secretary is of