

B, F. SCHWEIER,

A PROPOSITION is now under discus sion for the annexation of West Florida to the State of Alabama, much favored by the latter State, as giving her, by the acquisition of Pensacola, a better port as outlet for her growing business bor of Mobile.

ta ion.

THE CONSTITUTION-THE UNION-AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAWS.

Editor and Proprietor.

VOL. XLIII.

MIFFLINTOWN, JUNIATA COUNTY, PENNA., WEDNESDAY, JULY 17, 1889.

NO. 30.

WHEN EEN BUTLER GOT MAD.

'I was up at a State fair in Manches-than she has at present in her own harmoth, of Louisiana, the other day, 'away back in 1873. It was the usual ort of a New England fair-an agri-THE principal heroes of the Conemaugh flood appear to be two St. for the speech. The audience was on Bernard dogs. It would seem that he grand stand one s'de the race trck. and Ben Butler and the rest of us bigthey could swim as well as wallow through snow, and are powerful enough guns in the judges' stand on the other. "Fellow citizens of my native State," to save an adult man or woman. The began the bold Ben, 'I shall address you to day on the subject of Federal, st. Bernard deserves his exalted repu-

EUROPE seems to be in a panicky condition, dreading a war of which there are no substantial signs. The sounding of an alarm at Strasburg, probably to exercise the troops, the report that Germany failed to pay proper respect to the Crarewitch on his passage through Berlin a report that was afterwards denled), the fact that preident Russians are putting war clauses in their contracts, all these things in turn are money markets.

NATURAL gas has been struck in full dow at Pompung Vailey, Conn., by the company which has been boring for oil or coal for the past nine months. Some days ago, at the depth of 1200 feet, the drill broke off, and in order to remove the broken part it was necessary to take away the piping, and when about 1000 feet had been brought out there came a rush of oily water, which gave every indication of pure oil at a greater depth. "When the pipe was removed a spout of almost pure oil followed, lasting for 15 minutes, and then came a rush of gas, which has since poured in a steady stream."

THE verdict in the case of the keep ers at the Pulladelphia Hospital (Blocklev) charged with cruelty to patients appears to have been a kind of compromise. Judge Wilson told the jury in his charge what was clearly true, that if guilty at all under the testimony they were guilty of aggravated assault and battery, yet the jury returned a verdict of guilty of simple assault and hattery, as though they had accepted a part of the Common wealth's testimony a tras and rejected another part, A motion for a new trial has been made and until that has been decided the case cannot be considered as ended.

SEATTLE deserves great credit for the independence of her citizens, After allowing for all that could be collected from insurance companies the o the people of the town cannot cultural horse trot with brass band and political speeches. Ben Butler was up the age of seventeen she remained, un-State and municipal taxation.' 'Butler sailed along and had got well drove along the track with twenty yoke of oxen and a cart piled up with corn, pumpkins and other farm products and a couple of buxom country girls on He was proud of that turnout stop till it got out of the way. Then he had got jealous of the impression the first, one had made, and he 'came jes-hawkaway up with blg squashes and pump-corn in her hand. Well, that outfit made a big sensation on the grand stand and attracted more attention then Jim Robinson driving a 20-house circus-charlot would. He was getting mad "Can't this thing be stopped?" he isked. 'I don't want to be headed off by every Jake in New Hampshire who vants to make a holy show of himself." 'So some one was sent up the track o stop further interruptions, and Butler tot along as far as fifthly and was geting red in the face, when what should van. This one had nearly forty yoke of oxen, every one a seven footer, as leek as bulls and as fat as butter. chool marms, and the grand stand knew them all, and went wild with debe useless. He got his eyes almost wide "'If another one of those infernal cattle shows come along,' said he—'I'll leave the platform. I will be d—____I if am going to be broken in upon every ten minutes. 'This time a messenger was sent up the track, who headed off all the rest pumpkins, and it just put in and blew

The Irritating Interruptions Which Disturbed His Speech. ter, N. H.,' said ex-Governor War-

AUSTRALIA'S GOLD QUEEN. The Romantic Gareer of Alice Cornwell.

One of the most remarkable women of the present day is Miss Alice Corn-well. Born in England, she at the age of nine came over with her father and mother to New Zealand, where until consciously preparing herself scholas-tically at a ladies' school in Dunedin Mrs. May's Manor Lodge School) for subsequent enterprises which were to startle the whole world. She was not at school considered a very brilliant girl; netther did she in those days possess extraordinary personal attractions, But she gained for herself the succerest warmed up when the corn fed farmer drove along the track with twenty yoke associated always with goodness and amiability. Miss Cornwell remained in Dunedin until she was seventeen, and when she hade good-by to New and took his time in getting by the grand stand. Of course Butler had to Victoria she left behind her ties and friendships which to-day remain unbegan again and warmed up once shaken and unaltered. The stranger, more. By that time another farmer on introduction, does not detect in her manner aught savoring of self-consciousness or of affectation. No one who knew not of her fame would imagtaken as signs of impending trouble, ing down the track with thirty yoke who knew not of her fame would imag-sufficiently ominous to depress the of cattle and a still larger cart loaded ine her, from external indications, to be the possessor of three-quarters of a kins and four slashing red-cheeked girls on his load, each holding a red ear of agreeable in manner to a pauper as to a nobleman; she is ever ready to give her undivided attention to the ideas. suggestions, or schemes of any one, be ever so humble in circumstances; and, if his scheme have merits and be practicable, the lady will promise to give it her "best consideration," and she will, too. The subject of this notice married in Victoria an old man, a member of Par-liament, by name John Whiteman. The union does not appear, however, to have been a singularly happy one, from the circumstance that the pair ome along the track but another cara- have been living apart for the last ten years. And her parents, in order to get her away from surroundings which must necessarily have been unpleasant The cart was full of apples, butter and and distasteful to her, sent her to a college in London, where for a time she devoted herself assiduously to the light. To say Butler was mad would study of music and art, and where subsequently she published three of four But after passing several ex-1125 aminations in music and gaining honors a literature, her academic career was uddenly brought to an untimely end one morning by her receiving from Mr. fornwell a cablegram announcing the death of her mother (whose dying injunction was that Alice should resume of the procession, and Butler went along swimingly for a quarter of an hour longer, when a big brass band struck up back of the grand stand. It had become heavily involved in mining was a visiting band from somewhere up the State; it thought it was some pounds in an estate he leased from Sir pounds in an estate he leased from Sir William Clarke, and had had no return.

urpose of (to use her own

l'imes,"

for dear life. Lord, what a noise it made! But Butler wasn't going to be 'phased' by a big brass band, even if Cornwell first displayed themselves, two-thirds of the crowd were craning their necks for a sight of the musi-brilliant financial career, the beginning rians. Just then the fire-bells over in of which was soon to follow in the lanchester sent up au interna wake of these events. Mr. Cornwell's whanging, and every engine in the city paradel out into the fair grounds. misfortunes would appear to have brought about an abnormally phenome-Down the track they tore at full speed, nal change in his daughter's entire one after another, fires up, smoke roll-ing out of the stacks, bells clanging character, and from the dreamy, sentimental young woman, whose interest and horses laving their bellies almost was concentrated in her studies, she on the ground, while every boy in Mansuddenly became a matter-of-fact woman of the world, full of ambition, hester chased on behind yelling like demons, and the grand stand, tumbling magination, and energy. She had the over each other to see where the fire interests of her family at heart, and levoted her whole time to thinking out "That was the end of it. Butler tore rojects which should retrieve their up his notes and danced all over the allen fortunes. She felt that the only latform, blue with rage, and swearing vay by which she could successfully ike a trooper, while I tumbled down, coundish this would be, to use her chind the stand where I could laugh. own words, "to make the estate in as well as private offices in each of these Miss Cornwell is at thirty, if not a prepossessing woman, at least not un-handsome. Her face and features, somewhat irregular and undefined it is true, harmonize well with her symmetrical and well-defined figure, which is inclined rather to be embon-point than Her principal charms he, slender. perhaps, in the trueness of her eye and her gracious, well-bred manner. Those qualities it was, no doubt, that assisted her materially in London in floating "Midas." No one could look into eyes like hers and doubt the truth of her utterances. But she has other charms still. She has a soft, womanly voice, which even a blind man would associate with a character singularly earnest and sincere. High intellectual attainments, perceptive faculties of a high order, strong and humane feelings, and kindliness of disposition go to make up a character harmoniously combining qualities that are unfortunately rarely ever met with in a single individual. Such is Alice Cornwell at thirty; such is her career thus far. Much interest is attracted just now in the latest of Miss Cornwell's plucky commercial ventures-a new smelter invented by two Germans from Freiburg, named Icke and Grosbernd, who are Miss Cornwell's practical partners are in the concern. One smelter has been erected in the New South Wales Court of the exhibition, and one by the courtesy of the directors on the Broken Hill South Mine at Broken Hill, That at the exhibition will be ready for its pub-lic trial on the 9th inst. The crucible built in with fire-brick imported from Freiburg. The body of the smel-ter is of great height, and is fed from b th sides-the doors being at a height of fifteen feet above the crucible. The builion and the slag leave the crucible in the ordinary way, but there is an aperture from which every drop of lead can be run out without shutting down the furnace. Should the trials prove successful, it will be a great boon to the Barrier Silver Field, and very likely create a big stir in silver stocks. Should Miss Cornwell's smelter revive Broken Hill, many an aching heart will have reason to thank the great spirit of fearless enterprise which characterizes this hady, who, with all her speculative nature, has method, shrewd foresight, and much common sense in her calculations.

The Make-Up of Mummies.

Many details, now for the first time made public, respecting certain of the mummies are extremely curious. The twenty-first dynasty was, for instance, most elaborate, the wrinkles caused by the process of mummification being filled up with some kind of enamel, the skin colored with ochre, the cheeks and lips rouged, and false eyes introduced under the shriveled and half-open lids, this giving a horribly life-like apimpress on the withered skin. Many have been mummified in contorted attitutes, as if they had diel in couvulsions, but the ghastliest interest of all attaches to the remains of an annonymous Prince, who appears to have been embalmed alive, and upon whose mummy reports are furnished by Dr. Fou-quet and M. Mathey. The brain, heart, stomach, &c., of this unfortunate man. are intact, as in life. The body was found tightly bound in three places, namely, round the shoulders round the wrist and loins, and round the feet, these ligatures being drawn with such force as to leave deep furrows in the flesh. This done, he appears to have which the money had been sunk re-turn," So, having posted herself up been covered with a thick coat of bltun all the geological details of the goldmen, lime and pounded resin, and to field, and having, after much inquiry, satisfied herself that gold did exist in bave been enwound from head to foot with bandages soaked in some glutinous preparation which caused them to its vicinity, she formulated a scheme by which she could carry her ideas into effect. Money was borrowed and a had to be sawed of. The agonized expression of the face, the open mouth, shaft sunk, and within a foot of the the swollen and knotted muscles, bear point she had indicated the course of he lead was struck. This was the witness to his desperate struggles and to the horrors of his last agony. His age was about 23, and in his ears were small gold earrings. That he was a personage of high rank and the victim of some unspeakable tragedy admits of nstance where she had not personally no doubt! But to his name and parnspected and improved the claim. The entage and to the circumstances of his

So She Refused Him. Last night, within the little curtained room the gay music sounded faintly clear, silver lights came stealing through the gloom. You told the tale that women love to hear; You told it well, with firm hands clasping And deep eyes glowing with a tender light.

Mere 'acting? But your proyer was half Last night, last night.

Ah, you had much to offer; wealth enough To gild the future, and a path of ease Far one whose way is somewhat dark and rough; New friends-life calm as summer seas.

something (was it love?) to keep us And make us precious in each other's sight-Ah, then indeed, my heart's resolve I knew! Last night, last night.

Let the world go, with all its dross and dear, And thrilled me with the pain of lost delight, The present faded, but the past was clear,

And fewer dreary homes and faithles may thank heaven that I stood the test

The atmosphere of California, playing forever in golden sunlight about the crests of pine-clad trees, and over vast natural gardens nursed into ever blooming life by the mists of the Pacific, is just the elixir to feed the romantic element, and it is for this reason, especially, that it has been selected as a favorite field by the young and the adventurous, autumnal mornings so common to the foot-hills that a traveler, handsomely mounted, entered from the unrelieved olitude of a long stretch of primeval forest upon a road leading through fields of chapparal and dusty shrubbery to the then sparsely populated districts of Goldenvale. It was no bearded or hardy veteran who thus, almost unlast toilet of some royal ladies of the armed and entirely unaccompanied, pursued his weary journey through one of the most dangerous districts of the coast, but a siender though well-formed youth not more than twenty, whose regular features, marked with an unconscious air of determination, proclaimed him a native of a more eastern now quite bare of ornaments, had evi- peculiar to the border, and the crimson is as slender as your own, you will redently been buried in all their jewels, sash with its frayed edged was slung turn Fice and my rifle to me uninjured." like Q seen Aah-hotep; necklaces, dia- jauntily across the left shoulder, instead ammunition, sent the fellow stumbling | ever, but was conducted to the farther headforemost into the dusty road. Released from the grasp of the hand which had staid him, the animal, as if instinctively comprehending and par-ticipating in his master's feelings.

ment. This being drawn aside, he was sprang forward at the instant and obeyed his slightest touch with an alac-rity which betrayel his blood. "The plain is too wide for us, I'm afraid, my good Ficol" muttered the thong with curtains, while couches, 25000.

rider, and he retraced his steps. 'We ottomans, etc., were dispersed about. must take to the old road again; it is longer, but safer, and, though I have no fears for myself, the interests of years, or thereabout, with a dark, high, set with diamonds, others are involved in our mutual plercing eye, and whiskers that any safety, and we must reach Santa Rosa artistic barber would love to trim. His by nightfall, or we may both chance to catch it. So, down, rebeilious stomachi for we must both fast together

Rapidly did Fico retrace the ground which he had traversed during the preceding morning; the earth seemed suddenly to have become possessed of elastic qualities, so lightly did the good steed bound over all obstructions, Trees, mountains, landmarks, seemed to fly past him as he went. Occasionally their way was crossed by a tree thrown down by some tempest's force, but the steed cleared it with all the ease that a thoroughly trained and highmettled racer would have exhibited in eaping a hurdle or taking a ditch.

The rider was at last congratulating himself that he had outridden pursuit, when a loud peal of laughter aroused him from a reverie into which he had tallen, and, looking around, he found that, instead of riding away from his enemies, he had only thrown himself into their toils. In his abstraction he had suffered his horse to take a wrong direction, and was aroused to a con lousness of the error into which he had fallen by the sounds aforesaid.

'Outwitted, by all that's unlucky! he muttered, angrily. 'They have set a snare for us, and like silly perch we have glided into a net from which came you to these shores?" there is no retreating. But I'll lend 'Partly because driven from my them a merry chase before they take ome by me.' "Poor child!' we are too many this time, it seems,' said one, advancing sake of adventure. 'You will find plenty of it here. What is your name? 'I left that behind me?'

from among his companions, and as he approached, the young rider recognized in him the grim-visaged personage, whom he had used so roughly. 'But don't be downcast. I'll forgive the thump I got from you this morning, so you'll get down and allow yourself to be taken like a respectable gentleman, for, (quizzically regarding the other's clothes), 'although I have the advantage in years, between ourselves, amigo, I think we are of the same trade.' The unknown youth glanced at the scowling faces about him, but they were all of a pattern, and with what grace he could, dismounted, secret 'Agreed.

'I surrender myself freely into them. your keeping, and shall be content with such fare as you may see fit to give me, that particular brand, used by us only on great occasions, you understand?'

"Tolerably well said for a young camp whose beard is not grown!" ex-

NEWS IN BRIEF .. end of the cavern, where a cemmor blanket drawn across a wide cavity denoted the entrance to another apart--The number of visitors last year to

Shakespeare's birthplace was 16,800 ushered into another hall, of smaller Americans constituting one-fourth of dimensions than the first, fitted up in a the number-

-At a fancy dress ball held recently On one of these couches reclined in a in Paris a lady appeared with a miniscareless attitude a man of some forty ture Eiffel tower on her head, a yard

-A whale, it is reported, was driven features were of that neutral complex-ion which denoted the mingled blood of the civilized and the savage, and he was habited more after the manner of a successful ranchars then on the manner of a successful ranchero than a leader of -Reports received from many sec-highwaymen-which he was. His feet tions of California indicate that the -Reports received from many sec were incased in a pair of worked slip coming almond crop will be a large pers, and his mouth held a costly meer. One. The trees are loaded and bid fair chaum, from which he emitted clouds to produce a yield somewhat in excess of fragrant tobacco smoke, while he of last season, upplied himself occasionally with wine -The "two hundred and Fiftieth from a decanter held for him by an anniversary of the establishment of the Indian boy. A small, round bottomed first public school in the United States, guitar, inlaid with pearl, lay neglected sustained by a direct tax on the peo a corner. 'Joaquin!' said the stranger, instant. Dorchester, Massachusetts, on Satur-

-The "Julius Pam" diamond, which 'The same,' replied the highwayman, is valued at from £15,000 to £20,000, recovering from his inertness. 'What brings you hither? Speak quickly, I It weighs 2414 carat. It is longish in isk short questions and expect short shape, and of exquisite color-a pure "My duty brought me within the in existence is the Imperial, but it utches of your ragamuffins," replied is inferior in quality to the "Julius

-The Shah stayed during his visit ellency is not at a loss for the reason.' St Petersburg in a pavilion over -The Shah stayed during his visit to lery. The rooms are not very large, but are marvels of luxury. The decora-'Haughty and insolent, as usual, like the rest of your countrymen. Why shell

-The women of Chicago have established the first College of Practical Arts for women in this country. It is designed to give women a practical insight into the avenues of business life, such as law, life insurance, general office work, etc. The incorporators of the college are Madames Helen M. Mott, Charles B, Smith and Miss Katharine G. Todd.

-The Pope will change his residence from the Vatican Palace in July and will go to live in the pavilion which was built by Pope Plus IV. at the ex-tremity of the Vatican grounds. After ten years of continued residence in the Vatican palace, the physicians of Leo XIII, advise that this change be made. The new establishment is small, the house containing only seven rooms. It is situated about seven kilometres from the palace.

per such as an American's palate might crave, and while it is cooking let us ging the foundations for a new building drink to thy country's prosperity and in Rome there was found a marble good fortune-for, has she not been my best friend? Jose, another bottle of percia Triphana, with the lid still firmly fastened with rivets of iron imbeded m lead. Inside was the skeleton of a woman, upon which was found a nersi n ercolel re ur of gold en

Only for one, like Portia, could I say. I would be trebled twenty times myself;" Only for one, and he is far away; lis voice came back to me distinct and

Last night, last night.

If others answered, as I answered then, We would hear less perchance, of blight-ed lives; There would be truer women, nobler men.

wives. e-ause I could not give you all my best, I gave you no hing. Judge me-was right?

Last night, last night-THE BANDIF OUTWITTED.

It was on one of those delightful clime.

pearance to the faces, as shown in the autotype illustrations from Herr Brugsch's photographs, Others, though Bold youth! I've half a mind to unish you for your insolence. Yet, -on second thought, your bearing pleases me. You shall sup with me first, and tell me your errand after.'

'I'll sup with you willingly, but for ny errand, when you've obtained the ecret you're welcome to it.' 'Be it so,' said Joaquin, 'I will stake y ingenuity against thine. I will bet by liberty against thy life that I win

'You have the game all to yourselves, senors,' he said, fearlessly approaching

'Si, senor.' The supper was ordered, and in a corner. y comprehending to whom he had been day, June 29th. stroduced.

iswers.

e captive, with assurance; 'and a- Pam.'

"Hahl a pert youth. Not a Spaniard, see." If I may I chaudd have handled by the Romanoff No. If I were, I should have taught ou manners.

Well, then, your business?"

will perish ere I reveal it."

'It is also the business of others, and

"Away there, Sanchez! Serve a sup-shining brightly above him, and Field in front of the hovel. The youth undid the fastening, prang

the sea.

museums.

cropping the grass at the end of a lariat ullets from half a dozen rifles whizzing past him, was almost immediately out of sight, half way down the declivity.

government, who had ventured into of discovering the secret hlding-place of Joaquin Mariata, the scourge of the country lying between the Sierras and Next week took place the memorable expedition of Captain Love, who overtook the retreating desperado in the

it beyond his power to do further harm.

Sneezing in Germany.

intains, and by a lucky shot placed at section exclusively for the purpose

The rest is matter of local history poverty, and partly for the

if the reports do not mislead us, fall much below $3,000,000 to $5,000,0 0, and that is a very serious matter for a city of 26,000 inhabitants. Yet there has been no appeal for general contributions. The chief loss fell upon bustness men, most of whom were gain able to stand it, though it will wipe out the saving of years of hard work. Business was recommenced almost before the fire had finished its work of de struction, and the burned district will immediately be rebuilt in a more substantial manner. A Chicago bush ess min, who was in Seattle a few days before the five, considers that in the end it will prove a benefit to the place, by getting rid of a good many unsubstan tial buildings.

A BUFFALO lawyer has been appolated to take testimony as to the effect of an electrical current on the human body so that the Court from his report may determine whether death by electricity would be a cruel as well as an unusual punishment, Unfortunately the case can hardly be presented fairly except in argument. Those who have sustained shocks and live un doubtelly had poor connection with the wires and got hurt. . Those who had good connections, such as would be provided for a murderer who was to Le executed, are dead and cannot testify. But there is every reason to believe that their deaths were so instantaneous that they were unconscious of pain. The whole question turns on the connection made between the subject and the confuctor bearing the current. In accident casee it ranges all the way from good to had, but in an execution it could be deliberately made good, thus insoring instant death.

Wan clouds are again rising in Europe. Alexander of Russia has declared that Montenegro is the only real friend Russia has in Europe, and this is taken as an expression of decided ill-will to Germany and Austria. Following this we hear of successful Russian intrigue in Servia to draw that semi-independ ent kingdom away from Austrian mfluence and secure its adhesion to ran-Slavism. Next comes word that Austria has notified the Porte that she considers the attitude of Servia a sufficient cause for war. And the German papers exhibits a tone of decided unfriendliness toward Russia Later still comes news that Monteue gro, "Itussia's only friend," has made Let us hope that these threatening clouds may pass away without doing any serious damage as so many others In forming any estimate of the possibilities, it is to be remembered, however, that the military nations of Europe are at present enduring a strain for saving little Helen. in the maintenance of vast armaments to which they will not voluntarily submit any longer than seems absolutely necessary. One or other of them will some day be forced either to reduce its active fighting force or to precipimined for another generation.

Saved by a Lark.

"There is a nest in there, and I am going to find it," said Helen to herself. She parted the tall yellow wheat-stalks ooking about her with her bright sharp eyes. She did not have to go very far, for right before her was the sure enough, and in it were the little birds.

Was there ever anything so cunnin as these little heads, with their tiny bills wide open! It was such a pretty place for a nest too. Helen clapped her hands again, she was so happy. Then she sat down by the nest, bu he did not touch the birdies. It was like being in a golden forest, for the grain was high above her head. soon her eyes began to feel heavy for she was very tired after her long walk. She lay down, with her head fast asleep. On came the horses drawing the great reaper with its sharp, cutting knives. Helen's father was driving, and they were coming right towards the spot where the little child was lying. On, Helen, little does your father know that you are hidden there in the tall grainl check his horses at once? Did some ing tell him that his dear baby was was safe at home with her mother. But he was a good man, with a kind heart, and he saw something that made iim stop. The lark was flying wildly about over searted to harm a bird's nest. So he lake of twelve miles, and a frontage to said to one of the men, "Here, Tom, a river of fourteen miles. In some parts come and hold the horses. There must of the estate there is a rich loam thirty be a nest somewhere among this grain. or forty feet in depth, and it possesses, will walk in and look for it."

found little Helen fast asleep by the lark's nest! How his heart almost stood still when he thought of the danger that she had been in! He caught her up in his arms and covered her face a demand upon Turkey which looks is with kisses. "Oh, my darling!" he side an excuse for coming hostilities. Yes, it was the lark and his own veyed. Miss Cornwell contemplates carried home in her father's strong the purpose of working and developing arms. She could not understand what have done within the past few years, made the tears run down his cheeks. years to see on it in full work four saw-It was some time before the men mills and four collieries. So sanguine onld go on with their work. They left the grain standing around the attend the developing and working of

As they stood looking at the little birds in the nest, one of the men with big tears in his eyes, said "God bless other things will be subland in an the little mother feed her bables," of the different nations may be deter- 'are placed will keep them fresh for two however, that she has partners in Lon-to right and left, and went forward, starting point of her mining career. Soon afterward she became connected with numerous other mining com-panies in New South Wales, but in no tea of revisiting London in the interest of gold-mining was suggested to her by he late Lady Brassey, then on a tour of the Colonies, who pointed out to her he tacilities and advantages she would neet with in the great metropolis for floating mines of such a character as the Midas. The lady also invited Miss upon her arm, and in a short time was Cornwell to visit her, should she repair to London. Home she accordi went, and Midas-subscribed for imes over-was floated by her for 180,000 pounds, of which the share-

This enterprise it was, of course, that nade Miss Cornwell so publicly known. Miss Cornwell returned to Australia

What was it that made the farmer in danger? Oh no he thought that she the grain that was in front of the reaper. She seemed to say, 'Stop!' stop!'' The farmer thought he knew what she meant, and he was too kind-moreover, an abundance of the finest What a cry the men heard when he timber in New South Wales-cedar. mahogany, etc. From geological reports it is estimated that there are 280,000,000 tons of gas coal on the estate, and the profit on this, if worked, is further estimated in round figures at kind heart, that saved her. Helen was raising 1,000,000 pounds in London, for is she of the ultimate success that will lark's nest, to thank her, as they said, this property that she has decided to retain for herself one-third of the shares of the company she is about to float in other article. Numerous other ventures the birds! Come away, boys, and let

A little salt petre or carbonate of soda tate a conflict that the relative strength mixed with the water in which flowers nor time to deal. It may be mentioned, fate no clue remains. Another Possibly Dangerous Dam.

A special despatch from Lake Hopatcong, N. J., states that the dam confining that great body of water has been the cause of great anxiety since the Johnstown disaster. It has been built Home she accordingly for 60 years and raises the water of the lake 26 feet above its natural level. The lake contains, according to estimate, 10,000.000,000 gallons of water, being olders received 150,000 pounds net, over nine miles long, with an average width of three-quarters of a mile. The special says: "The dam is s) arranged hat the water flows both east and west a April of last year, chiefly for the from the locks at or above Landing Station, and should the dam break the words) assisting the management in handing greatest volume on the start would go over the leases quickly to the new comwest and sweep Stanhope from the face pany." Having done this, she jourof the earth. Before the water could neved through Queensland for the purreach Dover or Boonton on the east pose of obtaining information for her popular London paper, "The Sunday much of its force would be spent on the surrounding flats that intervene, but During this trip the Wyong Drakesville would share the fate of Estate-which she thoroughly inspected Stanhope, while Boonton and Dover and explored-was purchased by her for would eventually be flooded. Should 252,000 pounds. The estate covers an area of 17,000 acres; a railway line runs the water from Lake Hopatcong ever break from its bounds, the devastation through it. There is a frontage to a would be frightful, both to life and property, as there is nothing that could prevent the terrible flood from sweep ng from the summit level of the Morris and Essex Canal, both east and west, destroying completely or partially every canal town from the Delaware to the Passale River. It is expected, however, when the Newark Water Company takes possession of the lake that an entirely new dam will be constructed on modern principles, which will obviate all danger. The water lake are now privileges of the owned by the Lehigh Navigation Company, which uses it as a feeder for the Morris and Essex Canal. The dam about which fears are expressed is constructed of heavy blo ks of stone hooked together with iron."

.... Fortune knocks at eve y man's door, but rarely breaks the door in. He who knows how to eat and what to eat has no need of a dukedom.

Turnips may be seeded down now. Get new crop seed, make the soil fine, and watch the young plants until they are engaging the mind and attention of are well under way. Miss Cornwell at the present moment, Oil of peppermint is a strong disinbut with them we have neither space fectant and germicide; and it is said that one part in a hundred thousand of don, Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide, water kills roaches.

of being worn about the waist, while the threadbare jacket was undeniably the offspring of American industry. A condition, covered his handsome features, and from beneath its shade there straggled forth upon his shoulders a profusion of glossy hair. The only weapon of defense upon his person was a rifle, to which its owner seemed to cling with a pride that is easily comprehended by those who have passed a portion of their lives upon the outskirts of civilization.

Having entered a narrow pass at the foot of the declivity, the wayfarer very and throwing his rifle over his shoulder, while he passed the bridle loosely to assume a more leisurely gait, pausing occasionally when a fresh patch of herbage appeared to invite the nostrilof his faithful companion, who, by his ccasional whinneyings and other demonstrations, testified that he was not insensible to his master's kindness.

'Poor Ficel' soliloquized the youth in his native dialect, gazing in an affectionate manner upon his horse during one of these brief pauses; 'go where at once admitted. he may, he is always sure of an ample meal, while I, his master, have passed food enough to satisfy the cravings of hunger. Well, it's all one. I am used Fico, whose only pleasure lies in the filling of his stomach. Soho, Ficol' he seated furniture. added, patting him, 'what has scared apartment, in which his eyes were vou??

This exclamation was caused by a sudden swerving motion made by horse, and, looking up, the young fel-low found himself in the presence of a rough-looking customer, whose air and occupation.

It was in the day of Joaquin Mariata the noted bandit, and every hour that passed brought its record of outrage.

The intruder was attired like most native Mexicans; his hair, of inky hue, hung in disordered masses about his leathern-hued face, from which peered two coal-black eyes, and everything sight which met his gaze. about him was in the most filthy condition. A revolver and a knife peered from his belt, and his hands carried a rifle.

'Hallo, amigo! you are taking it very coolly, this fine morning!' was the ungraze.

the thermometer about ninety-five, and the slightest indication of fear or irresoluas if to lead him away. enough, my dainty senor; suppose, by way of variety, that you now follow mine.

into the saddle, and grasped his weapon firmly.

in the Spanish tongue. greaser. and dauntless people flows in my veins, thy villatnous carcass in characters too go thy hold!

The only reply of the ugly customer to this burst of patriotism was a rude exclaimed he who appeared to be the leader of the band. 'Do you know broad sombrero, in rather dilapidated what it is in our power to do with you if we choose?'

'I can imagine it; but the world-reupon him, "I know your purpose," he nowned politeness and good faith of a Mexican are sufficient guarantee that 1 thought, 'and will defeat it if possible. am in good keeping,' replied the captive, ironically,

'Satan himself could not take it more coolly,' was the rejoinder. 'Well, to the great delight of his entertainer, never mind, lad; we like thy spirit, and allowed his chin to fail upon his breast, perhaps you are none the worse for your and going apparently fast asleep. boldness. Thy requests are both This was the favorable moment, granted; but, first, to withdraw the incautiously jumped from his horse, charge of thy rifle, whose bark is far false beard from his face, and after more agreeable than its bite, What! little trouble found in no ammunition? well then, let us see of the youth's threadbare jacket a since the recent Parisian Medical Con through his arm, he suffered the animal if there is anything concealed about package, which he hastened to thy person. pursue

'Oh!' said the stranger laughing, 'that charge was expended before the to despair. The papers were writ other. ten in cipher, and without the

This operation, like the other, was of the sleeping boy they were valueless very quickly performed, when the Smothering his disappointment as young fellow was allowed to accompany well as he might, the chief ordered two hem. After a tramp of some minutes of his aids to throw the boy upon a they arrived at a deserted rancho to mat in the corner, and guard him closely for the rest of the night. He the adobe dwelling of which they were then went away. In about an hour the captive opened The unkown adventurer glanced around him with an air of suspicion as lds eyes, and cautiously glanced about twelve weary hours without finding they entered this ill-omene i abode, His two guardians had got hold with its small, deep dungeon-like wunof the flask intended for him, and had dows, and walls six feet in thickness, themselves fallen asle p in the midst of to roughing it, and can wait better than its hard earthen floors, its rough clay a game of cards by his side. walls, its rudely constructed leather-Noiselessly his arose, groped his way In a subterraneous to the place of exit, and, aided by the brands of the expiring fire, about blindfolded, his captors turned him which several were sleeping, traverse i the passage, and found himself preseveral times around, and he was consently in the open air, with the stars the ducted forward, Immediately he became conscious, from the change in the atmosphere, which had become suddenly cold and attire left no room for doubt as to his damp, with a strong current of unhealthy air, that he was traversing an underground passage.

A dead silence for some duration ensued, when his hands were unbound, and he was told that he might remove his bandage and look about him. He The captive lad was an emissary of the obeyed the intimation with alacrity, and was somewhat astonished at the

He found himself standing almost upon the verge of a ledge of rock, elevated some fifty feet above the ground, which formed the floor of an extensive cavern into which he had been conducted by his captors. An immense fire expected salutation of the stranger, who was burning in the centre, lighting up was leaning idly against a tree, at the the walls and sides, which were of marroots of which the horse had stopped to ble, veined and interlaced with brilliant colors, retreating into niches and de-

'One had need to take it coolly, with pressions, with here and there a cavity or statuesque projection, and myriads the atmosphere like a furnace,' replied of colors reflected in the countless youth, without exhibiting the stalactites which hung suspended from the cavernous roof.

Around this fire a band of not les than fifty persons was congregated. Your very good health. 'You have which made the cave resound; others is said to have originated during one of caped from the grounds, and had been intions long playing monte, and many making themselves merry in the company of vivacious female associates and the influence of repeated doses of aqua diente to be a plentiful supp y. It was a scene for an artist to ever-'Out of my way, ladrone, or it will cise his talents upon. The various col-be the worse for thee!' retorted the lad ored dresses of the outlaws, their a lower social status. A German comic horse eating bananas was so amusing 'I am no strongly marked swarthy leatures, the paper makes a good hit at this snobbish- to the bystanders that they didn't call greaser,' like thee, but an American, ern and bred. The blood of a warlike character of the place, all imparted to and I tell thee I will set my mark upon have enchained, as it did, the attention officer sneezes, whereupon the civilian gan to argue with each other, adelible to erase, if thou dost not let yet sufficiently accustomed to such good health. Presently the civilian inside the circus tent, scenes to view them without emotion. sneezes. The officer is slient, but the A hand was laid upon his shoulder to this burst of patriotism was a rude and he was ordered to descend—a feat and he was ordered to descend—a feat accomplished by the aid of a ladder the social ladder, anezed, and the other years old affected with obstinate heard its echo, a blow from the stock of which led into the body of the hall. two who are above him do not express scrotulous aphtholma (sore eyes and the speaker's rife, for want of better He was not supposed to pause, howheard its echo, a blow from the stock of which led into the body of the hall.

while, the wine was in readiness, large and elegant gold brooch, Now, then, nameless senor, I to my bottle, and thou to thine."

gold ring, a ring composed of two gold circles, a long amber spiral pin, two The youth filled his cup, and was combs of boxwood, a silver box and a about to drink it, when an idea flashed few other objects.

-A peasant found in the earth at thought, 'and will defeat it if possible,' Szilagy-Somiyo, Hungary, a hidden He pretended to drink, and exchanging stories of adventure and miraculous which are said to be fourth-century exploits, seemed gradually to yield to work. There are three drinking cup the influences of the narcotic, finally, of solid gold, decorated with enamels a gold bracelet, such as men wore, and golden brooches carried by women on their shoulders. The whole treasure, worth about 25,000 florins, is shown at Joaquin sprang to his feet, tore his own Buda-Pesth in the National Museum. -Consumption in the German Army the lining is greatly dreaded by the authorities, gress pronounced that the disease was Alasl a brief examination contagious. Accordingly, the German war minister has decided that the chest of every soldier must be measured once a month. If the chest does not reach a certain breadth, and does not develop with drill and athletic exercises, the soldier will be disqualiged, as predisposed to consumption and likely to infect his comrades.

-It seems that the "Black Chief ? who has been one of the "lions" of the Paris Exposition (perhaps on account of his Herculean proportions), does not wear the purple himself in his native country, Mellacor a, but is a sort of African Prince of Wales, his father being the real chief. This fact does not terfere with the visitor's assumption of regal dignity, however, as he makes all his excursions in Paris attended by his band-two dusky musicians, who day upon mysterious instruments, ombining the monotony of the tomom with the shrillness of the untuned violin.

-An impostor who has been decelyinto the saddle, and with the ing the colored people of Liberty county, Georgia, was arrested there reently on a charge of vagrancy. He claims to be the Saviour, and shows scars in his hands, which, he says, were made by the nails when he was crucifiell on Calvary. His hair and Leard are long and shaggy, although he evi-dently endeavors to trim his beard as the Saviour's is represented in some old pictures. He dresses simblely some times, and at all times poorly. He refuses money publicly, but is said to have money, and it was feared that the charge of vagrancy could not be sustained. At his bidding women have left their husbands and men their fa-The head of Joaquin has since formed milles to follow him about. His faconspicuous object of interest in the miliarity with the Scriptures is exceptional. He has told the people that he will go back to heaven in a chariot of fire at an early date.

Every nation has its peculiar customs. -An Italian in Boston, who had sta-When for instance, in Germany, a pertioned himself close by the entrance to son sneezes, everybody in the immedi- the circus grounds, that he might more easily dispose of the fruits which he had ate vicinity of the sneezer says solemply, the German equivalent for to sell, became so interested in the ap-The custom pearance of two Turks who had es-Middle Ages. When a person afflicted forgot all about the wagon load of with the dread disease sneezed, it was, bananas which were beside him, until regarded as an unfailing sign that the he turned suidenly and observed a -of which there appeared in this place crisis of the disease was past. There horse attached to an express wagon are a great many different grades of calmly eating from the stock of bananas society in Germany, and the friendly as if they had been placed there for his salutation is never extended to those of especial benefit. The spectacle of a ness. An army officer, a mere civilian the owner's attention to it, but when character of the place, all imparted to and a peasant are represented as sitting the Italian who owned the fruit, and it an air of romance which might well at the same table in a beer garden. The the Hibernian who drove the house, beof our young adventurer-who was not and peasant bow and wish the sneezer was more excitement than was heard

The juice of the matured leaf of the peasant extends his congratulations, burdock in teaspoonful doses, three

'I will take you where you will find The young fellow leaped suddenly it cooler,' said the other, advancing as he spoke, and seizing the horse's bridle, followed your own inclinations long playing monte, and many making them-