Suniata Sentinel Sepublican.

B, F. SCHWEIER.

THE CONSTITUTION-THE UNION-AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAWS.

Editor and Proprietor

NEWS IN BRIEF.

-At the beginning of this century

NO. 52.

VOL. XLIII.

MIFFLINTOWN, JUNIATA COUNTY, PENNA., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1889.

THERE is no danger of the World's Fair being held in Central Park, nor is She Proposes a Plan for Her Fathere much reason to believe that it will be held within several hundred miles of that spot.

him next summer when the Russian various tribes of Indians, some of who wants the Kaiser to see what a big lot of men he will have to meet in case of War.

THE sinking of the steamship Manaccompanied the disaster, constitute another object lesson for the International Maritime Conference. The fact elf-confidence which often invites a serious calamity.

reputation for disasters. Closely folowing the great fires at Lynn and Boston comes a fire at Minneapolis, which caused the death of at least seven persons; the wrecking of a vessel the death of nineteen of the crew.

ONE of the most gratifying features parents, and suggested to the chief that of the International Maritime Confermuce has been the unanimity shown by the delegates on all questions of importance. tives greater freedom of action, and is not likely to put any obstacle in the way of adoption of the proposed changes. It seems assured that protection and safety of life and property at should not visit them but once more, sea will soon be more effectually guaranteed.

BOXING derives such standing as it Mis, Bodwell said: "Jan es, I believe bas obtained in this country through that Indian means mischlef. English example, and now the authorities of London have decided to prohibis boxing +o tests. It is not long visit us but once more, and I fancy visit us but once more, and I fancy that would be to kill us," she replied. encouraged and permitted prize fights, and when these fell into disfavor, boxing was held to be a gentlemanly diverion by a very large part of the people, Th t it should now have lost its pres-Th t it should now have lost its pres- ""I'll tell you one thing, now," said should tige, as indicated by the action of the Mrs. Bodwell in a decided tone, "I at once. many art" into disrepute.

A BRAVE WOMAN mily's Safety.

James Bodwell was one of the first settlers in Bingham in the St THE CEAR wants the Kaiser to visit Maine. The whole region of the Ken-nebec was at that time infested by army review takes place. He doubtless seemed disposed to dwell peaceably with the whites, if possible, on the land occupied by their fathers, while native State.

others were exceedingly anxious to exterminate the pale-faced intruders. Mr. Bodwell's family consisted of himself, his wife, and three children hattan in a collission with a schooner, the oldest, Hannah, being 15 years of and the deplorable loss of life which age, and the others, a boy and girl, 10 an16 respectively. A cabin had been built, several acres cleared, and the seed sown.

Many of the neighboring Indians had that sailing vessels have the right of called at the cabin, inquired after the way over steamers seems to inspire crops, and taken a great interest in the their skippers with an overweening children; and although they had often requested to take the smaller ones to their camp, and as often been refused, they appeared friendly and willing to do what they could for the family,

THE year of 1889 is keeping up its | Hannah's features were finely formed; her eyes were dark, and her beautiful brown hair, generally hanging in tresses over her shoulders, always called forth from the Indians expressions of praise and admiration. After an acquaintance of several months an on the Jersey coast, with the loss of Indian chief desired to take Hannah to several lives and now the loss of his camp and make her one of his faanother ship in the Pacific Ocean and the destination of course, refused to accede, giving as a reason that his daughter was at that time too young to be taken from her while he felt it his duty as a father to retain Hannab in the family, he yet wi-hed to live on terms of peace with his (the chief's) tribe, and hoped that Even Great Britain, which the refusal to comply with his request went into the Conference reserving would not be considered a mark of discertain rights, has given her representa- respect, nor be the means of creating an unfriendly feeling between them. The savage chief sat a few moments in silence, and then, heaving a sigh, replied that he was so; ry they would not do as he wished them to, and t at he yet there would be no trouble between them, and none of his tribe should injure h'm.

After the chief had left the cabin, "Why do you think so?" inquired to do. her husband.

"Because he said should "I fancy not; he wouldn't do that." "I hope not; but then it would be just like the Indians, ' "Be like some of them, I know; but I think there's no danger."

about here. They'd scalp us and take Hannah and the other children off with

Description of their privileges as to bring "the about here. They'd scalp us and take thannah and the other children off with the many art" into discrepute. POSTMASTER GENERAL WANAWA-They'd scalp us and take thannah and the other children off with the m. POSTMASTER GENERAL WANAWA-They'd scalp us and take there here hears so as to put them to soak over the might. I helped her; we picked over a might be the some possible, he in-ing to appear as cool as possible, he in-unguired: "Suppose they should come, what you call saleratus now. But he "Suppose they "I'd show fight in some way or "Yes, but there are a lot of them how to use them." "Father," exclaimed Hannah, "how the Indians, and remained a number of sweet butter as large as a walnut, a teaspoonful of salt, and a tablespoonful of ground cass (cinnamon), just as much days to protect him and his family should other savages seek revenge. wheaten flour as will make a running No further trouble, however, was experienced. The explorers settled in that dough; roll it even, not above a pie thickness, cut in strips which tie over mmediate vicinity, and in a few years Hannah married a son of one of them. in lover's knots; have a skillet with And although she has now passed from sweet, home-made lard, and when the earth, her life was one of industry, virfat is hissing hot, fry your crullers." I learned every word of it so that I could repeat it. There wasn't a word said tue and happiness, and she had the satisfaction before she died of seeing her about pearl-ash or saleratus though, oldest son inaugurated Governor of his and as I was afraid they would be An Old Time New England Dinner.

heavy, I just put in a teaspoonful of mother's home-made pearl-ash, and I had some of the handsomest looking doughnuts you ever set eyes on. BY H. MARIA GEORGE. Wasn't I proud of that plate of crullers, "The greatest dinner that I ever helped about," said Aunt Hannah, with all my own work without a bit of help! Mother told me that I might keep then a flutter of her immaculate cap string, warm in the oven and present them to General Lafayette with my own hands if I wished to. And so I kept them as she finished wiping the dishes and replaced the dinner service in the corready for the occasion. ner cupboard, "was the Lafavette din ner, as we always called it afterwards. "Enoch was sent down the road to I never see this blue set without thinkreport as soon as he caught the first ing of it, for mother used it the first glimpse of the procession. It was after twelve o'clock when he rushed in shout-ing, 'They are coming! They are just "we've always been provided for, and we shall always be." ne that day, and the distinguished ing, 'They are coming! They are just below Deacon Watson's, and I saw La-Frenchman ate from one of these very plates, and he ate as if he was hungry, too, and praised all of the dishes as he was in duty bound. I shall never forget the time." "Tell us about it, Aunt Hannah, won't you? what yon had for dinner and all? Mother always said the blue set had a history, but I never knew what it was." "It was in 1825, well nigh sixty-five years ago," Aunt Hannah went on, "and I was twelve years old that very June. We had been expecting him (the had a history, but I never knew what it

June. We had been expecting him (the marquis) for several days; he had been in Concord ever since the 22d, and we and a good deal of hurrahing, and after a little time Squire Woodman made an had a man there who was to let us know address of welcome and several of the when he was to start, so that we older girls sung a song. Then the gen-shouldn't be taken unawares, for we eral got out of his carriage and shook were determined to show our patriotism hands with everybody and kissed all in honor of the man who had helped the babies very gallantly." "Tell us how he looked, aunt? Was General Washington win the independence of our country. And among oth- he large or small, and was he handsome? er things we were going to have a big I have seen his picture, of course, but a portrait never gives us any idea how "Well, the night before, just about a man looks." undown, the man came galloping into the village with the announcement that the marquis would start the next morning at 8 o'clock from Concord. You can hardly imagine what a stir the news ty that was more effective than mere our house to see what mother was going common mortals, eyes radiant as a sun-get the time.

all?

when general praise that it deserves. It is what would you do if you were awa out of thearticle. 'I won't borrow,' declared mother, so she built a fire in the fireplace and we children cleaned a corner of the hearth and burned corn cobs on the hot bricks till we had a flaky heap of cob ashes. These mother "There are guns in t'e house," ex-claimed Mrs. Bodwell, "and we know dirt had settled, then poured off the clear liquid into a gallon glass bottle, when she had something that was near-cake.

uite and escort.

We've Always Been Provided For. a couple of visitors were engaged in "Good wife, what are you singing for you know Like them, Halleck found a comfort-we're lost the hay; And what we'll do with horse and kye, is more than I can say; While, like as not, with storm and rain, we'll lose both corn and wheat."

While, like as not. with sform and fain, we'll looked up with a pleasant face, and answered low and sweet:
 "There is a Heart, there is a Hand, we feel, but cannot see:
 We've always been provided for, and we shall always be."
 The coolness, the quiet, the half-home-like air of the place, the care shown for the weifate and comfort of any wayfaring young man-all were certainly attractive.
 "I wonder " perversely mused Mr."

He turned around with sudden gloom. She said: "Love, be at rest: You cut the grass, worked soon and late, you did your very best, That was your w That's like a woman's reasoning; we must to reize any occasion to blame "women There is a Heart there is a Hand, we feel, but cannot see:

pushed away his book with a little. half-audible groan of disgust.

always be." "I'm goin', Bob," he gruffly in-Halleck heard the rustle of papers, as formed his neighbor. "I heard so if the secretary were looking among his fayette, mother!'
"Wasn't there scampering then, hur"Y was no name for it! Mother had her beans and bread out in no time, and Enceh and I helped her carry them
"Bed the rousphole table.
"Well, by the time everything was
"Well, by the time everything was
"Well, by the time everything was
"The secher and trustful face; gone whist a cheerful step go whist
"Be kessed the calm and trustful face; gone whist
"I mach about Browning's po'try last much about Browning's po'try last ing down the lane.
"I make and in with a cheerful step go whist
"I make and in we shall"
"I make and in the secretary were looking among his in the world is J. D. Reed, the statistician in the world is J. D. Reed, the statistician in the secretary were looking among his in the secretary at the the secretary were looking among his in th

-I'm only his assistant, you knowup. And he rose with a worn-out aspect perhaps he might do it for you. He'll be most happy to, if he can, I've no doubt," he ended encouragingly. "I'll of Kansas culture. Browning's poetry! speak to him as soon as he comes in, the bay, you know." She lifted then a smilling face, and said; "I told you so, Certainly, whoever selected that for such a library as this must have had Thank you-1 shall be very exalted ideas. Or perhaps it was one given because its owner did not care to -Exchange keep it. With an idle curiosity he took up the asked Colonel Mackay.

"I shouldn't call him handsome by many Western men, and a real es ate any means, though he might have been agent by profession. He had just taken Burton Halleck so when he was younger, but his sevenfor a drive about the latest additions to. made in our little village. Everybody was at once making arrangements for the event. The minister's wife came to massive head and wine, great frame, nassive head and wine, great frame, nassive head and wine at a destant and the second the fatest additions to that thriving young city. Fort Raynor, during which he had descanted most eloquently on its advantages as a place of which Halleck represented; and now It seems that there was a com- beam, and the sweetest smile in the he had set him down in Main St., ac-

always be

always bmittee of women appointed to see to the furnishing of food and the setting of the tables, and mother and Mrs. Well-man were on the committee. Mother have a kind word for an old soldier, new gas well," he went on, cordially. said right off that she should prepare and there were two or three of those "Discovered by Loring last monto; some hot victuals; if any one wanted to present, though but one of them had throws up a column of fire half as high some not victuals, if any one wanted to bring cold victuals they might, but she shouldn't for one. Mrs. Wellman thought as mother did, and said she should go home and heat the brick oven thought as mother did, and said she his desk, at the other end of the room and quite out of Halleck's sight. He was rather hard of hearing, the secretary, and the inquirer was obliged anly about twenty million people spoke to raise her voice also-a pretty, un-the English language, and they lived usual, girlish voice, which Halleck mainly in England. recognized with a start. Neither the speaker nor he could see it, just as you like."

-It is estimated that 150 men and each other, for the secretary's desk oc-cupied a recess near the door, and the engaged in hunting skunks. There is -the opening and shutting of a door.

in sight along the street, tolerably

more blue and sunny, or air more sweet

For all the world brightens to a man

when looked at through happy eyes, and any town seems pleasant and prosperous when grace1 by the presence of Superstitions in Ireland.

wandering soul of your grandfather.

foote1 woman.

and pure, than here in Kansas?

even tenor of her way home.

she cared-she cared!

the woman he loves.

owded though it was.

it for certain associations. There was a talized air, and made fresh every day mistake made in giving it to the li- and perfectly harmless. brary. I had put it away out of sight, and my mother thought I did not want it any longer, especially as she had given me a complete set of Browning urchase a Williamsport dentist al not long since, and so she brought it to the lower part of his face was nearly owed himself to be operated upon, and the Look-social with other books. I torn away. was not at home, or I would not have Indinese in San Francisco. Ti ey form searly one-seventh of the city's popula-tion, and t is computed that they send $12,000,000 a year from their earnings to China, cessfully acclimatized in Austria ou hat portion of the estate of Count Greuner which is known as the Danu ian meadows, and great flocks of them are to be seen in his forests.

"Thank you-1 shall be very much -A small flint stone idol was recentobliged! Tell him I'll call this after-noon. And please be sure that the book Boise City, Idaho, from a depth of 32. doesn't get lost or mislaid, Browning's feet beneath the surface of the earth "Men and Women' it is, you will re-Scientists who have seen it believe it to be the work of antediluvian man. There were more regrets and assur ances from the martinet assistant sec-Boston horse. The animal, in falling, got his leg into a cesspool opening at the curbston-, and it was not until a Halleck started to his feet, caught up his hat, and followed Miss Willard at a ortion of the curb had been remove hat he was extricated. He sustained

-The habit of asking for samples is ie dry goods states has grown so com oon in New York that most of the arger shops there have a special de artment now devoted to satisfying figure in its white gown was easily kept ectonia, O., was badly scared recent-y by something he thought was a ghost at his bed-room window. Investiga-tion showed, however, that the in ru-Mackay had said; and were ever skies

> -It is a curious fact, brought out by he New York Commissioner of Labor Statictics, that prison estimates of the amount of food needed to sustain ife are more liberal than estimates or persons dependent on public chari-

He examined with a jeolously critical ticular ingenious lads to think of taching a string to the nickel with eye certain men who bowed to her, and it was a face more anxious even than hopeful into which she looked up just ODENHING thdraw the colo. as she entered her gate and turned to -According to the French paper close it after her. the Madrid Gallery has lately received as a gift from the Duchess Dowager de Pastrana 225 pictures, among which are said to be works by Vau D.ck, Ruens, Ten ers, Mengs, and other fins ing background for her pretty, high-held works.

"I wonder," perversely mused Mr.

about in a critical way with his keen, handsome gray eyes - "I wonder when women in general will think enough of with wind and rain. And do not doubt but you will reap rich fields of golden grain: For there's a Heart and there's a Hand, we feel, but cannot see: feel, but cannot see: We've always been provived for, and we shall always be."

Days come and go twas Christmas-tide, and the great fire burned clear. The farmer said "Dear wife, it's been a good and happy year: The fruit was gain, the surplus corn has bought the hay, you know." Halleck smiled a little at this glimpse you so, For there's a Heart, and there's a Hand, we feel but cannot see: We've always been provided for, and we shall of the "book-social" contributions, TRACED BY A BOOK.

"But where shall I meet you again?"

rejected volume and read the titlefamiliar enough to him once, and the retary-an exchange of good-mornings sight of it now touched him with a He was a colonel by courtesy, like so sharp pain, while still he went on gland ing at page after page with an odd, half-unwilling fascination. The lines seemed to come to him in the music of a girl's pretty, unusual vibrante voice; there seemed to bend with him over the book a dainty, golden-brown head; an impetuous, dimpled, little hand seemed to point out beauties here and there with a swift appreciation; an arch, carnest April face seemed to look up with a flash of triumph in the dark, hazel eyes at having won some disputed point of interpretation.

She had been so full of sweetest life. his Lucie, so intense of feeling, so bright of intelligence, and so determined that he should share her pleasure in her favorite poet, and they should be one in that as in all other things, "The good stars met in your horoscope, Made you of spirit, fire and dew."

he found himself reading out of "Evelyn Hope," as he had once read to her; and then turned some pages in haste. Now Miss Willard was not "his Lucie," he reminded himself, bitterly,

Their engagement was broken by Liver fraid a He did not even know now. He had quite over-lived the whole big book-case stood boldly out between. a good demand for the paits. "No, valued," she explained, with a touch of anxiety evident in her tones. "It is quite a shabby book, but I value tracted without pain by the use of vi-

> -With a view of testing a new tooth pulling machine which he was about to

-There are more than 40,000 allowed it. I want the book back very much indeed, and I will gladly give you a new copy in exchange, or pay for A short pause followed, in which -The oldest Morse telegrapher in -A singular accident happened to a sate, respectful distance. He had checked his first hasty imno injury whatever. pulse. He would not try to speak to her or claim her recognition here; but they would meet in a few minutes, and The slight, gracefully-erect young this class of customers. -George Fredericks, who lives near Halleck observed to himself that there was evidently a good deal of business astir in Fort Raynor, as Colonel er was only his old white horse.

Yet Halleck had time for doubts and fears enough while Miss Willard, un-- Numerous methods of cheating the atomatic wrighing machines have seen devised, but it remains for par conscious of his proximity, pursued the MER's report is receiving the very ing that the Postmaster General has acquired a thorough knowledge of his other." department during the few months he has been at its head. He has closely and only a few of us." scrutinized every portion of the department and in a lucid and convincing manner suggests changes which would doubtless be advantageous to the country. He finds the present system too cumbersome and points out how the defects may be remedied. Mr. Wanamaker is bringing the mind and method of a great and successful business man to bear on his department.

THERE is very little danger now that any American officer could be swerved from his allegiance by decorations or presents from foreign Governments, but Captain Cochrane, of the Marine Corps, and Lieutenant Aaron tance." Ward, of the navy, cannot accept the ribbous of Chevaliers of the Legion of claimed, "impossible!" Honor, which the French Government desires to bestow upon them, unless permission should be given to them to do so by act of Congress. When the Mr. Bodwell's reply, as he procelet to nation was young- tresh from Royalist get the powder. rule-there scented to be some risk that an aristocracy might be formed in | imitation of that of the Old World, o, that foreign nations, by the in ddicus bribers of titles, offices, &c., might undermine the Republic. It was, therefore, provided in the Constitution that "no title of nobility shall be were loaded, the doors barred and the granted by the United States, and no lights extinguished. Mr. Bodwell took person holding any office of profit or his station at the "lookout," as the trust under them, shall, without the orifice in the wall was called. Sever d consent of Congress, accept of any new holes had been made to fire through present, emolument, office or title of explosion, if any human forms were any kind, from any King, Prince or seen, the muskets should be discharged foreign state." It was a wise provision at once. then, and, though scarcely necessary The evening hours passed slowly now as a measure of protection, is a wholesome provision for all time.

to extend the school term and provide stood before the door. They now eurolled in the public schools of 'on the mine. South Carolina 89,761 white pupils and 104,503 colored pupils, making a total enrollment of 194,264. During the year the overage attendance was: White, 59,347; colored, 69,892; not classified, 7110; total, 136,358. Teach-ers employe: White, 2528; colored, th ough the orifice in such a manner that the muzzle was in line with the mum school term of about six months; of cruelty and death. but the condition of the State finances Those not killed by the explosion has not made it practicable to pay the took to their heels, but bullets from the necessarily increased expense. This remaining muskets brought two of condition of affairs will be better un- them to the ground. derstood when it is remembered that does not apparently arise from any disinclination to take advantage of their attendance of negro children is quite as country with a view of settling. They satered him in burying the bodies of punctual as that of white children.

much powder is there in the house? ' "A good quantity." "I know what to do, then!" "Yes, you women always contrive something," replied the father in a sarcastic tone. "I know it'll succeed." 'Then explain yourself."

"You know," said Hannah, "that when an Indian wants to enter a house he goes to door and demands that it be opened, and those who come with him, if any, stand just behind him. Now, my plan is to put some powder under the ground round the door, and then explode it when they demand admit-

Mr. Bodwell shook his head as he ex-"I think that it can be done," replied the daughter. "I know it can," said Mrs. Bodwell. "You can try it if you wish," was After digging a suitable hole they filled it with powder and small stones, and laying a fuse so that it could be highted from the inside, the mine w.s pronounced "complete" by Mr. Bo well, who, though he distrusted the scheme when it was first suggested, was now almost in ecstacy over it. As night approached the musketevergreen.

away, and yet no visitors. Night was well advanced. When a 1 nature seemed asleep the listening ear caught the sound of a footstep in the distance, THE Governor of South Carolina in his message to the Legislature strongly Bodwell's fears were about to be realhis message to the Legislature strongly need. A form was visible in the star-recommends liberal expenditure for light, and then a second, and so on unthe support of public schools, in or ler , til between twenty and thirty Indians were more efficient leachers. There are close together, and most of them stood

The chief advanced, and striking on the door with his club, exclaimed: "Paleface, open door. Me break it." All was still within the cabin. Again the Indian knocked, and deanded that the door be opened.

Mr. Bodwell pointed his musket 1622; total 4.50. The average length head of the chief. Then giving the of the public school term throughout signal for Hannah to touch the fuse, he the Stale was 3.4 months. The Con- aimed and fired, and as the victim fell stitution of the State requires a mini- the magazine exploded, and twenty Indians met their fate while on a mission

Everything was quiet now, and as the rays of the sun lighted up the eastnearly the whole weight of school tax- ern hills the gallant family unbarred ation falls upon the white population, the door and stepped out to gaze upon who are also at the expense of main- the scene. It was terrible to look upon taining private schools. The failure of the mangled forms of the redskins, but the colore 1 people to pay for schooling the reflection that their own lives were the colore 1 people to pay for schooling saved was sufficient to vindicate the Jaughter that had been made, That day Mr. Bodwell was visited by just how it read: opportunities to obtain edudation. The hree ploneers, who were exploring the ow and his face grew grave. I think from his buggy, elbow on knee, to see he must have been thinking of the old if gas wells seemed more attractive than imes and the many sad changes since. But he ate heartily as though he rel shed the food set before him "But the crullers, Aunt Hannah, how about those? You have forgotten

"No, I had not got to them. The general ate so plentifully of the beans, bread and pudding that I was half afraid he wouldn't care for the doughly as good as boughten pearl-ash. "It was eleven o'clock when we went nuts at all, but I went and got them and carried the plate to him, though I to bed that night, and we were up the blushed fearfully I can assure you. Said the general, 'What are these, my next morning by four. The oven wood had been prepared and placed in the little girl?' big brick oven ready to touch off, and " They are Lafayette crullers, sir, I answered. 'I fried them purposely it was roaring good when I was delegait was rearing good when 'which was not ted to 'pile in the wood,' which was not play, I tell you. After two hours of hot play, I tell you. After two hours of hot 'At this he smiled and thanke off," and Enoch shoveled the coals out and took one of the crullers, and he ate three of them before he arose from and I swept the oven with a new hem-lock broom. Then with the aid of a the table. And we have called them ng-handled crook mother stowed away Lafayette crullers ever since."- Cottage the beans and bread; there were ten Hearth. big pots of beans and six of brown bread.

Origin of Mother Goose.

skipp

ter she put in a dozen pies, a couple of dowdy-puddings, and a loaf of dyn-bread, as we called it, a rich, plain "Sing a Song of Sixpence" is as old as the sixteenth century. "Three Blind Mice" is to be found in a music book "We had spoon victuals-soup, dated 1609. "The Frog and the Mouse" was produced in 1580. "Three Children Slid ng on the Ice" dates from 1639 porridge, or pudding and milk-for breakfast, and father ate before the rest of us, for he was a member of Captain "London Bridge is Broken Down" is o Currier's company and had rode off on unfathomed antiquity. "Girls an Boys Come Out to Play" is certainly a White Dan, our driving and work horse, to meet Lafavette and escort him ld as the reign of Charles "Lucy Locket Lost Her Pocket," t the tune of which "Yankee Doodle along the route, I can remember watch ing his martial figure as he went down the road, and wishing that I was a man was written. "Pussy Cat, Pussy Cat, Where Have You Been" is of the age of so that I could ride like that and show my respect to the hero. But I had oth-Queen Elizabeth. "The Old Woma er work to do, and so did mother too Tos-ed in a Blanket" was written in the Enoch was busy with a lot of other boys reign of James II., and is supposed to erecting an arch over the street, which allude to him. Some of these skipp verses were incorporated with "Mothe cas decorated with roses and other flowers that the girls made into bou-Goose's Melodies," and suggested som quets and garlands, and the boys tied of them. Mother Goose was a real, and on with strings or with loops of winter not a fictitious, person. Her maide name was Goose; she came of an excel

"Beyond this arch, in front of the lent family, and was born in Boston Her daughter Elizabeth married Tho church on the green, the men had built a long table of boards which was covermas Fleet, a printer. They were bless ed with webs of tow and linen brought ed with a son, to whom Grandmother out from some of the housewives' laun-Goose became very much attached. It dries. They looked white and clean, was for him that she composed and and all the good housekeepers in the village brought out their best ware, and sang the ditties.

Mr. Fleet, her sen-in-law, was must say that I never saw a better shrewd fellow. He saw that money display of crockery. This blue set in ould be made out of the nursery the closet wasn't such a sight behind rhymes, and so he issued them in a book the rest either; anyway they concluded under the title of "Mother Goose's Melodies," and they became widely it was handsomer than the minister's wife's and it was placed at the head of known and instantly popular.

the table, so you see Lafayette must have used one of the plates, for there "Little Jack Horner is said to be ounded on fact, and it is a very old saying he would detain him no longer, has'nt been one of them broken. ngle. "How many plates were set, Aunt?" asked sister Nelly. "I think, I am quite sure, there were over two hundred. There was a show Henry VIL by building his kitchen so the hot street toward it. subtantialy that the destroyers of the of them, I tell you, and didn't we get monasteres were unable to throw it down. in a rage, the king sent for the tired washing them and clearing up after dinner. There was another table abbot, who, hoping to appease the montoo, a small one, where they had cold rch, snt to him his steward, John victuals, and any one who did not have a seat at the long table, could help Hornes with a wonderful pie, the inof which was composed of the ored light from them lay here and there erior themselves. You see nearly the whole title deds to twelve manors. But as on the dark moss green carpet. town was out, and we didn't know how John Iorner sat in the corner of the many there would be in the general's wagor that carried him to the king, he was isduced, by curiosity to lift up "Early that morning while the beans crust and to abstract therefrom a title and bread and pies were baking in the brick oven, we fried a lot of doughnutdeed which, on his safe and successful retan home, he showed to the abbot, lic service; another table covered with in a shallow, wide-mouthed bail kettle and old him that the king had given swung out on the crane over a good fire. We fried a good half bushel, and to him he deed for a reward. The deed was hat of the Manor of Wells. close with, mother let me fry a plate of real Dutch crullers which I made all Fiotpad-Hold up your hands!

myself-my first cooking experience by the wholesale. We found the receipt Pdestrian (calmly)-I have been out shoping all day with my wife. Botpad (sympathetically)-By Jinks! Hee, take this quarter.

in an old manuscript recipe book of the date of 1788, which grandmother must have brought from New York when she An eccentric Detroit millionaire rried grandfather. I can remember go into an argument with a woman, out of his tenants, and she slapped his "Take of butter milk one-half a cup wuth with a dishcloth. and two cups of muscavado, a piece of I corn-lands and corner-lots to this possible purchaser. Halleck, standing on the sidewalk, paused irresolute. His father had lately been seized with the Western fever, and he had been persuaded to go and spy out the land for a good location; but, so far, he had failed to take a reasonable, business-like interest in the matter. Still t would no doubt be as well to see the dace thoroughly, since he was there. "I might wait at my hotel," he was beginning, rather doubtfully, when the colonel cut him short very decidedly. He did not intend to allow any rival agent to secure the desirable firm of Halleck & Son for the town, and old Enderly was sure to be at Halleck's otel by this time. Something must le done. Glancing up across the busy, stceped street, he caught sight of a row of plate-glass windows, lace-draped and inviting of aspect, and had an inspira-

"Oh, don't bother to go 'way back there in this heat for such a little while," he said, "Just step over to the Young Men's Christian Association rooms yonder," pointing where those ll-known letters ran in glaring gilt cross the second story of a handsome rick building, "and amuse yourself if i come. The ladies here have just een giving a book-social, and got ute a library together for the readg-room. Any young man is welcome o pass the time there. Or, if you didn't care to read, you might talk to the secretary. He's generally on tap, and it's his business to entertain strang-

"A book-social?" repeated Halleck, lly amused at the fussy, friendly little man's unconscious air of giving him "What sort the freedom of the city. t thing is that?" "Oh, a new idea of the Ladies Auxiliary! They fitted up the rooms, you see, and then gave a social, and instead of paying at the door, everybody that came had to bring a book for the reading-room. They've fixed a very com-fortable place, altogether, and the association's doing fluely." And he might have gone on still man seemed an uncommonly steady sort of fellow, and would perhaps regard a flourishing Y. M. C. A. as an attractive feature of a town.

Halleck, however, unconsciously broke the thread of his discourse by There are several versions of accepting his latter invitation with the story, but the accepted one is that thanks, and adding that he would wait the Abbot d Glastonbury had offended in the reading-room, sauntered across It was very comfortable. The re-> een taxed for its benefit. Stained-glass squares bordered the large windows, and bars of many-col-

Pictures of very doubtful merit adorned the pearl-gray walls. A large, notley array of volumes, new and old. There was a writing table at the pub papers and magazines; a third set bout with chairs and littered with pooks, among which stood a large bowl of pale amber glass, crowded with rimson and white carnations, whose clean, spicy fragrance pleasantly penetrated the air. And everywhere the hand of minis-cles of fancy-work, pretty and ugly, appropriate and inappropriate.

episode; could never again feel pain, or joy, or anger because of it; and to prove and then pale and proud. But she stood this to himself, he began to read just serenely calm, with her large, lacy where the book happened to open at "A white parasol making a soft and becom Lover's Quarrel." It was the height of foolishness to let brown head and smiling, pleasantly surimself shrink from the sight of a prised countenance; and there was only himself shrink from the Surely he a bright, contain contrasy in ought to be able to read it without and manner as she spoke. when they read it together that last have thought of meeting you here out West? Won't you come in? ' day on the porch, when the apple blozsoms were drifting down in scented She was moving aside to let him en-

"Dearest, three months ago, When we loved each other so, Lived and loved-" when you called there just now, and could not help hearing what you said, I thought, since you wanted your book Only a little more than three months back so much because of its associa ago they, too, had lived and loved-and quarreled. It seemed about such a tions, you might be willing to take back the lover who helped make them Was I right? Will'you let me in now?" rifle looking back now! "Not from the heart beneath, "Twas a bubble born of breath. There was a moment's pau-e; and then slowly, shyly, a small hand open

There had been a few angry words, ed the gate, and Halleck entered. parting in wrath, a week's chill, in Colonel Mackay had never been able to make up his mind whether cornerdignant silence, and then, when came, repentant, to make his peace, lots or gas wells proved most "fetching" found she had alruptly ended her visit. to Mr. Halleck. He was sure it was one or the other

And as she had b en too proud to however, and he has long since forgive leave any word that might hint of hope the broken appointment made on that to him, so he, smarting under the sting, memorable morning, as Halleck ne had been too proud to ask her new adonly decided to settle in Fort Raynor lress-for he knew he: out built one of the prettiest houses i ab ut to leave the New York town where they lived-or to try to seek her town to receive his bride, out, and thus all their happiness had ended for a hasty word. "See a word, how it secercib, Oh, power of life and death, In the tongue, as the preacher saith." There was a dreadful applicability in the rippling rhymes. From them he turned for relief to a mechanically close insp ction of the to die within the year. If the stacks are not circled each page on which they were printed, and night by the noiseless barn owl a blight which was marked here and there with will fall upon next season's crops.

light jencil strokes-"a heart in dots Any three idle strokes of a stick in and underlines," the ashes or a spade or other farm tool Lucie was an inveterate marker of in the soll making a figure resembling her pet books, he remembered. Must coffin is certain to portend death in he always remember her ways, her one's family. "The lunnet pours forth the most mel words, even her tricks of marking o ems? These, now- Why, these were marked just as they had been in the further; for, he told himself, the young copy he had read with her! It must be -it was the same book!

The name on the fly-leaf was hidden by the printed library label, but there a neighborhood. were her delicate, famillar little marks Over in Connemara to this day a funat the well-known passages, the stain eral procession on its way to church where she had shut in a cluster of viowill halt at some distance away and lets he had brought her one day, the cast together a huge pile of stones absurd little profile of the poet Gigadibs One of the oldest of all Irish superthat he had teesed her with by sketchstitions is the belief that If you chase ing on the margin! For one instant his heart leaped with a sudden, tender joy at the recognition sources of artistic furnishing, as under-that seemed to put him in touch with An Old House Servant's Honesty. An Irish woman went into an emigrew angry with the girl who had cared grant office in Fall River, Mass., two so little for this book that she could give it, with all its traces of her own draft for two pounds, directing that it inner nature and its associations of the be sent to an address which she gave. man who had loved her, to be handled The woman said that she had I and read and curiously examined by servant in a well-to-do family in Ireland any one who chose. 40 yeas ago, at the time of a famine. Had loved her, indeed! No, loved Sus gave foud to the suffering poor her still, he owned to himself, bitterly. in the swift self-knowledge brought by out the knowledge of her mistress, the words of the master-poet and the The fat that she had given away what thronging memories evoked by the did not belong to her preyed upon the servant's mind, and she resolved to pay familiar volume, He recollected how, woman-like, Luback the value of the goods whenever cle had been won't to treasure the she became able. Later she removed to merest trifles that were associated in this country, and saved what little money she could spare until she got any way with her friends. She had returned all his gifts, of course, but if together the $10, which she forwarded she had ever really cared for him, to her old mistress. In the 40 years the surely she would have valued this book a little.

"A valuable book, did you say?" The secretary was apparently not questioned the secretary, in his high-"on tap," but was busied at his desk; pitched voice, just then, of some one by servant's honesty.

-According to London advices Frank Slavin is anxious to avrange i natch for a limited number of round with John L. Sullivan, or he will fight the big fellow to a finish for from $5,000 to 10,000 a side, under London prizes ring rulas.

-That remarkable story from near Stirling, N. J., about the "colored boy and his fatal muzzle" turns out to have been a cannot. A resident of New Providence, N. J., writes the New York Tribune that, "from beginning to ad, the story did not contain one word f truth."

-Carpenteri, Cal., has a grape ine of the Mission variety, which has a girth of six feet at its base, and a he heighth of six feet branches out in very direction for a hundred feet. 1 vas planted forty-seven years ago by panish girl. This season its produc s estimated at four tons.

-Tax stamps have been establisheswitzeriand to enable the poorelasses to pay their taxes in small in talments instead of handing out a unp sum. The taxpayer can buy eekly a few twenty-five or thirty cen me stamps, and so gradually clear of is debt to the government.

-The town of Cullman, a thriving It is very unlucky to meet in the Alabama village, makes the boast that has not a negro within its borders. It early morning a backing dog or a bares named after a rich German whe wished to found a colony of his own When a corp e retains animal heat ver-long another a ember of the family ace in the Alabama fruit growing rerion. It has a population of 2,500.

> -A vocabulary of physical ferms tyled "Butsurigaku Jutsugo," ha been issued in Japan. It gives the au has horitative Japanese equivalents of an important group of Western scientific erms. In all thirty-six Japanese gen lemen have been engaged in its prep anation for the past six years.

-A Maine contemporary tells of a neholy song of all Irish birds, and I uve seen honest-hearted peasants aferchant in Augusta, who examine very package left in his store, whether acted by it to tears. When the nest of the thrush or mavis he has any business to or not. Recently in acquaintance, knowing this failing s built unusually high in the thornleft a paper bag of hornets in the mer oush this betokens a great calamity to chant's store, to be "kept safely unti-called for." The merchant explores as us ual, with results that may easily be guessed. -The present estimated population d the United States is 64,000,000. The ate of increase, exclusive of immigra ion, is estimated at 1.8 per cent. and catch a butterfly you imprison the per annum-about 100,000 a nonth. By mimigration the bicreas f population averages over 43,000 a nonth, or over 500,000 yearly. The uggregate annual growth from both or three weeks ago, and asked tor a auses does not fall short of 1,750,000

he estimated foreign population is no much below 14,000,000. -The Boston Memorial Association

an organization formed to protect Bos ton from the invasion of bad statues has formally protested against the ac ceptance by the city for the public gar den of the memorial to the late Colone Cass. This is the monument made b the stonecutter after a design which h secured from a sculptor of some name But the scultptor supposed that the monument was for a cemetery, and way horrified to learn that it was up in Boston's most favorite square. The dried leaves of the Japan all spice, Chimonanthus fragrans, have a mistress had been greatly reduced in circumstances, and she wrote that the tea-like flavor, and are said to be superior to much of the green tea sold money was indeed a treasure to her, The plant is sold in Eugland as a flowering shrub.

the open book-case held an exceedingly