Delamater's Admission

The Republican party has come to a decision and embodied the decision in its platform that the home of the farmer and his land have been excessively taxed, and I have, as the leader of the party, come to that conclusion.

The above is from the Democrat and Register of last week, and is evidence that it has not opened its eyes to the cause of the changes that have taken place in this commonwealth.

It says "Mr. Delamater has come to the conclusion that the Republican party has been imposing on the farmer by unnecessarily and unjustly taxing him."

The Republican party has set apart more than a million annually from corporation tax for the relief of the school tax in the respective townships of the Commonwealth and more is promised, but our Democratic friends have not opened their eyes to that fact.

No Delamater did not say the Republican party has been imposing on the farmer by unnecessarily and unjustly taxing him.

But he said the Republican party has come to a decision and embodied the decision in its platform that the home of the farmer and his lands have been excessively taxed.

The Democrat and Register should know that the Republican party when it came into power in this state found a direct state tax on the home and farm of every man, and that that not of Legislature it removed that tax and now by the blessing of the Republican rule in Pennsylvania there is no state tax on home or farm.

That is the point on which our friends of the Democrat and Register have not got their eyes open.

Since the Republican party came into power the corporations have developed and have been of incalculable benefit to the people of the state for the tax on corporations, enacted by Republican rule has almost extinguished the democratic debt of $20,000,000.

This state by counties has a debt of $24,000,000, and that debt is on the homes and on the farms of the people, but it was not the Republican party that saddled that debt on the homes and farms of the people of the counties.

Mr. Delamater could not talk about the excessive tax on the county and township taxes, and his heart went out to the people and he told them that he can have some of the tax revenues of the corporations turned over to the counties to lessen the county and township taxes.

That is a glorious admission. We hope he will continue to make that admission throughout the campaign.

The state debt having been paid by the tax on corporations, it is the proper public policy to apply the revenues derived from that source to help the counties.

That is the decision of the Democrat and Register. We hope he will continue to make that admission throughout the campaign.

Through our friends of the Democrat and Register have not realized that the Republican party is the cause of the removal of a Democratic direct tax on real estate, and the cause of the payment of a Democratic state debt, and the cause of relief being extended to tax ridden real estate owners, in helping them to pay their school tax, and is promising more relief to the owners of homes and farms, that are excessively taxed by their own townships and county governments, yet the fact exists and our brethren of the Democrat and Register will realize about election time that the owners of homes and farms understand Senator Delamater's admissions.

Editorial Excursion

September 2, 3 and 4 were excursion days for the Juniata Valley Editorial Association in the far famed Cumberland Valley, having Winchester, Virginia, for the southern objective point, and with our better half we had the pleasure of journeying with the Association, six hours from Harrisburg, and on the first day of the excursion.

By the courtesy of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company a special car was attached to Sea Shore, and in the journey was made down the valley of the Juniata to Harrisburg, where on Monday morning the special car was coupled to a regular train southward bound.

The excursion party numbered between fifty and sixty. Mr. J. Zeamer of the Carlisle Volunteer, A. G. Miller, Esq., and W. Wood, Esq.,—Republican candidates for Legislature—members of the Carlisle Committee on Reception boarded the car at Harrisburg and at once began to distribute.

In the form of a pamphlet informing them of the preparation the people of Carlisle had made for their entertainment, and giving a brief sketch of the history of the city with a statement of its present industrial establishments, institutions of learning, schools, churches and future bright prospects.

was a town when the Juniata Valley was a wilderness, and many people in Juniata are descendants of Cumberland Valley people and during a period of many years people in this valley talked more about Carlisle than any other place on earth, and the story of the great crossing of the mountain to see their aged pioneer mother, and the people of the city receiving the association as if they were returning children who had followed the star of empire westward a century ago.

The train was late. The committee had dinner in waiting at the Mansfield House, and to keep it from getting cold the Association was piloted to the dining room as quickly as they came from the cars.

Immediately after dinner, the committee on reception—Mr. J. Zeamer, Hon. Thomas Corran, Captain, R. B. Bart, Dr. Geo. Beal, A. G. Miller, J. W. Henderson, Esq., and Mr. J. W. Plank, assisted by other citizens, whose names escaped us, marshalled the visitors in line and conducted them to the Court House, where they were shown the several offices and the Law Library, which is one of the most complete in the State.

Dr. Beal is president of the Institution, and is the right man in the right place, and it is plainly to be seen that he comprehends the advantages of the location and is exerting himself with other leaders of the Methodist cause to make Dickinson College a focal point of Methodist learning. Dickinson was once a stronghold of Scotch Irish Presbyterianism.

Under the lead of the Doctor, the different buildings of the institution were visited, as follows: East College, Scientific Building, Gymnasium, West College, Bosler Memorial Hall, Preparatory School, The President's Home, The Law School. Everything met with an indicative of artistic management, but the glory of the institution, the boys and girls were not there, they not yet having come from vacation. In the hall of each of the buildings, the Doctor took the platform and delivered explanatory remarks.

The new Delamater's admission. We hope he will continue to make that admission throughout the campaign. Through our friends of the Democrat and Register have not realized that the Republican party is the cause of the removal of a Democratic di-to the Indian School where united, the association under the lead of Captain Pratt made the grand rounds, and showed them the school rooms, where white female instructors were engaged in teaching the expressionless children of the forest and plain the metal habits of the Pale Face, with the object of redeeming the Indian from his nomad and savage way of living.

The Pennsylvania Reserve Veterans had a grand day at the dedication of ten monuments on the 2nd day of September at Gettysburg. Governor Curtin was there with Governor Beaver, and hundreds of other prominent soldiers.

Letter From Jersey

When I came back to my new home in this town in the sand of the sea and entered my room I was pleased to find the Sentinel of that week lying upon my table, and to say that I consider it a most welcome visitor is saying but little.

Last Wednesday I attended the "First Annual Reunion of the 29th N. J. Vol." at Keyport, two miles off. I can say it was a good one and they deserve proud mention. W. S. Stryker of Trenton gave us a long address, yet no one seemed to become weary.

The County Ticket.

The ticket nominated last Saturday by the Republican party of Juniata is a meritorious one viewed from whatever standpoint. Hon. L. E. Atkinson, for Congress, stands well in the council of the nation, and is third on the list, with important bills before Congress which is sufficient proof of his industry and standing with men who are making national legislation.

Legislative honors, is no stranger in official life. He has been tried in the Legislature and has displayed remarkable acumen in discrimination between the needed and unneeded legislation. The need of a "Well done good and faithful servant."

Oliver C. Diffenderfer, for Phytotany, is a substantial citizen and will make a good officer.

Uriah Shuman, for County Commissioner, is a most fitting nomination. He combines all of the qualities requisite to make him one of the most efficient officers of the county government.

ate to the Republican State Convention next year is a commendable nomination, and while he has nothing to do with the administration of county government would be a judicious member of the party organization.

Wm. Graham and S. S. Graybill, nominated for the office of County Auditor, are the kind of men to look into that department of the county government, the duties of auditor are of the utmost importance to the tax-payers.

Carl F. Espenschade, for County Chairman, is a good nomination, he has had an experience of one campaign and that will add to his natural qualification to manage the organization for the good of the party.

The committee on resolutions reported the following: Resolved, That we heartily and earnestly endorse the administration of President Harrison as being wise in statesmanship and faithful in discharge of public duties.

On motion of the Chairman of the County Committee, Carl F. Espenschade, the following resolution was adopted: That the following representative Republicans be appointed a committee for the purpose of considering the advisability of changing the rules governing the Republican Party as proposed a committee for the purpose of considering the advisability of changing the rules governing the Republican Party.

The 17 year locust that comes every 17 summers is an interesting insect. It is not the locust that appeared in Egypt in Pharaoh's time, since the Bible says, there were no such locusts as those that were in the plague before it took place, and that there never shall be any like them in the future.
