

THE CONSTITUTION-THE UNION-AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAWS.

Editor and Proprietor.

VOL. XLIV.

TABBY AND TOM.

MIFFLINTOWN, JUNIATA COUNTY, PENNA., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1890.

NO. 47.

Out in the night, on the high broad ferros, Singing the song of their love intense, Are Tabby and Tom. What though the shot and brickbats Sy? What though the neighbors for slaughter cry They dream wrapt up in each other's souls, Nor think of time as it onward rolls. "Tis no occasion for fear or strife,

"Tis a romance-s scandal of feline life. They courn to dodge the projectiles buried, They are monarchs of this great midnight world They sit all night on the high board fence And sing the song of their love intenseglorious country were not so attractive when he routed the Turkish army unas they are, a great many young mer der Hafiz Pasha and Col. von Moltke. would never go to church .- Somerville then in the Sultan's service. But Journa!.

Do Tabby and Tom. FUN.

The line must be drawn somewhere Mr. Woolly. If a man insists or Pasha, nor Col. von Moltke, nor the wearing a flannel shirt, he is lucky if Puck.

It is stated that our naval force a damoa "consists of one admiral, two officers and five men." The Navy De partment should send on two more of ficers, so that in case of mutiny the forces will be equally divided .-Life.

He knew .- Mr. Hibred-"What de you suppose the bard referred to whet eminently a soldier's game, and never he wrote of the 'slippered pantaloon?' tired of making elaborate comparisons Mrs. Slapdash-"Really, I have ne between strategy on the chessboard idea." "I bet you I know!" "My and strategy on the field of battle. son you were not spoken to."- Every afternoon he met Ulema Res-me some money, John, dear?" Hus band-"What do you want it for?" W.----I want to buy a new switch a was a little late in coming to his Water- ger work about the residences. Others the hair store." H .--- "I see; you loo, and Sulejmann Pasha was having a want me to make a contribution to the preliminary skirmish with himself fresh hair fund."-Boston Courier.

Refreshing names-Old Sosker- His diversion was interrupted by the "Can you recommend some beact appearance on the terrace of a long, Receipt Preferred to a Personal Youches where I can go without striking a mis gaunt, bony young stranger. The erable, dry. prohibitory desert?" stranger strolled right up to the Pasha's Friendly-"Let's see. Juniper, Ryt table, and after making a half-military Police Court. The clerk was holding or Bar Harbor would seem to offer you salute, said so loudly that every one on a discussion with a blear-eyed mara choice of evils."-Lowell Citizen.

"See here, Mr. Grocer," said a Hartford housewife, "if you are going to of chess." But you sell the worst in order to keep great commander. The Pasha looked the best."-Hartford Post.

Would-be purchaser-"These cigan are much smaller than usual." Tobacconist - "Yes; you see, the cigat

THE PASHA'S BIG GAME | souted me here. . Only one man to the BOW VON MOLTKE CHECK MATED HIM. & Game of Chess Between Two Notable

Men. On a summer afternoon almost fifty spreads.

years ago, Sulejmann Pasha, commander-in-chief of the Egyptian artillery sat at a cafe on the Nile terrace in Cairo. At tables near him were many soldiers who had helped him fight the semies of Sultan Mahmud not many months before. Several of them had

If the young ladies of this great and been with him in the battle of aizib. Sulejmann was not thinking of the soldiers about him, nor of Hafiz battle of Nizib. His whole attention it isn't drawn around his neck .- was concentrated on a chessboard before him. Sulejmann Pasha was a famous chess player. In the first few weeks after his return to Cairo he had beaten iream of back area lunches and carrion dozens of times Ulema Reschid Aga. formerly the champion chess player of northern Egypt. He regarded his lock bestirs itself. Each member hops reputation as a chess player as somewhat akin to his reputation as a warrior. He considered chees to be prechid Aga on the Nile terrace and beat Seasonable .- Wife-"Can you give him two or three games. On this particular afternoon, almost dfty years ago, Ulema Reschid Aga while awaiting his opponent's arrival. and packing houses .- Omaha World the terrace could hear: over the rail. "Pasha, I challenge you to a game bring me any more goods I want them All the officers on the terrace sat to be of the very best." "We keep quite still and stared at the thin, pale none but the best." "I presume so, young man who stood before their > him over curiously. "I am at your service," was his answer, after a long pause. "How high do you usually play?" "You fix the stakes, Pashs > > too much."

world can play chess like that. He is Col. von Moltke." wmething About Editor Stead of the "You have it," answered the tranger, reaching the Pasha his hand In Excland the editor of a news scross the chess-table, "I am Moltke." paper has no such interesting personal-Crows as Street Cleaners.

ity as he has here. Nobody takes the slightest interest in him, No matter what the influence or circulation of a The city of Omaha has in its serjournal, the name of the editor is raretice a force of thousands of scavengers, ly asked for. The two notable exwho draw no pay, report to no official, ceptions, who prove this rule, are Sir Edwin Arnold, of the Daily Telegraph, out are protected by law from molestaand W. T. Stead, of the Pall Mall Gaion. They are the crows who flock into zette. Of these two, Stead is by far own as regularly as cold weather the most notorious, for he has the most striking personality. The Pall Mall Gazette is the one sensational comes, stay during the winter, and ranish in the Spring. Each evening daily of London, and many a sensais the shadows fall, legions of crows tion it has made. One of them landed wing their way in a seemingly endless Stead in prison and fame. "That was light to the willow copses and clumps everything to me-everything to me," he was wont to say in his nervous. of small cottonwood trees on the banks rapid way. "Why, do you know, a of the Missouri, where they roost for woman told me that she and a lot of he night. A favorite haunt is at the other women way off on the Cape of bend of the river between Cut Off and Good Hope used to have a prayer meeting for me every day. Since then Florence Lakes, where the banks Stead has never dropped below the shelter them from the northwest wind. public horrizon for more than a week The air is thick with sable wings and at a time. No one gave such attention resonant with hoarse caws there after to the Maybrick case, or managed to sunset each night, as the scavengers gather so many little interesting items of sensational interest regarding it. settle down among the branches to No one keeps such a sharp look out on public events, or moral lanse; no one makes so much of his material, or so With the break of day the sable arouses public scorn and sense of jus tice. A man of social standing who finds o warm its chilled legs, stretches its himself on the verge of being implithiny wings, and heads back towards cated in an unsavory scandal, thinks the city. The vast flock breaks into shiveringly of the Pall Mall Gazette, the city. The vast flock breaks into small groups, and they alight here and before he does of the witness stand Stead has a motive in sensationalism there on the tree tops and survey the aside from love of notoriety and the back vards and alleys until they can sale of his paper. He is a religious pick out foraging places. Then they man, fanatically so, and is powerfully lescend, and in short order the reimpressed with the idea that he has a mission in life. That mission is to exmains of the breakfasts, the scraps of pose sin and promote virtue, an_ he neat from markets, and the rats killed "makes for righteousness," to quote by household dogs and cats are his own pet expression, for all he is zobbled up. Some crows do scavenworth. His energy and enterprise are phenomenal. No celebrity living has ever put his or her foot in England slight cautiously in the alleys, and without being interviewed by Stead, and there are few in Europe whom he others are attracted to the stock yards has not managed to meet some time or other. He may never print these in terviews, he may stow them away in a room kept for the purpose, but sooner There was a commotion at the or later they have their value. He derk's desk in the Essex Market works ten hours a day. The first to reach his office, he is the last to leave it, and during that time he superintends every article that goes into his paper, writes every leader, reads and " Now, what's the matter with that replies to a correspondence which flows in like waves of air, and receives innan?" demanded Judge Duffy sternly. numerable visitors. " If you please, your honor just

AN ENGLISH EDITUR.

Pall Mall Gazette.

In appearance he is short, wirv, ined me $10 for getting drunk. I've active, with a fine head, and bright, baid me hard-earned money and 1 restless, china-blue eves. When a visitor is shown into his private office in the little alley off the Strand, he makes a "You don't need a receipt," replied grab for his hand and rattles along he court. "Your discharge is receipt with such volubility, darting from one enough. No one could hold you or subject to another, haranguing, preaching, laying down the law, advising, TIME'S REVENCES. Tears, years ago, when I was young, I loved a fair and gentle maiden : Her praises day and night 1 sung, My heart with deepest passion laden; But, learning that she loved me not, I did not drop a tear or quaver, But bowed to my unhappy lot, And wooed another sweet enslaver. How quickly time doth turn the scene With wonders strange and changes pleaty George Trois." My pretty girl is just eighteen.

My first love's boy is four-and-twenty. Her child loves mine. How merrily I'll lead his hopes unto the slaughter ! His mother would not marry me, And I'll not let him wed my daughter

-Nathan M. Levy in Harper's Bazar.

COOK AND COUNTESS.

Patty Cowslip, the only daughter of Rev. Peter Cowslip, vicar of Muddesworth-in-the-Marsh, was a pretty girl. She was so pretty that she might have actually aspired, though she hadn't s penny in the world, to marry a fashionable curate. But though Patty was penniless, she was ambitious, and she the most fashionable of curates.

Patty was like. "Rather above than below the ordinary height," as novelists say, rich chestnut hair with a glint of gold in it, an excellent figure, small ears, brown eyes with dark eyebrows. pearly teeth set in the rosy frame of a lives met somebody as charming as Miss Patty Cowslip; but, as a rule, the experience has not been repeated. We Patty's arms and hands were her perfect

Miss Patty Cowslip had had a deshe hadn't a penny in the world.

Rev. Peter Cowslip was as poor as a rat. With considerable difficulty he ever saw in my life!") managed to pay his tradesmen at the year's end; but Rev. Peter dined every day much better than many millionof the poor clergyman's wicked extravagance? Not a bit of it. The fact is that Patty was a splendid cook -a born genius for the noblest of the

Many modern young ladies, having friend forever." purchased a terra cotta jar and rendered It hideous with daubs of paint, compel their friends to fall down and worship it, and call it art; other girls torment us with the piano, violin, banjo, harp, sackbut, psaltry, dulcimer and all kinds of music; other girls sing. All these people work their wicked wills upon as with impunity. We grin; we say "Oh, thank you so much," because we are obliged to do that; and our politeness is treated as an encore, and then our sufferings recommence. Pretty Patty Cowelip did none of these dreadful things; but she could cook like Ude, Francatelli and Sover rolled into again." one. And pretty Patty went up to lown, entered the school of cookery. dumpling. and came out as the senior wrangler of "What do you think of that, Lord with me."-Indianapolis Journal. the year. It was Patty first, the rest nowhere. M. Caramel, the professor of ornamental pastry, proposed to her at once: but Patty refused him, for, as we have said, she was ambitious. And then Miss Cowslip issued a neat "it's a dream of loveliness. dttle advertisement, took modest lodgngs in a modest West end street, and aid Miss Patty. segan to teach on her own account Lord Fleshpotts was a widowed sobleman. He had three unmarried raw. laughters-the Ladies Gwendoline, Ermyntrude, and Ermyngarde Cassersimultaneously began to hate Prof. sle. His lordship was a great sufferer Patty with a deadly hatred. from indigestion, and he was dying of ad dinners. No cook ever stayed sore than a month in his house; each of his daughters ruled the roast for a week, and generally the particular lings with the celerity of a practised carrying out articles liable to duty. hand. She took no further notice of roung lady who happened to be responible for the dinner on any given even- his lordship, but she pocketed her chaplain, in a rage; "but as you doubt ng left the room in tears before the guinea, which lady Gwendoline tend- my word, I will take off my hat." lessert was put upon the table. If ered wrapped in the conventional He did so, and there was nothing Lord Fleshpotts would only have dined piece of tissue paper, and took her inside. On the day following the leave. at his club, all might have been well; The dinner that evening in Eaton but he persisted in dining at home, and the lives of his daughters were slow square was for once a success, and cou like to have me take off my hat nartvrdoms. to apple dempling a la George Trois. It chanced one day that they saw Giss Cowslip's advertisement in the the St James Gazette. Lady Gwendo- arrived at Eaton square, she was shown ha, hal"-and they all laughed at what ine pointed it out to her sisters. They into his lordship's study. ordered the carriage early the next

"And we've never even heard of -he takes the most dutiful care of a them !" sighed Lady Ermyntrude. husband. So it was arranged that Patty way His lordship's bill, the British cork tomome the next day and teach them how to make apple-dumplings, for for first reading at an early date; a: which she was to receive a fee of one guinea; and as a personal favor she promised to give evidence at the roy. wrote them a charming little menu, in which among the sweet dishes appearcommission which is expected to be a; pointed upon the subject. ed the item "Apple dunplings a la How Hair-Cloth is Made.

Many people understand, of cours At 2 o'clock the next day Miss Cowhow hair-cloth is made, but for the ec slip was shown into their ladyships ification of those who do not, we wi boudoir. A clean white cloth, by explain the process. In the first place days Patty's direction, was laid upon the herse-hair cannot be dyed. It repe round table in the centre of the room ; coloring matter; so to make blac flour, water, a dish of apples, some hair-cloth it is necessary to secure na Fair. brown sugar, some cloves, a pastry ural black hair. The horses, in man board and a basin were brought in by cases, absolutely wild, running unre Adolphus John, the six feet footman. and then each of the six Ladies Casshorn. Of course black hair is prefer serole, provided with a silver knife. able, but sometimes grey hair is uti began to peel an apple. ized. Not only the tails, but also th Poor things, they couldn't even do manes are cut; the hair is bunched that properly. But Patty Cowslip, These bunches seldom contain hairs o who had taken off her hat and gloves. less length than two feet, some at laid aside her jacket and donned a even three and three and a ha natty little Swiss apron trimmed with feet, and the thickness of the bunche hadn't the slightest idea of marrying sleeves and displayed her magnificent Russian embroidery, rolled up her is usually two or three inches. Th arms, and demonstrated the proper way to peel an apple, to the delight, a shuttle, and the nipper is so finel astonishment and admiration of the actusted that it travels across the war Ladies Casserole; and when she was and seizes from the bunches one hai in the middle of the process the door opened, and Lord Fleshpotts entered > ries it across the weft threads, dropping "Pa," said Lady Gwendoline, "allow it into its exact place. The action o the loom mechanically forces the hai next to its predecessor, the war crosses upon it, snugly holds it in it "My dear young lady!" cried his place, the nipper travels back and fordship, "do I speak to the talented seizes another, and so on and on. The authoress of the charming menu I hold delicacy and almost human accuracy eyes I have felt a new sensation. I've between the warp threads is really in credible.

ner. But you have aroused my curi- Death Rather Than Unhappy Marriage osity as well as my appetite. What on The Coroner held an inquest a house in which Christopher Columbus cent education, but beyond the annual earth are apple dumplings a la George Jeffersonville, on the remains of Miss subsidy of £10 a year which the par- Trois? It is a dish I have never met Annie Berry, who, on account of disish payed her for playing the organ, in the whole course of my vast experi- appointment in love, ended her life ence." ("She's got the most lovely arms and hands," he thought, "that I the saddest, in all its details, that even month. He will find no hestile tribes Patty smiled. ("What community was shocked by the tragteeth ?* thought his lordship.) edy.

aires. And why? Was it on account Fleshpotts," said Patty, "if you care "You shall see them made, Lord to look on." "If I care! It will be the proudes prevented by the parents of the young privilege of my life. My dear Gwen night, and Miss Berry told Veeley

NEWS IN BRIEF

-The anatomist is the man who can ompulsory education act, comes ; give the surest "inside information. -Wedding rings bearing counterfeit

"half marks" are becoming prevalent the young Countess of Fleshpotts h: in London, - From twelve to eighteen suicides on an average have been registered daily at the Paris Police Office.

-The ex-Emperor of Brazil is occapying himself chiefly with studies in Sanscrit, Hebrew, Arabic and Greek,

-A Russian Lieutenant, 22 years old. has just completed a trip by bleyel- from St. Petersburg to Paris lusule of thirty

-A Chicago paper says that George M.P ullman will build a $1,000,000 he tel at Hyde Fark in time for the World's

-In Belfast is few days and George cases, absolutely wild, running unre Hutchins di d from eating grapes strained, are regularly corralled an and "swallowing both seeds and skins.

> It is expected that the number of bothes cremated in Milan will soon average one a duy, as nearly two thousand hodies have been cremated there during the last thirteen years.

-Mrs. Oscar Wilde is a plainly dressed, pretty little woman with an im mense Gainsborough hat, heavy with droop ng plumes.

A Clarion (Lil.) has uncarthed a cabhair-cloth looms are provided wit tage that weighed eighteen pounds, what we may call a nipper, in place o measured three feet in circumference a shuttle and the ninuer is so final one foot two inches in duameter. It is of the flat Dutch variety.

-F. B. Sackett of Heath, Fla., says only, the jaws of the nipper being to this year, which will be about five fine to grasp more than one, and car pounds from one tree to the Agriguitural Department at Washington, for $5 a pound

> -A new toy is a plain sheet of paper on which the figure of some animal has been traced with an invisible fire-proof solution. The paper is set on and burns away, leaving the figure in-

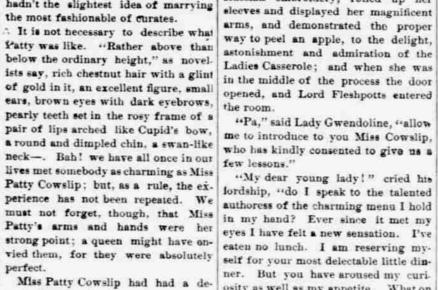

-On the occusion of the recent fete at the country seat of a wealthy woman with which each separate hair is placed all the cows on the estate wore necklaces of wide, yellow satin ribbon and had their horns tied with narrower ribbon of the same color.

> -The municipality of Genoa has, it lived. It is rapidly failing intodecay and has long stood in need of re-THET.

occurred in this city, and the whole here. The great American pocket-book is waiting impatiently for him to explore it.

> A New Haven gentleman has a couple of tame waspe. They have niit a nest in his parior and live undisturbed and undefinitions. This is the trind season the in-ects have occupied the same quarters.

lady, who had determined to make her -While passing Blue Canon, Cal., doline," said the earl, "I could watch marry the old man, John Bowman the other day, a rallo ad employe threw the movements of your charming The lovers were together on Monday a piece of coal from an engine, killing a by tauder. The authorities have that the death was accidental.

manufacturer noticed that the last two inches of the cigar are always throws away, so he makes them now that nuch shorter."-Soston Gazette.

A Moving Plaint-George-"Will begun. All the officers in the cafe left [ paid for my sin to you." you-" Alice-"Oh, George, this is their coffee to crowd around the players. so sudden." George-"Not a bit of The first few moves convinced them it. That hairpin of yours has been that the long bony fingers of the stran- [1] vouch for you?" sticking into my shoulder for the last ger had moved chess many times betwenty minutes, and I can't stand it fore. At the end of twenty minutes any longer. Will you please move , the Pasha's eyes suddenly brightened to go down and look over the directory little?"-Lawrence American.

combination. He placed his queen be-Twisted history-Sunday school teacher-"And now, Johnny Hapgood, fore his opponent's queen. The offiit's your turn. What did his father cers began to grumble, for they thought and the shattered fellow shambled do when the prodigal son returned?" their commander had lost his head. way, hugging the paper to his ragged Johnny (who can't help reading the Only Reschid Aga, who in the mean sporting editions of the daily press)- time had joined the crowd of specta-"Please, sir, he jumped on his neck tors, looked happy. He had guessed his friend's combination, and he, too, and kissed him."-Puck.

was sure that it was invincible. Young Harduppe-"But don't you "He will take the queen." commentthink you could learn to love me? Is ed the spectators. there no hope?" Ancient heiress-"] "Then he will be checkmated in am afraid not, Mr. Harduppe. My eight moves," whispered back Reschild heart was lost when I was but a young Aga, his eyes fixed on the board.

girl." Mr. Harduppe-"But you "And if he doesn't take her?" oughtn't to count what happened be-"He will lose his own," said the exfore the war."-Terre Haute Express. champion.

Reason Dethroned .- Judge-"Did The stranger moved a pawn. Sulejyou ever notice any signs of insanity mann took his queen. The officers take their places on the sides at the moods. in the deceased?" Witness (a mem- thought it was all up with the gaunt front of the sled, and the others hold ber of the Legislature)-"Well, once, young man, and started back to their when he was a member of the Legis | coffee. They were called back, howlature, he introduced a bill that wasn't ever, by the first words the Pasha's opa particle of interest to anybody-ex. ponent had spoken since he sat down cept taxpayers."-New York Weekly, to the table. "Pasha, in twelve moves you will be

"And I want to say, 'To my huscheckmated." band,' in an appropriate place," said the widow in conclusion to Slab, the gravestone man. "Yessum," said Slab. And the inscription went on: "To my husband, in an appropriatplace."-Chicago Liar.

Not Her Size .- Customer from Seedville-"Do you keep the best make of to break the blockade by sacrificing his ged to the foot of the hill by their reckshoes here?" City Dealer-"Yaas queen. Eleven-he drew back his less companions. It often seemed a our shoes are all A No. 1." Cus king into a corner. Twelve-"Checktomer from Seedville - "Then you mate." cah't suit me. I take B No. 5."- deed. I can hardly look into the deep. opalescent amethyst of the star-be spangled midnight sky without recalling Rosetti's 'thin, blue flames of soul on their way to Heaven.' Then, too the soulfulness of inner mentality is grand! Have you ever read 'Sully' Psychology?" Mr. Charles (also of Boston)-"No; but I think I shall first chance I get, since he did up Kil rain in such great shape !"-Light.

Munsey's Weekly. Miss Hortense (of Boston) :- "In-

A Capitalist.

"Where did you spend your vaca tion, anyway, Smith?" asked Jones casually.

"Spent it at home," replied Smith " I couldn't afford to go anywhere thi year."

"Is that so?" said Smith, promptly "You're in luck, old man. Lend mi five dollars will you?"-Somerville Journal.

Yes, your honor: but I hope to go "Well, a hundred ducats will not be to Heaven some time, and on judgment lay when the recording angel comes to want a receipt."

the charge again."

The stranger nodded and sat down. this charge against me he may not The lots were cast. The game was be willing to take my word for it that The court was disconcerted for an nstant; then the reply came: "Oh.

"Ah, sir, but I fear you will not be and he smiled. He had an invincible of the bad place to find your address.'

"Give that man a receipt and take him out," shouted the court, lustily, bosom .- New York World.

Esquimaux Tobogganing.

The Esquimaux on land journeys often encounter hills where it would be very dangerous to attempt a descent with a heavily loaded sled drawn by logs. When such a place is reached they unhitch the dogs and let the sled descend by its own weight. All the men act as brakes to prevent, if possible, a descent so rapid as to land the equipage a complete wreck at the botom. The two strongest of the drivers on where they can; all pull back as strongly as possible when the speed increases. Some plant their feet in front of them and send the snow fiving as if from a snow plow. Others find themselves taking leaps that would astonish of draw?" a kangaroo, are dragged furiously The interest of the Pasha's friends along, or, maybe, come rolling to the became intense. They counted each bottom after the sied. The dogs regard move aloud. One-two-three-four the whole affair as a joke, and with pressed. Five-six-seven-eight- along in the wild chase, some barking nine-and his men were hemmed in on joyously, others yelping distressedly, all sides. Ten-the Pasha tried in vain as, caught in the traces, they are dragwonder when, even with all our ex-

There was a dead silence, all stared ertions, we could land sled and party at the Basha. He thought hard for at the bottom in safety.

several minutes, without a word. Then he looked searchingly at the

Do Horses Reason.

A friend thinks his does. He drove stranger and said: "Once before I have seen chess played him to a watering trough the other day as you play it. Your strategy is not into which some one had thrown the new to me, although I cannot cope stump of an old broom. The horse with it. The game that your playing held back his head in disgust, but in Sforza, a Story of Milan, published reminds me of was much finer than presently took the unoffending broom by Scribners, has put out a most exthis. It was played with cavalry and between his teeth and threw it from ceileat piece of literary work. Sforza infantry and heavy artillery, till the the trongh. Then he held back his ground shook under our feet. The head and waited for the water to run the plot swings along between such great chess player from the North who clear. Presently he smelled of it, but fuscinating chapters as the School of was then against me had 150,000 men. sixil not being satisfied he waited again, the Sword, Between Red Pillars, The Hall of the Signoria, and Lago Lario. In his hands they were invincible. and yet again. Finally he put his nose The mad and envious interference of into the water and swashed it around, Walentino, a Brother of the Hafiz Pasha ruined his combinations, apparently to slop out all impurities gins, by the same author, published in however, and, happily for our sids, before he consented to drink. How gave us the game." The Pasha stopped a moment to would run pure? It must have been been been been scrutinize the stranger's face. It was the result of observation and memory. She prime of a perfectly bealthy life. All horses know enough to refuse to the is interesting and animated in conexpressionless. Then he said :-"Young man, you remind me of drink impure water. If men were as that great chess player from the Forth particular as to what they drink it who all but routed us at Nigib 10 you would be better for them.

reproving, that the bewildered visitor forgets his errand-which is probably what Stead intends. All the time his blue eves dart needles right into one's very soul. Stead thus knows his man. without being obliged to hear him talk. Suddenly he springs to his feet, grabs your hand sgain, and, when he is in one of his more inexplicable moods. bursts into peal after peal of laughter. which echoes after you as you grope through the labyrinthine corridors, as there, and they will not grant me time you stumble down the rotting staircase, and into the narrow little street. It is reported that Stead will sever his connection with the Pall Mall Gazette In the spring, come to this country study American journalism and return to London to establish a paper whose Idea, original with himself, will assuredly be like no other of which the world has ever dreamed.

Sen. Forrest's Last and Lucky $10. Speaking of Gen. Forrest, the cavalry hero of the war, who killed more men with his sabre than any other one soldier on either side, he returned to Memphis after the surrender with his w fe, and with only a siggle $10 bill in his pocket. Mrs. Fe rest was a lady of the most quiet, amiable Christian virtues, and the only person, by the way, who had any con trol of the "wizard of the saddle" while in a passion. One touch of her gentle hand, one soft, tender word would caim his most tempestuous

Sitting alone together the night of their return to Memphis. Gen. Forrest said: "Mary, I know you are a strict church member, and have always opposed cards. But this $10 is all there is on earth between us and the poor house. Won't you consent to my going out tonight and hunting up a game

In vain the good woman protested It was a sun in the sight of God, she said, and sin could not finally prosper. He went, found the party he wanted and the Pasha was already hard their traces tied together come dashing his way from the first, and his winand began the game. The cards ran nings grew so large that he set his braver on the floor beside him and used it as a depository. About two o'clock in the morning he lifted his tile, bent his head down, and a need the hat carefully on it, retaining money in it. Reaching home he emptied his winnings into Mrs. Forrest's lap, saying: "Mary, count it." She fou d that he had upwards of €1.500-a sum which gave him a good start in life .- Florida Times-Union.

A Millionaire Author.

One of the interesting developments of late is the so-called "millionaire literature;" books from a mercantile en vironment. William Waldorf Astor It tells of the is an interesting story. chivalrous days in Northern Italy and It is of virtually the same atmosphere now did the horse know that the water 4000 copies. Mr. Astor is tall, broadchouldered, muscular, blue eyes, light persation, has a smiling and expresive face, and unlike the average New York millionaire, is companiouable and alis a few hints, for pa is wasting visi- Cowslip. Will you be my wife?" dy !" cried the eldest girl.

uires," sobbed the youngest daughter -"refreshing novelty and perpetual hange. Those are his very words, diss Cowslip, his cruel, heartless words."

"Has Lord Fleshpotts ever tasted apde dumplings?" asked Patty Cowslip elemnly.

"It's a plate I never heard of." laimed Lady Gwendoline. "They were a favorite dish with It's Majesty King George the Third,"

1977 A 1979 A 1974 A 1974 A 1974 A 1974 A 1974 A 1974 A 1977 A 1977

marked Patty the historian.

"Pa!" cried the Ladies Casserole, it then of her intention to take her life. an astonished and indignant chorus. The young man reasoned with his

Young John Veeley states that he and Miss Berry were to have been married this week, but the union was An Excellent Joke.

And then Prof. Patty divided he, sweetheart, and, before they parted exempts blind persona into apples 1+to quarters, and then she that night, obtained from her a prommade the paste and cut it into the ise that she would not harm herself. requisite-sized squares. And Lord When he next saw her she was in the Fleshpotts looked on with respectful agonies of death.

admiration; for he couldn't take his A letter has been found, addressed eyes off her magnificent hands and to her lover, in which she tells him arms. "If," he thought, "that shapely good-by, and acknowledges taking the creature would only prepare my meals poison. The letter continues and says: forever, life would still have charms. "Ms said she would follow me to the I can't ask her to be my cook, for grave rather than see me marry you, she's a lady. Gad! when I look at and I guess she will have a chance to her I feel myself growing young see my body placed beneath the ground.

Just then Patty completed the first that you attend my funeral, and re- the British Home Secretary. The forquest that your photograph be buried

Fleshpotts?" she said, as she displayed the little white sphere on her extended tall hat was passing through the dock-"My dear young lady," said Lord yard gates at Devonport, when one of Fleshpotts, gazing at her arm and hand, the policemen on duty noticed that he had a piece of tobacco sticking out un-"Your lordship is laughing at me," requested to remove his head-covering

"I'm not, I assure you!" burst in for examination : but he refused. the enamored peer; "I could eat it "I am an officer in the navy," he said, "and I consider your request an And then the three ladies Casserole insult."

The officers were polite but firm. They were very sorry to put so distin-But Miss Cowsup hadn't come to guished a gentleman to inconvenience; Eaton square to waste her time. She but their orders were explicit to search turned out the rest of the spple dump- every person whom they suspected of "I have no contraband," said the chaplain passed out again.

"Well," he said with a grin, "would Lord Freshpotts was helped three times to-dav?"

"Oh, no, thank you, sir," said the The next day, when Miss Cowslip police, with effusion-"not to-day! Ha. they considered an excellent joke. "My dear young lady," cried Lord But the joke the police did not see in

Rather Different.

couple.

Chicago Merchant (scowling at book agent)-I have no time to look at your Bibles. I have forty at home. Book Agent-But you have none like this. This has a whole page in the family record for divorces, and -----" Patty Cowslip felt as if the room Chicago Merchant-Oh, that's different. Why didn't you speak up in the first place? You may leave me s

A Matter of Build.

A little girl of this village was crying bitterly the other evening about something that had happened, when her mother endcavored to soothe her. The second Lady Fleshpotts is a She told her to "hush" and "never very popular person, and her dinners mind" and "stop erving," when the re celebrated. She has married off little one answered between her sobs: er three stop-daughters to Mustard, "I c-can't, mam, 'cause I ain't built tean and Furniture. respectively. and pet way. - at ou Brocke.

-An ordinance in Storling, Conn., Parmer Barbour chains excitation under the law, and proved to the satisfaction of an intelligent Judge and fury that, though he could mow, hoe and had hay on a cart, he was stone blind.

---- Incomes Piron, a drum-mulor in the army of the first Napoleon, died recent ly in the French town of La Suze at the me of 101. He was in nearly all the but les of the great Emperer and was wounded thirty-two times. Though a mere piece of surgical patchwork he was always in good humor and good heutily.

I will never marry Bowman. I desire natur dization were granted to aliens by - During September 27 certificates of eizners came, eleven from Germany, six from Russia, Urve from Austria. two from Denmark, and Turkey, and one each from Russian Poland, Spain and Sweden.

Years ago a Naval chaplain with a -Dr. Koncharsky, aprofessor of medicine in St. Petersburg, completed a lecture on acids, and then poured some drops from a vial in a glass. Then he to his class: "Attention, young men! In two minutes you will see demeath his hat. The chaplain was man diel Good-by to you all?" He drank the liquid, took out his watck and counted the seconds until he dropped

> -Frank A. Whittier, of Boston, is a sufferer from an attempt at an accobal-ic feat, which resulted unfortunately. While on his way from Thompsonville, Mass., where he had imbibel inspiran, he tried to amove the passengers on the accomodation train by turning a we'k hand-spring. He turned over all right, but in landing on his feet he fractured a small hone in his ankle.

- Buffaloes are every year resoluting nore and more scarce, the Indians are approaching extermination, and we are told that soon there will be no more eals. It may not be long before these distinctive products of this hemisphere will have become mere memories. The world and its inhabitants are changing more rapidly than we imagine, and the reality of to-day becomes merely the tradition of to-morrow.

-This year's mimic wars, conducted in various lands on an unprecented scale, have not, as a rule, ended in smoke. Almost every country has been experimenting with smokeless powder with the net result that it will be ownion ly in universal use at the opening of the next big war. Of its peculiarities we get the most detailed accounts from France, where opinions differ as to the balance of its benefits and shortcountings.

-A remarkable proceeding is reported from Chicago where a father was arrested for not taking out a theatrical license for a litle theatre which his children ran in the cellar, charging five bins for an admission.

-I N. Blankinship, of Marion Mass., has a clock which was made in 1732. The works are of brass, and the clock keeps as good time as it did when it was made, 158 years ago, but the accounts vary as to the kind of time it kept in -Several old villages in Cass County Michigan, have clung to the ancient custom of ringing the church bells whenever anybody dies. The doctors say their melancholy tolling at night has depressed many a despondent patient unto death.

-A huge catfish was found alive imbedded in a hollow log in a mill slam at Martindale. It swam in a small hole when a little fish and was unable to find its way out and grew in the Ing.

was going ground with her. The enamored peer dropped upon his knees. "If the devotion of a lifetime," he "Don't, Lord Fleshpotts !" said Patty "You've found the way to my heart, AIV darling"- norning, and they were ushered into Fleshpotts, as he advanced with ex- its entirety; for the chaplain this time Miss Patty's neat little sitting room in tended hands. "I'm delighted to see had several hundreds of cigarettes Park street. "We don't want to take you! Words fail me," he added, in a within his hat. essons, Miss Cowslip," said Lady broken voice, "to sufficiently express awendoline. "We're too stupid," my appreciation of your beauty and aid Lady Ermyngarde. "And it accomplishments. The crispness of the would be no use," said Lady Ermyn- crust, my dear madam [they were rude. "But oh! Miss Cowslip, could baked dumplings], was indescribable. not you come every morning and give I have one question to ask you, Miss

"Its novelty that poor papa re-