ABOUT THE FARM.

Hints for Farmers and Busy Housewives to Appreciate.

The low price of beef and dairy products is causing more attention to be paid to sheep, which in consequence are growing scarcer. There is another reason in the great amount of labor a herd of cows make, whether their milk be sold direct, or made into butter or cheese. The old English rule was that the keep of eight sheep equalled that peaking of most breeds-they will of one cow. Sheep are, however, sot take on much fat, anyway, while more delicate feeders, and will not thrive on coarse stocks as well as cows ing at such a rate, and whatever fatwill. They are also close feeders in summer, and en old pastures live by keeping them upon their accuswhere a herd of cows would starve. On the other hand, sheep in winter will not eat the butts of cornstocks as closely as will cattle.

To lecture a crowd on advanced Ideas in butter making, and then have the old-fashioned churn refuse to bring the butter perfectly, is only made more ridiculous by an apology. By the way, it sounds strange to hear the chief lecturer at these New York conferences say that he is not aware that there is any reliable test for the fats in milk. Wherein does the little shake bottle churn of Col. Curtis show any greater reliability than a big rhurn. No churn can recover all of down in Maine. # How to Take Care of Chinaware.

To season glass and chinaware to sudden changes of temperature, so that it will remain sound after exposure to sudden heat and cold, is best done by placing the articles in cold water, which must be gradually brought to the boiling point and then allowed to cool very slowly, taking several hours to do it. The commoner the material the more care in this respect is required. The very best glass and chinaware is always well seasoned or annealed be-fore it is sold. If the wares are prop-erly seasoned in this way they may be washed in boiling water without fear of insture except in frosty weather, when even with the best annealed warss, care must be taken not to place them suddenly in too hot water. All china that has any gilding upon it may on to account be rubbed with a

A Story About Bismarck.

An advance copy of the third volume of H. V. Sybel's "History of the Ger-man Empire," has been received. Proably the most interesting chapters refer to the relations between Prince Bismarck and Count Rechberg, the Prussian and Austrian Ambassadors respectively at the German (Frankfort) Diet. Prince Bismarck (then Herr von Bismarck Schonhausen) soon found out that Count Rechberg was hot-tempered and passionate, but in the main honorable and good-natured. Count Rech-berg, on his side, cordially disliked Prussia and its astute representative, but did his best all the same to keep on amicable terms with his colleagues. Both officially and socially there was, however, plenty of friction between the two. On one occasion things came to such a pitch that Count Rechberg, entirely losing his self-control, passion-stely exclaimed: "One of my friends shall wait on you in the morning." "Why all this unnecessary delay?" Herr von Bisinarck coolly replied. "In all probability you have a pair of pistols handy. Let us settle the matter immediately. While you get the things hosphiltea of Lime and Boda is almost as priztable as milk. Chilizen anjoy it rather than therwise. A MARVELLOUS FLESH immediately. While you get the tonings ready, I shall write a report about the whole transaction, which, in case I am killed, I request you to forward to Berlin." Both set about their work. PRODUCER it is indeed, and the PRODUCER it is indeed, and the little lads and lassles who take cold easily, may be fortified against a cough that might prove serious, by taking Scott's Emulsion after their meals during the winter season. When Bismarck had finished, he handed the sheet to Count Rechberg, requesting him to examine the same. Rechberg's passion had in the mean-time given way to sober reflection. After having perused the report he said: "What you say here is quite cor-rect; but is it really worth while to For Coughs @ Colds ight a duel for such a reason?" "That There is no Medicine like is exactly my opinion." was Bismarck's answer, and the matter ended.-Pall DR. SCHENCK'S Mall Guzelle.
