Another bad bill passed the Lower House at Harrisburg. It is a compulsory education bill which no free people should permit. The vote stood for the bill 116 against the bill 40 votes. The bill requires that all children between the ages of 8 and 12 years must attend school at least sixteen weeks each year, unless the child resides more than two miles from the nearest school. Failure to do so is punishable by a fine. Assessors of each district must furnish the County Commissioners with a list of children of school age. This list must be placed in the hands of the teachers in each district, whose duty it shall be to report to the Secretary of the School Board the names of children who do not attend. Teachers of private schools are required to cooperate with the authorities in enforcing the act, by furnishing the authorities with a list of pupils under their charge.

The road bill has finally passed the Lower House and is in the Senate, for concurrence. It provides for the election, appointment, qualification and organization of the supervisors, defines their duties, authorizes them to make, repair and maintain roads and bridges, or to give out contracts for the same, and to construct "highways" by contract, also to levy and collect taxes, to employ the labor and to make their report to the County Commissioners; prescribes the manner of petitioning and voting to lay out, vacate or open roads and "highways" and the powers thereof required to be served defines the word "highways" and the manner of construction; prescribes penalties for violations of the act; directs the Secretary of Internal Affairs to furnish blanks for Supervisors, and to give the State Treasurer a statement of the moneys expended by the several townships for roads, to fix the basis for the distribution of the State appropriations.

From the Bloomfield Times: On last Wednesday evening a man named Geo. Humes, living in Sheffer's Valley, Tyrone township, attempted to commit suicide by taking laudanum.—Dr. Zimmerman, of Loyville, administered antidotes in time to save the man's life. The trouble was that he wanted to marry a girl, but his parents opposed the match.

While the "Paul" the fire driving horse of J. L. Market, Esq., on Monday while being unhitched from Lester's livery stable, stepped upon a board flooring used for running buggies on and broke through, falling a distance of eight feet to the ground below. A large sized splin entered the horse to the right of his chest to a depth of eight inches, from which a deluge of blood flowed for a short time. The poor animal was otherwise badly bruised, possibly by internally. He is receiving most careful attention and may recover.

On Saturday, John, a young son of William Dunn, of Green Park, had a narrow escape from death. He and a younger brother were engaged in removing straw from the threshing floor of the barn, John being on the floor and his brother above throwing the straw out into the yard. While the younger brother slipped and fell from the top of the extended prongs down, struck his brother on top of the head. The boy was stunned for a while but recovering ran to the house where an examination was made of his injuries. It was found that two of the prongs had struck him on top of the head, one penetrating the skull; another had cut an ugly gash on his forehead; and the fourth entered his face deeply on the left side of his nose near the eye.

Dr. L. M. Shumaker, of Elliottsburg, was at once summoned and rendered the necessary surgical attention. The boy it is thought will soon recover unless erysipelas, which is feared, should set in.

From the Philadelphia (Centre Co.) Ledger: unless something is done to render the jail a sure place of confinement it will become as much as a farce as the old jail was during the term of a certain Dutch sheriff from the lower end of Penn's Valley. It is said he used to go out at meal times and ring the bell at meal times for the prisoners, and used to set up nights waiting on them to go to bed. He got tired of staying up so late and one morning he called them all together in the office and said: "Look here, you sons-o-kuns, dis time me stay in' oop all night vaden out your prisoners to come in it bled on. After dis any prisoner vat doesn't git in dis jail at 9 o'clock gets locked out."
