Vases of real stone, granite or marble, are elegant but too costly for general use. Inventive genius, however, supplies us with graceful and desirable forms in fine pattery, east-iron or artificial stone at poderate prices.

Yuccas and emerican aloes are stately plants well suited for vase culture and are finest when grown alone.

Cannas, enpherbiers, salvias and crinums are also good. Palms are very suitable for this purpose, areca lutescens being one of the best.

The most usual way of planting is with a tall plant of ornamental foliage in the centre, with a few of ower growth around and drooping vines at the border. High growing plants fine for centres are vicinus, sansiviera zealanica and a number of the cacti. Cereus giganteus and phillocactus latifrons are good specimens. Another odd and desirable plant is Xerophillum Asphodeloides, a hardy perennial with tropical-looking evergreen foliage bearing large clusters of white flowers from to 10 inches long, growing on high stalks. Concerning this plant the London Garden says: At the Royal Botanical Show in London, Lord Walsingham exhibited two splendid masses of these showy plants which were the prettiest things there among hardy flowers.

Lower growing plants to plant around these tall centres will be found in the ornamental leaved geraniums and grasses, cineraria and ferus, and some of the new varieties of asparagus with filmy, lace-like foliage. A tenuissimus is a climbing sort, valuable and pretty for the border with its airy, delicate

Cypress vine and thunbergia and bryonia are also recommended. Care should be taken to plant together plants requiring the same treatment, as one requiring moisture and shady ex-posure will not thrive if given the dry and sunny treatment demanded by pleasing substitutes for pottery and may be made by the amateur handy with saw and hatchet. A tripod o gnarled branches forms the pedestal, while a wooden box (a round cheese box is good) serves as the body of the vase. SOWING THE SEED.

Dianthus Laciniatus

DIANTHUS (Pink)

Seed sowing is an art that practice and experience alone can bring to per fection, but timely hints will some times prevent the beginner from making serious blunders. The difference in soil and climate and the time of year have, also, to be taken into considera-tion, as well as the seed itself. Common sense will teach us that the tiny seeds of poppy and portulaca will need but a light cover and that peas and nasturtium must have a deeper plant-

Except in very damp ground the soil should be well pressed down, or "firmed," as the gardeners term it; while in damp, heavy earth a light cover is best, as the moisture is suffi-cient to sprout them and a heavy soil pressed firmly upon the seeds will chill them and cause them to uccay in nine cases out of ten. For the same reason, seeds sown in early Spring should be more lightly covered than those sown in June when the earth has become dry and warm, and seeds will burn in the hot Summer sun. The deeper the soil the firmer should be the covering.

Never has there been such a wealth of floral treasures from which to choose, and never have they been offered so cheaply as now. Europe is greater biological, interest, and it is sending us the novelties grown by far from settled. — British Medical years of patient work. Africa contributes the giant of the flower family; Asia is profuse in her fragrant offermgs, and our sister continent is not behind in her lavish gifts, while from the islands of the sea come orchids of rarest form and exquisite colors gathered at peril of life and health in their deathbreathing forests.

But in sowing the seed, or the plant, or the bulb, it should always be remembered that a few, well-grown healthy plants showing their owner's love and watchful care is better than the scraggly growth of many whose owner, in the rage for nevelties, has planted more than can be well-cared for, and whose needs are neglected.

Dr. Regnard has raised the question is to whether a corpse which sinks to very great depth is preserved indefiitely or otherwise from putrefaction. Acco ding to his researches, published n the archives of the Biological Soety of Paris, putrefaction does not ake place in decomposable substances ubmitted to a pressure of 600 to 700 atmospheres. These figures correspond o a depth of 6000 or 7000 metres at ea. From these experiments it must not be concluded, according to Dr. Regnard, that there is a total absence of putrefaction in the greater depths of the sea. The curious "abysmal" ishes discovered in the Challenger and other expeditions appear to rise after leath, so that they are sometimes found on the surface, though, as a rule, they go to pieces as the surrounding presure diminishes, long before they reach he air. Still, there is no proof that pathybial or abysmal micro-organisms to not exist, and, if so, they could ause decomposition in the corpses of nen as well as in the dead bodies of sbysmal fishes. The question is of onsiderable medico-legal, and yet

LOVE'S LABOR'S LOST by many a woman who strived to please her household and works herself to death in the effort. If the house does not look as bright as a pin, she gets the blame—if things are upturned while house-cleaning goes on-why blame her again. One remedy is within her reach. If she uses SAPOLIO everything will look clean, and the reign of borns-cleaning disorder will be quickly over.
