AGRICULTURAL NOTES AND HINTS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

How to Make Farm Work Easier and Home Brighter.

The sweeter cider is the scronger will be the vinegar, but the slower it will be in making, unless the process is hastened either by mixing with fully matured vinegar, or turning from one barrel to another to expose to air. This can be best done by filtering slowly through hard wood or other shavings having no resinous or offensive odor.

Abortion is driving many dairymen ent of the business, and it is the great-st obstacle they have to contend with. Scientists are undecided as to the cause or remedy, but ascribe some cases to excitement. It is admitted that the disease (for such it seems to be) is contagious, and that the scrictest sanitary regulations must be observed in order to prevent its spread.

The silo should be made strong, so as to resist pressure. Also air-tight, or as nearly so as possible. The ensilage should be put in dry rather than in a moist condition, and the pressure on the ensilage should be sufficient to closely pack the material in a manner to exclude the air. Many causes of fermentation are due to insufficient pressure.

It is claimed by Mr. Raymour of Lake Mills, Wis., that a 80-pound ration of silage can be fed to a cow at a cost of only one cent, and that it will increase the flow of milk. He also savs: "It looks as if a carbo-hydrate ration, if in a succulent condition, goes as far as a dry proteine supply, and the ratio of cost in favor of the succulent food is as one to four.'

The smallness of the Lady apple. quite as much as its heantiful appearance, helps to make it popular. There are a good many apples in the bushel or barrel of this variety, and a plate of them passed around in a large party will give all a taste of apples. Resides, it is a good keeper, and its smallness makes it less likely to be bruised in gathering and subsequent handling.

The value of bean straw as food is not appreciated as it should be by growers of this crop, and due care is not taken to save it in good condition. It is worth for sheep as much as the best hay, and makes a very rich mapure. Cows will soon learn to cat it, and should be given a ration daily mixed with other feed. It excellently supplements the deficiencies of cornstalks and grain straw.

There is considerable nourishment in apple pomace, and it is worth saving if fed as it should be. It is not a perfect ration, and to allow stock to eat a great deal of it is to injure them. But that also is true of eating apples before the juice is pressed out. To grain-fed stock a little apple pomnoe fed daily is a good thing. It keeps

Aside from pedigreed animals, and for draft horses even with them, the value of a young colt is very largely determined by its size. This is to a great extent the result of good feeding. At fairs this year we have seen of the dwarf classes. yearling colts which in size and build looked more like 2-year-olds or 3-yearolds than what they were. Such animals were almost universally admired, and if for sale, which they were not, could have found ready purchasers at bandsome figures.

The proper management of the cream has more influence on the quality of butter than has the pasture. The cows in the Elgin butter region have pastures inferior to those provided the animals in some other sections, while the milk is separated from the cream, and the churning performed in the same manner as elsewhere, but the cream is carefully watched, and the butter worked well. Nearly all of tamest hogs has suddenly turned canthe cows in the Elgin region are Holsteins or Holstein grades.
