An immense black eagle was killed by William Mutchler at Elysburg the other day. The bird swooped down on a cat that was lying in the yard fast asleep, and snared up with it. This action did not please tabby, and as he was old and tough, made such a noble fight, tearing and scratching at the bird, that it was compelled to drop down to the ground again a short distance from the house. Here the fight was begun in earnest. Mr. Mutchler had witnessed the attack and hurried into the house where he procured a Springfield rifle. As he was coming out again the two had just reached the ground. He hurried within two hundred yards, when fearing the bird would escape, fired and killed it. It measured seven and one-half feet from tip to tip and stands as high as an ordinary man. Mr. Mutchler is very proud of his capture. The cat is a fine and rapidly recovering from his fight.

It occupied considerable time but was pronounced by many as being the most interesting sham battle ever fought in this county. This over the march to the woods on the opposite side where H. H. Swindling A Professor. The Selinsgrove Tribune tells of how one of the professors of the Missionary Institute was taken in by a confidence man. Read it, think over it, live and learn to keep out of the clutches of the confidence men. Several days ago a sharper, an elderly man, came to town, stopped at the National Hotel and told Mr. Holtzworth, the proprietor, that he was an attorney from some town in Maryland and had a large and lucrative practice. He further stated that he was a man of large estates—that he was guardian of a couple of minor children whom he wished to place in some institution of learning.

Mr. Holtzworth recommended Missionary Institute. The next thing Mr. Sharper walked out to Missionary institute saw one of the Professors told the same story he gave to landlord Holtzworth. He next proposed to pay $150.00 in advance. He now had the Professor's confidence and proposed that he would give the latter his check for $200.00 on some bank in Maryland and that the Prof. give his check for $50.00 to him (the sharper) on the First National bank here. This to accommodate him to a little ready cash, as he did not wish to return home for a little while yet. The checks were interchanged. Mr. Sharper went to the bank here, drew his $50.00 went back to the hotel, "set them all around and shortly afterwards left for parts unknown. The Prof. took his check to the bank for collection, which however came back in a few days protested and marked; N. G. The Prof. of course was swindled out of the 50.00, plus the protest. This is another warning to avoid smooth-tongued strangers. It seems that the world is full of rogues now-a-days.

What of the countless thousands for whom cruel, cold winter bears in his train untold misery and privation, suffering and wretchedness? Oh, what of the poor?
