

OPPORTUNITY.

Water of human destinies am I... Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.

ABOUT GEORGE MARTIAL.

Yes, it is he, Mrs. Martial—why shouldn't it be? I should like to know...

Now, Mrs. Martial was down there and, of course, I suspected mischief. For I haven't lived forty-one years—

And then—forty-one (I mean thirty-five) years of experience of the meanness of men in general, and his, in particular, never would have made me believe...

And then, how can we get at her dresses? I can't get near her closet, and if she should find you there—

There, ladies and gentlemen! that all the excuse he ever did or could make, and what's more, they believe him, even better Sam.

There is a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who goes by the name of Gadagid Gignadab.

My best silk that I bought at Ubsell's, and paid eight dollars for the making and trimming!

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

got my work done and myself exhausted by ten o'clock, but I did it and had my green plaid and my velvet head-dress, with the hedges and lace just as the clock struck, for I was determined that that woman should see and feel the difference between me and her...

It was one of those deep closets, with shelves and drawers, that connect the front and back sleeping rooms in most houses nowadays, and I had taken good care to lock the door into the back room and take the key; so, the minute that mademoiselle put down her work and after looking all round, stole into the closet.

Then I went chucking down stairs, but not a stitch of work could I do for fear of being detected. I was so tickled that I almost forgot Mr. Martial, who was scoured out of his wits, when he found I could not pour the tea for giggling, and upset the gray dish.

Now, Mrs. Martial was down there and, of course, I suspected mischief. For I haven't lived forty-one years—

And then—forty-one (I mean thirty-five) years of experience of the meanness of men in general, and his, in particular, never would have made me believe...

And then, how can we get at her dresses? I can't get near her closet, and if she should find you there—

There, ladies and gentlemen! that all the excuse he ever did or could make, and what's more, they believe him, even better Sam.

My best silk that I bought at Ubsell's, and paid eight dollars for the making and trimming!

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

THE LONG LOST PORTRAIT OF WASHINGTON.

One of the most singular stories in the annals of art is the theft and disappearance of an authentic full-length portrait of George Washington, painted by Gilbert Stuart, the friend and pupil of West.

It was one of those deep closets, with shelves and drawers, that connect the front and back sleeping rooms in most houses nowadays, and I had taken good care to lock the door into the back room and take the key; so, the minute that mademoiselle put down her work and after looking all round, stole into the closet.

Now, Mrs. Martial was down there and, of course, I suspected mischief. For I haven't lived forty-one years—

And then—forty-one (I mean thirty-five) years of experience of the meanness of men in general, and his, in particular, never would have made me believe...

And then, how can we get at her dresses? I can't get near her closet, and if she should find you there—

There, ladies and gentlemen! that all the excuse he ever did or could make, and what's more, they believe him, even better Sam.

There is a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who goes by the name of Gadagid Gignadab.

My best silk that I bought at Ubsell's, and paid eight dollars for the making and trimming!

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

Good Advice.

I was a dear little girl who sat on a rock, A-bombing her golden hair, Her father had been hit by a shock To see her so calmly sit there, at that time.

Now, Mrs. Martial was down there and, of course, I suspected mischief. For I haven't lived forty-one years—

And then—forty-one (I mean thirty-five) years of experience of the meanness of men in general, and his, in particular, never would have made me believe...

And then, how can we get at her dresses? I can't get near her closet, and if she should find you there—

There, ladies and gentlemen! that all the excuse he ever did or could make, and what's more, they believe him, even better Sam.

There is a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who goes by the name of Gadagid Gignadab.

My best silk that I bought at Ubsell's, and paid eight dollars for the making and trimming!

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

A LANGUAGE ALL HER OWN.

As Entirely New Kind of a Phenomenon. A Pennsylvania Girl Who Speaks in a Tongue Understood by But One Other Person—A Study for the Philologist.

Little Minnie Kaufman, 9 years old, resides with her papa and mamma at Pittsburgh, Pa. Minnie is petite, blue-eyed, auburn-haired and well-endowed mentally and physically.

Now, Mrs. Martial was down there and, of course, I suspected mischief. For I haven't lived forty-one years—

And then—forty-one (I mean thirty-five) years of experience of the meanness of men in general, and his, in particular, never would have made me believe...

And then, how can we get at her dresses? I can't get near her closet, and if she should find you there—

There, ladies and gentlemen! that all the excuse he ever did or could make, and what's more, they believe him, even better Sam.

There is a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who goes by the name of Gadagid Gignadab.

My best silk that I bought at Ubsell's, and paid eight dollars for the making and trimming!

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

LOVE AND LEATHER.

Is the Altar of Peace to be Thus Disturbed. It comes out in the course of an Illinois breach of promise case that the faithless sweetheart laid the cause of his disloyalty on corns.

Now, Mrs. Martial was down there and, of course, I suspected mischief. For I haven't lived forty-one years—

And then—forty-one (I mean thirty-five) years of experience of the meanness of men in general, and his, in particular, never would have made me believe...

And then, how can we get at her dresses? I can't get near her closet, and if she should find you there—

There, ladies and gentlemen! that all the excuse he ever did or could make, and what's more, they believe him, even better Sam.

There is a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who goes by the name of Gadagid Gignadab.

My best silk that I bought at Ubsell's, and paid eight dollars for the making and trimming!

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

INFORMATION ABOUT THE CHEROKEES IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Cherokees in North Carolina. In the most mountainous part of western North Carolina, isolated among the wildest and roughest hills of the Alleghenies, are 1,200 pure bred Cherokees on a reservation of 73,000 acres.

Now, Mrs. Martial was down there and, of course, I suspected mischief. For I haven't lived forty-one years—

And then—forty-one (I mean thirty-five) years of experience of the meanness of men in general, and his, in particular, never would have made me believe...

And then, how can we get at her dresses? I can't get near her closet, and if she should find you there—

There, ladies and gentlemen! that all the excuse he ever did or could make, and what's more, they believe him, even better Sam.

There is a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who goes by the name of Gadagid Gignadab.

My best silk that I bought at Ubsell's, and paid eight dollars for the making and trimming!

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

NEWS IN BRIEF.

China is to have a silk mill. England's foreign net bill is $125,000,000. The tea trade of Japan is constantly increasing.

Now, Mrs. Martial was down there and, of course, I suspected mischief. For I haven't lived forty-one years—

And then—forty-one (I mean thirty-five) years of experience of the meanness of men in general, and his, in particular, never would have made me believe...

And then, how can we get at her dresses? I can't get near her closet, and if she should find you there—

There, ladies and gentlemen! that all the excuse he ever did or could make, and what's more, they believe him, even better Sam.

There is a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who goes by the name of Gadagid Gignadab.

My best silk that I bought at Ubsell's, and paid eight dollars for the making and trimming!

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?

What do we live for, if not to make life less difficult for each other?