PHILADELPHIA TIMES—It is objected by foreigners that this country lacks in interesting runs. They ought to see some of our banks.

ROBERT S. CASWY father A. J. Caswatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company died in Paris on the 9th, inst. He was born in Wheeling, Va., in 1806, and was a banker the most of his days.

W. H. DILL, who broke the First National bank of Clearfield, was again arrested on the charge of converting $25,000 of the bank funds to his own use. He gave bail in the sum of $30,000 to answer the charge.

THERE are queer people in this world when Don Pedro was king of Brazil they denounced him and wanted to see him dethroned, when he was dethroned, and now that he is dead they are expressing pity for him.—CROCODILES.

INSANITY experts at Bellevue Hospital, N. Y. after a thorough examination of the brain of the man who attempted to blow up Russell Sage declare that he was a sane man—in the language of a preacher the man was possessed of a devil.

The Senate last week had a number of bills presented to it, among them was one to suspend the coming of Chinese laborers, another, free silver coinage, another, to report upon the actual expenses of the business of money lending in the United States by bankers and loan agents.

PRESIDENT HARRISON delivered a long message to Congress when that body assembled. It was read in the House in two hours. In the Senate it was read in an hour and a half. It is a review of the foreign and domestic affairs of the government. It is an abridgement of the affairs of the nation, and our relationship with other nations.

THIRTY five hundred cars loaded with grain were side tracked at Chicago last week. Grain from that country is shipped to the Atlantic sea board at about the same rate that it is shipped from Central and Western Pennsylvania and that is what keeps down the price of grain and produce of the Eastern States. The railroads should raise the rates on the long haul from the cheap lands of the west.

The Franklin Repository is again agitating a change in the manner of nominating a candidate for Congress. It is not satisfied with the old conference system. It is not the only journal that is dissatisfied with the conference system, and the people are dissatisfied with that manner of nomination. The people favor a nomination of Congressmen and Senators by a popular vote. That will give every aspirant in the district an equal chance before the people of his party in every county in the district for nomination. Let us nominate our Congressmen and Senators by a popular vote.

The gold coin men say if you pass a free silver coinage act you'll drive gold out of circulation. The silver men say if you don't pass a free silver bill you'll degrade silver to a commodity, a thing to be bought and sold just as wheat, or horses and cattle are sold and valued by the gold standard. The correct thing to do is to put the gold men and the silver on an equality before Congress give to each the right of free coinage, neither coin could then be ruled out as money, and speculation would be stopped in the precious metals.

CONTRARY to expectation, the Democratic majority in the Fifty-second Congress selected a speaker on the 2nd day after it convened. "Charles Frederick Crisp, is the man, he was born in Sheffield, England, where his parents had gone on a visit, January 29, 1845. His parents returned with him in a year, and he was reared in Georgia, receiving a common school education in Savannah and Macon. At the breaking out of the war he was only 16, but he enlisted in the Confederate service in May 1861, becoming lieutenant of Company K, Tenth Virginia infantry, and serving until May 12, 1864, when he was taken prisoner of war and sent to Fort Delaware. He was released at the close of the war, and returned to Ellaville, Ga., where his parents then resided. Things looked a little blue for the young Confederate at that period, but he did not give up because the Confederacy was dead. He read law in America, and was admitted to the bar in 1866. In 1872 he was appointed Solicitor General of the Southwestern Circuit, and was reappointed in 1873 for the full term of four years, and removed to America, where he has since resided.

At the expiration of his term in 1877 he was appointed Judge of the Superior Court; elected the following year by the Legislature to the same office, and re-elected in 1880 for a full term of four years, resigning in 1882 to accept a seat in the Forty-eighth Congress. He has been continuously re-elected since. His election is equivalent to the defeat of Cleveland for the Presidency.

Hiding Their Money.

From London Tid Bits. "It is hard to tell where eccentric people will hide money," said a detective the other day. "I was once sent to find the money of a man who had died suddenly and left no visible trace of his wealth. The family had made a careful, systematic search before I arrived. I learned that he had not used any of those complicated methods of concealment which are one of the miser's chief characteristics.

"I found that his business took him frequently from home, and that he had formerly been a sailor. I asked what room he usually slept in, and they said, 'All over the house, adding that they had fully examined every place in which he was ever known to be. I asked about his clothing and insisted upon seeing it. Some one brought his garments, at last, and very shabby looking they were. I went over them without success until my eye caught the binding.

"He always kept them well bound," said his wife; "sailors are good sewers."

"The binding was wide but we soon had it off, and there we found folded lengthwise and protected with oil silk, four hundred notes and a score of fivers." A systematic search is often not as good as a shrewd guess by experienced person. "Yes, there are men who conceal wealth away from their homes. Criminals almost always do it. Middle-aged country men will do it, but when they get old they are almost sure to hide it near the spot where they pass most of their time. I have found money in the covers of family Bibles, in hand mirrors, in the bored out legs of chairs, behind cupboard doors nailed tightly to the wall, in false ceilings, blusters, pin cushions, in the lining of old hats, in clocks, stoves and bronze images, in vases with the bottoms covered inside with plaster of Paris, and in bottles weighted with mercury and bottled poison, in canes, shoes and vest linings, in potted salmon tins and tin canisters, in cracked walls covered with wall paper, in all sorts of bedding and upholstery and in almost every conceivable place."

A Lost Boy Found.

Leviestown Free Press December 9.—Yesterday week Thomas Hibshman and son, accompanied by Theo. Store, 14-year old son of Jacob's Steidley, were returning from Millintown, leaving assisted some one in taking cattle down from here, and while coming up through the narrow young Steidley in some way was left along the road, and being way-minded was unable to find his way homeward. Not turning up by Thursday, and his folks becoming concerned for his safety, the house bell was rung to assemble a posse of men to institute a search. Quite a number responded, who repaired to the narrow prepared to scour that region for the lost boy. He was first discovered by officer Price on the tow path, apparently unable to walk, having suffered some cold and hunger. He was finally got into a buggy with George Frang and James Keaver, who gave him to eat of some sandwiches they had thoughtfully taken along. The place he was found was in the neighborhood of the seven mile tavern. He was brought into town about 1 p. m., on Thursday, two or three hundred people lining the sidewalks of Main and Market streets to catch a glimpse of the rescued and recovered boy. He was restored to his anxious parents, living on Junata street, amidst the acclamations of neighbors who had gathered to witness his return.

REBECCA WILKINSON, of Browns Valley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nerve Tonic, and more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy. A few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottle 15 cents. Sold by L. Banks & Co., Millintown, Pa., May 14, 1y.

It is a little late in the season for snake stories but this one is vouched for and was enacted in Danville on the 6th of this present December and is told thus:—John Hanson Craig, who is Forepaugh's snake-charmer, and winters in Danville with his cage of performing reptiles, missed a fourteen foot bon-constrictor on Sunday morning. The snake had escaped in the night from its box in the barn. He hunted all day for without success, yesterday morning at the open door it crawled into the house of James Reasoner, while the family were in the rear portion, and when the mother entered the sitting room she saw the monster stretched across the apartment on the floor beside the sleeping baby.

Her screams alarmed the neighborhood, and when Craig arrived with some others they found that the serpent had already swallowed one of the child's legs, who waking up with a yell, had alarmed the inmates. The constrictors jaws were pried open and the infant's leg was withdrawn, after which the reptile grew so furious that he had to be tied with ropes before he could be removed.

Opium and whiskey are two of the most powerful, and when improperly used, the most life destroying medicines in the world, and to know how to extract or eradicate the effects of these drugs from the human body is an art to which Dr. Woolley can justly lay claim. As evidence he simply refers to his hundreds of patients who have been thoroughly and soundly cured. Being a man of scholarly attainments, he has prepared a work on opium and whiskey, and its effects upon the human constitution. In his work he has successfully treated and permanently cured. This book will be mailed free of charge to your address if you will only send Dr. Woolley a letter asking for it. If you are not afflicted with the opium or whiskey disease, probably you know of a friend or have a relative who is. If you will kindly send their names or inform them of Dr. Woolley's ability, he will take pleasure in sending them any information they may desire. Address Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.
