REFORMISM HAS BROKEN UP.

The most violent type of cholera has broken out in Persia.

Keep cool it is a long time between this and the November election.

The democrats talk against a second term, but they are showing Cleveland for a third term.

The democrats are laughing over the result of the Republican convention at Minneapolis. Next week will be their week in Chicago, and they laugh best who laugh last.

The Republican principles are as good as they were before the meeting of the Minneapolis convention, and President Harrison is an able representative of the principles that made the republican party the champion of free government protection to American labor, and reciprocity with other nations.

President Harrison had the inside track of the convention from the start, and with one hundred and thirty federal officers to back his practical policies, it was an easy victory for him, and if the republican party comes to his support undivided he cannot fail of making the election. His administration of the affairs of government has been a good one and commends itself to the whole country.

The Republican National Convention.

The Republican National Convention convened at Minneapolis, Min., shortly after 12 noon, June 7,—with 838 delegates from the roll, and about 12,000 people present as spectators.

Chairman Clarkson of the National Committee called the convention to order. Prayer was offered and divine favor was invoked by Rev. W. Sloan Fassett was nominated and elected temporary chairman.

Mr. Fassett delivered a long speech announcing the struggle for the nomination as any thing but factional and declaring that the struggle for reform would end as soon as the nomination had ended. He presented a brief history of the Republican party its past and present work, and its mission.

Ex-Speaker Reed was noticed in the convention, some one started a cheer which grew till every one shouted Reed! a speech! a speech!

The Ex-Speaker stepped forward and made a short speech. He dwelt upon the glorious record of the republican party, but declined to go into details on account of the tenderness of the democracy. The republican party has no right to rest on its record, it must push on to reciprocal prosperity. All rivalry must end when the work of the convention is over no matter who the nominee may be. After the close of Mr. Reed's speech and the transaction of preliminary convention business the convention adjourned to 11 o'clock.

ON WEDNESDAY.

The exercises were opened with the following impressive prayer delivered by Bishop H. W. Huppelle, of the Episcopal Diocese of Minnesota.

"Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, who hath promised to give wisdom to those who reverently seek Thee, and who alone pourest into the hearts of men that most excellent gift of charity, send Thy blessing upon this convention. Help them to realize that government is a sacred trust from God, and that in His love He hath permitted every nation to say in what form that trust shall be clothed. And grant, O Heavenly Father, that the one whom they shall select may be a man after Thine own heart, a lover of righteousness, the defender of the helpless and the guardian of the honor of our country, and give to this whole nation an understanding heart to obey Thee, so that truth and justice, religion and piety, peace and happiness, may be continued unto us through all generations. And all this Thy Son, Jesus Christ, in whose own words we sum up all our petitions."

Temporary chairman Fassett was presented with a gavel made from trees grown on the first homestead in Nebraska, which is most significant in the light of the fact that James Buchanan vetoed the Homestead act that was framed and passed by republicans under his administration. The act was passed and signed and became a law under President Lincoln.

The committee on Permanent Organization reported Governor Wm. McKinley for permanent chairman of the convention. Mr. McKinley was introduced and made a speech in which he started with the first republican national convention held 36 years ago, in Philadelphia, and gradually, but briefly unfolded the truth that the platform principles of the party from that time to this have been engrained in the laws of the land and have given satisfaction.

The republican party is thus proven to be the party to give prosperity to the country. The work of the convention he said will be approved by the people. We are for protection and reciprocity.

The democrats believe in direct taxation. The Republicans believe in raising the tax for government from the products of other nations rather than tax our own products. Cleveland's tariff reform utterances are so obscure in language that what he means cannot be understood. Since the war the democrats have tried to pass free tariff laws all of them different. We are to declare ourselves upon the question of a free ballot and a fair count.

The chairman's speech was followed by a speech from Fred Douglass, after which the order of business was announced as follows:

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

First—Report of the Committee on Credentials.

Second—Report of the Committee on Permanent Organization.

Third—Report of the Committee on Resolutions.

Fourth—Nominating of members of the National Committee.

Fifth—Presentation of candidates for president.

Sixth—Balloting.

Seventh—Presentation of candidates for Vice President.

Eighth—Balloting.

After which the convention adjourned to 11 o'clock.

ON THURSDAY.

At 11 a. m. the convention convened and began business on the question of Credentials. The committee was not ready to report and a motion to adjourn to 8 p. m.—at the evening—carried on a vote of 407 yeas, 269 noes. The Pennsylvania delegation voted for adjournment.

Twelve thousand spectators looked down from the galleries upon the convention at 8:25 in the evening when the gavel called the convention to order. The first move at this important moment was not business, but a motion from the delegates.

Deputy that Hon. Richard Thompson invited 82, secretary of the Navy he signed to the platform, everybody said "aye." Thompson was called on for a speech and briefly responded.

The majority report on Credentials was presented seating and unseating certain contesting delegates from Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and other states. The majority report on the same question of seating and unseating delegates all of which caused a heated discussion, and the Harrison delegates were characterized a number of times as only office holders. Senator Quay came to the rescue with a motion that closed the debate. He moved to substitute the majority report of the committee for that of the majority in the Alabama contest seats. Quay's motion was lost, yeas 423, noes, 462, which was voted by the Harrison men as a test vote between Harrison and Blaine.

Ex-Governor Fairbank then presented the resolution as follows: The representatives of the Republicans of the United States, assembled in general convention on the shores of the Mississippi river, the everlasting bond of an indissoluble republic, whose most glorious chapter of history is the record of the Republican party, congratulate their country upon the majestic march of the nation under the banners inscribed with the principals of our platform of 1858, vindicated by victory at the polls and prosperity in our fields, workshops and mines, and make the following declaration of principles:

We reaffirm the American doctrine of protection. We call attention to the prosperous condition of our country is largely due to the wise revenue legislation of the Republican Congress.

We believe that all articles which cannot be produced in the United States, except luxuries, should be admitted free of duty, and that on all imports coming into competition with the products of American labor there should be levied duties equal to the difference between wages abroad and at home.

We assert that the prices of manufactured articles of general consumption have been reduced under the operations of the tariff act of 1890.

We denounce the efforts of the Democratic majority of the House of Representatives to destroy our tariff laws, as is manifested by their attacks upon wool, lead and lead ores, the chief product of a number of States, and we ask the people for their judgment thereon.

We point to the success of the Republican policy of reciprocity, under which our export trade has vastly increased and new and enlarged markets have been opened for the products of our farms and workshops.

We remind the people of the bitter opposition of the Democratic party to this practical business measure, and claim that, executed by a Republican administration, our present laws will eventually give control of the trade of the world. American people from tradition and interest favor bi-metalism, and the Republican party demands the use of both gold and silver as standard money, with such restrictions and under such provisions, to be determined by legislation, as will secure the maintenance of the parity of values of the two metals, so that the purchasing power of every dollar, whether of silver or gold or paper, shall be at all times equal. The interests of the producers of the country, its farmers and its workmen demand that every dollar, paper or coin, issued by the government shall be as good as any other. We commend the wise and patriotic steps already taken by our government to secure an international conference, to adopt such measures as will insure a parity of value between gold and silver for use as money throughout the world.

We demand that every citizen of the United States shall be allowed to cast one free and unrestricted ballot in all public elections and that such ballot shall be counted and returned as cast: that such laws shall be enacted and enforced as will secure to every citizen, be he rich or poor, native or foreign born, white or black, this sovereign right guaranteed by the constitution.

The free and honest popular ballot, the just and equal representation of all the people, as well as their just and equal protection under the laws, are the foundation of our republican institutions, and the party will never relax its efforts until the integrity of the ballot and the purity of elections shall be fully guaranteed and protected in every State.

We denounce the continued inhuman outrages perpetrated upon American citizens for political reasons in certain Southern States of the Union.

We favor the extension of our foreign commerce, the restoration of our mercantile marine by home built ships and the creation of a navy for the protection of our national interests and the honor of our flag, the maintenance of the most friendly relations with all foreign powers, entangling alliances with none, and the protection of the rights of our fishermen.

We reaffirm our approval of the Monroe doctrine and believe in the achievement of the manifest destiny of the republic in its broadest sense.

We favor the enactment of more stringent laws and regulations for restriction of criminal, pauper and contract immigration.

We favor efficient legislation by Congress to protect the life and limbs of employees of transportation companies engaged in carrying on interstate commerce, and recommend legislation by the respective States that will protect employees engaged in State commerce, in mining and manufacturing. The Republican party has always been the champion of the oppressed and recognizes the dignity of manhood, irrespective of faith, color or nationality; it sympathizes with the cause of home rule in Ireland and protests against the persecution of the Jews in Russia.

The ultimate reliance of free, popular government is the intelligence of the people and the maintenance of freedom among its men. We therefore declare anew our devotion to liberty of thought and conscience, freedom of press and assembly, and recognize the dignity of manhood, which contribute to the education of the children of the land, but, while insisting upon the fullest measure of religious liberty, we are opposed to any union of church and state.

Robecia Wilkinson, of Brownsville, Ind., said: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nerve which does me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly man to use this valuable and lovely remedy. A few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." We commend the able, patriotic and thoroughly American administration of President Harrison. Under it the country has enjoyed remarkable prosperity and the dignity and honor of the nation, at home and abroad have been faithfully maintained, and we offer the record of pledges kept as a guarantee of faithful performance in the future.

At 11 o'clock the convention convened and Harrison, Blaine and McKinley were placed before the convention as candidates. On the 1st ballot Harrison was nominated. The votes stood: Harrison, 535; Blaine, 182; McKinley, 182. The convention adjourned to 8 P. M. The convention at its evening session took up the question of Vice President Reed of Maine, and Reid, of New York City, were nominated. Reed of Maine withdrew and Reid of New York was unanimously nominated.

The Oil Creek Disaster Predicted.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 8.—The recent disastrous fire and flood that swept over the oil region of Pennsylvania recalls vividly the prediction made by William Stoner, a colored preacher of this town, who one month ago went into a trance on the street corner and foretold with great vigor the destruction of the cities in the oil regions of Pennsylvania by fire and water. Everybody thought Stoner was crazy, but the power and earnestness with which he talked about the affair impressed every one who heard him. He was looked up for insanity, and is still in jail.

A Shy Girls Prayer.

There was once a young woman (so the story goes) who was very shy and timid, and tried to rid herself of the disagreeable feeling, but without success.

At last she made up her mind to pray about it, and this was her prayer: "Dear Lord, when I have to go among other people please to give me a good consent of myself."

Shy people are often advised to "forget themselves" in order to overcome their unfortunate feeling.

"But the more I try to 'forget myself' the more I seem to remember myself," says a certain Miss B. backward, in comical despair.

With one or two intimate friends Miss Backward can "talk well." In larger social gatherings, however, she is always silent and is considered dull.

Dear Miss Backward, why will you bury your talent of conversation in a bush of shydom? Why not take a wholesome pride in your own merits, as all bashful people rightly say: "I have a 'good consent' of yourself!"

A Favorable Verdict after Twenty Years Trial. The original and only genuine Compound Oxygen Treatment that Dr. Starkey & Phalen, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen in gaseous and liquid form, and is so condensed and made portable that it is sent to all the world.

It has been in use for more than twenty years, thousands of patients have been treated, and recomended it—a very significant fact.

It does not act as most drugs do by creating another ailment, often requiring a long course to eradicate the evil effects of the first, but Compound Oxygen is a restorative, renewing, strengthening, invigorating the whole body.

These statements are confirmed by numerous testimonials, published in our book of 200 pages, only with the express permission of the patients, their names and addresses are given and you can refer to them for further information.

The great success of our treatment has given rise to a host of imitations, unscrupulous persons calling their preparation Compound Oxygen, often appropriating our testimonials and the names of our patients to recommend, worthless concoctions. But any substance made elsewhere or by others, and called Compound Oxygen is a deception.

"Compound Oxygen—Is a Modern Action and Restful," is the title of a new book of 200 pages, published by Dr. Starkey & Phalen, which gives in full and interesting information as to this remarkable restorative agent, and a record of surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Will be mailed free to any address on application.
