Our special artist presents a picture of the democratic presidential mules ticket on its three contradictory phases in the money question. The mule says gold, not gold, but Stevenson greenbacks, not greenbacks but State Bonds.

If the People's party had taken a silver and gold coin man for their candidate for the Presidency they would have secured a larger following, as it is they have thrown a chill over their movement that will freeze them to death by the nomination of Greenback General J. B. Weaver.

The barn of David Guss not far from Port Royal was struck by lightning some days ago. The fire came down the lightning rod part of the way thence around on it to the ground. About 10 years ago the same barn was struck in the same way, with the same result the tin water spouting proving itself a better lightning conductor than the rod put up expressly to carry the fluid to the ground.

Abraham Stouffer, of Lewistown, died last Sabbath morning, aged about 75 years, interment in Lewistown on Tuesday, July 12. Mr. Stouffer was born near Millintown and lived there till about 20 years ago when he moved to Lewistown. His wife and three children survive him.

Senator John J. Patterson while walking on the pavement in Bloomington, Ill., was tripped by a chain that was stretched across the sidewalk. The result was he fell with his hand on the pavement that he was hurt to such a degree that he was not able to leave the house in several days. His relatives and friends here, were alarmed over the reports of the accident but he is all right now.

On Sunday morning a tramp stole Jesse Grubb's best pair of shoes which he had just set at the outside of the kitchen door. The tramp had asked for something to eat and Mrs. Grubb in the kindness of her heart set a spread for him. When the wanderer left he took Mr. Grubb's shoes with him. The next tramp that comes that way will not meet with such a cordial reception. It will be no surprise to hear of tramps being showed off the Grubb premises after this in a hurry.

Samanuel Panneshaker, Jr., of Honey Grove, stopped in town last Friday, feed his team of seven of the nicest and youngest mules that can be seen in a day's travel. He was transporting 4000 feet of poplar boards and two buggies hitched to the lumber wagon from his saw mill in Tuscarora valley to a carriage maker's place in McAlisterville. His outfit convinced the people who saw it that the grand fathers had the means of transporting their farm products to market, within themselves.

Panneshaker's grand father used to transport his farm products raised on the now David Sieber farm in Fernanagh township to Baltimore by wagon. The first day's trip used to be from the Fernanagh farm to the Honey Grove farm.

On the evening of June 28th, Charles Sherlock, resident on Washington street, went to bed in health and good spirit. A babe fawned Mrs. Sherlock, and then she noticed that her husband breathed heavily. Death had claimed him as its own, and before Mrs. Sherlock could warn her neighbors his spirit had passed from the confines of his earthly tenement. He was an industrious man and the home that he and Mrs. Sherlock had made for themselves was a happy one. They were an industrious couple and it was a contented and happy home that they had made for themselves which makes the bereavement all the more intense. But Heavens to avert all things well tempers the storm for the shorn lambs.

A spark from a locomotive or a chimney fired the roof of the house of John S. Taylor, a shoemaker, in Port Royal, and despite the efforts that were made to save the building it was totally consumed. The fire alarm whistle was sounded here, and the fire company responded in double quick time and within the period of nine minutes had the engine on the cars ready for the three mile run to Port Royal. The steamer was there taken off the track and put into position to get a supply of water from the river, but by that time the building was almost entirely destroyed. The loss to Mr. Taylor is a heavy one, as he had no insurance. The fire company's achievement of getting the steamer to Port Royal in the time they did, is one of the pieces of quick work in that line that is hard to equal.

On Sunday the 3rd inst., a bolt of lightning struck the west end of the large building on the fair ground at Port Royal, and played around in the house in a remarkable way, darting hither and thither, clipping out a piece of wood here and there in its way to the east end and there in its course it escaped to the ground. The Patriotic Sons of America had held a festival in the house the evening before and left there goods to resume the festival on the 4th. George Deolar was in the house as special watchman, and was asleep when the lightning dived through the building. A post near by where he lay was splintered and the light was so bright and the general rumbling was so confusing that George did not exactly know what had taken place, but he left in a hurry for the town and reported that the electric fluid had been cutting diodes in the building, all of which was verified by a visit to the house. However, it is believed that 50 dollars will make good the damages.

Thursday 30th, J. Miller McDonald, of this place as a result of the teppeling over of lumber—located on the ground adjacent to the new cannery factory building—on which he was seated had the outer bone of his right leg broken three inches above the ankle and the large inner bone dislocated at the ankle joint. The limb was badly bruised and the broken bone came nearly through the flesh and skin. Mr. McDonald's two little sons and James McCauley also occupied the lumber pile when the accident occurred. The escape from injury by the children and Mr. McCauley was very narrow. Mr. McDonald was taken to his home and immediate surgical attention rendered by Drs. D. M. and Darwin M. Crawford. At this writing he seems to be doing well.

The cannery enterprise is progressing to the satisfaction of its projectors. Contractor Horning has been the building up, and sheriff Noble drilled a well at the North side of building, 51 feet deep. Twenty-seven feet of water stand in the well and an hour's work at pumping failed to exhaust the supply. Some are of the opinion, had the drilling been continued a stream of water could have been brought to flow out of the top of the well.

A Cure for Constipation and Sick Headache. Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family medicine. It will cure sick headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for the clearing up of the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c a package.

Water. Last Thursday was an eventful day in the history of Millintown. On the morning of that day July 7, a company of men were put to work to dig a trench for the 8 inch water pipe that is to bring the water to town from Macedonia gap in Shade Mountain about 4 miles north-west of town. The enterprise of bringing the water to town is a private one with which the two boroughs have agreed to take a certain number of water pipes and pay a certain price annually. With the use of water for house purposes, the borough has nothing to do, that is a matter of business for the property owner and water company. H. E. Aherns, of Reading is the contractor and as above stated he started work on the morning of the 7th inst with 20 men with J. M. Johnson and Jerry Hoyer as foremen. The men were placed along Bridge street between the canal and Main street, each on a section of 30 many feet the first day. The Millintown men engaged in the digging were David Anderson, Frank Swartz, Edward Swartz, William Brown, John Vocum, Robert Foltz, Charles Lowery, Harry Tyson, Grant Swartz, Banks Fasic, John Lesch, William Warner, Oscar Conrad, O. P. Robinson. On the morning of the second day July 8, the force was turned into Main street northward and now they are on the Pike working northward towards the mountain and are followed by an other set of men laying the pipe.
