Locomotives in Palestine.

The Democrat and Register is troubled by the statement made in the SENTINEL AND REPUBLICAN that American locomotives have been bought for railroads in the "Holy Land." Now neighbor compose yourself and don't make ugly faces at us, but get yourself down to the study of the fact, how American manufacturers find it possible to go to Palestine and build railroads and equip them with American iron and cars and locomotives in the face of the cheap maternal and cheap labor of the old world. Yes just think of it, faraway America with her high priced labor and her high priced material as you call it, going into the Holy Land, where labor and material is low, and there engaging in enterprises at money making, and all that that result of the tariff. Such things as that is enough to set the political teeth of the Democrat and Register on edge, for it is like most of our other leaders of the democracy a free trade leader and such leaders are all bitterly opposed to American locomotives being sent anywhere out of the United States under a protective tariff system. But the Democrat and Register fails to tell its readers that if our manufacturing establishments were not protected by a tariff law our workmen would be as poor as workmen in England and in the Holy Land, so poor in deed that they can scarcely live with any degree of comfort and so poor that they have no ambition.

American workmen are protected by republican tariff laws that keep out the cheap wares and goods which, if admitted, under free trade laws would result in breaking down the price of manufacturers wages and prices of all shop made work and that would in a great degree destroy the ambition of the people of America for labor enterprises. By the employment of fast working machinery the American people can more than compete with the low rate wages of people of the old world. Our democratic brother should not be surprised that American locomotives are in the Holy Land. The American locomotive backed by the American himself is destined to go into every land under the fostering care of a republican protective tariff and while it is drawing heavy loads over transportation lines in foreign countries the American in the factories at home is happy, receiving good wages at their trades, and the American farmers are finding a better market for their produce in furnishing the workmen in the shops and factories with grain and all kinds of farm products. The democratic policy of free trade that the Democrat and Register is wedded to would knock off the protective tariff and that would reduce the wages of the men in the shops more than one half, and in many cases the people employed in the works would be obliged to go to farming to make a living on the farm and the work of hundreds of thousands more people on the farms would so increase the over production of grain and other farm products that the prices would go lower than they are now, and they are lower now than they should be for the general prosperity of the farmer and all other people. The Democrat and Register should be glad to hear of the American locomotive being sent to Palestine, and it should not exert its influence to bring about a state of national affairs that will make it impossible to send the American locomotive to the Holy Land. Vote the Republican ticket and it will be a vote in favor of men who will keep up a national policy of government to send the American locomotive to Palestine and every where that men are sufficiently enlightened and able to receive it and use it.

The Homestead rioters through Burgess McLuckie have brought suit against Frick the manager of the Carnegie Steel Company Limited for aggravated riot and conspiracy, which is a counter suit to break, if possible the force of the suit against 167 of the rioters.

Is the case of William Lums vs. Colonel J. B. Strator, of Washington county for aggravated assault and battery, the grand jury has found a true bill. Lums is the young man who proposed three cheers for the man who shot Frick in Pittsburgh, for which proposal he was tied up by the thumbs and drummed out of camp.

The New Ballot Law.
A digest of the Pennsylvania ballot law of 1892 for the guidance of officials and voters, with explanatory notes has been issued. In declaring the rights and duties of voters it is explained:
Only ten voters are allowed in the voting room at once outside the enclosed space; and only four voters in excess of the number of compartments are allowed inside the enclosed space at once.

Voters must go first to the officers in charge of the ballots and state name and address. The right to vote must be proved and the voter allowed to pass the guard rail before he can receive a ballot.

Voters must compare their ballots forthwith and in the compartments. A cross (X) marked in the square at the right of a party name indicates a vote for all the candidates of that party.

A cross (X) marked in the square to the right of the name of a candidate indicates a vote for the candidate.

Crosses must be marked in the proper squares only. If candidates for different parties are voted for the squares at the right of the party names must be left blank.

Names must not be crossed out. Names must be inserted in the proper blank space only and not in spaces where names are already printed.

Names can be inserted by writing, hand-stamping, sticker or any means not infringing on the secrecy of the ballot.

Names inserted can be marked, but this is not necessary. Names printed on the ballot must not be inserted.

When a candidate has died or withdrawn and a substitute is nominated after the ballots are printed, the name of the substitute is printed on an official sticker. This should obviously be inserted with the name of the deceased or withdrawn candidate.

Voters unable to prepare their own ballots can be helped to do so, but only in case of actual disability, which must be explicitly declared to the judge.

To preserve order this should be done before the voter enters the enclosed space.

A voter desiring help must himself select another voter of the district to help him.

A voter who receives such help without being actually unable to prepare his ballot will be liable to indictment for unlawfully showing his ballot.

and having on board many of the Company's officials, about 10 A. M., went down to the bay to meet the City of Paris, and greeted the return of President Roberts by the waving of flags and blowing of whistles. Then the City of Paris was escorted by the bay to the dock of the Pennsylvania depot where many had gathered to welcome home Mr. Roberts. His special train awaited him here, and with his party he was soon on his way to the Quaker City.

On the same steamer City of Paris came also the great Brooklyn divine—Dr. Talmage, who had been on a visit to Russia. In speaking of the famine which has existed in Russia during the summer he says: "The story of the ravages of that famine has not been told. For months these people had nothing to eat, but what they call hunger bread. It is made of pig weed, chaff and mud, mainly of mud and is almost indigestible. The children could not live on it and in many districts not a child is yet alive."

Last Monday night Senator Hill opened the Democratic campaign in Brooklyn. About 5000 people had gathered in Mass Hall to hear his address, which he read from manuscript. He is an extraordinary speaker.

The Crops.
The State weather and crop bureau, reported last week, September 21—In many sections of the State the corn crop is short, owing to the drought at earing time. Cutting is now general and will soon be finished in the southern counties. In this section the tobacco crop is nearly all housed and in good condition. Early sown wheat is growing finely and stands well on the fields. The fine weather has afforded excellent opportunity for late seeding, the rain putting the ground in good condition, and in a few days the entire crop will be sown. Potatoes are below the average and do not seem to be turning out very well. The apple crop is very poor. The long drought during August caused them to fall before being ripe. Reports indicate that the crop will not be a half yield.

Cloverseed is reported a failure in York county. A fair crop of buckwheat has been harvested. On the whole the crops this season have been about the average. In some counties, as the southeastern, the yields have been rather above, while through the southwest, central and western counties the harvest has been about, and in some cases below the average.

At the World's Fair.
Dauphin county, Pa., will send for exhibition in the Woman's Building at the World's Fair an elaborately carved table of extraordinary historical interest. It will be composed of woods taken from the yoke of the famous "Liberty Bell" from the house in which the first American flag was made, from Washington's headquarters at Valley Forge, from the old ship construction, and from a pillar in Independence Hall. The upper surface will be inlaid with the upper arrow heads, relics of the Six Nations, with whom what is now Dauphin county was once a favorite hunting ground.

Origin of Drinking Habits.
Here is one explanation of the origin of drinking habits. In the old days of Danish vikings it was a custom to stab a man in the throat while he was drinking his mead. So when a man had occasion to drink in company he asked every one to "drink his health," with him believing that while they were thus occupied they could not stab him "weeping" on him. Then the poets arose and wrote around this purely defensive custom of outbursts a great many pretty poetical ideas. And thus it survives to day to the great profit of the gimballs.—New York Tribune.

Secrecy of Bass.
The subject of the secrecy of bass in the Juniata River is being discussed through the length of the Juniata valley. The Lewistown Sentinel gives its opinion on the subject in the following: "I was talking the other day to a man who has had much experience at fishing in the Juniata, and who is a level headed observer, and his opinion is that the secrecy of bass is due principally to the scarcity of food for them. 'Why,' says he, 'the fish propagators contend that a female bass will produce 5,000 young in a season, making allowance for destruction, &c. Now take all the fish caught during the season along ten miles of the Juniata and it could not amount to the product of ten bass. Some years ago with a small net you could catch nearly a quart of fine minnows at a haul, while now you catch but few and they are some of the most small for eggs. There seems to me no doubt that it is the scarcity of the stream because of the scarcity of minnows and other feed.' If this view of the matter is correct, and it seems reasonable, the fish commissioners could accomplish more in these streams by stocking them with bait fish along with the game fish than by wasting money on the latter alone.

Cow Stolen.
Daniel Fields owns a cow which was on the ridges back of town Tuesday afternoon. About five o'clock James Clinger was coming over the ridge he met a man driving a cow with a rope around her horns. Knowing the cow he stopped the man and began to talk to him about having such a fine cow. The man represented that he was moving from Millintown to Stone Valley, that the animal had broken away from him near Lewistown and chased him clear back to the dam, and that on getting to Lewistown again he was directed on the wrong road. Mr. Clinger reported to Mrs. Fields as soon as possible about the cow and Mr. Fields was notified. It getting late he requested his son-in-law, Lucargas Law, to get a buggy and follow him as soon as he could, and then started after the thief. The first information was gained of John Rapp, then it was discovered next that the fellow had offered the cow for sale for $20 at Isaac Anran's place on the road to Stone Valley. The man said he had turned down the valley. He was traced to Frank Meador, where the cow was discovered in the barn yard and it was learned the thief was sleeping in the stable. The men drove the cow home and started back with Officer Price who arrested the thief. He was brought to town and put in jail about 2 o'clock that night and the next morning when taken before Justice Walters gave his name as Lemah Daeter and his home as Huntington county, but would not say just where he belonged in that county. He gave as a reason for taking the animal that he was poor and hoped by its sale to secure money, which was badly needed in his family. He was sent to jail to await trial at court.—Lewistown Gazette.

Printers and Printing.
The incorrectly written articles that are sent into printing offices can only be properly graded by printers who have the training to correct and present them properly for the public to read. Those who write badly little think of the skill and ability of the printer, who sets up at midnight to correct their bad grammar and orthography, and whose punctuation. We have seen the arguments of lawyers in high repute as scholars, sent to the printer in their own handwriting—many words, especially technical and foreign terms, abbreviated, words misspelled and few or no points, and this too, if very carefully in the wrong place. We have seen the arguments of some of our most celebrated "divines" sent to the press in a most chaotic condition with out points or capitals to mark the divisions of the sentences; also the letters of scientific and political correspondents that have required hours of the closest study to decipher. Suppose all these had been printed as written, nothing but scorn and contempt would have been heaped upon the printer. No one would ever have believed that such income was made by the printer, and not owing to the ignorance or heedlessness of the author, and no one but a practical printer knows how many hours the compositor and after him a proof-reader, is compelled to spend in reducing to a readable condition that even the writers themselves would have had puzzling to decipher.—American Art Printer.

For Mother-in-Law Eyes.
The Yokohama papers contain a startling story from Japan.—A young man in Bungo Province slew his wife in order to secure her liver with which to cure his mother's failing eyesight. Some quack told him to try chicken liver for his mother's blindness, and when this failed suggested that he get a human liver, and declared the mother must eat it raw. He determined to sacrifice his child and told his wife the baby must die. She refused to permit the sacrifice, but offered herself instead, and helped him to strangle herself. Then the husband cut out her liver, but before he could use it his crime was discovered and he was arrested.

A Baby Poisoned.
Two months ago George Cassidy, a soldier of Beaver county, died and a pension agent filed a claim for his widow and two children. One week ago another child was born, and the agent sent proof of the date of the little one's birth to the Pension Bureau. This child, if it lives so long, will draw a pension from the birth of its life until its sixteenth birthday, or until September 9th, 1908.

Take care with Your Bill.
At a grave-yard in a little village in Lancashire after a funeral service had been performed, the wife of the deceased, who had been weeping bitterly was being led by the grave long after the rest of the mourners had gone. She looked around anxiously to see if anyone was watching her, and then took from under her cloak a pair of old clogs and threw them on top of the coffin. "Tak'em with thee, Bill," she said, "for many a time thou has kicked me with them."—H. T. Hamilton.

Ran into Each Other.
By mistaking a local train for a through train orders were given for the right of way to fast trains, and that caused the second section of Pacific Express west, and second section of Philadelphia Express east-bound to run into each other about 3 o'clock on the morning of the 21st inst. on the single track between Middletown and Lancaster. William Campbell fireman on the west bound train was taken from under his engine dead. William Lilly of Harrisburg, engineer of the east bound train had a slight bruise. The passengers escaped injury.

Blossoms have been showing themselves on the limb of a plum tree in the yard back of the Pennell store in this town. There is nothing superstitious about Will Pennell, and he did not accept the appearance of the blossoms as an omen of impending evil, but he said, "what caused that blossoming out of season in the month of September, and his mind ran back over the span of the tree's existence, and he saw a caterpillar and he saw it as it appeared with one limb preyed upon by caterpillars, and the limb is the one that is now blossoming. Then he reached the conclusion that the blooming or blossoming had been kept back by the work of the caterpillars in the spring, and that the blossoms lay dormant till now, the first time that it has had a chance in this season to expand into life, and that is the natural cause for the blossoming so late in the year.

Reaping and Threshing Machines.
There are in successful operation on the large farms in North Dakota, machines that cut, thrash and bag grain. Seventeen horses can draw such a combination machine, which can in 10 hours cut, thrash and bag 60 acres of wheat or oats. Three men are required on the machine. "As the machine advances the knives in the cutter bar clip off the heads of the stalks. These fall on a broad endless canvas belt that carries them to the cylinder or beater of the thrasher which removes the grain from them. It drops through a series of sieves over and among which a rotating fan keeps a strong current of air moving. This removes the dust and chaff and the grain pours in a steady stream through a trough into sacks which are sewed up and dropped to the ground to be picked up by teams that follow the thrashers."

Horse Killed.
John Rapp had a horse killed last Friday in a singular way. There is a precipice in the Rapp lot south of the Lutheran grave yard, and the proprietor had just come home with his horse and wagon, and turned in such a way on the lot that the hind end of the wagon was near the precipice which was made years ago by quarrying limestone. In getting out of the wagon Rapp tied the end of the lines to the wagon, and the wagon, upon the precipice, (the late residence of the decedent) in Fayette township, Juniata county, at which time the horse was killed. If you see proper.
