GENERAL B. F. BUTLER, died unexpectedly in Washington, D. C., last Thursday, January 11. He was was a great man in many particulars, era!.

PHILADELPHIA RECORD, January 11, nuggets By a curious coincidence there were 8000 pleasure seekers in Fairmount Park day before vester day, with their sleighs and fast horses, spending the precious dust. This is the way in which income and outgo are evened up in this blooming world.

The Southern slave holders, hated no man more than General B. F. Butler. When Butler was placed in charge of New Orleans at the time it. was taken from the rebels, the first flag that he unfurled over the public buildings was pulled down by a gam- year and three months at Cherry bler of the town. Batler had him court martialed and sentenced to death. He was promptly executed. After that the rabs thought that But fer had horns on his head.

THEY have a time of it in Kansas ; it is the day there of the small man, It requires sixty five members to organize the House, but 58 men calling themselves Populists have elected a Speaker and insist on being recognized as the lawful legislative body. The Democrats and Republicans have elected a speaker, and Kansas thus has two Legislatures or rather one Legislature divided into two sections, and all for the purpose of Catholic Church. The building was pare for an attack upon the intruder. Beller was then a haggard wretch, Why not elect United States Senators by a popular vote?

Murderers Hung.

Last Friday, January 13, four of the eight murderers of Dr. James Heighe, were hung at Chestertown. Md. Dr. James Heighe Hill's murstarted out in his road cart a few minutes past 10 o'clock to visit a sick child a few miles from Millington. When near the bridge crossing a small stream of what is known as Ford's Hill, his cart was stopped by a band of negro men and boys. Two of the boys, Fresby Comegys and Perry Bradshaw held the horse. Charles Brooks struck the doctor in the side of the head with a large stone, and Fletcher Williams stabbed him in the neck. The unconscious body of the doctor was then placed face downward in the road eart by Moses Brown, Williams and Brooks, the head shoved under the iron brace, and the borse turned blows to make him run away, in order to give the impression that death was the result of the ronaway. The Doctor's horse went home and outside of his stable door, paw ed the ground until Mrs. Hill, who cause of the disturbance, she found her husband in the wagon, unconscious and dying. The facreams of Mys. Hill aroused the neighbors and the dving man was tenderly borne to bed, where he died in a few hours

His body wriggled within the straps about him, and his determined efforts to get the handenffs off pleased the crowd immensely. The old farmers who gathered around the dving man laughed, and some even cursed the negroes. Fletcher Williams dropped five feet and made no effort to resist the inevitable. Moses Brown also passed away without much outward protestation. The men died in from ten to eighteen minutes. The heart of Williams beat for seventeen minutes, although he acted as though be died first. After the execution the people quietly
