Old John Bull, the engine that caused so many people to go to the railroad on Tuesday, to see it go by, on its way to the Columbian Fair at Chicago, was a pattern of the locomotives of 1836, a half century ago. That isn't old, wait for the fair of 2293, four hundred years hence, Chicago will then be a city 12,000,000, and Norfolk Virginia will be away ahead of New York as a point of entry and export.

A bull dog and billy goat confined in Expressman Daggett's stable in New York, raised such a fuss that it was thought best to see what excited the animals. It was a fire in an adjoining stable, the smoke of which was finding its way into the place where the goat and dog were confined. It was a timely discovery, and saved a great fire. That goat and dog will be well cared for from this on to the end of their life.

Man's Ax Factory, located in what used to be known as Stretter's mill, in Lewistown, was destroyed by fire on the night of the 13th inst. Loss $75,000, insurance $26,000. The factory is to be rebuilt immediately. It is not known whether the fire was accidental or incendiary. The fire broke out about half past nine o'clock in the evening. A half hour before the fire, a load of coke was unloaded not more than 25 feet from where the fire broke out.

An Old Cigar. C. M. Hackett, of this borough, has in his possession a cigar, in good condition, which was left at his home by a dashing young military officer, the guest of his father's family, in the year 1865. It has a band of paper coiled about it with an inscription thereon and was stuck into a little ornamental slipper hanging against the wall, where it has remained for the past twenty-seven years.—Bloomfield Democrat.

Famous Lawsuits End. READING, Pa., April 12.—The famous Gehr farm litigation, which has been in progress for 16 years, is about to end. The farm contains 241 acres, is worth about $30,000, and is located in Maxatavay township. When Miss Kittie Gehr, of this place, died 16 years ago three branches of the Gehr family claimed the farm. It was successively awarded to each one. The three original litigants died years ago, but the fight for the farm has been carried on by their heirs. The matter was in the Berk's County Courts three or four times, and was several times in the State Supreme Court. It is now proposed to sell the farm and give one-third of the proceeds to the heirs of Bolzar Gehr, Crawford County, one-third to the heirs of Hannah Nicely, Milton, and one-third to the heirs of Hannah Rothermel.

Woods Fire. Bloomfield Advocate, April 12.—Last Tuesday fire was discovered in the woods, of Robert Neilson in Center township. With great rapidity the flames ran over the woods, devouring fences and destroying much of the timber in their path. The whole valley was illuminated during the night. During the progress of the fire some of those fighting the flames were almost surrounded and suffocated. The fire burned itself out next day, after running over, it is estimated 1000 acres. On the Robert Neilson farm 90 acres of fine timber land were traversed by the fire and a mile of fence consumed; on the Seibert farm 70 acres were burnt over and a mile and a half of fence destroyed. Other person's timber land east and west suffered in like proportion. On the John Garlin farm in Little Germany, owned by Peter Blumenschein, the barn and house were on fire but were saved by most strenuous efforts. The cause of the fire, it is asserted by those who know, was from a spark ejected by a high Polish finish engine, which was burnt over and a mile and a half of fence destroyed. PHOTOGRAPHS. ANOTHER TIME FOR ANY LENGTH OF TIME, WHILE WE ARE IN THE PICTURE BUSINESS. We will continue making our fine Cabinet Photographs as low as $1.50 per dozen. These pictures are mounted on elegant card enameled on back and face, with picture with a high Polish finish superior in quality to the Aristo Photo. It has been taking the last year. However all those wishing the Aristo picture, I will still make them at the same price, $1.50 per dozen. The extensive patronage and the many testimonials of the appreciation of our work, we have received the last year, gives us renewed courage to go on with these low prices, and we propose making Mifflintown headquarters for the finest photographs for the money that can be obtained anywhere, adding all the time new and costly accessories of the very latest designs giving our trade the benefit of that which would cost $3.00 in the city, for $1.50 in Mifflintown. We can make pictures for $1.00 per dozen such as are made by the best traveling photographer, but we prefer giving our patrons a much better picture for very little more money. Thanking our patrons for their liberal patronage we solicit a continuance of the same. Respectfully, JOSEPH HESS, Mifflintown, Pa., March 9, 1893.

An Elephant, a Snake, a Storm. They were swapping truthful tales at the Shoreham last evening, and by unanimous consent Charles Stow, of Girard, Pa., was awarded the sugar coated bun.

"I've read a good deal," said Mr. Stow, "about the intelligence of elephants, but there is an elephant out in Geneva, O., which is wintering with a circus there, that is the smartest and most intelligent elephant on earth."

"Once in a while a cyclone sweeps over the Buckeye State and levels buildings to the ground. This elephant whose name is Snoozler, known as much about meteorological conditions as the entire force of the weather bureau combined. Not long ago, as Snoozler cast his weather eye out of the building in which the menagerie was confined, he discerned a marked change in the barometrical condition of the atmosphere. He also saw a cyclone on the southeast headed down the menagerie building. Slipping his chain and grasping his axe in his trunk, he set off to the windward of the building and drove a guy stake deep in the ground.

"The cyclone was then but a mile off and was rapidly nearing the building. Rushing inside, Snoozler unfastened the cage containing the giant python, and seizing the big snake in his trunk trotted outside and tied his tail to the guy stake. Then reaching himself on his hind legs he fastened the end of the chain around the centre chimney of the building. The cyclone was now but a quarter of a mile away.

"Dashing around to the leeward of the building, the intelligent pachyderm braced his powerful legs in the ground and put his head against the side of the building. The cyclone was now but a hundred yards off. The next instant it struck the menagerie with terrific force. The superior intelligence of the elephant was here most evident. If he had taken a chain and fastened it to the windward side of the building it would have been snapped like a thread, but the python was elastic, and he stretched just enough to hold the building in place, together with the elephant's braces on the other side. The cyclone, therefore, was so great that it stretched the python ten feet, and shoved Snoozler's legs down in the hard ground up to his body.

"When the cyclone passed over Snoozler trotted around, untied the python, replaced it in its cage, pulled up the guy stake with his trunk, returned the axe to its place, slipped the chain from the chimney, and contentedly resumed his noonday meal of hay."—Washington Evening Star.
