Cows Milked by Fish.

New Hops, Pa., June 21.-The discovery that a German carp drinks milk, hrs averted what threatened to be wholestle suits for theft. Michael Tierman, for several months, or ever since the weather grew warm, has noticed that his blooded cows return from their luxuriant pastures with full stomachs and empty udders. There was a suspicion that the cows Bridge Bonds will be required of the had been milked by families who reside in the neighborhood. This thing continued and Mr. Tiernan's dairy product reached zero. He watched his cows, but could not discover the milk robbers.

Yesterday he had a startling reva | CHAS. B. CHAWFORD. lation. He was standing by the mill race which runs through his farm, he saw his favorite cow enjoying herself in the water which touched her body.

After a prolonged bath, the bovine MIFFLIN ACADEMY emerged from the stream. Clinging to the animal's udder was a carp that weighed about 15 pounds. It had drunk every ounce of the cow's milk. Mr. Tiernsn says that the cows have regularly gone to mill race to keep cool, and the fish have as diligently extracted their milk.

Corn as the National Flower-

From the Des Moines Register.

If we must have a National Flower, maize is certainly entitled to consideration. There is little or no beauty about the flower of the maize. It resembles a weed, more than a beautiful flower, but it stands for a great deal that is distinctly American, and that is the foundation of American prosperity. This country owes a great deal to maize.
