People had sorely finished talking about the fire in Cunningham's house, till they were startled to hear of the burning of a house owned by Charles Corkins and occupied by his son J. H. Corkins, in Farmington township, last Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Corkins was baking and the first information that she had that something was wrong about the place was a creaking noise outside. She hastened out and was almost paralyzed at the sight of a blazing fire in the roof about the flue.

The alarm was sounded, the farm horn was blown, and neighbors ran to the fire, but could they do, no water, no bucket, they did the best they could, and carried out the furniture and household goods, but made the mistake in bringing it to near the burning building.

The goods, look fire and before they could be transferred to a place of safety, were so burned and damaged that they are of little account.

Charles Corkins, Jr., in trying to get the stove out, had the inside of both hands badly burnt. The building and furniture had some insurance.

Monahan looked at the stove but did not know how to manage the flame. He said, "I'll run over and get Milton Guss, the hardware man from whom the stove was bought."

He ran for Guss, whose place of business is near by. Both men hurried back.

The head of the maid Phillips was level and she saw at a glance that the thing to do was to kick out the porch balustrade and shove the stove of the porch, that was just the thing to do but the girl had not the physical ability to do what would have prevented the house from taking fire.

Monahan came back with Guss. Then the flame was reaching high above the stove. The maid again was the one to do the work and Monahan and Guss each took hold of the end of a strip of carpet and brought it down over the stove with the purpose of smothering the fire, but it seemed only to cause more fire for the flame puffed out from under the sides of the carpet with such force and such volume, that they were driven out of the porch, Guss was struck in the face by a tongue of flame and at first thought he was severely burned but aside from a slight stinging of the ends of his eye brows, winkers and hair he was uninjured.

Monahan ran out of the house shouting fire, and across to W. C. Cramer's house for his water hose, when he returned the kitchen was all a fire.

The amount of fire went up from all parts of the town. Alarm whistles sounded and the streets ran full of excited men women and children.

The two hose companies were soon on the ground and had two streams of crystal Macedonia water playing on the building. It did not take long to extinguish the visible flames, but the fire had crept inside plaster weather boarding and inside plastering of the main part of the building.

The water stood on the floors of the building to the depth of over two inches and ran out of the front door in a rushing stream.

The furniture of the tenants was taken out after the fashion that prevails at a fire. Mr. Miles household effects were not insured. It is not known whether Mr. Cleva has his household furniture insured.

The building was not destroyed but considerably damaged. A fire is always a terrorizing thing in the house where it takes place, but since the introduction of the water from the mountain, pipes outside of the house suffering by the fire are not terrorized as in days gone by when they were without protection.

Harriet E. Hall of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it to lightly." Sold by L. Banks & Co., Druggists, Millintown, Pa. Feb. 9, '93.

time now and costly accessories of the very latest designs giving our trade the benefit of that which would cost $3.00 in the city, for $1.50 in Millintown. We can make pictures for $1.00 per dozen such as were made by all travelling photographers, but we prefer giving our patrons a much better picture for very little more money. Thanking our patrons for their liberal patronage we solicit a continuance of the same.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Browns valley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine which does me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy. A few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world."
