Charles Wilson a telegraph operator lost a foot under the wheels of a freight train on Saturday evening. He had just come into Port Royal off duty. As he stepped from the passenger car a freight train was slowly passing. It was only a square to the next street, and when there, he'd be that much nearer home, and with that thought in his mind he attempted to board a car of the running freight train. He stepped on a rolling stone, a foot slipped under the wheels and in less time than it takes to tell it was crushed. It was amputated several inches above the ankle joint.

It looks as if Hoke Smith will be arraigned by members of his own party when Congress meets. Hoke is a kind of a law unto himself. The pensioner that has been spotted by a spy he drops from the roll, and then proposes to make the pensioner show cause why he shall be re-instated. If a pensioner is a fraud he should be dealt with as a fraud, but a man who has been accepted as entitled to a pension certainly has a right to a fair trial before he is adjudged a fraud and his pension taken from him Hoke sets himself up as a sort of despot to settle cases without hearing or trial.

Foreman, John Hackenberger, since he has located on a division in the long narrows between Mifflintown and Lewistown does not get to Mifflintown as often as in days of yore. However, he was in town last week, and to have heard him talk of the game that is roaming in the narrows was to excite the sporting desire of everyone who has ever shot game from a squirrel up to a bear. Deer and bear and foxes and rabbits glide about in the solitudes of the mountain along the railroad. Hackenberger has spotted their haunts and when the hunting season comes in, his friends may be surprised any day with a present from him of a savory piece of venison or substantial piece of bear meat brought down with his old reliable gun a generation old.

A man from Poland, whose name has been made out to be John Bargess, had his left leg broken on a freight train at the west end of Mifflin yard last Wednesday. He was seated on the bumper of a freight car with his legs stretched across on the next bumper, resting his feet squarely against the end of the car in front. When the cars came to a halt in Mifflin yard his legs were not stout enough te keep the cars apart, and his left leg was caught so quickly that he could not hinge it, and the result was that the limb broke at the knee joint. The foreigner had no money on his person. He became a county charge and is being cared for at county expense in the family of Geo. Bohrman on Water street. This is the second accident of a knee failing to hinge under like circumstances on the cars within the 10 days past.

The Cleveland post-masters are requested to play the spy on the pensioned soldiers. It is getting down to it pretty low when the post office is to be turned into a spy pen or detective agency.

George Warner while on Shade mountain north of town gathering huckle-berries was startled by the rattle of a snake near by. He killed the snake which he says was as large as any he has met with on the mountains. It was four feet long and had five rattles. He took the skin off the reptile for a trophy and hung the hide on a board on Patterson avenue.

Men and women groan and worry over what? Borrowed trouble in most cases. They have a duty to perform or some work to do and worry over the thoughts of the duty or the work. The worry that they put themselves through is a great deal harder than the work. Go to work with a willing mind and the worry disappears and the work is comparatively light.

Rev. P. Willard, who 30 years ago, preached for the Lutherans of Mifflintown, McAlisterville and Center, was caught with a grand son on the railroad near Mexico station by Fast Line west on the evening of July 26 and fatally injured. The grand son was aged 3 years, and died within three hours after the distressing occurrence. Mr. Willard, aged 84, had a leg so badly broken that amputation was required; an arm was broken in two places. His body was severely bruised. He died about 11 A. M., on the 27th ult. Mr. Willard was on his way to the station with two grandsons to go to Bloomfield, Perry county. The elder of the two boys aged 5 years barely escaped the fate of his grand-father and little brother.

Huntingdon Journal, last week:—The well-known firm of T. Z. VanZant, M. W. Enyeart and G. R. James of Orbisonia, has failed to the amount of over $15,000 * * * On Saturday morning of last week, John Foreman, who resided about three and a half miles from Shade Gap, went to the fields to bring in his horses, and not returning as soon as he should some one went after him to find him dead in the field. His death was caused by heart-failure. * * * W. Murray escaped from the Reformatory on Thursday evening of last week. Murray attended the cows, and on Thursday last went to the Island farm to do the milking. He was unaccompanied by a guard and realizing that now was his opportunity to escape made rapid strides toward McConnellstown. He is 22 years of age, fair complexion, light blue eyes, light brown hair, five feet four inches high, and weighs 145 pounds.

Lewistown Free Press:—Our community was pained to learn of the accident on Saturday, that so unexpectedly deprived Hamilton Ramsey of life. On the morning of that day, Mr. Ramsey went to the farm of Capt. R. J. McNitt, in Armagh township, not more than a half mile from his own home for the purpose of picking cherries. Placing a long ladder against a tree not far from the house, he mounted to a height of about 20 feet, and while standing on the ladder he looked upward for a good place to pick, and becoming dizzy, everything turned black before him, his consciousness left him, and he dropped to the ground receiving a severe concussion on the back of his head and some think breaking his back. Mr. McNitt looking at the tree, saw that Mr. Ramsey had taken his position all right, but when he looked again, he missed him from the ladder and hastily going to the place found the old gentleman lying on the ground, the ladder remaining in its former position.

It was some time before Mr. Ramsey regained consciousness and was able to give the facts related above. He was then conveyed to his home at his own request, where he expired about 3 p. m., the accident having occurred in the morning about 9. His age was about 75 years. His remains were interred at Milroy on the 25th, at 10 A. M., in the Presbyterian cemetery Mr. Ramsey buried his wife only about a week before his death.

The awfully fateful event of the death of Rev. Philip Willard and his grand-child Bruce Willard by the wheels of a passenger train at Mexico last week, has so many touching incidents connected with it that it is almost a marvel all the way through. It is a marvel that a man of Mr. Willard's judgment should have ventured on the railroad track when he could have pursued the road to the station. It is a marvel that Mr. and Mrs. Strauss were looking out of a window in their house and saw fast line rush upon their friends. The scene was almost like piercing a knife to their heart, their blood almost burst from their veins, and they turned their backs and covered their faces, and who can appreciate the marvelous filial love and devotion and presence of mind of a daughter of Father Willard when she appeared upon the awful scene and saw the life blood of her aged parent flow from his mangled limb speedily took one of her garters and tied the limb to stay the flow of blood. A noble heroic daughter. Again the marvelous reveals itself in the expression and act of Bruce the grand son only three years of age when his mother took him in her arms, he exclaimed, mamma! mamma! my little foot is off, but I will not cry; I will pray.

Harriet E. Hall of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I cannot recommend it to highly." Sold by L. Banks & Co., Druggist, Mifflintown, Pa. Feb. 9 '93, 1y.

Old Time Potatoe Bug.

John Porter says the long black potatoe bug has put in an appearance on his farm in Milford Twp., and it is a ravenous feeder, but it is shy and runs out of the patch when one goes among the vines, and beats the stalks. It is much easier to flop about with a brush here and there in the patch and in that way scare off the bugs than to poison the leaves and vines as used to be done with the Colorado bug. Porter prefers the native bug to the imported one.
