VALLEY FORGE LOVE.

W. M. S. W.

Enemies to the continental army swarmed in Philadelphia. Lord Howe was in possession of the city. British officers in gay uniforms danced with the localist ladies in the halls where the voices of Franklin and Adams had echoed in the cause of freedom. Men clad in tatters left bloody tracks with | their bare feet as they moved from one hut to another among the snow-drifts at Valley Forge

Noman rejoiced more that the winter was severe and that the godlike heroes at Valley Forge were shoeless and starving, than the rich Troy merchant, John McFarlane. He smiled the sentiment. "It pays to be loyal to The night before Lord the king." Howe had kissed the hand of his beautiful daughter Dorothy and had chosen her for his partner in the minuet. There now stood before him a blushing young English baronet, the epaulets of a general upon his shoulders, who had just asked him for her hand.

It is a great prize you would rob me of, Sir Richard, Suppose I should say no," said Mr. McFarlane, enjoying the young man's suspense. "Then I should abide by your decis-
