THE low tariff laws that the Cleveland administration is preparing for Congress to pass, will give the market of the country to foreign manufacturers and American manufacturers will have to shape their business to that of foreign manufacturers and the American workmen will have to take foreign wages.

CLEVELAND and his administration, is in love with the world business ways, tariff laws, and money system, gold standard and so forth, and is so infatuated with acting in their interest that he has gone so far as to prepare to reseat on the throne of Hawaii Queen Liliouokalani, who was dethroned some months ago.

CONSENSUS the benighted condition of the Africans, in Africa, intelligent men of African descent, are wondering whether, the so called curse of Noah still rests on the descendants of Ham, because Ham, made known that he found his father drunk behind the door of the tent.

IT is probable that the so called curse was no curse but was simply a prophesy of what would happen to Ham and his posterity. There is no record to show that the power of cursing was delegated to Noah.

THE republican party shaped its tariff laws to protect its manufacturers from the low rates of the manufacturers of the old world and then said to the old world business, "Gentlemen, these are our business rates we will be glad to deal with you along these lines." How changed has everything become since Cleveland has come into power. He has proposed a radical change in the trade inter course with the old world and that proposed change has upset the business of the country. Instead of stating our own business rates in protective tariff laws he proposes to change our business rates to suit the old world, and adopt their business rates. In substance he has said "Gentlemen, here we are, ready to give up all our business rates and adopt your business rates and work along your line of business operation."

Cow Pox Against Small Pox.

AT this particular time when small pox has broken out in a number of towns in Pennsylvania and threatens to become wide spread, the matter of holding the dread disease in check is of the utmost importance. The preventive is vaccination, that is the introduction of cow pox into the human body, which is done by making a few scratches on a persons arm and introducing to the scratched part a small quantity of matter that has been taken from the teats of a cow. The cow pox thus introduced into the human body secures the person from taking small pox, which up to the time of the discovery of vaccination was one of the most loathsome and fatal diseases that man is subject to.

IT is only about 70 years since Dr. Jenner, of Gloucester, England, discovered and announced to the world that cow pox is a remedy for small pox. In a small pox epidemic, he noticed that persons who milked cows were exempt from small pox, that they could go among those stricken with the disease and not take small pox. He instituted a diligent inquiry into the reasons for the exemption of those who milked, and soon learned that during small pox times the udders and teats of cows became sore in spots—broke out in large pimples or small boils, and that the hands of those who milked the cows during such times broke out in eruption for about ten or twelve days and then rapidly healed and that such persons would not become affected with small pox. He was not long in determining in his own mind that the introduction of the matter from the udder of a cow into the arm of human beings changed the constitution of persons and made them proof against the taking of small pox. Within the past 70 years, since Jenner's wonderful discovery the whole civilized world has come to adopt vaccination as a small pox remedy and millions of lives have been saved. Previous to Jenner when the dread disease appeared there was no remedy against its fatal ravages. It ran its course and numbered its victims at each visit by thousands. There was a method of treatment by which a modified type of small pox was obtained that saved many lives. Children and persons who had not yet taken small pox were put upon a low diet of bread and water for the period of eight days, and then they visited a person afflicted with the disease and slept with the patient, from which they received a mild or modified type of small pox.

Work of Foot Pads. Bloomfield Democrat—Simon Eppler, a prominent merchant of Marysville, was "held up" by a foot pad before daylight Monday morning of last week, just as he was opening the door of his store. The foot pad demanded his money, but Mr. Eppler quickly jumped inside the store and locked the door. The rascal then tried to break in, but he was repulsed. Mr. Eppler had quite a sum of money with him at this time and nothing with which to defend himself. One of our most daring robbers ever committed in this county was perpetrated last week in the upper end. On Friday evening, just after dark, John Clair, who resides in Saville township, was on his way home from C. D. Saylor's on Sandy Hill, where he had been husking corn during the day and was passing through a piece of woodland, when suddenly a man sprang upon him from behind, grasped him around the body and pinioned his arms to his sides. At the same time another man searched his pockets. Mr. Clair made all the resistance he could, but it was of no avail. After they had robbed him of $10, all the money he had with him, they left him go, and made off as fast as they could. He has strong suspicions as to who the villains were, although he was unable to see their faces, and arrests may follow.

What Leg Pulling Means. A despatch from Reading last Wednesday says:—The expressive but questionable phrase "pulling a leg" was defined by the Berks County Court on Friday. In the divorce case of Lewis W. Youn against his wife a letter written by the latter was produced, in which she told her husband if he wanted his "leg pulled" she would do it. The question was asked what was meant by "pulling a leg." J. H. Jacobs, counsel for the defense, said he knew Judge Endlich said it was a slang term, meaning to get money from another without giving an equivalent. The Court acquiesced in this definition of "leg pulling." The jury returned a verdict in favor of the wife, whom Youn had accused of infidelity.

A Fiend Hung By a Mob.

A despatch from Ottumwa, Iowa, November 21, narrates as follows:—The outrage of the person of a young girl, and the hanging of the fiend who committed the crime. An excited and angry mob hung Fred Gustavson to the stair railing of Justice Trutt's Court room this afternoon. Gustavson outraged the four year old daughter of Jonas Sax about 10 o'clock last night. The fiend was promptly arrested shortly after committing the crime, and lodged in jail. This morning he was taken to the Sax house and positively identified by the little girl and a companion who was enticed to a room together with the little girl and she was permitted to leave after getting inside the room. Gustavson kept the little girl child and by the fondest means succeeded in his purpose. He then turned the little girl out and with much difficulty she reached home in a terrible condition and related her experience to her parents. Her father went to police headquarters, and soon Gustavson was behind the bars of the County jail.

An Awful Death.

Mrs. George S. Lenhart, wife of the editor of the Williamsport, Breakfast Table, died on the 22nd inst., from the effects of burning caused by the upsetting of a lamp. In the evening about 6 o'clock, when she arose from working a sewing machine, a sleeve of her dress caught on a metal lamp, throwing it on the floor, the oil splashed on her dress and set fire to her clothing. She attempted to smother the flames with her carpet but failed, then ran out of the house screaming, by the time neighbors put out the fire all her clothing except her corset was burned from her body. In many places the flesh peeled from her limbs and body. There was an awful death.

A Trading Horse Thief.

Liveryman Ira Barr traded horses recently with a colored man from Greenacastle, Pa. The horse Mr. Barr got proved to be a stolen one, and an Everett constable came to this place on Wednesday and took the horse. The horse the negro got from Barr was traded to an Altoona man, and Mr. Barr learning of this fact, went to that place and got his horse back. The negro was captured at his home, after having disposed of the Altoona horse somewhere.—Holidays Register.

A Ferdinando of McVeytown, while driving through Bratton township last Thursday evening was attacked by two men. They walked up to the buggy and asked him for a chew of tobacco he told them he had none, no sooner had he made the remark until one of the men grabbed him and tried to pull him out of the buggy, while the other fellow held the horse, but Ferdinando broke loose from the follow and struck him a couple of hard blows with his fist in the face and kicked him under the chin he fell back upon the road, and he took the whip and slashed the other fellow who had hold of the horses head that he was compelled to leave go. Better Try Marbles.

The Selingsgrove Tribune of the 23rd inst gets off a joke on the Mifflintown Foot Ball Team, as follows:—Thursday afternoon a decidedly one sided game of Foot-ball was played in this place between a team from Mifflintown and Mission Institute, resulting in the latter team scoring 52 to 0. The home team was in fine form and played an excellent game. The visiting team was composed of gentlemen, but from the score we are led to infer that they do not understand foot-ball. Better try marbles.
