

SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN

MIFFLINTOWN. WEDNESDAY, DEC. 6, 1905. B. F. SCHWEIER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

THIRTY members of the British Parliament are down with grip.

The finances of Italy are in a bad way. The government is about broke.

The trial trip of a British torpedo boat developed a speed of 27 miles an hour, and England again boasts that she is Queen of the ocean.

The tariff reform bill now before Congress has placed some coal on the free list. The friends of the bill say a Nevada coal can now come in without a tariff and that will cheapen the price of coal.

The Cleveland administration will do its utmost to whip low tariff rates through Congress. The use of patronage on lower house men and senators will not be spared, and patronage is a powerful agent among Washington officials.

There was scarcely an excuse for an income tax when the war with slavery was going on. How much less should it be enacted by Congress at this time.

PULLMAN of Pullman car fame is about to erect a $70,000 church in memory of his father at his birthplace, Albion, New York State. It is a nice thing to do, and really does if you have the money.

Some one stepped into the office of The Sentinel and Republican, long enough on Thursday, to say that Wellington Smith's speech on Direct Tax day, in the Court House, before the teachers' institute was a good one. That it maintained the dignity and good name of Juniata county, from the criticisms that were directed against it, for not having this and that for the schools, and for not paying higher salaries. He said, "Mr. Smith struck the key note, when he said the school appliances and salaries of large and populous and wealthy districts should not be set up in matters of expenditures for the smallest of counties to pattern after. The schools in Juniata are good without being extravagant." Mr. Smith, said on the question of the late appropriation by the State, that it was clearly understood by the people of the Commonwealth, that the additional appropriation of money was for the relief of the tax payers and not for an increase of the school term and not for an increase of salaries. Our informant was highly pleased with the old, Benjamin Franklin-like current of thought that ran through Mr. Smith's speech.

Teachers Institute

The 27th annual Teachers' Institute of Juniata county met in the Court House at 2 p. m. on Monday, Nov. 27, 1893, and was called to order by Superintendent D. M. Marshall. After choir music Rev. John R. Henderson read from the scriptures and made a prayer. W. E. Auman was elected Vice President, J. M. Barton was elected Secretary with Miss Maggie Kinzer, Assistant Secretary. Superintendent Marshall, delivered the opening address.

Follow Teachers—As this annual gathering marks the 27th annual county institute in the history of the common schools, of Juniata county, it is believed by this time the real object of the county institute is clearly understood.

This we infer from the fact that on 26 similar occasions my predecessors have set forth the practical benefits that are to be derived from the annual county institute.

The results achieved in the schools of this county, except in those schools whose teachers have undervalued the work of the institute and consequently neglected to avail themselves of its advantages, are the best evidence of the excellent character of the work of the institute. But teachers, I believe you have learned to know the purpose of the institute best from your personal experience. That you have found it to be of the greatest practical benefit to you as teachers and through you to our schools.

The institute meets the needs of all classes of teachers. "Those who have been trained in normal schools or otherwise, for their professional duties, as well as those who have been trained in the true professional spirit that should mark their work conspicuously successful beyond the measure of the work of the less favored teachers. Those who have gained in experience the rank among successful teachers and who are now doing successful work can receive light upon the problems of their experience and a guide to higher success. Those who have not had such training as the one class nor as yet achieved such success as the other, if you are earnestly striving to establish your rank among the highest in the profession of teaching can find the best help in the careful reciting and putting in practice such methods as present the summary of results from the most successful experience.

Of the 107 teachers in our county, 15 have had no previous experience; 48 having taught less than 5 annual terms; leaving 49, or more than 50 per cent, of our number, who have taught 5 or more annual terms. Hence we need light from without and I believe we are keeping within the bounds of truth, when we say there is no better way of getting it than through the agencies of educational papers and valuable instruction given at the county institute. Teachers, at this the opening of the institute, let us get a clear conception of the different opportunities here given for strengthening the cause of popular education, in which we are all so deeply interested.

First, by presenting to the teachers fundamental principles of education so that when you return to your schools you can make such application thereof as your circumstances and surroundings demand.

That the opportunities here afforded for professional and social intercourse are invaluable as a means of infusing an educational zeal for your profession, and that the presence and aid of leading instructors from abroad are helpful in the highest sense through the contact thus given with the best educational thought and practice in the country at large.

From the present notable prominence given to questions relating to popular education by educators, legislators, morally, and intellectually the teacher must soon be classed, not only in name, but in reality a professional man. Then will you be remunerated, for your service, as are those in the different professions, according to your actual worth to the profession.

The ones who are the financial support of the common schools are not so much, now, discussing the question, "How much shall we give to the support of the common schools, but how much can be utilized by the schools?"

It is the boys and girls who are soon to be the men and women whom the state is caring for in a pecuniary sense, and not the teachers. The teachers must care for themselves, and their care for the boys and girls physical, morally, and intellectually must be in such a manner that their services will always be in demand and at a premium.

If the teachers of Pennsylvania by their well directed efforts, desire it they can have the reins of school legislation largely in their hands. Let the result of your work always be beyond what is expected.

In the boys and girls under your instruction see the possibilities of true men and women, then in your God given powers do all that you can to make the possibilities realities. It is in your province largely to mould the habits of the boys and girls of our land and to fit the standard of their characters. Nay it is in a measure, in the relation existing between teacher and pupil for you to fix their future destiny, and as your success is noted, so will the legislators of this state legislate for the support of popular education.

While making arrangements for our institute I was governed by the principle, if we expect to get much out of our institute we must put much into it. In employing instructors and lecturers it has been our aim to secure talent above the average, that will give us practical work.

Teachers, it is presumed you are here, ready and willing to take advantage of every opportunity of improving your work, hence the importance of being present at the different sessions. If a teacher leaves the room when the institute is in session and is absent for an hour, during the absence, you may miss the most valuable thought given during the institute. Teachers, in conclusion let me urge you to show to the gazing public, you are earnest, faithful, and progressively assisting us to increase the teaching power in Juniata county and in inspiring the teachers heart with the highest motives.

Monroe—A. M. Barner, J. S. Zimmerman, E. S. Hoekenbrok, David B. Finkenbinder, S. A. Knouse.

DIRECTOR PARTICIPANTS.

The directors who took part in discussion on Thursday, directors day, are Dr. I. N. Grubb, J. N. Keller, Esq., Henry Scholl, John Jamison, Clarence Hower, Wellington Smith.

COMMITTEES. Superintendent Marshall appointed the following committee on general resolutions: O. C. Gortner, J. A. Martin, W. M. Rife, P. A. Neely, S. I. Stoner, Miss Blanch Fry and Miss Ella Showers.

The institute elected the following committee on permanent committees: E. Maude Robinson, Maggie R. Kinzer, W. E. Auman, J. H. Carney, O. B. Slatoff, Gertrude Schoff, Ella B. Kurtz.

LECTURE PARTICIPANTS. Prof. Charles H. Albert, Columbia county; Prof. J. T. Ailman, Juniata county; Prof. A. G. Saylor, Lancaster county; Prof. W. R. Rodde, Lancaster county; Dr. A. R. Horne; Allenstown. Dr. W. E. Schaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Harrisburg.

EVENING LECTURES. Monday Evening—Able address of welcome by H. C. Holloway, D. D., Response by Samuel I. Stoner. Tuesday Evening—Lecture "The Road to Victory," by L. I. Handy of Delaware. This was a gem of a lecture.

Wednesday Evening—Lecture, "Push and Pull," by Rev. A. R. Horn of Allentown, For solid merit and useful information, this lecture is not easily equaled. Dr. W. C. Shaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction was present and was requested to address the institute, which he did, taking for his subject, "The Boys and Girls."

The boys and girls, and following the line of thought, that it is only when the will power of the boy and girl trends in the right direction that intelligent and good citizenship is reached. The Dr. has a suave manner of delivery, and gentlemanly address that won for him many friends in Juniata.

Thursday Evening—Female by a male quartet, and the male quartet and female quartet. The quartet, when singing, looked like a small flock of black birds singing on their return from a wintering in the south.

J. Deon, led the institute, with Miss Flora Fasick for organist. A number of the choir singers if they trained every day could excel the boys and girls of the quartet for they have more musical voices.

Friday evening—Illustrated lecture, "The Harp of the Senses," by Prof. I. B. DuMott. It was entertaining and instructive, and splendidly presented, and if at any time the Professor should determine to drop the pretty name he has given it for a name that every one can understand as quickly as it is pronounced, he can call it "The Force of Habit."

Winter Tours Via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The final arrangements are now made by the Tourist Bureau of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the running of its personally conducted winter tours for the coming season. First and foremost in point of magnitude and attractiveness come those to California and Florida. The dates for the former are January 31st and February 22nd. The first date has been selected so that en route to the glorious westernmost State of the Union the most grand festivities at New Orleans may be enjoyed by the tourists. California will command unusual attention this winter by reason of the Mid winter Exposition to be held at San Francisco. This exhibition promises almost to rival the World's Fair in completeness.

Many Eastern people have already decided to attend. Florida, always a popular haven still remains one of the most delightful part of our country in which to pass the inclement months of the year. Five tours will be run there, January 30th, February 13th, February 27th, March 13th, and March 27th, have been chosen as the starting dates. $59 from New York, $48 from Philadelphia, and an equally low rate from other points will cover all expenses en route.

Old Point Comfort appeals strongly to those not caring to journey further from home, and on December 26th this historic spot will be visited by a special tour. Last come the tours to Washington, D. C., on December 14th and 28th, January 18th, February 8th, March 1st and 23rd, April 12th, and May 3d and 24th.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company's guarantee that thorough and satisfactory methods will be pursued in conducting these trips needs no additional testimonial.

Life in Misery

to many people who have the taint of scrofula in their blood, the agonies caused by the dreadful running sores and other manifestations of this disease are beyond description. There is no other remedy equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, salt rheum, and every form of blood disease. It is reasonably sure to benefit all who give it a fair trial. Nov. 15, 1893.

A Clearing House Check.

A Pittsburgger who found himself in possession of a check for $600, marked payable only through the clearing house," presented the paper at the bank on which it was drawn. "We can't cash it," said the teller as he handed the check back. It must go through the clearing house in the city of Pittsburg, he said, "where you do business." "I have no bank account," "Then take it to some man you owe money to. He will know it is perfectly good, and will be glad to cash it for you to get what is due him." "Don't be so fast. I don't owe anybody anything." "Don't owe anything?" repeated the bank officer in astonishment. "Great Scott, man, then you don't need the money."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Catarah in the Head. It is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect and permanent cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarah. Catarah often times leads to consumption. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla before it is too late.

Hood's Pills do not purge, pain or grip, but act promptly, easily and efficiently. 25c. Dec. 20, '93.

A Pot of Gold.

The Lewistown Gazette says:—Some persons have been hunting on Jack's mountain the past week after a pot of gold claimed to be hid some where on the mountain near Bellefonte. It is said it was hid by an Indian long ago but by all appearances it will stay hid. It is said there is a thorn bush near the place that cannot be cut down. If any person attempts to cut it down he will cut himself or break his axe.

Letter From Jersey City.

November 29th, 1893. Mr. Editor—On the 25th of November 110 years ago the British evacuated New York. This day as the years pass by has always been celebrated as one of the important events in the struggle for American Independence. This year it was celebrated by unveiling a bronze statue to the memory of Nathan Hale. This statue now stands in City Hall commons about fifteen feet from the sidewalk on Broadway and a stone throw from the post office, where the multitude who pass by on Broadway to their daily pursuits of life can learn a noble lesson of patriotism from this young hero.

It will be remembered that Nathan Hale was born among the hills of Connecticut, and entered the Continental Army before he was twenty-one. He received his commission as captain from Congress January 1, 1776, which was signed by John Hancock, President. In September of that year he was captured by the British, who considered him a spy and he was brought to New York and sentenced to be executed the next morning at the dawn of day. While his sentence was pending he was even denied the service of a clergyman and denied the privilege of reading the Bible, and the letters he wrote to his mother and a sister were torn up by Cunningham a British courier.

He was executed on September 22, 1876. His patriotism is well expressed in his words when he said "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

The figure represents him as he was bound, his arms tied behind his back and his feet together at his ankles with a rope. He stands on a granite pedestal about four and a half feet high, fittingly brought from the granite quarries of Massachusetts where he first drew his sword in defense of liberty.

He was executed near where the monument now stands. On the monument is the inscription, "Nathan Hale, captain in the Regular United States Army, who gave his life for his country, in the city of New York, September 22, 1776." and below his last words, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Box Nox. Musical Contest. We have received from the publishers, the two great rival marches "Protective Tariff Grand March," and "Free Trade Grand March."

The former is by the well known author, Will L. Thompson of East Liverpool, Ohio. The latter is by Wm. Lamartine, an author of equal talent, and both pieces are beautiful, light and showy frohes of medium length for Piano or Organ. Price 40 cents each.

They are for sale at all music stores, or may be procured from Mr. Thompson at one-half price. One firm alone has ordered 15,000 copies.

Matrimony in Jail. The Bloomfield Democrat of last week records the following:—During the past week matters matrimonial seem to have somehow got twisted up with the court of quarter sessions in this county, and several marriages have occurred, at which Cupid seems to have played a very unimportant part. For instance:—

Mary Jane Anderson, of Tuscarora township, sometime ago brought suit against Samuel Spriggs, of Lewis township, charging him with being the cause of her shame. The defendant was tried last week, found guilty and the usual sentence imposed, but to compromise matters he consented to wed the plaintiff, so the ceremony was performed in the Register's office in the court house on Thursday in the presence of about thirty spectators, the innocent cause of the trouble being one of the number. Apparently there was no love lost between the couple, especially on the part of the bridegroom, and the only happy individual connected with the affair seemed to be the junior member of the newly made firm.

To the same in Margaret J. Hoil and Edward Adams, of Tyrone township, were wedded under somewhat similar circumstances, only that the ceremony was performed in the jail, where the recalcitrant lover had been incarcerated after having pleaded guilty in court to being the guy Lothario who had wronged the gentle Maggie. In this marriage there seemed to be more of an admixture of love than in the former case, for to the bridegroom, a formality which was not observed at the Spriggs-Anderson wedding.

On Thursday Deputy Register and Recorder Kinter was again called to the jail to issue a marriage license to a couple who had loved "not wisely, but too well," in consequence of which the would-be bridegroom was languishing in durance vile. The couple were Reuben Grist, of Carlisle, and Elizabeth Witherspoon, of New Dananunton, and they had concluded to reconcile their differences by getting married, but unfortunately when it came to answering the questions in the license docket both confessed to being already married.

Of course the wedding could not proceed, but the prosectrix's heart was so softened at the prospect of a mate becoming a bride that she withdrew her charges against the unfortunate Reuben and the two departed in peace, vowing to get divorced from their present spouses, and then to end all legal proceedings at Hy-men's altar.

M. J. J. Kintner, Deputy Register and Recorder, officiated at all these matrimonial ventures, and in view of such experiences she has about come to the conclusion that marriage is a failure. The interested parties in the cases just named will probably be of the same opinion in a few months.

Ask Your Friends Who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla what they think of it, and the replies will be positive in its favor. Simply what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. One has been cured of indigestion or dyspepsia, another finds his bowels open for sick headache or biliousness, while others report remarkable cures of scrofula, catarah, rheumatism, salt rheum, etc.
