Not another sound echoed through the big sitting room half save sometimes the rising wind outside slamming a shufter or mosning through the trees on the laws or drearly whistling down the har e chimney before us.

Although the romance of our situation was delightful in the extreme, by and by it began to impress itself in all its uncanny spookiness upon our senses.

We became quieter, and though wishing to seek our cosy bed chamber above we dreaded going to it through the gloom of the long stairs and upper hall, and so, yet we lingered below by the Walling in Crocodiles.

One of the innumerable curious sights of India is the Nuggar tank of Eurach). In former times the crocodiles which inhabit it roamed the great was their depredations that the authorities were forced to build a wall round their haunt. This is a swamp, caused by hot springs, the medicinal virtues of which have been known from early times, and are attributed to the sanctity of a Mohammedan whose tomb is close by and to whom the crocodiles are sacred.

The tank, as it is called, is about 150 yards long by about half that distance in breadth. In this space one said our chortest college prayer, and from eight to fifteen feet long, and smaller ones innumerable. They are to tame, in a sense, that it is necessary to poke them with a stick before

SMALL BUT EFFECTIVE. Was the little Monitor that met the Merrimac at Hampton Roads. So too are Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, effective in conquering the enemy—disease. When you take a pill it's an important point to have them small—provided they have equal strength and efficacy. You find what you want in these little liver pills of Dr. Pierce. They're put up in a better way, and they act in a better way, than the huge old-fashioned pills. What you want when you're "all out of sorts"—grumpy, thick-headed and take a gloomy view of life, is these Pellets to clear up your system and start your liver into healthful action. Sick Headache, Billous Pleadache, Constipation, Indigestion, Billous Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved, and chired. The dead were a mother and her son, and the son had been dead and unburied for thirty years. During the Civil War the son was killed at Murfreesboro. His mother declared that she would never part with her boy while she lived, and that when death plaimed her also both should be buried in one grave. She had an air-tight cedar casket made with a glass top, into which the body was laid. This was placed in a room assigned for the purpose, where the mother often repaired to commune with the dead. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. FLANNELS WITHOUT SHRINKAGE. To wash flannels without shrinkage have a tub half full of water that is more than warm, but not very hot, and make a strong suds with laundry soap of the best quality. Add a tablespoonful of powdered borax. Shake the flannels thoroughly, then squeeze them with the hushed by the flerceness of the down- hands, sop them up and down, and if necessary rub the spots between the hands. Do not rub soap on the flanne's, and do not rub them on a board. Wring from the first suds and put into another of the same temperature. Rinse through this water, then put them into another as warm, that does not contain scap. Wring dry, shake vigorously, and dry quickly. Iron before they are quite dry with a moderately hot iron, and press well. Do not use borax for colored fannels.-New York Post.

CLEANSING FLUID.

One of the best and most economical of the various fluids for removing spots from fast-colored fabrics is given below. It is said to have originated in the Eaglish Navy, and is in general use among both soldiers and sailors. Cut four nunces of castile soap into a quart of soft water and heat it until the soap is melted. Remove from the fire and add two quarts of cold soft water. When the liquid is quite cold pour into it four onaccs of ammonia, two of alcohol and two of ether. Bottle and cork tightly. When it is desired to remove greave spots or generally renovate a garment shake the liquid well, apply with a sponge or cloth and rinse with clear water. When fast-colored dress goods are to be washed aid a cupful of the fluid to a pailful of soft water, soak the garments in the water for a few minutes, wash tuem out and rinse thoroughly .-New York World.

KEEP THE OVENS CLEAN. That it is a marked addition to the lavor of oven-cooked food that these East Chairback rong, among the places should be kept scrupulously clean not so well realized by housekeepers as it should be. In Devonshire, according to Chambers's Journal, ovens are whitewashed, a practice that is excellent. "Firstly," says the journal, "it makes the ovens light, and it is doubtful if ovens would be allowed to get so dirty if they were not so dark and the dirt so inconspicuous. Then the lime whiting, which is the particular ingredient of whitewash, is a material approaching the nature of a disinfectant; any way, it is phites is employed with great not favorable to smells or odors of any success in all ailments that re-A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat should no kind whatever. Lastly, it so plainly duce flesh and strength. Little shows by discoloration when objectionable results may be expected and the lime-wash should be renewed." If you cannot have tiled ovens, in which bread and meats are most admirably baked, scrub out the blac'r. sooty ovens of your range and whitewash them, and if you can't do this, at least keep the ovens actually clean, if they do not look so.

Butter slices of stale bread and spread with the turkey; ecver with top slices, press them together cut in two, pile on a plate and serve.

Ham Sandwich-Chop up half s pound of lean, boiled ham; mix with a tablespoonful of minced cucumber pickle, a teaspoonful of French mustard and a dash of cayenne. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a sauce pan, stir over the fire; add the ham, with the yolk of an egg and a little salt; stir well and take from the fire; turn out on a plate, let cool, spread on slices of buttered bread, lay another slice on top and Salad Sandwiches-Chop up a cup the white meat of a boiled chicken, and the same of cold boiled tongue; put in a mortar and pound to paste; moisten with a few drops of vinegar and celery extract, add a dash of cayenne and half a cup of mayonnaise dressing; turn the mixture into a dish and set on ice. Cut thin slices of bread, lay over a crisp leaf of lettuce and cover with another slice of bread; press gently together, cut each sandwich in two, pile on a dish and garuish with cress.

Sandwiches, when properly prepared, are very dainty, not only for luncheons and 5 o'clock teas, but for parties and receptions, writes Mrs. E. R. Parker in the Courier-Journal. The bread should be at least twelve hours old, and home made; either yeast or salt raising will be found best. The slices should be cut thin and even, and the crust trimmed off. The meat for sandwiches should be of good quality, well cooked, and cut in small, thin slices; all skin, fat and gristle should be taken off. To serve sandwiches neatly, fold a napkin, lay it on a dish and pile them very high on it; garnish with bunches of cress.
