

MIFFLINTOWN. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1894.

THE REBELLION IN BRAZIL IS OVER.

POLLARD VS. BRECKINRIDGE.

The daily papers the past week have been giving largely of their space to the details of the suit of Miss Madeline Pollard against C. P. Breckinridge, (or breach of promise).

They are both from Kentucky, but the suit is in court in Washington, D. C.

Breckinridge is an elder in the Presbyterian church, an able public speaker, a religious meeting excorator, and great Sunday school man, and it is probable that it is on that account that so much publicity is given to the case.

Miss Pollard is the daughter of a Kentucky saddler who died poor, the girl was ambitious of securing an education, and obtained money from an elderly man named Riley on the condition that she would marry him or pay back the money he had furnished her for the education.

On one occasion when she was traveling on a train a man came to her and said "don't I know you?" She knew he didn't, but she knew him by sight, and she answered, "no you don't know me but I know you are Mr. Breckinridge."

When Riley pressed his suit, she thought of the one acquaintance she had made with Breckinridge and wondered whether he could help her out of her trouble with Riley. She wrote to Breckinridge, he did not answer, but he went to Lexington where she was and took her out in a closed carriage the first evening he was there. The next day Friday, he took her to an assignation house, and there they remained at night with each other till on the following Monday. After that he was frequently with her as often as two and three nights a week.

There is nothing in the case to make so much ado over, there is nothing in the case that should act as a stumbling block to men and women who want to live up to the standard of a pure life. It does not in the least affect the principal of chastity. It affects only the parties in the case, and proves what a hypocritical man Breckinridge is. The end of the suit has not been reached. Breckinridge is about 62 years old, and Miss Pollard is about 31 years younger.

DEMOCRATIC SUGAR.

A writer on the action of the democracy on sugar says:—It is characteristic of the Democratic party that, having gained power, as a professed opponent of all trusts and monopolies, it should give the Sugar Trust everything it wanted. The Republican party effectively protected the sugar raising industry of the country by a bounty which cost the people only $10,000,000 last year and which promised to develop the best sugar interests of the West to a point where by far the greater part of the domestic consumption of sugar would be supplied by the domestic product.

The protection given to sugar in the McKinley law was equitable and patriotic. It was afforded in a form that was burdensome to none, and that largely reduced the cost of sugar to the people. The Democratic party promised to promote the working man's prosperity and "untar" the necessities of life. It has paralyzed the great industries upon which the workingman depended for a livelihood, filled the country with beggary and misery, and imposed a tax on sugar which will raise the price of this article at least a cent a pound to every consumer in the United States.

The leaders of trust companies have got control of the Democratic party in Congress, and they use both branches of Congress to suit their business purposes, regardless of the best interests of the people.

The Democratic New York World is one of the papers that is up in protest against the action of the Democratic Congress. It says the trusts have triumphed. The Wilson bill, revised by the Democratic members of the Senate Finance Committee, and submitted to the full committee, shows that in every case where a trust made a decided stand it won.

The sugar tax provided for is one cent a pound for sugar not above 80 degrees of purity. For every additional degree or fraction not above 90 degrees, 1,100 cent additional; above 90 and not above 95, 2,100 cent degree, and above 96 degrees, a duty of 14 1/2 cents a pound. Molasses testing not above 66 degrees by the polariscope is to pay a duty of 2 cents a gallon; Molasses testing above 58 degrees a duty of 4 cents a gallon.

Whiskey is to be taxed a $1.10 per gallon, and the bonded period extended from three to eight years. Iron ore is taxed 40 cents a ton, lead ore 34 cents a ton, including lead mixed with silver ores; coal bituminous and shale, 40 cents a ton; coal slack or culm, 45 cents a ton; coke, 15 per cent ad valorem.

"I had no ambition to do anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla has made me feel like a new person." Mrs. M. A. Kutzner, Onestoga, Pa.

TOO MUCH THRESHING.

Country boys who are inclined to think that life in a city is easy and comfortable compared with their daily toil in the country, are apt to fall themselves mistaken when they come to town and subject themselves to the high-pressure system of business establishments.

A farmer's boy went to the city, finding things to be done rather differently, and obtained a situation in a large "family supply" store, where a "rushing business" was carried on. He "took hold" very well, and his employers liked him. They were surprised, however, when he came to them, before he had been two months in the store, and said:

Mrs. Lizzie M. Bois of South Williamsport, Pa., writes: "Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured my little girl of scrofula. She was cured over a year ago and she is as well as ever now. I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for pain in my side and on my lungs. I have taken two bottles and the pain has all left me. I believe if I had not taken it I should have had consumption."

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, headache.

American Islands.

Captain John Ross, in speaking of the United States owning islands so far away as the Hawaiian Islands, says it does not appear to the general public that the United States owns seventy-five islands in the North and South Pacific. They are nearly all within 12 degrees of the equator, north or south, and are principally guano islands of small size, which have been taken possession of by Americans.

Shingle Money.

Shingle certificates operate as a circulating medium in Blaine, Washington State. A certificate for $16 recently circulated until it had paid nearly $300 in local debts, before finally reaching the place where it started. The basis of the certificate was shingles, and it would purchase flour, meat, coffee, blankets, fuel, clothing for the wife and babies, and perform all the functions of a gold-silver certificate.—Portland Oregonian.

Low Rate Excursion to Washington, D. C., Pennsylvania Railroad.

The two remaining excursions to the capital will be run on March 22d and April 19th, and judging from the extensive patronage accorded previous trips there is every likelihood of their being even a greater number of people who will avail themselves of the extremely low rate in effect for this popular series.

Work is Not a Drag. Mrs. A. M. Clarke of Lapp's, Pa., writes: "I have been using Hood's Sarsaparilla. My little boy had no appetite and could not sleep. I am glad to say that I have been using Hood's Sarsaparilla and I found it did him good. He now eats and sleeps well. I am now taking it myself. I always felt tired and worn out. Now I can eat and sleep, and work does not seem to be a drag."

HOOD'S PILLS act easily yet promptly.

MUSIC LESSONS.

If you want to receive the best instruction in pianoforte, (a course of Musical History lectures included in the study), organ, voice and guitar now is your chance. Miss LUISA A. JACKMAN, after three years under the best teachers in the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston will return to her home in this place and start her classes in April. She has also received a thorough course in Harmony and Theory. Any one wishing to study these can receive instruction from her. For terms and further information call on or address,

Miss GERTRUDE JACKMAN, Mifflintown, Pa., before March 31, 1894.

PEACH CRATES.

Mrs. Annie E. Humphrey is prepared to furnish Peach Crate Material, Plastering Lath, Shingles and all kinds of Building Material at the Mill formerly owned by her late husband, R. W. Humphrey, deceased. Peach lumber a specialty. Mize, Juniata county, Pa.

Reptiles and batrachians usually possess a keen sense of direction, and may be termed the water location sense.

My attention was first called to this by my brother, who while engaged in a natural history expedition in southern Texas, had what at the time we both considered an unique experience with a large sea tortoise.

This tortoise had been surprised some distance from the water, among the sand dunes that line the golf shore, and on being overtaken had its head protruded preparatory to serving as a very toothsome addition to our diet. Much to the surprise of the party the beheaded animal continued on its way toward the water.

Several times it was turned around, entirely or partly way, but every time it was able to right its position perfectly and again make directly for the water.

The color of the skin in the various parts of man has never been scientifically accounted for generally. Not only the color of the primitive man, the original "lord of creation," but a pretty African legend is that he was black as the proverbial color of the Canadian race is the result of the admixture of Adam and Eve.

"Contrary to the general notion," said a doctor, "good toilet soap is the best preventive against chapped hands that can be used. I don't mean its general use in washing, but as a salve or balm, just as you would apply camphor ice or vaseline. What is generally needed for cleaning about the house is an alkali neutral and cheap. The skin, being a good toilet soap is neutral and acts as a balm to the irritated skin."

It Was Foggy. Brazil is the hottest of "preparators for amusement only." It has in actual existence an Amianthus club, and minor clubs in London, N. Y., and other places.

Force of Habit. Speaking of force of habit, some years ago I was seen racing around the capital grounds at Washington. The appropriation bill provided for a watchman to close and lock the gates every night at a certain hour and open them at a certain hour every morning. It was not long after the opening of the gates and the closing of the gates was removed, but all that time the watchman came and went regularly, closing and opening the gates according to time and drawing his salary.—New York Herald.

Some recent improvements in cotton gins are claimed to insure much greater economy and efficiency than have heretofore been attained. The difficulty being now overcome of obtaining the full length of the various staples on account of the machinery in use tearing the lint before the parting of the entire length of the fiber from the rollers. As now improved, the machine is so constructed as to allow all changes for meeting these various lengths in staples to be made without even having to stop the operator from his work, whereas the gins now in use not only necessitate the stopping of the machine, but requires a great amount of time in which to effect the change. Another improvement in this machine is an appliance in connection with the rollers, consisting of a spring which allows it to give when the pressure of cotton passing through the roller is too severe, thus preventing the inner and outer blades from coming in contact with each other. The great wear of the rollers is thus prevented. —New York Sun.

Garfield Tea Cures Sick Headache.

It never fails to cure—MANNERS double extract Sarsaparilla, 50c. everywhere.

A Montana sheep grower, who is here trying to preserve the duty on wool, says that the 2,250,000 sheep in that State were worth $6,000,000 last year, and that their owners received for their clipings $3,500,000. At present the value of these same sheep is about $2,000,000, and if the duty is taken from wool the clip would be worth only $1,800,000, a clear loss annually to the 2,000 sheep owners of $700,000. Wheat that was worth from 65 to 80 cents a bushel last year brings now only 36 to 50 cents. Barley that was worth from 85 to 90 cents last year is now worth from 60 to 65 cents a bushel, and so through the entire list of products. Every body and every industry is suffering the pending tariff legislation.

A Boy's Experience. "A few months ago my face and neck were covered with boils and carbuncles and I had a tired feeling. I tried several different kinds of medicines, but they had no effect until I got Hood's Sarsaparilla. When I had taken the second bottle the boils began to heal and the tired feeling was gone." —LORANZ GUINELLE, Columbia Cross Roads, Pa.
