Four sheep and two lambs, were killed on the farm of Robert McMeen, in Fermanagh township, on the night of the 7th inst, and Mr. McMeen has asked the county to pay for the sheep under the law, out of the dog tax. Dogs were not seen killing the sheep, but dogs were seen chasing the flock previous to the killing, and after the killing the same dogs were seen chasing the remainder of the flock. Owners of dogs that kill sheep are liable for damages if they do not kill the sheep dogs.

It has always been a mystery, says an exchange, why so many subscribers become offended on receiving a notice of arrearage in subscription. Any house with whom he has any dealings sends him a note every 30 days of the amount due, even if it is only ten cents. Besides his employes expect their pay every Saturday night. The city papers demand payment in advance before a man's name is placed on the subscription list, yet the same subscriber will become offended in case a county publisher notifies him that his subscription is due and that he is in need of money.

FAMILY POISONED.

Last Monday the wife and children of John Hautbrick, residing on Grand street, were poisoned by eating horse radish with which a wild parsnip had been gathered in their garden. The horse radish had been dug up and with it the poisonous plant unknown to any of the family.

Mrs. H. and the children became very sick, requiring the aid of a physician. At last accounts they were all on the way to recovery. It might be well for all to be carefull in the use of vegetation of all kinds lest poisonous results follow.—Lewistown Free Press.

Reduce The Wheat Crop.

The Kansas farmers have made an agreement to reduce the wheat crop for this year. Every farmer who has sown winter wheat, will plow under twenty-five per cent, of the same, and then raise corn, or some other product in its stead, that is sure to produce a better income than the wheat. In order that this agreement will be lived up to, the plowing will not be done by the owner, but by some other farmer. Farmer A. will plow twenty-five per cent. of farmer B's crop under, and farmer B. will turn under twenty-five per cent, on farmer A's crop, and so on down the list. If good results are obtained through this plan, it will be the object of the farmers, to have this plan performed in all wheat producing states.—Ex.

Washington women are after Breckinridge. His testimony has revealed the low depravity of the man, and raised the spirit of womankind all over the country against the rule that Breckinridge laid down in his testimony, namely, "That social sin injure a man but destroy a woman." The women say there must be a halt called on that rule, that if social sins destroy a woman it must also destroy a man. Good, let the women pursue the good wook. Washington women want Breckinridge put out of Congress. Put him out. They protest against Breckinridge being received as if nothing debasing had happened while Miss Pollard is shunned as if she be the embodiment of a plague.

Mr. John Gingerich, an estimable citizen of Walker township, died at 4 p. m., last Saturday, aged 81 years. Mr. Gingerich had felt the infirmity of age all winter and his demise was not entirely unexpected but with all that his death cast a gloom over his large circle of acquaintance and gave deep pain to his circle of relationship, for he was a man highly appreciated for his exemplary manhood among his kinfolks and among his neighbors. Mrs. Gingrich, his wife and a son and daughter survive him, and mourn his loss. He was successful in his business operations and agricultural pursuits and accumulated a comfortable fortune. His funeral took place on Tuesday, April 17, 1894. Interment in the Lost Creek Mennonite cemetery.

AUDITORS AWARD FOR SHEEP KILLED.

On information made by Robert McMeen, of this town, before Justice A. H. Weidman, the auditors of Fermanach township were required to go and view the carcasses of sheep owned by Mr. McMeen, that had been killed by dogs on his farm in Fermanagh township, and report the loss or damage to the aforesaid Justice so that Mr. McMeen may be paid out of the dog tax fund of the county for the loss of the sheep. The law for the taxation of dogs and the protection of sheep, provides, that the auditors shall also endeavor to discover the ownership of the sheep killing dogs so that the dogs may be killed and if not killed, that the owners of the dogs be required to pay the loss of the sheep. After a view was had on the carcasses by auditors, Thomas and Stambaugh, the board of auditors consisting of Samuel A. Thomas, H. A. Stambaugh, B. F. Schweier met in the office of Justice A. H. Weidman, in Mifflintown, Friday evening, April 13th, 1894 to report and award amount of loss to Mr. McMeen and hear witnesses as to the dogs.

Gillon Sieber, testified, that he saw a yellow dog, a red dog and a black curley dog at the carcass of sheep on the McMeen farm at the edge of the creek near his house on Sunday morning April 8th. The sheep had been killed during the previous night, he did not know the dogs, one of the dogs looked like a dog owned by Jesse Davis, he understood there were 4 full grown sheep and 2 lambs killed.

Ruben Reynolds, testified, to a sheep owned by Mr. McMeen, that had been killed, previous, to the 4 sheep and 2 lambs testified too by Gideon Sieber.

Addison Lauver, testified, that he saw a yellow dog, and a little black dog on Sunday morning after day light, cause the remainder of the flock in the field. The dogs looked like John Zook's dogs.

William Fogleman, testified, to the finding of 4 dead full grown sheep and 2 lambs, and to the seeing of a yellow dog, a blackish yellow dog and a terrer dog cause the sheep. He had seen the dogs at Lawrence and John Zooks, he testified to the missing and finding of the full grown sheep that had been killed in the month of March, was first told where the carcass lay by Reuben Reynolds and James Kreider, who discovered the dead sheep while crossing the farm on their way from town to work at the McMeen barn, the sheep was torn about the breast, neck and hind quarters, had missed the sheep a day or two before Reynolds and Kreider found it.

James Kreider, testified, that he had seen a yellow dog and a little black dog chase McMeen's sheep in the fields, when he was at work, before the sheep were killed, the dogs he saw chase the sheep belong to John Zook, he said it was on the 20th, or 21st of March that he and Reynolds had discovered or found the carcass of the sheep out in the field, he had examined it and found it's neck torn and the face bones crushed just as the face bones of the sheep found dead on Sunday morning, April 8th, had been crushed, the marks on the dead sheep found on the 20th or 21st of March, were like the marks on the dead sheep found on the 8th of April.

The auditors awarded to Mr McMeen, $3 50 for the one sheep found dead in March, and $3 50 for each of the four sheep found dead on the 8th of April, and $2 00 for each of the lambs found dead on the 8th of April, 1894. Sum total $21 50.

Shot a Prise Pig.

Altoona Tribune April 13.—Before starting out on a hunting expedition on Tuesday George Weaver, of Gaysport, loaded his trusty gun and chanced a trial shot at an outhouse. The bullet sped through the boards and into the head of Mr. Weaver's prize pig on the other side, and 150 pounds of pork tumbled to the earth never to rise again. "Many a shot a random sent, finds mark the archer little meant."

A TRUE HAWK STORY.

A. N. Conner, of Newton, N. J., tells the following story in the February issue of the Poultry Keeper:

A cousin of mine living in Pennsylvania was pestered terribly by hawks, and after trying the "old musket," with unsatisfactory result I said to his hired man: "I'll bet I can catch a dozen hawks in a week." The man offered to bet anything that I could not catch a hawk in a month, so my cousin set to work to "clean 'em out," as he said. He took a piece of a stake, or a rail, about ten feet long—a round one—and left several knots on it near the top, sharpened the big end and drove it into the ground, leaving it about eight feet high. He then shaved down the top, and from two opposite sides, until it was about two inches wide. He then drove four nails in the top so as to hold a small, rusty (be sure it is rusty) steel trap, placed it on the top of the pole, put the chain in a noose below the knots on the stake and left it. He drove the stake in a place where he had seen the hawks sailing around considerably, in a field where there were few trees. When they went in from work at noon, they had the first hawk who, seeing the new pole, and thinking it was put there for his especial use, stopped to inspect it, and became the first victim. In the afternoon they had another, the same night they had an owl, and in just a month and two days they had caught twenty four hawks and two owls.

This sounds like a big yarn, almost like the man who shot at a partridge that flew so crooked it twisted his gun up like an auger, or the other man whose "six Billy goats," after eating a bushel of tin cans and a rod of wire fence, ate the whole lower part of his barn away and left the top sticking there in the air. But this is a real true yarn. If any one doubts it, let him try it, according to directions, and if it does not work, let me know and I will give him the name and address of the man who told me, and they can get an old musket and have it out with him. This is a fact, and I hope it may be the means of saving many a feathered beauty, and if anyone tries it with good or bad results, let us know.

After Typhoid Fever

A Running Abscess Discharges Pieces of Bone.

All Hope Given Up—But Hood's Sarsaparilla Gives Perfect Health.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs:—I had been a sufferer for nearly three years and had doctored during that time, but without avail. I had given up all hope of ever recovering my health. At times I would rather have died than lived, but now I am thankful that I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for I am now as sound as a dollar. I was

and an abscess formed on my right side above the fourth rib. The strange part about this was the fact that it did not open for six months after it appeared, although it pained me continually. After it broke it became a running sore and I was compelled to wear a bandage all the time. The doctors told me that the only way it could be cured was to have an operation performed and have the rib taken out, claiming that I had bone disease, inasmuch as four pieces of bone had been discharged from the sore. Before giving myself up to the doctors I decided to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial, although I had but little faith that it would do me any good. I used it strictly according to directions, and before I had used three bottles I

Began to Feel a Change, and by the time I had used the fourth bottle the sore on my side had healed. It is now nearly three months since the eruption closed and I have not the least fear of it ever bothering me again. Hood's Sarsaparilla is certainly a gem among medicines. It has cured me and it will cure others." W. H. HEFFNER, Alvira, Pa.
