That Tired Feeling.

The importance of taking a good Spring medicine cannot be over-estimated. The changeable weather of winter, the consumption of large amounts of fatty foods, combined in many cases with close confinement indoors, in effices, shops and factories, breathing airicharged with impurities, contaminate our blood, reducing it in quantity as well as quality. The result of this impure blood, is the liability or actual appearance of unexpected diseases, which may have lain dormant for years, only awaiting favorable opportunity to assert themselves.

Another effect of the low condition of the blood, is the gradual loss of strength throughout the entire body, as the health of every part of the system is dependent upon the state of the blood. This causes that tired feeling, so over-powering and hard to resist, and yet if not driven off is an additional reason for fearing a general break-down of the whole system or an attack of serious disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine for this season. of perfect health, creates a good approite, a general shattered condition of my strengthens the nerves, and gives tone and whole system. ment" in this city some years ago. Among the parts which Crane had to commit to memory was that of the notary. It was a particularly hard part because the notary had to begin by declaiming a long legal notice. Crane got the part pat, but in order that there should be no possibility of his making a break he copied the process into a book which the notary was supposed to carry. The notary wore a robe that trailed on the floor. In making his entrance Crane's foot became tangled up in the robe and he pitched headforemest on the stage. The book with the prompt lines flew across the stage. Crane pulled himself together in a moment, and without losing his presence of mind began firing the process off. He went through withlout a break, and his original cutrance
