

DEMOCRACY AND SHEEP.
One of Boston's most prominent wool merchants, who is very familiar with the subject, tells us that the... of wool on the free list by the last Congress is so disastrous to the sheep industry in Montana and the territories, that probably hundreds of thousands of sheep, which will not bring the cost of keeping during the winter, will be abandoned this fall to pick up a living as best they may through the winter. If the winter should be an unusually mild one, some of them may survive, otherwise they will die and the owners will have only their pelts. This is the prospect that awaits perhaps hundreds of thousands of sheep in the far west during the coming winter.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.
Promptly at 1:30 P. M., on Monday, November 26, The Teachers' Institute was called to order in the Court House by County Superintendent D. M. Marshall. After music by the choir, led by Professor Deen, several addresses were conducted by Rev. John R. Henderson, which was followed by an address by County Superintendent Marshall in which he ably set forth the object of the Institute and the duties of the teacher to make the Institute a success.

After the roll of Teachers was called, Professor Albert of Boonshurg was introduced and gave an interesting talk, urging the necessity on the part of the teacher to acquaint them selves with human nature. The teacher should understand the material he works upon.

rectors be governed in the selection of Teachers' Director Raffenberger of Tuscarora addressed himself to the question: William Banks of Milltown, E. B. Davis of Delaware, E. J. Jenkins of Fayette, Charles Hower of Fermanagh each made an address.

Superintendent Marshall delivered an address to the directors and suggested that they form Directors Association. Superintendent Berkeley spoke in favor of such an association, and also suggested that teachers be organized through the county.

On Thursday evening Dr. J. B. Berry gave an illustrated lecture on "Old Ocean, Our Slave and Master." Mr. Berry was assisted by Miss M. M. Moore.

The committee on local history of Juniata county, appearing at the teacher's session, on an account of some of the committee not teaching, and others not prepared, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the committee on Local History be continued and report at our next annual session and that the Superintendent supply all vacancies by appointing others in their stead. That the Superintendent ascertain as nearly as possible by our next meeting the cost for printing same in pamphlet form.

The hour for regular session having arrived institute was called to order. Superintendent Coughlin conducted the devotional exercises. Superintendent Berkeley spoke to the subject of "The spelling book and how should we use it." Superintendent Coughlin addressed himself to the subject, "How to study." Miss Brown recited a number of interesting selections. After recess, Superintendent Berkeley spoke on the subject of "School Discipline."

Resolved, That the state assume a closer supervision of the schools, and have control of the composition of the text books used in the primary grades. Resolved, That as music is a prime factor in disposition, character, and successful discipline, that the elementary principles of music be taught in our public schools.

Resolved, That as no mechanic can work without tools, we would respectfully ask directors, in whose hands the directors are, to consider the importance of supplying the teachers with the school room with such suitable and unadorned apparatus, and other works of reference, globes, maps, charts and also material necessary for the teaching of manual training, thereby enabling the teacher to do more and better work, and give larger returns to the patrons and children of the district.

Resolved, That the teachers of Jan in a county now in the 22nd annual session of the Teachers' Institute request the directors and all friends of education, to pray the Legislature, to amend the school laws of Pennsylvania, or so much of them as may pertain to the appropriation for common schools; so much of the State appropriation may be deemed sufficient, be made separate fund for the establishing in each township, or the teacher, in terms of dollars, graded to the benefit of the county, believing the same would harmonize with the law increasing the appropriation for public schools.

Resolved, That every teacher who has taught twenty-one terms shall be placed on the retired list, and be pensioned during the remainder of his natural life, and that we petition our Legislature to enact a law to that effect.

cal and individual data, and numerous illustrations to sustain the proposition laid down by the lecturer.

On Tuesday evening by request, L. I. Handy called the Institute program, and instead of giving the lecture, "The American Hero," gave the large audience his lecture, entitled, "Patrick Henry Statesman and Orator," in a masterful manner.

What historian Weems did for George Washington, Handy is doing for Patrick Henry, painting his subject in the choicest word colors so that he stands before his audience in the light almost of a god man. Handy is a George Washington man.

Only after Henry has been considered and placed upon the pinnacle of the temple of American greatness. He opened up Henry's pedigree, stated his birth, his boyhood, his marriage, his business ventures and failures, his oratory and political career, his last dose of medicine, in such glowing language that some of his audience hung almost breathless upon his word painting expecting to see him pull aside the veil that hid the future and usher his subject into the golden streets of the New Jerusalem.

On Wednesday evening the Ariel Quartet entertained the Institute with one of its pleasant concerts. The young ladies, Miss Anna Fernandez, Miss Gertrude Christie, Miss Fannie E. Holt, Miss Emma V. Foster, delighted the large audience in the rendition of old and new songs and piano. They were the most artistic and most musical quartet that has appeared here in many days, and their talent was highly appreciated, but the most unique feature of the entertainment was the accompaniment of Win A. W. McCormick, whistler and bird imitator. His imitations of bird songs and animal barks, creaks and squeaks, puffs and blows of machinery, proved that the human voice can be trained to the point of imitating the sounds of the air, noise of the beasts of the field, and the hum of the machinery of man.

The lecture on Thursday evening, by Dr. J. B. DeMotte, "Old Ocean Our Slave and Master," was delightful and instructive, imparting a fund of information that can only be acquired by years of study or travel.

After a brief intermission the gathering proceeded to Old Ocean in surveying the springs and streams of north earth with water, and stated that it is a mistake to believe that the springs and streams supply the ocean. The reverse action is the case. It is the ocean that gives the earth its water. Thence he proceeded to consider sea soundings, ocean beds and rangel therefrom to the consideration of apparatus for the finding of the force of ocean waves, the power of ocean winds, and speed of ships, and every phase of ocean craft from the Nurseman's open steamer to the Pennsylvania Fulton's first steam boat to the ocean liner, the latest and grandest of all ocean ships, the St. Louis that was launched ten days ago, and was christened by Mrs. Cleveland. His personal reminiscences of sights and dangers of ocean travel, and the perils of ships wrecked by storm, iceberg, derelicts, wreckers lights and pie taters of rescuing parties and their dangers, filled the minds of his Pennsylvania highland audience with the dreadful sense of the danger of ocean travel.

Resolved, That as music is a prime factor in disposition, character, and successful discipline, that the elementary principles of music be taught in our public schools.

race of the rights of the courts send general citizenship. By just treatment, he claims that the Indian will be able to compete in the civilized race course with the white man. He mentioned the names of Indian men and women, who are in responsible places of life, holding their own with the ablest of white people. He exhibited the "Cherokee Advocate," published at Table Rock, Indian Territory. It is an eight column paper, one side of which is printed in Cherokee language. The lecture was highly appreciated by the large audience. It was a noble plea for just treatment and for the giving of the rights of the white man to the Indian. The lecture abounded in anecdote and story that brought out clearly the points at which the lecturer aimed to prove how well the white man has proved the Jacob and the Indian the Esau. After the lecture many citizens stepped to the platform and gave the lecturer a sympathetic shake of the hand.

PICKETT AND THE ARCHIVES.
The Light Turned on a Hidden Chapter of Wartime History.
Frank Riggs, the son of the famous banker and his father's successor in the financial circles at Washington, tells me an interesting story that corrects a false impression which many good people have carried for years. During the second term of President Grant a man of the name of Pickett sold to the government of the United States the records of the executive departments of the southern confederacy. From these documents was obtained much evidence that refuted the payment of claims by Confederate citizens who were entitled for losses growing out of the war. In a single instance they saved several millions by showing that mail contracts throughout the south had been paid from the Confederate treasury for services performed by them for the postoffice department of the United States before the outbreak of the rebellion. They proved to be of great value in many other directions, and the price paid Mr. Pickett for the records was $200,000, proved to be one of the most profitable investments ever made by the government.

PLAYING IN THE GARRET.
Some of the Recreations and Pleasures of the Playroom Under the Roof.
"There is one delight," said a man who was reared in a small town, "that I suppose many children born in great cities never know, and that is the delight of playing in the garret. Many city children have relatives in the country or in smaller cities or towns whom they have visited, who live in houses with garrets, and these know something of the delights of the garret, but there must be many city children who never heard the name of the garret."

Head and Arms Seemed on Fire
A Sunstroke Followed by Nervous Prostration
Hood's Restored Health.
Mr. Edward Scollins Philadelphia, Pa.

"I had a sunstroke, and my head and arms seemed on fire. I was unable to work for four weeks after that, but then I felt compelled to turn in, as I have a wife and five children. I soon began to feel as though undergoing continuous shocks from an electric battery."

Every Nerve and Fibre of my body seemed in a constant state of queering agitation and tremulousness. Hood's Sarsaparilla has now fully restored my strength and general health. That nervousness is entirely gone. I feel as healthy and vigorous as ever. The pains in my back and legs have been relieved. I would be compelled to eat between meals."
