miliation on the People of the State. HARRISDURG, July 15 .- The lines in the political contest now being waged in this state have been distinctly drawn, and it is now emphatically a fight of the cities against the country. Senator Quay stands for the country, a fact that is emphasized when it is known that he will carry nearly Philadelphia amounted to $17,638,304 Last combine in the city, has received nearly $5,600,600 worth of contracts from the city in less than five years. Do the decent people of the rural districts want such men for leaders?

The issue, therefore, is plain. There is no doubt that the present Quay and anti-Quay fight for the state chairmanship is in reality the beginning of a great struggle between the city and the country di tricts for the control of the state. "Th The sores on our body politic," as Thomas Jefferson wisely said a century almost ago, "are the great cities." If the cities were danger signals in Jefferson's time, how much more threatening is their inluence now, when the revenues collected and disbursed in New York, Philadelphia, Boston or Chicago annually is many times greater than that of the nation itself at any time prior to the civil war and where the power, place and patrenage at the disposal of unscrupulous leaders s far more extensive and influential than that wielded by the president of the United States in any of the first seven decades of national growth? > Quay's Genius Gave Victory Hon J. S. Clarkson, who was elected chairman to succeed Quay on November 23, 1891, made a speech enlogizing Quay that will live forever in political history; He said in part: "Only those of us on the executive committee, who were with the chairman from the first week in July till the close of the campaign, know the great and splendid work rendered to the Re-publican party by the man of Pennsylvais. Nearly all of us who fought with him were strangers to him until that time. The Democratic party was serene almost impudent, in its security of na national power. The Republican party had scarcely half heart in success. It took courage to take up the doubtful cause and attack the Democratic party, fortified in national power and unscrupulous in the use of every force in the scope of government or in the fury of politics. The victory could never have been won without Senator Quay. His genius gave the su-perior generalship, and that gave the victory. DELAWARE. Mr. Epiron:—When I announced my-self as a candidate for Delegate to the Republican State Convention no issue was before the party whatever. Since then, how. ever, one has been presented, to wit: As to whether Mr. Quay or Mr. Gilkeson shall be made Chairman of the State Committee. And now us I have been questioned by many of my Republican friends as to where I stand on that issue, I have concluded to make this plain statement fer the information of the party, that I am positively and unqualifiedly in favor of Mr. Quay as Chairman and, if elected, shall do all I can to elevate him to that position.
