WONDERFUL are the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and yet they are simple and natural. Hood's Sarsa parilla makes PURE BLOOD.

LAMPS AND CANDLES.

There Is an Art In the Managing of Them.

The most effective cleansing substance for the containers and wick apparatus consists of ordinary wood ash. This has a peculiar effect upon petroleum, crystal and other oils of the same kind. Rub the ashes well all over the parts that require cleaning and polish or wipe it off with a clean, soft cloth. This is a very simple method and obviates the use of water, which may prove a serious difficulty, especially if the operator is not very particular as regards the drying process. This treatment should not, however, entirely do away with a periodical boiling of the different parts of the lamp with strong sods, but the regular use of wood ash should make the washing a last rescurce and an altogether rare necessity.

The strictest cleanliness in every detail concerning lamps is of the greatest importance not only to insure a good light free from smell, but also as a pre-ventive against danger. Odd bits of wick allowed to collect anywhere near the flame, for instance, are objectionable from every point of view.

Lamps that are but rarely used should teaching of dancing, the selling of flow- little, it would be a good thing for your The best plan is to empty the container, prated through contact with the oil. clean it as above, dry the wick if it is Millintown, March 27, 1897 new, and put it aside in a box, into which dust cannot penetrate, till it is wanted again.

For these days, when candles are so much used, it is well to know that there is an art in choosing them. They should burn brightly, steadily, and without flickering, yet at the same time dwindle away as slowly as possible. The canall are these which are partially hollowed out, so that if the flame is exposed to a draft the melted wax runs down the inside.
