The Populists of Ohio, nominated General Keep Off The Grass Coxey, for Governor. The convention was held at Columbus. The police were called in to stop a free fight that was started among the delegates.

Remains of the earthquake in India in June, are now coming in. So far heard from six thousand people past their lives and there was a corresponding destruction of property.

An earth quake, it is said to be an effort to produce a volcano. As far as heard from the volcano was not produced, but a number of large cracks—fissures—were made in the earth through which mud and sand was scattered over the country.

Aspen and his three companions who sailed away in a balloon on the 11th day of July, to find the north pole, have not been heard from. In all probability they are gone never to be heard from. They have probably been frozen as stiff as poker, or drowned these many days. Fame and notoriety goad men on to hard laborious work and often to rash acts, but for rashness, Andre's balloon set most stand at the head of the list.

They are not yet done with dueling in Europe. On Sunday in France at 5 o'clock in the morning a duel took place. The trouble was about something that had been said about the Italian soldiers. The Count of Turin took up what he declared was an insult to the Italian army. Prince Henri of Orleans was his antagonist. They fought five rounds with swords. Henri was wounded twice in the shoulder and once in the abdomen. The doctors say that had the abdomen wound been a half inch deeper, he would not recover. There was great rejoicing in Italy when the telegraph announced the result on Sunday evening.

The striking coal miners organize into large companies and march from one mine to the other, to induce miners to quit work, and to prevent others from going to work. They employ all the means that they know excepting force, to keep other men from taking the places, they have vacated. Within the past week, nine owners have been complaining to the courts against the trespass of the marching companies of strikers. The mine owners have been asking the courts to issue writs of habeas corpus.

Returning to the plaza and area below the bridge, the property owned to those who petitioned for the inclusion. No Use for the Home Girls. Bridgeport, Conn., August 13.—William Waller, a young railroad clerk, recently sent a circular letter to ministers in the suburban town, asking them to assist him in securing a life partner. Many of the clergymen paid little attention to the communication, while others took a serious view of it.

He concludes his letter by saying that he is widely acquainted, but that he does not care for a single girl living in this city, because they are pale, ill-formed, and all inclined to be consumptive. The few who are not ill-clad in his list are characterized by the writer as being "golden butterflies."

Waller's letter has aroused the ire of the girls of Bridgeport, and their friends will make it warm for the writer.

A GREAT DISCOVERY. Mr. Nicola Tesla is one of the brightest of our men devoted to scientific discovery. He has made many excursions into the unknown domain of science, and his success as an explorer is conceded. He has now announced that his greatest discovery enables him to create a disturbance of the earth's charge of electricity.

He has been ready to hear great things from him. But we can hardly think that he has a machine that can mobilize the electrical charge of the earth, except as a public dropped in mid ocean is supposed to affect the entire surface of the sea by its trilling displacement. It is possible that Tesla's discovery is about to be added to the wonders of the age, but it is not probable that a man can impart an impulse from Philadelphia to Hong Kong. That is a feat to talk about, but not a feat to be done out of hand.

These tickets will be good to return at any time within twelve days, and will be valid for return passage on any regular train except the Pennsylvania Limited.

For detailed information address or apply to Thos. E. Watt, Passenger Agent, Western District, 360 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

One hundred years ago John Christian Webber, of Holland, disinherited an only son, because he married against the wishes of his father. The young man and wife and children came to America. The father died, but before he died he filed a will, putting his estate in trust for the Holland government, that with money with interest should be returned to his sons heirs in the third generation.

The duel in France between an Italian blood and a French blood, has awakened a great deal of talk of the subject of dueling and a common-sense view of what good or does arise on what good encounters. As the old lady said she could find something good to say about even old ester. He, she declared, is the most patient of workers. So something good may be said of dueling. Men who are held to an account with a probable life of life, are not apt to tell kind things about their neighbors.
