 EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

The Spanish Minister, at Washington made a bad break for himself. He wrote a letter to a friend in Havana, Cuba. The letter fell into the hands of Cuban spies and was sent to Washington. In the letter President McKinley is called a "low politician." After the exposure of the letter there was only one thing for the minister to do, and that was to resign from the ministry, which he promptly did. There is no danger on that account if the authorities at Washington are level headed for the minister's opinion was not directed by the Spanish government. The minister spoke for himself and when his disloyalty was discovered he quickly stepped out of reach of responsibility and became a private citizen.

Silk! silk! says the Altoona Tribune, Feb. 19. Third section of fast line cut this morning was made up of nine car loads of silk from Spain to New York. Silk trains from the Orient pass to eastern ports from the Pennsylvania about once a month nowadays.

The New England girl is nothing but a factory girl. This is the way a statement made in Bedford Massachusetts puts it. In a canvass among all the many mill girls out of work in Bedford, not one could be found who was both competent and willing to become a domestic servant. They know little or nothing of house work, such as others are trained to do. For generations the New Bedford girls have been brought up simply to toil in factories.

It is a common trick of the New York merchant's trade to stamp American goods with a foreign brand mark, so as to catch customers who would buy goods that were made in England and sold for foreign lands. When Congressmen Dingler, appeared in Congress the other day with a new hat, some of his democratic brethren looked inside of the hat and found a London stamp on it. Then the fun began. They shouted "The Great American protectionist has bought himself a foreign hat." "Oh consistency what a jewel." They were casting a good deal of dirt on Dingler's expense, when the New York dealer had to give it up by telling that the hat was made in the United States and was marked London so as to sell to foreign customers. Dingler had not noticed the foreign stamp.

A report prevails, that the Lutheran preacher at Port Royal and a handsome young woman of that town, have associated in a way that is not becoming their standing in society. It is hoped the reports may be all untrue. "Evil to him who evil thinketh" is a good old saying that might be considered with profit to the preacher and to others. People are presumed to be innocent until they have been proven guilty. There is entirely too much unkind talk going on about people in this and other communities. Too many people talk over others that they know little about. It would be an offense to report the things that are said about the Port Royal parties and the church authorities who are engaged in settling the case will double spare to expose to the truth and punish the guilty. If you hear a wrong thing about your neighbor don't repeat it unless you know it to be true.

Things are different now. Time was, when the Pilgrim fathers; the Quaker fathers, the Mennonite fathers the Covenant fathers made settlements in this country, when they were the controlling element there was no amusement more distasteful to them than card playing. They brought their dislike of it from Europe, where they said card playing had been invented to amuse certain insane kingly persons, and then had been adopted by the gambling clergy as a game by which they could carry on gambling without any physical exertion. They always ascribed the game with old satan, and when they came upon a party playing cards they looked under the table for a sight of the Devil. Now it is different, members of the church that the fore fathers founded are among the foremost card players at social gatherings, and some of them think all other pleasures are card playing, when compared to card playing. Things are different now.
