Recruiting for Company G, of the Fifth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, has been going on in the Valley of the Juniata. Some days ago a company of 32 assembled at Lewisburg, and thence for Chickamauga. Among the company were two young men from this place, namely, Clarence B. Pennell, son of Merchant Pennell, of Patterson, and William L. Calkins, son of Samuel Calkins, in Patterson. The best wishes of their friends accompany them.

The bombardment of Santiago de Cuba will be vividly represented at Evans' Mill, three fourths of a mile north of Thompsonstown, on Saturday evening, July 16, 1898. The Millertown brass band will enliven the occasion with choice music, and speeches will be delivered by Hon. L. E. Atkinson, Dr. L. N. Grubb, Rev. Frank and others. The public is invited to attend.

A shocking accident took place on the Rodgers farm in Perry county, wheat cutting was going on. Lloyd Brandt, attempted to change horses on the horses. The animals frightened, ran away. Lloyd was caught under the rear end and dragged across the field. His injuries were so horrible to relate. He died the evening of the day of the accident, aged 28 years, a wife, child, father and mother survive him.

J. M. Pamelaker, who gave his place in the office of the SENTINEL AND REPUBLICAN, to enter the army, for humanity's sake, and for the peace and permanent government of Cuba, has been advanced to the front. Volunteers were called for to join the Rough Riders, to fill the place vacated by those killed in battle at Santiago. He stepped forward and his name is now enrolled among the famous Rough Riders, and by this time, may be in the bushes with his new comrades in arms, at Santiago looking for Spaniards. May health and good fortune attend him, and favor every step he takes.

A house owned by Mrs. Isaac Sieber, and tenanted by Mrs. Musser, a widow, had the window glass broken and the porch shattered last Friday night, by an explosion of dynamite, under the porch. The report of the explosion was heard at Mexico and other distant places. It is said that whoever did the unlawful act did it for the purpose of scaring out a man named Bair, who it is said is boarding in the house with the widow. The proceeding is a proper subject for a legal investigation but it is not known here that the officers of the law at Port Royal have begun an investigation.

Jacob R. Lehman's goose, 27 years old, died at Mr. Lehman's home in Dauphin county, on the 23rd of June. It would have taken a month to have cooked that goose.

George C. Wilson, Esq., and family of Pittsburg, are at their summer home in Milford township. Mr. Wilson is one of the largest land holders of valuable real estate in Milford township.

Charles Sheerer, of Matawanna, Milford county, bought a farm of 51 acres, in Delaware township, Juniata county, from J. S. Deira, price paid, one thousand three hundred dollars.

The statement of a newspaper, of the state of the weather, and condition of crops may not be of interest to people in the community in which the newspaper is printed but it is highly appreciated by people in other districts.

Lewisburg Gazette.—"War and weevil come together," is a superstition among some folks and seems to hit this year as the insect is reported to be infesting grain and covered in several counties of the state. We have heard of none in this county.

As Samuel Zook, of Bellefonte, Milla county, was riding his bicycle through the town of Menno re only his wheel struck an old rooster that was on the road, throwing Mr. Zook off his wheel and breaking his collar bone, which will give him a sore shoulder for some time. The old rooster gave out a squall when the wheel struck him but escaped with but little damage.

The tramp still travels up and down in the land seeking to get something for nothing, seeking to get his meals from people who earned every bite that he eats. There is a good chance for the tramp to make an honest living by going into the army. There he is certain of his clothing, victuals, tents and blankets, and pay. What's the matter with the tramp that he does not enter the army and earn a living.

Isaac Etka is not now mining for stone coal, in the Marcellus slate hill, close by the Dunkard church, north of Van Wert, in Walker township. Some time since a practical coal miner looked over the situation and said in substance that he believes, the hill contains stone coal, but he can tell better if 10 feet more of the floor of the pit be taken out; then a sand should be encountered, and beneath the sand a dark slate, and underneath the slate should be the coal.

Some of the town bloods got into the tower of the Presbyterian church, to ring the bell in honor of the 3rd of July victory over the Spanish fleet at Santiago, and the victory of General Shafter's troops over the Spanish soldiers at that city. The boys had not more than started the ringing of the bell till a mischievous shot out the fire alarm hammer and that threw the bell off its bearings on the floor. It made a great noise when it fell to the floor. No serious damage resulted from the upset of the bell, but nevertheless it took from 5 o'clock in the afternoon, till 11 o'clock that night to again swing the 1200 pound bell so as to be able to ring it on Sunday morning.

Mr. Michael Schelley, of Delaware township, was found dead by the side of his horse and wagon in the road between the Thompsonstown river bridge, and the railroad station. Mrs. John Shell, of Swales, was the first person to see him lie on the road, and she hastened to the station, and gave the alarm. While she was giving the alarm of the finding of the body a train of cars came and frightened the horse and he ran away west of the station before he was caught. There were no marks on the body of Mr. Schelley to indicate that he had been hurt. He was subject to heart trouble and it is believed he died from sudden heart failure.

George Thompson was sent to the Huntington Refractory by Judge Lyon's Court in 1897, for raising the Electric plant and other Sundry offenses against the rights and property of others. From the Reformatory he was sent to the Penitentiary, because he confessed that he had been in a York State prison for a criminal offense. Recently, Judge Lyons was notified that he had become insane. The Judge appointed a commission who adjudged him of unsound mind, and ordered him to be sent to the Insane Asylum at Harrisburg. Sheriff Stoner, went to Pittsburg, obtained the unfortunate young man and delivered him at the Harrisburg Insane Asylum on the 1st of July, 1898.

Baker Eshelman's horse took a caper in Patterson the other day when his master attempted to fix the fly net on the neck of the beast. The bridle was taken of the head of the horse so that the net could be properly laid over. When the horse's head was free he determined to be free all over and sprang forward and knocked away his owner as easily as a fly, and ran by the Ashton House to the railroad, up the railroad to Main street, where he encountered the wagon and two horses of Elias Smith, of Walker township. The collision was disastrous to Smith's wagon. The vehicle was up set. A little girl, Elsie Landis, grand daughter of Mr. Smith, was in the wagon and everyone who saw it expected her to be killed, but when the wreck was over, which was very soon, by the horse getting loose from the wagon, then the wagon was turned up. The girl was not seriously hurt. The horses were not hurt in their runaway. They were caught opposite Pennell's store.

If the storm, on the evening of the 3rd of July had blown at the rate of 5 miles more an hour, houses and barns would have been added to its destructive work. It was bred somewhere in the region of Macedonia gap, in Shade mountain and came down into the valley. It rolled the shocks of wheat in a field on farm of clothing merchant Harley, across to the lee side against a fence. Many fruit trees and barns were blown down. The telephone line to McAllister's premises was uprooted. The large trees about the buildings on the Samuel Thomas farm were blown down. Windows in the house of Lieutenant Samuel Calkins were blown in, and rooms drenched with water. The valley for miles is dotted over with uprooted trees, and stray limbs. A great deal of wheat had to be reshocked. About this town, the destruction was chiefly confined to breaking the limbs of trees. The telephone line to McAllister's was obstructed, by a large hickory tree, uprooted along the road on the Henry Stier farm near John Stoner's, and by a fallen tree at the covered bridge near Oakland Mills. The large trees obstructed travel on the road. The roof on John Zooks barn, two and a half miles east of town, was partly blown away, so was part of the roof on the Wilson farm, at the elbow in the road east of the Parker farm. The roof was a sample of the ravages of the storm on the evening of the 3rd of July.

Samuel McKensy, of Philadelphia, of the Ledger force, spent several hours in town on Saturday. He carries his age well. There are few people here that were here when he lived in Milfordtown in the sixties. He was a member of the militia company that went from this town September 1862, under Governor Curtin's call to repel the invasion of Lee's army in September 1862. He is proud of the fact that he belonged to the army of 25,000 Pennsylvania militiamen that hastened to the assistance of General McClellan in Maryland. If they were a day too late to participate in the battle of Antietam it was their good fortune. If McClellan had been defeated the Pennsylvania army of militiamen would have been just in place to check Lee's further advance and given the Washington government a chance to again rally the broken columns of a defeated army but such was not the case. The militia returned to their homes after Lee had retreated into Virginia. McKensy thinks it queer that the Pennsylvania militia of '62 have not been pensioned. They entered the service not for bounty or pay, but for patriotic purpose. They were made up principally of a body of men who left large business, professional, and property interests at home, to serve their country, they wore their own clothes and shoes, and in a number of cases were provided with their own blankets, guns, and ammunition. He considers it one of the great periods of his life that he belonged to the Pennsylvania militia army, that marched to assist in repelling Lee's invasion of the northern states in 1862.

RESIGNATION OF JOSEPH ROTHROCK.

At the July meeting of the board of directors of the Juniata Valley Bank, President Joseph Rothrock, sent in the following letter of resignation:

To the Directors of the Juniata Valley Bank:

On account of failing health and not able to attend to business, I offer my resignation as President and Director of the Juniata Valley Bank, to take effect on the first Monday of August next. Thanking you for past honors and favors conferred on me.

I remain, truly yours, JOSEPH ROTHROCK.

Health for Everybody!

When the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Organs are in a healthy state, a person is practically disease-proof. Sickness can hardly find a foothold when those organs are well and strong. The Kidneys sift and strain from the blood poisonous and waste matter. When they are weak and diseased, the poisonous particles do not pass off, but remain in the system. They cause pain in the small of the back, Stone in the Bladder, and Bright's Disease.

It is easy to tell if your Kidneys are disordered. Put some urine in a bottle or glass for 24 hours. If there is a sediment, you have Kidney disease. Other signs are a desire to urinate often, particularly at night, and a smarting, scalding sensation in passing water.

Nothing is so good for curing diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Organs as Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, that grand medicine which has been before the public for over 30 years. It should be taken without delay by men and women who have any of the above symptoms, as the disease is apt to prove fatal if not attended to.

From the Convent of the Good Shepherd, Troy, N. Y., comes this short but pointed endorsement, signed by the sisters of that famed and pious institution: "We have used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for Kidney trouble, and have found it very efficacious."
